Jess and Bob are rather quiet boys but each has a sense of humor and they like to tease. Neither talks much about his feelings but once over an initial shyness they join in conversations about school and games and things that interest them.

Jess is especially keen on sports. He plays football, soccer and hockey with enthusiasm. Bob's favorite activity is skating, at which he spends many red-cheeked, happy hours. Jess is a very responsible child who takes life seriously. His teachers even wonder if he works too hard and think he should relax more.

Bob tends to be a day dreamer and is not as reliable as his brother about doing homework or chores but he does his share.

The boys are behind in school and are having remedial work. Jess is in Grade five, Bob in Grade three. Both like school and are eager to learn. It is felt they have average potential and will catch up with special assistance, chiefly in reading and spelling.

Any one looking at their picture is bound to realize that Jess and Bob are pleasant, friendly boys. Some family will realize something more — that fine sons have come to them.

To inquire about adopting Bob and Jess, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Damage by Rodents Needs Attention

To the winter-weary, almost any sign of spring is welcome. However, the sight of winter damage caused by rabbits and rodents to trees and shrubs is the exception.

"The damage mice cause when they chew the trunks and lower limbs restricts the flow of sap," says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, R. F. Gomme. "Their main targets are fruit trees, lilacs, privet and ash. And — if one tree is damaged, others nearby have likely been attacked."

Inspect each tree and shrub near ground level to detect damage to the layer just underneath the bark. If one-quarter or less of the trunk circumference has been girdled, a tight covering of tree dressing will likely be sufficient to permit healing. This is available from most garden centres.

However, if damage is more extensive, or the whole trunk circumference has been girdled, repair grafting is necessary. Delay grafting until early May when sap is flowing, but the main surge of growth has not begun, and drying out can be prevented. However, cover the damaged area with tree dressing immediately. Dormant scions are needed for repair grafting and must be collected earlier than May and stored. Free copies of the factsheet, "Repair Grafting," are available from the Information Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Parliament Buildings, Toronto M7A 1A5.

Kitchen Tips

TASTY TOMATO BAKE

Cut a slice from tops of small tomatoes, rinse and dry and scoop out about half an inch of the tomato pulp to form slight indentations. Fill the indentations with minced sweet onion and salt with butter, then sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven just until the tomatoes are hot through—20 minutes or so.

HEARTY INGREDIENTS

Add chopped walnuts and raisins to grated cheddar cheese with a little mayonnaise and use as a filling for sandwiches made from whole wheat bread.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Randall James McGarvey

McGarvey - Cleaver

Lorraine Kathleen Cleaver and Randall James McGarvey were united in marriage March 22 at Christ Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Cleaver, Belleville; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. McGarvey, Belleville.

Rev. Canon R.B. Wright officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Wayne.

She wore a gown of fine jersey which featured a long sleeved bolero type jacket. The gown had a full length flared skirt. She carried red roses.

Trisha Adams attended the bride in a long gown and she was assisted by Jackie Sharpe, Toronto, and Penny Coon, Orangeville. Jennifer Adams was flower girls and Robin Hyde Whipp was ring-bearer.

George LaRocque was best man; he was assisted by Lyle Crossen, and David McGarvey, the groom's brother.

A reception banquet followed by a dance took place at the Black Hawk Motor Inn.

After a wedding trip to the west, the couple took up residence at 4 Albany Heights.

Graduation

RONALD BERNARD COLLINS B.A., LL.B., was called to the Bar at Special Convocation of the Law Society of Upper Canada held Friday, March 21, 1975 at O'Keefe Centre, Toronto. He received his education at Nicholson Catholic College, Carleton University and the University of Ottawa. He completed the Bar Admission Course with honors. Mr. Collins is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Robertson Collins and the grandson of Mr. A.B. Collins, Q.C.

Realty Ltd.
Unlike most commodities, no two properties are exactly alike and differ in such things as location, age, structure and amenities just to mention a few. Nevertheless it is possible for a qualified appraiser to estimate the market value using one or all of the following methods.
1. Comparison. A comparison is made as to price, value, and location in relation to other properties in the same neighborhood.
2. Reproduction Cost. How much would it cost to reproduce the structure? Deduct for depreciation and add the value of the land.
3. Capitalization. This is used for income property. The value is established by consideration of the present and future income value of the property.
The accuracy of any of these methods will depend on the experience and skill of the appraiser utilizing the information and resources of a competent realtor office.

Tackling the Alcohol Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — "I can't remember one court case in the last seven months that has not involved alcohol. That includes everyone from age 15 to 70."

The speaker is a native Indian counselor with the Native Courtworkers and Counselling Association of British Columbia.

Laverne Edwards is 23 and has been with the two-year-old association for seven months.

When she joined the courtworkers, Mr. Edwards thought she would be explaining the law to the dozens of Indians who go through Vancouver courts.

Instead, she looks at the person in front of a judge and visualizes the number of unfortunate people left at home. "Poverty, lack of housing, child neglect, because of drinking—they are all just as important as the legal problem," she said.

And the biggest problem in Vancouver is housing.

"A judge doesn't want to keep a person in jail for shoplifting but what can he do when there's no place for the person to stay?"

The administrative officer for the courtworkers, Wilbur Campbell, said only Indians are employed by the organization because Indians in court, confused with the legal process, feel more at ease with another Indian giving advice. There are 20 native workers with the association, which is administered by the Union of B.C. Indian Chiefs and the B.C. Association of Non-Status Indians.

Mr. Campbell's prime concern now is not for more courtworkers in the province. His organization tries to eliminate court problems among Indians before they occur, which means tackling the alcohol problem.

He has five alcohol and drug counsellors and it isn't enough. Much of the funding of the native courtworkers is through the provincial government and Mr. Campbell is seeking money to hire 10 additional alcohol and drug counsellors.

Asurvey of RCMP, judges and others connected with law enforcement has found overwhelming connections between alcohol and crime, said Mr. Campbell.

"The criminal involvement comes after the consumption of alcohol. It is a release for aggression against the environment of unemployment, dependency and misunderstanding endeered by prejudice and, in some cases, exploitation by society as a whole.

"The most tragic effect is in the neglect of children. Forty-six per cent of all children removed from parental custody are native Indian children."

And 24 per cent of all Indian children are removed from their homes, he said.

Down at the Heels? Stress Is Unnatural

WINNIPEG (CP) — The latest trend in footwear is catching people with their heels down and some doctors and consumer groups are concerned with the results.

The low-heeled, flat-soled shoe has enjoyed widespread popularity since introduction into the Canadian market a few months ago, but some specialists say it places an unnatural stress on various parts of the leg and foot and may aggravate calf muscles, disrupt the pelvic alignment and stretch the Achilles tendon.

"The principle is entirely wrong," said Dr. Robert Pollock, a Winnipeg podiatrist "It reverses the natural foot structure."

With a heel about one-half inch lower than the rest of the sole, the shoe has been advertised as a means of improving posture and circulation by promoting a more upright stance. But the uneven distribution of body weight almost exclusively on the heel can create an abnormal posture.

Dr. Jean Cobb, another podiatrist, questioned the underlying philosophy behind the shoe's structure.

"A flat heel is OK, or a minor elevation, but definitely not the other way.

"They throw you backward and place stress on the Achilles tendon and calf muscles. I don't think any orthopedic surgeon or podiatrist would recommend them."

Although Dr. Cobb said she has not received complaints about the shoe, about eight or nine persons a month have phoned to inquire about the advisability of wearing it.

"And for someone to photo a shoe is shoe is a big thing," Dr. Cobb said.

The original shoe was invented in 1957 by Anne Kalso, a Danish costume designer, after noticing that the heels-in-sand footprint leaves a deeper imprint than the rest of the foot. But it was not until 1970 that the shoe was introduced in the United States. Since that time, a flood of imitations based n the original concept have swept through the shoe market.

Although Dr. Pollock agreed with the basic premise of the shoe's structure, he suggested the practical application yields a disproportionate result.

"The best thing for feet would be to walk along a beach in Florida. But the shoe does not duplicate that. You're not walking on sand. You're walking on concrete."

He said shoes with elevated heels are the best possible type of foot-wear.

"The ideal shoe for a man would be a cowboy boot with heels about 1½ inches high. That's the way the foot was made to bear weight."

The shoe has also caught the attention of the corporate and consumer affairs office in Ottawa, says Dr. Vera Gellman of the products safety branch. Officials in the consulting with orthopedic surgeons to determine the effects the shoe has on various parts of the body, although it is not considered a danger.

Despite the possible problems the shoe can create, Dr. Peter Doctor, an orthopedic surgeon, sees at least one redeeming factor.

"The shoe is broad in the front and that's different from most shoes. The trend toward broader shoes has taken the pressure off the rest of the foot."

Dr. Monica Fernando, a podiatrist, said her experience with the shoe has been limited, but that some patients have reported the shoe promotes a great deal of comfort.

Can His Change of Heart Bring Back Wife's Desire?

Doris Clark

Dear Doris: We have been married 23 years. My husband has always acted like an ignorant, greedy, selfish, spoiled brat. He has made my life a miserable living hell. He seems to think that other wives are serapes for their husbands and the wives jump every time the husband crooks.

There used to be an old saying that "every man makes the world go round," but he seems to think it is him and sex that runs the world.

In the past several months he has finally gotten around to treating me like a human instead of a robot.

Long ago I lost my desire for sex. In fact I don't seem to have much feeling for anything. I say it is because of the rotten treatment I have got from him all these years. He says he thinks I'm crazy.

Could he be the treatment of me in the past cause me to lose my desire for sex? And is there anything I can do or a doctor can do to get my desire for sex back?

No Desire.

Dear No Desire: It wouldn't be a wonder to me if you did have any desire — if the "rotten treatment" is as bad as it sounds. What made the treatment change in the last several months?

Many, many couples have been helped to find a new joy in marriage through marital counselling. This means going to a trained social worker, either in a social agency or in private practice, airing your story and finding out more about what lies behind the treatment which has practically buried your natural physical urges.

Recovery calls for— tenderness, mutual respect, consideration — and a lot of other things which need personal discussion, diagnosis and treatment. If your husband is ready to go with you to such a person, and if the two of you are ready to give yourselves a second chance, you might work the needed miracle. Try it.

Dear Doris: Could you possibly give me some information about starting a child day care center? I'm only 15 but have already considered it for my future occupation.

Is there any schooling necessary? Do I need some sort of permission from the government? Are there any other special requirements?

D.W.

Dear D.W.: Regulations for nursery schools and day care centres are set down by the various provincial governments. Write to the Ministry of Social Services (or similar name), Parliament Buildings, in your capital city.

Before you can teach or operate in such a centre you will probably have to take a course in early childhood education from one of our community colleges. Have you talked about this with the Guidance Counsellor at your high school? He could tell you which colleges offer this course and the requirements for admission.

Dear Doris: Would you by any chance have the poem, "The Deck of Cards"? It is about a soldier who had a deck of cards in church. He used it for his prayer book and in the poem he told what each card represented to him.

If you have it I would appreciate getting it.

Deck of Cards.

Dear Deck: I'd like to hear it myself. They tell me that it has been made into a country-and-western type of record, so try asking for it at a record store. The library doesn't have it as a poem, but if one does come in from a reader I'll send it along.

(Don't just muddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Philosopher Advises Little Snitch 'Don't Judge Mom Too Harshly'

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Trapped was a bummer. Why didn't you pass right over the mother (who was caught in the shower with another man) and write to the daughter who was using the information as a hammer over her mother's head? Here's a sample letter, in case you're short of time.

Dear Fledgling Blackmailer: So you caught your mother cheating on your father and now you are using the information.

Certainly you are old enough to know that people make mistakes. And have you ever considered the possibility that there might be a good reason for your mother's affair? Like maybe your dad is impotent, or unkind to her in ways you know nothing about?

Suppose your mother doesn't go along with your little game and you decide to rat on her. Are you aware that you might deliver a blow to your father from which he may never recover? Furthermore, where this leave you?

If your blabbing causes a divorce, who would want custody of the little snitch? Do you believe your father will think you for destroying his world? Do you think your mother would want a rat fink like you under her roof?

Don't judge your mother too harshly, dear. You have no idea what life may have in store for you.—Seasoned Philosopher.

Dear Phil: Your letter raises some interesting questions. I print it without comment. I hope "the little snitch" sees it. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I was born and raised in Boston and now am living in the Middle West. It's gotten so I hate to open my mouth. Every time I say something people ask: "How long have you been here that you still talk like that?"

My problem might sound trivial but it is getting to me. What should I do about it?—From Beantown And Not Ashamed

Dear F.B.: Ignore the clods and make new friends. As a Midwesterner I love that Boston accent. It's got class. With a capital K.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about a problem I've had for many years. It has caused me embarrassment in this very day. Maybe you know of someone who can help me. It is over-perspiration.

I have tried every product on the commercial market, even those with money-back guarantees. I've gotten my money back twice but I'd much rather find a deodorant that' works.

The last doctor I went to said, "Learn to live with it." He claims nothing can be done to help me. Surely in this age of technological miracles, something can be done to control the quarts of perspiration that rush off me when I move rapidly, eat tense, or have to go where there are crowds.

I'm a male in my late 20s with normal activities and eating habits. Please, Ann, check your experts. I'll bow—Wet And Waiting In Hamilton, Ont.

Dear W and W: You have hyperhydrosis—a fancy name for excessive sweating. And so do millions of other people. Keep searching until you find a dermatologist who is persistent enough to work with you until he hits on the right formula. You'll be dry as the Sahara once you locate a doctor who cares enough to experiment with several combinations of drugs.

Share-wealth Game Starts After Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial energy conference starting Wednesday sets the stage for a gigantic share-the-wealth game, to be played out after producer and consumer interests publicly agree on higher petroleum prices.

At stake will be how much other provinces are to benefit from the sale of oil and gas wealth of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Legislation before Parliament provides that the federal government will include one-third of higher oil and gas prices in its calculations for equalization payments to poorer provinces.

The payments are made to seven provinces to bring their available revenue up to the national average. Only Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia — the so-called have provinces — do not receive equalization payments.

The bill introduced in Parliament last month is intended to provide that the federal government will include one-third of higher oil and gas prices in its calculations for equalization payments to poorer provinces.

The payments are made to seven provinces to bring their available revenue up to the national average. Only Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia — the so-called have provinces — do not receive equalization payments.

The bill introduced in Parliament last month is intended to provide that the federal government will include one-third of higher oil and gas prices in its calculations for equalization payments to poorer provinces.

Finance department officials so far have declined to comment on exactly how oil-producing Saskatchewan will be affected, in dollar terms.

The formula for setting equalization payments calculates income from more than 30 revenue sources, arriving at average revenue per person across the country. The federal government makes up the difference for the provinces that lag behind the national average. When oil prices begin rising dramatically, and Alberta's and Saskatchewan's royalty revenues rocketed with them, the national average was driven up. The cost of the equalization program for the federal government accordingly moved sharply higher.

Finance department officials calculate that in the 1973-74 fiscal year, using the formula in the bill now before Parliament, equalization payments went up $257 million.

The domestic price of oil went from about $2.50 a barrel to about $4 in September, 1973. Then in April, 1974, it was allowed to rise to $6.50 a barrel, still substantially below the world price of $10 or more a barrel.

That increase, finance officials estimate, cost the government another $380 million in equalization payments to the poorer provinces.

In the coming round of negotiations, bargaining will be tough on oil prices, federal officials acknowledge, but a continual or higher gas prices may be even more difficult. They have never been negotiated before at a federal-provincial meeting, and British Columbia has indicated its firm intention to seek a substantial increase.

Higher gas prices will put even more pressure on the federal efforts to control the equalization program.

Finance department officials say they have sent Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau several estimates on the effects of different oil and gas price rises on the payments scheme. But they refuse to reveal details of the calculations.

One reason for this stand was the large number of variables that had to be considered in preparing the estimates, to be used as ammunition by the government once the bargaining starts. Assumptions had to be made about possible new oil and gas prices after July, about export gas prices, volumes of oil and gas production and natural gas liquids, finance officials say.

CP News Roundup

White Calls Rene Levesque Traitor

TORONTO (CP) — John White (PC-London South) called Quebec separatist leader Rene Levesque a traitor in the legislature Monday and was in turn described as a "disgrace to this house" by NDP Leader Stephen Lewis.

Mr. White's remarks came during debate on the speech from the throne, delivered by Lieut.-Gov. Pauline McGibbon on March 12 and later accepted by a vote of 32 to 24.

Mr. White attacked both Mr. Levesque, Parti Quebecois leader, and Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, disagreeing with Mr. Nixon's description of the separatist leader as "a reasonable man."

"The Webster dictionary defines the word 'traitor' as one who betrays his country by violating his allegiance, and allegiance is described as duty owed to one's state. The Oxford dictionary defines the word 'traitor' as one who violates his allegiance or acts disloyally to his country.

"By these definitions Rene Levesque is a traitor. Any citizen of a country who would assist internal or external forces to destroy that country must be considered a traitor.

"The leader of the opposition who aspires to be premier of this province calls Rene Levesque a reasonable man . . . and that I think illustrates in a nutshell why the leader of the Liberal party will never be the premier of Ontario."

Mr. Lewis described the remarks as "not only unprincipled and vicious," but racist.

"He (Levesque) is a traitor to this country," Mr. White shot back.

"You are a disgrace to this house," replied Mr. Lewis, who asked the speaker to call Mr. White to order.

Patten Buried

TORONTO (CP) — Capt. Ian Patten, a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment who was killed in Nicosia last week, was buried here Monday with full military honors.

Dislikes Warning

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Doug Wilson, secretary-manager of the Kenora District Camp Owners Association, has objected to mercury pollution warnings which the Ontario government says must be issued with fishing licences.

Want Strike Ended

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man delegation from the Ottawa board of education has left for Toronto to ask Education Minister Tom Wells to legislate an end to the strike by 1,600 high school teachers.

Freedom Not Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau denied Monday that cancellation of a federal advertisement in Montreal Le Jour, which advocates Quebec independence, threatens press freedom.

"I don't think freedom of the press is in jeopardy here," he told Social Credit Leader Real Caouette in the Commons, adding that "the question is to decide if the government should help a commercial enterprise."

Wages Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal government hospital workers have been awarded two-year compound pay increases ranging between 23.7 and 43.5 per cent in an arbitration decision handed down Monday.

The 4,000-member group includes hospital maids, cleaning servicemen, cooks and nursing orderlies in hospitals run by the veterans' affairs, defence and health and welfare departments.

Authority Lacking

OTTAWA (CP) — Northern Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan said Monday he has told Pan-arctic Oils Ltd. that he would like company witnesses to testify about the deaths of 22 persons in a northern air crash last October.

But he said in the Commons he does not have authority to order company employees to give evidence at an inquest into the crash of a Lockheed Electra. He also said he understands the company did not tell employees not to appear.

How four little-known pork cuts can make you a superstar at suppertime.

That's not to say that there's anything wrong with some of your old standbys. It's just that maybe it's time your family enjoyed some exciting new suppertime additions. So we present you with four pork cuts that may not be all that familiar to you. Three are inexpensive, one is just the opposite, but they all share the important benefits that make Ontario Pork such a sensible alternative to any other meat: high in nutrition, low in fat and calorie content and with a rich, subtle flavour that can be prepared in so many delicious ways.

1. Shoulder Butt Pork Roast

This cut is part of the upper half of the shoulder of the pork and it's regarded as a very flavourful cut for roasting as well as an excellent value. Shoulder butt roasts vary in weight from 3 to 8 pounds and have a high proportion of lean, tender meat covered by a thin layer of clear, white fat on the top side. If you choose to have it boned, the pocket formed can be filled with a savoury stuffing for a delicious, special occasion roast. If you serve it bone in, allow ⅓ to ½ pound per serving; boneless, ¼ to ⅓ pound per serving.

Shoulder Butt Pork Roast with Apricot Glaze

Rub outside of 4–5 pound shoulder butt pork roast with thyme, if desired. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Do not cover roast or add water. Cook in 325 degree oven for about 35 minutes per pound until meat thermometer registers 170 degrees internal temperature. Brush several times during the last half hour of roasting with Apricot Glaze. When roast is done, let it stand 10 to 15 minutes to make carving easier. Garnish with greens and reserved apricot halves. Serve with green beans and buttered sweet potatoes. Makes 8–10 servings.

Apricot Glaze: Reserve 8–10 apricot halves from 1 (14 oz.) can of apricots. Thoroughly mash the remaining apricots in their syrup (or whirl in a blender). Pour into a small saucepan. Add 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 teaspoons soy sauce and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Stir and simmer for about 5 minutes. Spoon glaze over roasting pork during last 30 minutes of the cooking time. Makes ¼ cup glaze.

2. Pork Hocks

Hocks are the lower part of the pork foreleg and they can be purchased fresh, smoked or pickled. They contain good-sized chunks of flavourful, lean meat and are very economically priced. For best results hocks should be cooked at a simmering rather than a boiling temperature for 2 to 3 hours with the skin left on, in order that the nuggets of meat will not separate from the bones. They range in weight from ½ pound to 1 pound and you can allow one medium hock per serving.

Pork Hock Dinner

Wash and scrub 6 pork hocks. Place in large Dutch oven with 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, 1 clove garlic, chopped, 1 bay leaf, 2 beef bouillon cubes and 4 cups water. Bring to boil, cover and simmer over low heat 2 hours until tender. Meanwhile cut 3 medium carrots into slices, cut 4 medium potatoes in quarters and cut 1 small turnip into pieces. Add to the simmering hocks with 12 small onions. Cook thirty minutes longer. If you wish, remove and discard the skin from the hocks. Arrange in a shallow serving dish surrounded by the vegetables. Spoon the cooking liquid over all. To complete the menu serve with cabbage slaw and dill pickles. Makes 6 servings.

3. Pork Cubes

Ask your butcher to cut you some of these tender, juicy little cubes of lean pork that come from the shoulder or butt. Then discover how versatile, convenient and quick to cook they can be. You can use them in stews, ragouts, meat pies, chilli and curry dishes. Or try them skewered and broil them over a barbecue to make Porkabobs.

Pork 'n Vegetables

Cut 1 pound lean pork cubes in half across the grain. Heat 3 tablespoons lard or cooking oil in a wok or heavy frypan over high heat. Finely chop 1 clove garlic and brown in hot oil then discard garlic. Add pork and stir-fry until pork is no longer pink. Slice one medium onion, diagonally slice 5 stalks of celery and thinly slice 4 medium carrots. Add these vegetables to pork and continue to stir-fry until onion is softened.

Dissolve 1 chicken bouillon cube in 1 cup boiling water. Pour into pork mixture. Stir in 2 tablespoons soy sauce, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cover; simmer about 5 minutes. Shred 1 small head of cabbage. (If desired, also slice ½ pound of mushrooms.) Stir cabbage and mushrooms into pork and cook 3–4 minutes longer until vegetables are crisp-cooked. Thoroughly mix 2 teaspoons cornstarch and 2 tablespoons cold water. Add slowly, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Serve immediately with fluffy rice, plum sauce and slivered almonds in side dishes. Makes 6 servings.

4. Crown Roast

Here is a deliciously extravagant pork cut that is surprisingly simple to prepare. It consists of two rib loin sections with the backbone completely removed, tied together to form a crown with the ribs on the outside and the meat on on the inside. So really your butcher does all the work, you simply cook and carve by slicing between the ribs. Ideally the ribs are "frenched" that is, the meat is removed from the top inch or so of the rib and between the ribs. You should therefore cover the bare rib ends with foil to protect them from the heat while they are cooking. Allow two ribs per serving and be sure to give your butcher at least two days notice.

Crown Roast of Pork

Order 14–16 rib crown roast of pork from butcher a couple of days ahead. Rub roast all over with prepared mustard. Place on rack in an open roasting pan with rib ends up. Sprinkle with thyme. Cover each rib with a small piece of foil. Insert meat thermometer so it doesn't touch any bone. Roast in 325 degree oven for 35 minutes per pound until the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees. Let roast stand 15 minutes before carving to set juices. To serve, place seedless grape or cherry tomato or paper frill on each rib. Garnish platter with parsley and cherry tomatoes or fruit. Centre can be filled with a cooked vegetable like buttered carrots. Serve with broccoli and browned potatoes. Makes 8 large servings.

With Fire, Razor, Oag Beats Solitary

VANCOUVER (CP) — A convict who said he would rather die than stay in solitary confinement is out of that confinement at Millhaven penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., the prison director said Monday.

John Dowsett said in a telephone interview that prisoner Donald Oag, 24, set fire to his mattress in a solitary confinement cell and was moved to another cell in solitary shortly after his arrival there last month after an escape bid in Vancouver.

Ten days ago, Oag slashed his arm with a razor blade and was released last Friday to serve his sentence among the general prison population, Mr. Dowsett said.

The prison director said Oag had been put in solitary for assessment purposes only and that it was to be temporary.

Oag escaped custody at Vancouver International Airport last February when he forced a prison guard at knifepoint to drive him to the downtown area.

The London, Ont., resident was recaptured after a 15-day search and sentenced March 28 to two extra years in prison for the escape and offences committed while he was out of custody.

Plan Christian High School for Area

Ontario's eighth Christian High School may be built in the Quinte area by late 1976, says Henry Schaly, an executive member of the Belleville and District Christian High School Association.

Mr. Schaly, the 39-year-old principal of the Belleville Christian (elementary) School, said a 50-member committee is making tentative plans for the building of a new Christian High School in the Quinte area. No location has been discussed.

He said Monday the high school would probably be accredited by the ministry of education as the province's other seven high schools are. The closest Christian High School to the Quinte area is in Bowmanville.

Mr. Schaly, a native of the Netherlands, said the Christian High School committee has been revived this year in an effort to stimulate interest in the project. The committee is about ten-year-old.

He said a stirring committee now is taking a feasibility study on the project. The committee is expected to report to the association at a general meeting in September. A firm date has not been set.

These high schools, which come under the private schools act, are funded by the local Christian schools association as well as the tuition paid to the school by the parents.

Mr. Schaly said this new school would attract students in Grades 9 to 12 in the Bloomfield, Picton, Trenton and Belleville area.

He said "the purpose of an independent Christian school is based on a belief by the parents that the Lord needs a place of learning." These schools are non-denominational and they teach the scriptures with an emphasis on the teachings of Christ in its biblical context.

The Belleville Christian (elementary) school, not related to the high school concept, has 1 kindergarten student, Mr. Schaly said the site of the high school would depend on the demand from the community.

Parents Support Fired Principal

AMELIASBURG — A 45-year-old public school principal, dismissed by the Prince Edward County Board of Education April 1, took his appeal to the parents Monday night.

Eugene Bright, a principal of Kente Public School, met with about 200 parents here to discuss the charges levelled against him by the board and the subsequent firing and demotion to a teacher effective Aug. 31.

Mr. Bright, a principal at the school for two years, said he was told by director of education John McNeil there was a "low level of acceptance" for him in the community. He also said the board argued he lacked disciplinary techniques and management skills.

However, Mr. Bright told the temporary committee of several parents "much of the evidence was on hearsay and related to the dangers of rumors in a small community — the charges were a collection of little things based on very little information," he added.

Only one trustee, Harmon Mongomery, was at the meeting. Other trustees and the director of education had prior commitments to Monday night's meeting.

In an emotional appeal, Roy Stevenson, a Belleville businessman and father of a parent, said "the board didn't have all the facts." He said the administration favored Mr. Bright's performance all year until mid-February when Mr. McNeil apparently had a change of heart. He produced letters to support the director's attitude change.

Mr. Stevenson, an organizer of the committee, said an unofficial telephone survey by the committee showed 175 parents supported Mr. Bright while only 12 said they wanted him to leave. Out of the 187 calls 161 said they were satisfied with the school.

Another supporter, Dan Brady, also a parent, said alleged teacher dissatisfaction is was unfounded. He said out of 20 staff members 18 said they supported Mr. Bright while four did not have an opinion. He said the board's decision was based on rumor.

Finally supporters at the meeting signed a petition which read "I support Mr. Bright unless the board can present specific facts which warrant his dismissal as principal." A majority of those in attendance signed the petition. A delegation will present the petition to the board at its next meeting.

Another Plateau

Potter Interprets Budget As Possible Election Prelude

Correctional Services minister Richard Potter, MPP Quinte, said the provincial budget released Monday night "could be interpreted as an election budget . . . one that gives rather than takes."

He made this comment Monday at the annual meeting of the Quinte Progressive Conservative Association held in Sidney Township municipal offices.

Dr. Potter refused to comment in depth on the prediction of a spring election, saying that there is only one man in the province who knows when an election will be called and that is Bill Davis.

The Quinte member spent much of his time speaking on four highlights of the budget — relief program for first time home buyers, the seven per cent to five per cent reduction of sales tax, the reduction of succession duties and free prescription drugs to persons over 65 years old.

Dr. Potter reflected over his tenure of office which began in 1967 and pointed to the flood of Ontario Development Corporation loans that have come into riding industry.

Since 1967, the development corporation has provided in excess of $10.5 million to 32 Quinte businesses either for start up or expansion, said Dr. Potter.

Gerry Brennan, newly-elected president of the riding association said following the meeting, "it was a typical Dick Potter speech . . . nothing heavy . . . not a campaign speech."

"He was in town to touch bases with the people in the riding," said Mr. Brennan.

Other riding officers elected Monday were first vice-president Wolf Tausendfreund, second vice-president Gordon Flynn, third vice-president Russell Pyzer, fourth vice-president Mrs. Avila Lawrence, secretary Doug Whitley and treasurer Donna Denton.

Expectant Fathers Receive Reassurance

Between 700 and 800 expectant fathers over a period of eight years in the Quinte area have received words of wisdom from Dr. C. R. Lenk, medical officer of health for the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit.

And 13 of these nervous "daddies", including one newspaper reporter approaching fatherhood for the first time, took in some helpful advice during a health unit fathers' class Monday.

Dr Lenk says the health unit holds six or seven classes per year "and on the average, we get something like 15 fathers per class."

For experienced fathers, the class can act both as a refresher course and as a forum for new information which might have developed since their last children were born.

However, for those of us first-timers facing the unknown with a great feeling of trepidation, it was a relaxer for nerves which begin to shake each time we envision that final month.

Some of the advice is straight common sense which a prospective father might not realize until an untimely word has been spoken or a misdeed acted.

For example, guard against any hostility towards the fetus because pregnancy might have occurred at an inopportune time in the couple's life.

And also refrain from preference of sex. A husband exclaiming, "it must be a boy," will only cause his wife to worry she will let him down if it turns out to be a girl.

Of course, a woman, goes through psychological changes during pregnancy and the husband must anticipate, understand and be sympathetic.

Do not administer drugs which are not prescribed by the family physician. Even aspirin is taboo. Effects on the fetus by even the most common drugs cannot be determined.

And if possible, the woman should give up smoking if she indulges in that habit. Dr. Lenk says recent British studies have shown the baby is smaller if the mother smokes.

Board Will Hear Arguments

PICTON — The board of education here will listen to arguments of a committee of concerned parents opposed to the demoting of a public school principal, says Prince Edward County Board of Education chairman Douglas Caley.

About 200 parents met Monday night with Kente Public School Principal Eugene Bright to discuss his recent demotion from a principal to a teacher effective Aug. 31. The parents decided to petition the board in support of Mr. Bright. They have challenged the board to provide facts against the 45-year-old principal.

Mr. Caley, who was not at the meeting, recognized the committee and said the board would entertain them at the next meeting. The committee maintains Mr. Bright lost his job through rumors and innuendoes.

Mr. Caley refused to comment on the reasons he was demoted. He also refused to discuss the specifics related to the charges of poor management skills and a lack of disciplinary measures in the school.

Investment Described To Rotarians

An investment counsellor with an investment firm told city Rotarians Monday about investing in an uncertain world.

Howard Cramm of Pitfield, MacKay, Ross and Company Ltd., told members during their regular meeting at the Sun Valley that changes in the world have contributed to making investing today much different than in the past.

He said in the changing times of the 20th century where such situations as increased violence, a desire to be acquisitive and the increase in inflation have contributed to changes in the investment field.

"We must realize that we get nothing for nothing today," said Mr. Cramm, pointing to the fact that progress and a better economic life for most people have been sacrificed for such things as fresh air, water and natural beauty.

"The major challenge in the future will be in maintaining our planet in livable condition," he said.

Mr. Cramm said that with the wide choice of investment available some confusion can result, he said there is strength in the flexibility of such a scheme.

Mr. Cramm pointed toward the role of government in the economic scene today. "There has been a persistent rise in the interest rates. In some cases, interest rates have doubled in the past few years of the 1960s and 70s. We must see if the world can come to grips with inflation."

Mr. Cramm mentioned ways a person can keep his head above water in these days of uncertainty, mentioning the keeping an open mind, being flexible and having faith.

Dennis Outlines Widening Gap Between Rich, Poor Nations

The ever-widening, intellectual gap between the peoples of developed and developing nations was the focus of discussion Monday night between a select group of Hastings County educators and Lloyd Dennis, co-author of the Hall-Dennis Report.

Dr. Dennis, current director of education for the Leeds and Grenville Board of Education, was in the city to outline the now dated United Nations report on global education, the Faure Report.

The document, compiled in 1972 by a team of seven international figures, deals with the crisis of the intellectual by rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer and further outlines possible ways of "halting or diminishing the gap," said Dr. Dennis.

"The gap between the advantaged and the disadvantaged is perpetually widening . . . we must prepare the individual for future flexibility," said Dr. Dennis. "The gap is becoming critical and new thinking is needed."

Paraphrasing the UN report, Dr. Dennis said "its term or diminish the widening gap, we must stop talking about romantic innovation and start talking about some very basic changes."

The area of change he listed include open admission to education, liberation of the learner, state control, curriculum, teacher power and diversity of approaches.

"We don't need innovation we need fundamental change," he said.

He said these ideas are not designed for the underdeveloped nations but apply equally to North American educational formula — considered some of the most sophisticated in the world.

"North Americans have a tendency to believe because we are richer we are better," said Dr. Dennis. "We overlook th culture-rich countries that are low on the economic scale."

Illustrating the crisis of world education as it now exists, Dr. Dennis provided statistics showing only 25 per cent of the world's children are in developed nations and that this 25 percent represents 50 percent of the world's educational enrollment.

The discussion Monday is a forerunner to an international conference to be held in Toronto's York University in May where the Faure report will be dealt with in terms of practical application.

Several European countries, and the United Sates will send delegates to the conference. Each Ontario county board of education — including Hastings County — has been invited to send three delegates.

Eric Runacres, Hastings director of education, trimmed the Faure report "one of the most dynamic educational documents of the decade . . . and destined to have broad impact on learning approaches".

He said a number of seminars will be held in the county during the next month to prepare for the May conference.

Dead Miners Blamed Ventilation

By CP—Staff

OTTAWA — Testimony from two miners now dead has blamed poor ventilation in a uranium mine near Bancroft for contributing to their deaths from lung cancer.

The testimony was read by their widows to the Ontario Royal commission on mine safety here Monday.

The commission also heard testimony from the widow of a third miner who died of lung cancer after working in the Faraday mine, east of Bancroft.

Mrs. John Shushark and Mrs. Barclay Kelly, both reading their husbands' briefs, cited poor ventilation in the mine, which — although improved — the men believed contributed to their fatal illnesses.

In his brief, Mr. Kelly, who died April 1, also cited cases of three other miners whom he said, died of lung cancer after working in the mine.

The government-appointed commission, headed by Toronto University engineering professor James M. Hyde, has been studying health and safety conditions in Ontario mines.

Mr. Hamp called the deaths of the three men "the ultimate tragedy."

In two days of hearings the commission also heard testimony from district locals of the United Steelworkers of America.

Problems with excessive dust were mentioned by union representatives from the Marmoraton open pit iron mine at Marmora; a marble quarry at Madoc and a nepheline syenite quarry at Havelock.

Bruins and Hawks Series

Six of One, Half Dozen of Other

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks tangle tonight in a National Hockey League first-round playoff series that will end a dismal season for one club and improve a poor season for the other.

"I don't think anyone is picking us to win," said Boston's Bobby Orr. "Not our fans, the press or maybe even some of our parents. They don't think we'll go much further than the first round, but when we get to the finals maybe we can talk about it."

Chicago coach Billy Reay said, "We didn't win a crucial game all year. We'll have a chance to prove differently in the playoffs."

The Bruins and Black Hawks meet in one of four best-of-three series. Other first-round pairings have New York Rangers not playing host to their suburban rivals, New York Islanders; St. Louis Blues meeting the Penguins in Pittsburgh, and Toronto leading Leafs playing host Kings in Los Angeles.

The Black Hawks, who finished a humiliating third in the Smythe Division behind a pair of expansion clubs which weren't expected when Chicago won its last Stanley Cup in 1961, are looking to the playoffs to restore some lost pride.

"It has been a disappointing season for all of us," said Chicago goalie Tony Esposito, who will be facing shots from his brother Phil, the second-leading scorer in the NHL this year. "We didn't finish first and that's what hurts."

Boston, which finished 19 points behind the Adams Division champion Buffalo Sabres, also is trying to skate away from a disappointing regular season.

"We've got to hustle, play smarter," said Orr, who led the league in scoring with 135 points. "This series is two out of three, so you can't afford to make many mistakes or you're gone."

The Rangers have been reeling into their getting ready for the playoffs each of the last eight years. They haven't won the Stanley Cup since 1940 and haven't been impressive this year.

Pittsburgh has been running hot and cold all year. Its home ice and cold away from home. Since the Penguins are scheduled to play two of the best-of-three games in Pittsburgh, they would seem to have an advantage.

The Kings skated to their best record ever this season, posting a mark that tied division of 45-17-8. Coach Bob Pulford admitted his team hasn't played well recently, recording just six victories in the team's last 14 games, but adds: "I think we'll be a different team in the playoffs. This time, when motivated, plays very well."

Playoffs Begin Wednesday

Blades Close With Victory

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore Blades wound up the Hockey Association season with an uncharacteristic victory in the season finale Monday night.

Elsewhere, clubs were getting set for the playoffs which open on one front tonight.

Baltimore, and the sad club of the league, upset the defending champion Houston Aeros 4-2 in the last game of the schedule.

The Blades got second-period goals from Ray LaRose, Gary Venturusso and Jerry Zrymiak. Bill Evo scored in the first period.

Gordie Howe scored his 34th goal of the season for Houston and finished the season with 80 points.

The Blades, known last year as Los Angeles Sharks, moved to Detroit this season where they were the Michigan Stags before the league took flight over and moved them to Baltimore.

No matter where it went, the Baltimore club couldn't improve its won-lost mark and finished with a league record 71 wins, four fewer than it earned as Los Angeles last year. It also tied its record of 53 losses in a season, as it had last year in Los Angeles.

The Aeros, meanwhile, finished with a record 106 points, five more than they had last year; a record 51 wins, also five more than last season, and tied their 1973-74 record of fewest losses—25.

The first of the best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series opens tonight with Phoenix Roadrunners visiting the Nordiques at Quebec.

On Wednesday, the Toronto Toros do battle San Diego Mariners in a best-of-seven series and San Diego and Minnesota Fighting Saints-New England Whalers open at Hartford, Conn.

The Cleveland Crusaders vs. Houston Aeros series opens Thursday at Houston.

The second game in each series will be at the opening site before moving to the other teams' arenas for the next two.

Global To Carry Toros

TORONTO (CP) — Three of the first four World Hockey Association playoff games between Toronto Toros and San Diego Mariners will be carried on the Global Television Network which serves southern Ontario, it was announced Monday.

The opening game of the best-of-seven series in San Diego on Wednesday night will be telecast starting at 9:30 p.m. EST. Global will ship the second game in San Diego on Saturday night but then pick up the next two games in Toronto on Wednesday, April 16, and Friday, April 18, both at 8 p.m.

Global transmits signals from Windsor, Sarnia, Paris, Uxbridge, Bancroft and Ottawa to major population centres in southern Ontario.

No television will be made later on remaining playoff games.

WEST BROMWICH, England (AP) — Don Howe was fired Monday as manager of the West Bromwich Albion soccer club. Howe had coached West Bromwich since 1971. The club slipped from the English Soccer League's first division to the second, and failed to earn promotion this year.

Rookies Stat as Expos Dump Cards 8-4

Carter Makes McNally Winner In First Start of '75 Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie catcher Gary Carter of Montreal Expos turned 21 today after a quarter of a century for himself Monday night at the expense of St. Louis Cardinals.

He smacked two singles and a three-run homer, driving in four runs as the Expos opened the National League baseball season with an 8-4 triumph over Bob Gibson and the Cards.

In other National League openers, Cincinnati Reds edged Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 in 14 innings and Houston Astros trimmed Atlanta Braves 6-2.

The only American League game saw Nolan Ryan fire a three-hitter, striking out 15, while California Angels rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to edge Kansas City Royals 3-2.

With outfielders Bob Bailey and Rich Coggins sidelined, the Expos used rookie Tony Scott in left field and Carter, the No. 1 catcher in the minor leagues last year, in right. Scott's two-out, two-run double in the eighth inning off Bob Gibson gave the Expos a 5-4 lead and Carter, who nicked Gibson for a run-scoring single in the first, wrapped it up in the ninth with his three-run homer off a high fast ball from Elias Sosa.

Enthusiasm and hustle are among Carter's trademarks. The strapping 6-foot-2, 185-pound Californian runs full-speed to his position in the field and sprints to first base after drawing a walk.

"I'll tell you this was a heck of a birthday present," said Carter, who hit .077 in nine games at the end of last season, batted .221 in spring training and is hitting a cool .750 this year . . . with 181 games left.

Gibson, seeking his 200th lifetime victory, took a 4-3 lead into the eighth and notched his 199th strikeout by fanning Pete Mackanin for the second out. But Larry Parrish singled, so did pinch-hitter Larry Bittner and Scott drilled his two-run double down the left field line, scoring Parrish and pinch-runner Jerry White.

The Cards had taken a 4-3 lead with two runs in the fifth, the second on Reggie Smith's homer. It came off left-hander Dave McNally, a former American League star sidelined his National League debut. McNally allowed nine hits and four runs in seven innings. Gibson, looking for a pinch-hitter and Scott's double made him the winning pitcher.

Cincinnati, which finished four games behind Los Angeles in the NL West last year, edged the Dodgers when George Foster's infield single off knuckleballer Charlie Hough with two out in the bottom of the 14th.

A crowd of 32,898, largest ever for a regular-season game in Cincinnati, was on hand.

Houston's Jose Cruz took advantage of an interference call against Atlanta catcher Vic Correll with a tie-breaking three-run homer, capping a five-run fifth-inning rally against Phil Niekro that erased a 3-0 deficit.

Ryan struck out more than 10 batters for the 6th time in his career in the California win. He fanned designated hitter Hermon Hilsherror four times. Rich Mayberry's sixth-inning homer had given Kansas City a 3-1 lead.

Marlboros Oust Canadians

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — John Anderson scored into an empty net with 54 seconds left in the game Monday to clinch a 9-7 win for Toronto Marlboros over Kingston Canadians and win their Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A quarter-final series.

Toronto took the eighth-point series 9-7 and will meet Sudbury Wolves in the semi-finals.

A crowd of 4,325 watched Toronto take period leads of 5-1 and 8-4 before Kingston rallied in the third period with three goals to close the gap 8-7.

Anderson's third goal of the night insured the win. Bruce Boudreau also scored three times for the Marlboros who finished in first place in regular-season play.

Mark Napier scored two goals and had four assists while John Smrke got the other Marlboro goal.

Tony McKegney led Kingston with two goals while Ken Linseman, Dave Hynek, Richie Dunn, Alex Forsyth and Mike Forbes scored once each.

Major Junior A Selections

Maruk Outstanding Player, Didn't Make All-stars

TORONTO (CP) — Dennis Maruk, a centre with Oshawa Knights, has won the Tilson Trophy as the outstanding player in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series but he didn't make the all-star team.

The Tilson winner is chosen by sportswriters and broadcasters from the 11 cities in the series. The all-stars are chosen by the coaches.

John Tonelli of Toronto Marlboros won the berth as first winger. Nailer acquired 48 out of a possible 50 points.

A third Marlboro to make the first team is defenceman Mike Kitchen. Marlboros, who finished the regular schedule in first place, were shut out in voting for the second or third team.

Others named to the first team were St. Catharines Black Hawks goaltender Bill Cherepita, Peterborough Petes defenceman Peter Scamurra, St. Catharines defenceman Ken Breitenbach, Dave Jarvis of Peterborough and Tim Young of Ottawa, third for centre, Dave Salvin, St. Catharines left winger, and Peter Lee, Ottawa right winger.

Canadians in Quarter-finals

MILWAUKEE (CP) — A Canadian team advanced Monday to the quarter-finals of the Women's International badminton competition with a 5-3 victory over the United States.

The Canadian women advance to the quarter-final next month in Jakarta, Indonesia. Canada won singles victories and two doubles wins The Americans picked up their two points in doubles.

In singles, Alison Ridgway of Vancouver beat Judy Kelly 11-7, 11-4; Lesley Harris of Montreal defeated Cindy Baker 10-12, 11-6, 11-4, and Jane Youngberg of Vancouver defeated Sheryl Carton 11-1, 11-3.

In doubles, Youngberg and Barbara Welch of Toronto beat the 1973 women's prize money winners Kathy Carlson Stalker 16-18, 15-9, 15-11 and Lorraine Thorne and Wendy Clarkson of Edmonton defeated Jakes and Starkey 15-6, 15-1.

Weiskopf Third In Winnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tom Weiskopf's victory in the Greater Greensboro Open on Sunday dawn him from 13th to third place among golf's 1975 money winners, statistics from the Professional Golfers' Association show.

Weiskopf's $45,000 first prize at Greensboro gave him $91,238 for the season. That's well behind the top two money winners—Johnny Miller with $128,226 and Jack Nicklaus with $109,242.

Bob Murphy slipped from third to fourth with $77,979 followed by Lee Trevino with $71,963. Others in the top 10 are Al Geiberger, $65,295; Gene Littler, $61,869; Tom Kite, $60,481; Hale Irwin $59,922, and John Mahaffey $57,107.

Evert Earns Over 100 G's

NEW YORK (Reuter) — American Chris Evert heads the 1975 women's prize money in listings announced Monday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Miss Evert's victory during the weekend brought her season's winning to $121,450.

Runner-up is Martinia Navratilova, 18, of Czechoslovakia, whom Miss Evert beat in the final of their weekend tennis tournament, with $96,763.

Brit'on Virginia Wade is third in ever-all earnings with $71,963 followed by Margaret Court, Australia, $52,632; Evonne Goolagong, Australia, $52,350; Billy Jean King, U. S., $32,700; Francoise Dur, France, $32,200; Betty Stove, the Netherlands, $31,225; Olga Morozova, Soviet Union, $31,258, and Julie Heldman, U. S., $27,100.

Pick Them and Duck

Asinine predictions are rampant these days.

Why should I depart from my rather questionable habit of following the trend and having a go at picking winners?

After all, readers of this column have been known to make a dollar or two by using a very simple formula.

Upon making my selections, those in the know promptly place their wagers on the clubs I've dismissed as unworthy.

And it works.

Be that as it may, here I go.

Kings over Leafs in two straight.

Everyone on the Toronto Club wants to carry the puck the length of the ice but too often are unable to cap their heading, solo efforts with a goal.

And anyway, LAs goals against average was second only to Philadelphia Flyers' mark.

(Incidentally, Flyers will repeat as Cup Champions.)

Black Hawks will upset Bruins 2-1.

Not much to choose between the two clubs in the goals against department. Hawks were scored on 341 times and Bruins, 341.

The goals for record has me a little concerned. That statistic showed Boston with 345 to 268 for Chicago.

But what the heck, Kathleen likes Hawks so I'll do as does Ron.

Penguins get the nod over the Rings 2-1.

St. Louis came on with a rush to close out the season but that Pittsburgh squad has got the stuff.

The battle of the New Yorkers?

Islanders over Rangers 2-1.

Emile Francis' Rangers had more wins (37-33) but Islanders had fewer losses (25-29).

Anything can happen in a short series.

To make predictions like those presented here man, you've got to believe that anything can happen.

I'll try to get to what will happen to the survivors, tomorrow.

Can you wait that long?

SLICES — That on . . . then off referees' clinic for soccer officials is on again.

Peter Crowle, president of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association reports that the $50 registration fee has been or will be forwarded to the Ontario Soccer Association and all systems are "go".

The three-Sunday program, under the direction of Norris Webster of Trenton, is scheduled for Trenton Community Gardens, April 13-20-27, from 1-4 p.m. each day.

Webster should prove to be a knowledgeable instructor since he was a Grade 1 referee in England.

Olympics Win Pennant

Olympics clinched first place in the Indoor Soccer League, Monday night, playing to a 3-3 draw with Moira Secondary School.

Ernie Brown led Olympics with two goals. Kevin Kirby also found the mark. Moira goals were supplied by Ralph Kellars, Joe Molaski and Tommy Britton.

In Monday's second league game, John's Variety was blanked by Cosy Grill 3-0. Dave Lapanian took care of all the scoring in the game.

Sunday, Moira held Cosy Grill to a 4-4 draw.

Charlie Nestersvski clicked for three Cosy Grill goals to go with one by Brian Stevenson. Checking in with two each for Moira were Dave Powell and Ross McLeod.

Round Robin playoff action opens Monday night at Loyalist College with Olympics meeting John's in the 9 p.m. game and Moira looking up with Cosy Grill at 10 p.m.

Novice Squads To Meet Again

Between the A championship and grass championship games in the Shrine Peewee Hockey Tournament, Sunday, novice teams from Belleville and Kingston demonstrated their skills for the spectators.

Goals by Brian Clarey, Jim Crouchman and Brian Christopher carried the Belleville youngsters to a 3-1 win.

The teams will hook up in another exhibition match in Kingston, Sunday.

Generals Outlast Stanley

Firepower is a commodity both teams in the east Hockey League final have in their arsenals.

London Team Trips Rollins

Pressed into service to give London's Shrine Pewee Hockey Tournament entry an exhibition match, Sunday morning, Belleville's Rollins Majors came out on the short end of a 5-3 score.

Counting for the Rollins' squad, were Robbie Soule, Jamie Robertson and Charlie Doran. Cliff Guthrie picked up a pair of assists and Doran had one helper.

And in the third game of the eight-point series on Memorial Arena, Monday night, the big guns were booming.

When it was all over, Belleville Generals had moved back into contention in the series, posting their first win over Stanley Stuctures. Final score was 9-4.

Stanley carries a 2-1 lead in games into the fourth match, Wednesday night.

Defenceman Gary Goyer, named the top performer in the league at that position, led the charge for Generals. He scored twice and helped arrange five other scoring plays.

Steve Trudeau was the big trigger-man with four goals and an assist while Dave Skelton was good for two and two. Bill Van Soelen was the other scorer for Generals.

Wayne Storms and Bob Mayhill each connected for a pair of Stanley goals with singles for Rob Harrington, Ray Summers, Russ Harrington and Frank Wiles.

Novice Champs Decided

Seeries A championship honors in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association novice division went to Beaver Lumber, a 6-1 winner over Stephen Licence.

In the B section, Local 1000 got by Uniroyal 6-1 to take the title.

Ottawa Star Treats Tweed Fans to Clinic

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

TWEED — A yellow jacket tried to get a piece of Wayne Tosh at a football clinic held in Tweed Saturday afternoon. And that's not a member of the opposing team . . . it was a hornet in the Tweed Senior Pbulic School Gym.

Wayne Tosh said he has been in four Grey Cup finals. At the conclusion of the 1972 Grey Cup, Tosh was runner-up to Gary LaFrebre of the Edmonton Eskimos as the outstanding Canadian player of the game. Tosh was a defensive half and promoted to quarterback.

Tosh was asked to Tweed by Paul Willoughby, Willoughby, who is pastor of Tweed Pentecostal Church, said that Tosh is his friend and invited him from Ottawa where he was a padre with the Ottawa Rough Riders, the team Tosh plays with. Willoughby says Tosh is an athletic youngsters can look up to since Tosh "is not a playboy".

Early Saturday afternoon, Tosh participated in a hockey game in Tweed, and in the evening attended a rally at the church.

One young lad attending the football clinic asked Tosh if he was in training and Tosh replied "unofficially, yes. Half is football is conditioning. You have to have a good memory. New plays are put in every week."

Tosh led those attending the clinic in warm-up calisthenics and then showed how to hand a ball off and . . . .

One important trick of football is running sidewise, and Tosh showed how that is done. Then he had individuals run backwards and then to one side and be threw the ball for them to intercept.

After one ball went out the door, Tosh said "never chase the ball in your hands. Catch it in you hands." He emphasized the placement of the hands so the ball wouldn't bounce out and also so the offence couldn't grab it easily.

Tosh then had the football enthusiasts run at him singly and he threw the ball, forcing some to make jump catches. Tosh threw left handed, and wore glasses. Most had a hard time catching and holding the ball in this instance.

Tosh then had the football such as one runner tipping the ball over and into the hands of another teammate coming up from behind. He demonstrated the proper tackling stance, and pointed out that "it is not the best thing to come at him. Let him come to you."

"My job as defensive back requires me to stop passed from being completed," Tosh said, and then demonstrated one method of hitting his opponent on the side of the head while knocking his arm down with his other hand.

Napanee School Tops in Points

Napanee and District Secondary School rolled up-60 points on the way to the team championship in the Bay of Quinte Badminton finals played Saturday at Bayside Secondary School.

Second place went to Belleville Collegiate Institute with 48 points while Bayside took third spot with 27.

Thirteen schools were represented in the competition.

Front-running Napanee scored wins in the women's single s with Gayle Raycroft showing the way, and in the men's doubles where Rick Dasilva and George Eadie transed up to the top list.

BCI said it with wins in the women's doubles when Sue Wilson and Roberta Driscoll led the way and in the mixed event with Larry Tinsor and Barbara Pulis lopping the field.

Tournament convener Varley Korah rated the men's singles matchup between winner Sari Amal of Albert College and Bruce Mohr of East Northumberland Secondary School, as the match of the day. Mohr took Amal the distance before bowing out.

Top four finishers in each event will take part in the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association playoffs scheduled for Adam Scott Collegiate in Peterborough, Wednesday, April 19.

Hughes Wins Mixed Title

The number 13 has always been attached with misfortune, but John and Jackie Hughes and Phil and Noni Gibbon would probably be willing to argue this point.

The foursome finished 13th in the Quinte Curling Club's Mixed League standings at the end of the season out of 16 rinks. The top 16 teams in league play then entered the QCC's Mixed League Championship Bonspiel which began Wednesday. When it was all over, Hughes' rink was 13th, standing with the Hyman trophy and the 1975 mixed curling championship.

Hughes rink beat out Vern Goodwin's foursome in the final Sunday. The runner-up rink finished 13th in regular season action. Goodwin's rink consisted of his wife, Gloria, and Jim and Lil Taylor.

Hughes was down 6-3 after two ends but rallied five in the third and never looked back.

The mixed consolation championship went to Finlay McCorquodale's rink. Other members of the rink are his wife, Helen, and Ray and Lena Dearborn.

Consolation runners-up are Pete and Gloria Jones and Bill and Marilyn Strahan.

McCorquodale's rink finished third in the season standings and Jones came seventh.

Parent Becomes Only Successive Winner of Vezina

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie Parent of Philadelphia Flyers has become the first National Hockey League goaltender in 16 years to win the Vezina Trophy in two consecutive seasons.

Parent, a 30-year-old native of Montreal, shared the award last season with Tony Esposito of Chicago Black Hawks in the first tie in the Vezina Trophy's history. In the season just ended this season, Parent played so perfectly to overtake the Los Angeles Kings duo of Rogatien Vachon and Gary Edwards, the goal-tending leaders.

Parent, who led the league in shutouts with 12, completed the regular season with a 2.65 goals-against average on 132 goals against during 4,041 minutes. The Flyers team total was 181 goals against in 80 games, and 14 shutouts—Wayne Stephenson, who played in 13 games, got the other shutout.

Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens was the last goalie to win the Vezina two years in a row and hold the league record for having his name inscribed on the cup from 1965-66 to 1968-69.

Parent receives $1,500 as the Vezina Trophy winner plus $500 for being the second-half leader. Vachon and Edwards, who combined for a 2.31 average, receive $750 as over-all runners-up plus $250 as first-half leaders. The Kings allowed 185 goals, four more than the Flyers.

Bobby Orr, the only defenceman to lead the NHL in points, won his second scoring championship with 46 goals and a league-leading 89 assists for 135 points. In 1969-70, Orr led the league with 120 points. Orr's goal total was a record for a defenceman.

Phil Esposito, bidding for his fifth straight scoring championship, finished eight points behind Orr. Esposito led the league with 61 goals and had 80 assists. His points total was his lowest in five seasons.

Marcel Dionne, the second-ranking scorer with 66 points, was third in the overall race with 47 goals and 78 assists for 125 points followed by Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens, who had 58 goals and 66 assists for 124 points.

Peter Mahovlich finished fifth with 117 points on 35 goals and 82 assists. Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers was sixth with 37 goals and 80 assists for 118 points followed by Rene Robert of Buffalo Sabres with 100 points on 40 goals and 60 assists. It marked the first time in the NHL that seven players have scored 100 or more points.

Two other players besides Orr, Esposito and Lafleur reached the 100-point plateau. Rick Martin of the Buffalo Sabres had 52, matching his total of last season and Danny Grant of Detroit Red Wings had 50.

For winning the scoring championship, Orr receives $2,000 plus $250 as runner-up in the first half. Esposito collects $1,000 as over-all runner-up and $500 as leading in the first half. Dionne will get $500 as the second-half leader.

The Canadiens led the all teams by scoring 374 goals in their schedule while Washington Capitals had the weakest offence, scoring 181 goals. The Capitals allowed 446 goals as they finished with an 8-67-5 record, the worst in the NHL since New York Islanders were 13-60-5 in 1972-73.

The Flyers were the most-penalized team with a total of 1,- 500 minutes, an average of 34.4 minutes a game. Dave Schultz of the Flyers was the individual penalty leader with 472 minutes.

Montreal led with 91 power-play goals while Buffalo led with 17 short-handed goals.

Jones Rescues Nuggets

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Bobby Jones hit four of Denver's eight consecutive points in the final two minutes Monday night, lifting the Nuggets to a 126-124 American Basketball Association playoff victory over Utah.

The victory gives Denver a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division. Games three and four will be played in Salt Lake City Wednesday and Friday.

In another playoff game Monday night, Indiana Pacers downed San Antonio Spurs to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven first-round playoff.

BOB McADOO

McAdoo Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, the National Associations Most Valuable Player, added the 1974-75 league scoring title to his list of honors Monday by amassing the most points in a season since 1964.

McAdoo finished his highest scoring season ever with a total of 2,831 points for an average of 34.5 a game. He also led the league in minutes played with 3,539 and was among the best in field goal percentage, rebounding and blocked shots.

The 6-foot-10 Braves star ran up the highest scores point-total since Will Chamberlain collected 2,948 in 1963-64.

Rick Barry of Golden State Warriors was second with 30.6 points a game, followed by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee Bucks at 30.5. Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha at 30.5 and Charlie Scott of Phoenix Suns at 24.3

CBC Carries Oscar Instead

TORONTO (CP) — Although Toronto Maple Leafs may be involved in their second-last game of the year, the CBC has elected not to interrupt its regular television programming schedule to carry the game to home viewers.

The CBC has decided to televise the Academy Awards presentations from Hollywood—a program readily available in the Toronto area from the NBC station in Buffalo and through NBC network stations near the border.

Toronto fans who want to see tonight's game between the Leafs and Kings at Los Angeles can do so at Maple Leaf Gardens by buying a ticket and watching it on a closed-circuit pay-TV screen.

The CBC will pick up the best-of-three series here Thursday for the second game and, if a third game is necessary, will show it Friday starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Gordon Craig, head of sports for the network, said no opening-game coverage is planned for Sunday's start of the quarter-finals because of showing the elimination round this week.

IN MEMORIAM

BURKITT — In loving memory of our husband and father, Percy Burkitt, who passed away April 9, 1962.
He suffered patiently and long,
His hope was bright, his faith strong.
The Home of Jesus fitted his breast,
And He saw he was ready to rest.
—From wife Laura and family and grandchildren.

BURSHAW — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Wilfred who passed away April 8, 1973.
Remembrance is a golden chain.
Death has taken from us one we loved so dearly.
Its have, to love, and then to part;
Is the greatest sorrow of every heart.
Time years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Sadly missed by daughter Jean, daughter-in-law Bob and grandchildren Pat, Kathy and Jamie.

BURSHAW, Wilfred — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away April 8, 1973.
Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain.
Some thought we've parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day we know not when,
To live in that home of glory land,
Dear father, we shall be with you forever.
—Ever remembered by Florence Robert, Walter Cornish, Cecil, Joe, Goodie and grandchildren.

BURSHAW — In loving memory of my dear father, Wilfred Burshaw, a dear one who passed away 5 years ago today.
We only know your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear father,
We do not think of you.
—Sadly missed daughter Mildred, son-in-law George and family.

ALFORD — In loving memory of my dear husband, Percy Alford, who passed away April 8, 1961.
Always a smile, never a frown,
Always a hand when one was down.
Always true, trustworthy and kind,
Wonderful memories she left behind.
Sadly missed by her husband John.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank nurses of Belleville Hospital Level 3 for my care while in hospital. Also Rev. Hall, Pelot, Dr. Masson and Dr. Bowes.
—Mrs. Ethel Hicks, Stirling, Ont.

The family of the late Mrs. Hayden Kelso, wish to express their appreciation to friends and relatives for their floral tributes, sympathetic cards and expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement, and thanks to the Rev. Ross Hall, Dr. Masson, Dr. Pelot, thanks to Dr. Bowes, Belleville General Hospital Home and Revered Poulter for their kindness and consideration.
—The Keler Family.

Not Too Specific

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday Finance Minister Donald Macdonald "will be specific, but not too specific" about Ottawa's sliding evolving approach to inflation in talks Friday with provincial finance ministers.

Mr. Trudeau told Opposition Leader Joseph Clark in the Commons that the government does "not want to announce the new direction that we want to follow until we are satisfied that this direction serves the of the economy want to follow."

The exchange followed a statement earlier in the day by Alberta Premiere Peter Lougheed that he does not understand Ottawa's consensus approach to know whether it is worthwhile.

CBC Staff Large

OTTAWA (CP) — A CBC staff covering Prime Minister Trudeau's trip to the West Indies will be larger than the prime minister's entourage, two MPs complained in the Commons on Monday.

Progressive Conservative (PC—Annapolis Valley) said 21 CBC reporters and technical staff will report the tour, which includes the meeting of Commonwealth leaders in Jamaica on April 29 to May 5. He suggested the corporation could afford it to cover the CBC's French and English networks.

'Feelings of Humanity'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau indicated Monday that "feelings of humanity" inspired a recent telegram expressing support for striking workers in Alberta, Sask.

Mr. Trudeau told the Commons the telegram expressed "feelings of all Liberals toward people engaged in labour conflicts, particularly in a case like this where matters of health are involved."

Evidence has been mounting of asbestos miner health hazards.

Limit Soot

OTTAWA (CP) — Guidelines limiting emissions of soot into the air from asphalt-paving plants were announced Monday by the environment department.

Tiny Tim Recuperates

Entertainer Tiny Tim, whose real name is Herbert Khaury, recuperates in Holy Spirit Hospital in suburban Camp Hill, Pa. near Harrisburg as nurse Mrs. Cindy Rogers checks the splint on his left arm. Tiny Tim, a passenger in a van, was involved in a three-vehicle collision near Harrisburg Sunday night that killed one person. Tiny Tim sustained leg, arm and chest injuries. (A Photo)

Showbiz Shorts

TORONTO (CP) — The success of the Anna Wyman Dance Theatre probably has a lot to do with Miss Wyman herself.

She is the driving force behind all the choreography as well as the day-to-day grind of keeping a company alive.

The company, started four years ago in Vancouver, received favorable audience and critic reaction on its first Eastern Canada tour despite injuries to two of its eight dancers.

"This didn't make things easier," Miss Wyman said. "We had to recruit a couple of dancers quickly."

Miss Wyman, born in West Germany, had a classical ballet background before she discovered modern dance. Partly from preference and partly because of the isolation of running a dance company in British Columbia, she has little to do with modern dance conventions of North America.

"I certainly have never been inspired by other dances," she said. "But generally I would say paintings, sculpture, the environment, these sort of things move me to create dances. And music, of course.

"I can't have a dance idea and then hunt for music. It doesn't work for me that way. The music must suggest something.

"About the only thing I rigidly avoid touching is nature. To me nature does not involve the dance, it is something to be enjoyed for its own sake, something to relax in and I would never try to translate it into other terms."

MUNICH, Germany (AP)— Paul Verhoeven, a prominent West German actor and producer-director, collapsed and died on the stage of the Kammerspiele Theatre Saturday during a memorial ceremony for a colleague who had recently died.

Verhoeven had a 50-year career as producer and actor. He had been director of the Kammerspiele since 1951.

His best-known appearances in German-made movies were in The Kaiser from California in 1936, The Three Codman in 1940, and Herr Sanders Lives Dangerously in 1943.

Chinatown Oscar Favorite

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chinatown, a detective story set in Los Angeles in the 1930s, is favored as the star tonight at the 47th annual Academy Awards.

A consensus of predictions gave it the nod as favorite for best picture over The Godfather Part II, The Towering Inferno, Lenny, and The Conversation.

Jack Nicholson, who played the puzzled detective in Chinatown, was favored to win the Oscar for best actor.

His rivals include Al Pacino for Godfather—II, Art Carney for Harry and Tonto, Albert Finney for Murder on the Orient Express, and Dustin Hoffman who played the title role in Lenny.

Faye Dunaway, the tragic heroine of Chinatown, was given a good chance to win as best actress if a sweep for the film develops.

Otherwise, that Oscar could be a toss-up between Gena Rowlands of A Woman Under the Influence and Ellen Burstyn in Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore.

Other nominees for best actress are Diahann Carroll for Claudine and Valerie Perrine for Lenny.

Many seemed to hope that old, faithful Fred Astaire would be chosen as best supporting actor for his role in Towering Inferno.

The favorite for supporting actress seemed to be Valentina Cortese for Day for Night, with Ingrid Bergman as sentimental choice for Orient Express.

Howard Koch, who is producing the Oscars show, promises a return to glamor. "The whole show will have a crystal look, and the women will appear in glamorous gowns, all designed to match the sets."

The Motion Picture Academy is striving to repair its image after events that have tarnished the Oscar—no-shows by important winners, refusals of the award by George C. Scott and Marlon Brando, a streaker onstage at last year's Oscars.

The ceremony, to be telecast by CBC at 9 p.m. EST, will hark back to Hollywood's one-time glamor with a parade of film clips of past winners.

The selectific awards will not be presented on camera, and the songs have been bunched into a single medley.

There is no way to know just how good a bridge player the late Joseph E. Cain of Indianapolis would have been, if he had been able to devote more than a very small part of his time to the game.

Here is a hand he played, when the team of Welch, Buck, Wood and Cain won the open team championship in 1970. Larry Welch was a trifle out of place on that team—his name was too long.

Joe didn't have much of a two ♣ and Edwin Wood had to scrape the bottom of the barrel to find a positive response. Joe used the new Blackwood convention to get to the spade slam.

Hearts were opened and centered and at trick one Joe made the first key play by let-ting him make the slam. He led the Jack, not the five of clubs to dummy's Queen.

Next, came the 10 of spades and Joe was careful to play his ace. This made it possible for dummy's eight to hold the next spade trick so he could finesse for the last time.

Joe pulled the last trump and led his king of clubs. When East showed out Joe was able to lead that five spot he had preserved, finesse dummy's nine and make his optimistic slam.

Growth Hormone For Really Short

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read your article about a doctor called an endocrinologist dealing with human growth hormones. I'm 15, and short for my age (5 feet, 6 inches). How much can they make you grow? I'm very interested in this.—J.D.

Even for a boy, I would not consider 5 feet, 6 inches, excessively short. You certainly would not qualify as a candidate for human growth hormone therapy. HGH is highly scarce material.

The hormone is extracted from human pituitary glands (its only source), and the supply is obviously limited by the number of people who die in any given year from whose bodies these valuable glands have been recovered.

With a great number of genuine shorties (under five feet) around, you can understand why it makes good sense to limit HGH use to these people for whom it can do the most good. Besides, at 15 you are approaching the age where HGH becomes ineffective even if available.

To date, no one has been able to produce a synthetic equivalent of HGH. When that happens, its use might be extended to persons taller than five feet.

It is possible that 15 more inches, is your correct hereditary height for your age. It is certainly doesn't indicate any defect in your pituitary gland, which produces HGH for your body. There is no evidence that HGH will increase height potential in a person whose pituitary is producing normally. This means we can't make seven-foot basketball stars of people hereditarily intended to be six-foot baseball players.

At 15, you still can have further growth spurts. I suspect that you will be as tall as you were hereditarily intended to be. Forget HGH.

Dear Doctor: I've heard that blowing a balloon is good exercise for emphysema. Do you have to undertake a certain amount of time each day doing it?—J.Z.

Yes, this is a good therapy for emphysema victims, and it can be done three or four times at a session. Four sessions a day is a good schedule.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As you know, in many cases the loss of the sense of smell has been successfully treated with zinc pills. What is the zinc compound most commonly used in these pills, and what is the dosage? Are there any known undesirable effects?

What are the causal mechanisms linking zinc and the sense of smell.—B.R.

I have commented in passing on the use of zinc in cases of loss of the sense of smell, but I have been careful to point out that the results are not predictable and that there can be some unpleasant side effects.

The role of zinc in this regard is under continuing investigation. Zinc is a trace metal found naturally in the body. The underlying mechanism in the matter of restoring the sense of smell is apparently involved with some enzyme activity, which reinitiates the nerve signal of the olfactory nerves (are nasses and irritation. Don't be angry if your physician declines to prescribe it for you. Treatment still is largely unproved and, since it does involve these side effects, he may hesitate.

Dear Doctor: My problem is my feet and legs. They have been swelling up two or three times. They have turned red sometimes my face is all swollen.

Please don't tell me to see a doctor. I am 42 years old, and I hope you need to get Social Security or disability, even food stamps. They have turned me down on everything. I can't work.

What else can I tell you but to see a doctor? Although you have been denied Social Security, there are other agencies around to help people like yourself to take care of their health. Contact a family service agency or an out-patient department of a local hospital.

A church minister could steer you to appropriate authorities. Visit a clinic in your neighborhood and inquire. You may need legal advice, and there are agencies in large cities that offer this free or at reduced rates. Look in the telephone book under "Legal Aid."

As to your immediate medical problem, I cannot tell to much from what you have written. It sounds rather serious, perhaps involving the heart, liver or the kidneys—quite possibly all three—and requiring prompt attention. I hope you can get it.

If Oil Prices Don't Rise - - -

Ontario Economy To be Normal By End of Year Says McKeough

TORONTO (CP) — Treasurer Darcy McKeough predicted Monday night that Ontario's economy will return to normal by year end if oil and natural gas prices don't rise again.

However, in his budget speech to the Legislature, Mr. McKeough said other policies must be avoided if his forecast is to come true. These include high wage and salary settlements, a fall off in exports, particularly in the automobile industry, and a continued slowdown in housing construction.

But the major threat to Ontario's recovery "is the prospect of a further increase in the domestic price of oil and natural gas."

Any increase this year "would severely retard the anticipated recovery in the Canadian and Ontario economies."

Mr. McKeough's main theme was that the Ontario economy is basically sound, needing only temporary stimulation to recover. The removal of the sales tax would spur spend on production machinery and equipment designed to encourage capital spending by corporations and make them more competitive both at home and abroad. It will cost the province $410 million, he said.

Mr. McKeough estimated that the cut in retail sales tax will mean a saving of $50 million to industry and commerce, and $25 million, each to construction and housing.

Ontario's automobile industry, a key contributor to the economy, received a boost because with the cut in sales tax a new car purchaser will save about $100 and be more in a mood to buy.

Mr. McKeough said Ontario had a record inflation rate in 1974 of 10.8 per cent and the average unemployment rate was 4.1 per cent of the labor force compared with 3.8 per cent in 1973.

Despite inflation and a small drop in industrial production Ontario residents had more money to spend in 1973 and capital investment was strong, the treasurer said.

But wage settlements have shown a steady rise since the first quarter of 1974, he warned. "By the last quarter, the average wage increase negotiated in Ontario bargains amounted to 15.5 per cent, substantially in excess of the settlements occurring in the United States."

Such continued high wage settlements would seriously undermine Ontario's long-run competitiveness."

Mr. McKeough said the Ontario economy performed at close to potential during 1974 with the gross provincial product worth $57.3 billion compared with its potential of $57.8 billion.

Mr. McKeough said his optimistic forecast for Ontario this year is based on the expectation that the U.S. economy will recover by summer, that federal fiscal policy will continue to be expansionary and that enjoy prices will remain stable.

If this comes about, Ontario's real growth this year should be about 2.5 per cent compared to about four per cent in 1974, a more optimistic forecast than many economists have made.

The treasurer forecast that price increases this year would be less than 10 per cent and unemployment about 5.4 per cent.

New investment should go up by about 17 per cent because of the removal of tax on machinery, he said.

Ontario's jobless rate hit nearly six per cent in February, chiefly because of major shutdowns by the Big Three automobile makers and car parts plants.

"The reduced operations in this important sector have rippled through the rest of the provincial economy," Mr. McKeough said. "As the U.S. economy recovers, Ontario should regain its traditional level of automobile output."

Boosting Consumer Buying Aim of Cut in Sales Tax

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario sales tax will be reduced to five per cent from seven per cent to stimulate consumer spending, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Monday night in presenting the 1975 provincial budget.

The reduction, in effect from midnight Monday night until Dec. 31, 1975, is expected to result in tax savings of $230 million to consumers and $100 million to Ontario businesses this year, he said.

"All consumers have felt the effects of inflation on their purchasing power and those on fixed or low incomes have had difficulty in making ends meet," the treasurer said.

He said the move aimed at strengthening consumer spending will encourage purchases of such major items as cars, stoves, refrigerators and color television sets.

The saving on the purchase of a new automobile, for example, will be about $100 and on appliances and furnishings for a home up to $125,' he estimated.

"This increased activity will flow into distribution, manufacturing and other industries and generate increased production and jobs."

The reduced tax rate will apply to all items except alcoholic beverages, restaurant meals valued at over $4 and entertainment admission fees which will remain unchanged at the 10-per-cent rate.

Mr. McKeough also announced total exemption from sales tax for machinery and equipment used in various industries in an estimated $410-million program effective immediately and ending Dec. 31, 1975.

He said the action will provide "major cost reductions" to

Even at Present Prices Ontario's Energy Bill Up

TORONTO (CP) — Even at current prices, oil and natural gas purchases will cost Ontario $740 million more this year, Treasurer Darcy McKeough told the Legislature Monday.

In his budget speech, Mr. McKeough said that with alleny-announced increases in the field price of these energy fuels, plus proposed higher transportation charges, Ontario consumers face a 1975 price rise of almost 45 per cent.

The treasurer said any increase in the current wellhead price of crude oil would seriously undermine Ontario's hopes for economic recovery.

Reduce Staff

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will continue to reduce the number of its provincial civil servants as part of a restraint policy to government spending, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Monday.

Mr. McKeough said in his budget speech the over-all reduction will be 2.5 per cent for this fiscal year.

First-time Buyers Of Homes to Get Help

TORONTO (CP) — First-time home buyers in Ontario are to receive $1,500 in provincial help under a 1975 budget measure announced Monday night.

Treasurer Darcy McKeough said a $1,000 grant will be paid individuals who purchase or build housing units between now and Dec. 31, 1975. The residences will include condominiums, co-operative housing units or mobile homes.

Owners will be eligible for an additional $250 grant in each of the two years following purchase if they continue to occupy the home as a principal residence.

Treasury officials said the grant will be in addition to federal government grants of $500 for first-time buyers announced last year.

But unlike the federal plan, Ontario grants will not be restricted to purchase of new homes and there will be no restriction on the price of homes.

Mr. McKeough said the Ontario proposal would be "considerably more powerful" than the federal incentive and would pay out an estimated $55 million in grants during the balance of the year.

To qualify, an individual must be over 18 years of age, must be buying his first home at a price equal to fair market value and must take possession or title between now and Dec. 31.

Among increased spending for housing programs, the province has budgeted for more than a doubling of grants and loans to municipalities under the Ontario Housing Action Program to $43 million this year from $19 million in 1974-75.

Advances to the Ontario Mortgage Corp. for socially-assisted housing are to be increased to $208 million from $133 million.

Income Tax Credit Up

TORONO (CP) — Provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough introduced several provisions in his budget Monday night which he said will help operators of small businesses and farmers.

The maximum tax credit allowed annually to small businesses rises to $4,000 from $2,000.

The investment-retained, income-tax credit was introduced in the 1974 budget by John Robarts.

While, then provincial treasurer, Under it, small businesses are permitted to claim a tax credit equal tr five per cent of the increase in their invested capital in Ontario up to the maximum allowed, which now will be $6,000 annually.

Mr. McKeough said the enrichment of the credit this fiscal year will cost the government about $15 million, but will alleviate the burden of inflation on growing companies.

Nearly Half Million Freed of Income Tax

TORONTO (CP) — Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced Monday night that 450,000 persons are to be removed from Ontario's income-tax rolls in 1975.

In his budget presentation to the legislature, Mr. McKeough said the persons affected are those who remained liable for Ontario income tax although the last federal budget removed them from the federal tax roll.

Mr. McKeough said that eliminating the Ontario income tax liability of these persons in 1975 will cost the province $11 million.

He said that as a result of this move, no provincial income tax will be paid and substantial tax credits will be refunded up to the following income levels—single individual, $1,595; married couple, $3,232; family of four, $6,031; and single pensioner, $5,547.

The combined effect of the income-tax cut and the province's tax credits, Mr. McKeough said, will produce tax-free income thresholds of $5,570 for a single individual, $7,680 for a married couple, $8,275 for a family of four and $8,890 for a single pensioner.

No Ban Coming On Liquor Ads

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is not considering a ban on liquor advertising because it has been tried in Saskatchewan and failed, Sidney Handleman, minister of consumer and commercial relations, said Monday.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon asked the minister in the legislature if he was considering such a ban.

Mr. Handleman replied that he wasn't because a ban could only apply to advertising originating in Ontario and would be impossible to enforce in imported publications and other media. Ontario publications which relied on advertising revenue from beer and liquor companies would be hurt by a ban.

Guaranteed Income For Pensioners Up

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario pensioners' guaranteed annual income will be raised by $3.50 per month to $240 a month as of May 1, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Monday night.

The increase will come under the province's Guaranteed Annual Income System (Gains).

"As a result, Ontario will offer the highest guaranteed annual income to pensioners anywhere in Canada," Mr. McKeough said in his budget speech.

The highest guarantee will provide an additional $13 million in benefits, raising the total value of Gains payments for this fiscal year to $138 million.

Ontario's guaranteed annual income standard will be $2,880 annually for a single pensioner and $5,760 to a married couple.

In addition, Ontario is extending free prescription drug program to all pensioners in Ontario, effective Aug. 1.

More than one million people, an increase of almost 400,000, will be eligible for free drugs.

The program will raise Ontario's drug bill by $15 million to $46 million a year and will benefit one out of every eight residents.

More Aid for Policing

TORONTO (CP) — Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Monday night local governments in Ontario can expect increased per-capita grants for policing costs and special assistance for Northern Ontario.

But the treasurer, presenting the 1975 Ontario budget, revealed only part of his plan for provincial funding to municipal and regional governments and their agencies.

The balance, he said, will be announced in the legislature today when he tables what he called "a comprehensive document on provincial assistance to local governments and taxpayers."

Turner Surprises House

Plan Announced For May Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner dropped a surprise budget announcement Tuesday, while the Commons was primed for discussion of worsening economic conditions.

Mr. Turner told Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield that he plans to table a new budget before the end of May, only about six months after the last one.

His announcement came as the opposition prepared to question the government on worsening unemployment and home construction figures released earlier Tuesday.

Statistics Canada reported that unemployment nationally rose to 7.2 per cent in March from 6.8 per cent in February. It reached the highest level in 14 years in central Canada.

March housing starts were only one-half of what they were a year earlier, showing that the key economic sector is in a worse slump than the government had expected.

Opposition members have been calling recently for a new budget, particularly since Mr. Turner said in February that his growth prediction in the last budget was too optimistic.

Outside the House, the finance minister said he considers recession and inflation to be "equally important problems."

"But if inflation isn't brought under control, the prospects for . . . growth are impaired and growth is necessary for employment."

The budget will be Mr. Turner's third in slightly more than one year. His May 6, 1974, budget caused the defeat of the then-minority Liberal government which was returned two months later with a healthy majority.

Before the new budget is tabled, Mr. Turner said, he will need more information on domestic and U.S. energy prices, plus the spending plans of the United States government.

A federal-provincial meeting here today and Thursday will try to reach agreement on new domestic oil and natural gas prices.

The economic situation in the U.S. will be, as usual, a key factor in the budget planning. Mr. Turner has acknowledged that his forecast of 6 per cent real growth during 1975 has been lowered because of a mistake in assessment U.S. economic conditions.

The U.S. recession is deeper than anticipated, causing reduced purchases of Canadian goods, he says.

Round-world Flight Stalls Over Stirling

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A record-breaking attempt to circumvent the world by two Australians ended here Tuesday when an engine of their twin-engine light plane died in mid-flight over Stirling.

The crews of Lady Luck ended the hopes of Dennys Dalton, a former WW II pilot, and his co-pilot Keith Carmody to break the 125-hour, 55-minute world speed record for piston engine planes. The record was set by an Australian, the late Trevor Broughan.

Pilot Dalton said late last night they had hoped to shave 16 hours from the record time. The two men were forced to land Tuesday at CFB Trenton where they were put up for at least one night at the single-men's quarters.

Over Stirling, at 4 p.m., the crankcase of the left engine split open, spilling oil into the sky and shattering the engine.

Mr. Dalton said the plane, heavily laden with fuel, could not go on to Gander, Nfld., its first destination after a refueling stop in Toronto that afternoon.

The two men left Brisbane, Australia, Monday, and had expected to complete their world total-time tour in 4½-days.

The result is a disappointment Mr. Dalton said, but another try is "on the cards".

"It at this juncture, it's hard to tell when Lady Luck has, we haven't finished with this one."

Originally they had planned to fly the Toronto-Gander leg in five hours and 48 minutes, From Gander, it was on to Gatwick Airport at London, England.

So that the trip is not a total loss, Mr. Dalton said they will attempt to crack several existing speed records on flights from London home.

When they will lift off here is still unknown. The engine is a write-off, according to Dalton, and he hopes it can be replaced at an approximate $20,000 cost, within five days.

While they await the engine, they expect to see some of Ontario by car.

Both men are members of the Royal Queensland Aero Club, of which r. Carmody is president and both participate in local aircraft races.

For Mr. Carmody it was his first attempt at a record-breaking flight. Asked why he agreed to go on the flight, he said "I had nothing to do this week. I figured I'd go along for the ride."

The Beechcraft Duke is owned by Mr. Dalton, who also owns a business where he lives in Surfer's Paradise, a resort centre 50 miles from Brisbane.

Trudeau Favors Price Increases

Exporting Countries quadrupled their oil prices.

A federal provincial agreement hammered out last spring protected Canadians from the high world prices by freezing domestic price at $6.50. This agreement runs out at the end of June.

But with oil reserves in western Canada declining, the country will become more dependent on the high-priced imports from the Middle East and Venezuela, the prime minister said.

In addition, new supplies of oil from the North or from the Alberta oil sands will be more costly, he told the 10 provincial premiers at the meeting.

"We cannot expect those who search for oil—whether Canadians or others—to look for it and develop it in Canada if our prices are far below those in other countries," the prime minister said.

He said the federal cabinet "have come reluctantly to believe the price of oil in Canada must go up." The price need not go all the way to world levels but "we should watch what happens to the world price and decide from year to year what we should do."

Premiers William Davis of Ontario and Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia led the user provinces against price increases.

Mr. Davis, whose province is the main user of petroleum products and natural gas, said on the eve of the conference "there should be no increase."

In a flurry of statements before the conference, both premiers Peter Lougheed of Alberta and Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan said they doubt any agreement is possible at this two-day conference. Federal authorities said the same privately. A further round of discussion will be needed, they predict.

Senior officials of the federal government plans initially to have the corporation focus solely on research and development in an effort to increase supplies.

The bill now goes to the Commons national resources committee for detailed study.

Commons Approves National Petroleum Corporation

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons approved in principle Tuesday a bill to establish a national petroleum corporation designed to increase petroleum supplies.

Eleven New Democrats and 11 Social Credit MPs voted with 114 Liberals, easily defeating the Progressive Conservative opposition 136 to 67.

The corporation, to be called Petro-Canada, would be authorized to move into all phases of the petroleum industry, including refining and distribution, and also could take over existing private petroleum companies.

Completion in Sight

The Palmer Rd. highrise will be completed within six weeks, a spokesman for Val Park Corp. told The Intelligencer Tuesday. Certification of the 15-storey building's two elevators was received from the province this past week. Approval of the elevators had been a long-time stumbling block for the building's owners. Superintendent Rex Bridge stands atop the structure to enjoy a panoramic view of the bay and surrounding countryside. For details see front page, second section.

Bargaining Destructive

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau tuesdaytoday for a re-examination of the collective bargaining system to make it "less destructive than it is in Canada today." "Time after time, failure by management and labor to reach agreement brings some part of our economy to a stop," he said in his opening statement at the national energy conference.

Fired—for Charges

TORONTO (CP) — William Brewer, suspended since last Aug. 1 as an Ontario probation officer after advising judges that training schools were not fit places for children, says he has been fired. Mr. Brewer said one of the reasons given for his dismissal is that he took his complaints about brutality at training schools to the media.

Convict Held Hostages

VICTORIA (CP) — A 19 year old escaped convict was to appear in court today after a man led police on chases by car and foot, exchanged shots with them and held a woman and her daughter hostage for two hours before releasing them unharmed. Danny Bradley Cain of Victoria was charged with escaping custody following the 6½ hour episode Tuesday.

Secret Vote Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian Manufacturers' Association (CMA) official said Ontario proposed changes in the Ontario Labor Relations Act are in the Conservative direction, G. H. Williams, of Barrie, Ontario division chairman, said unions should be given provincial certifications to represent employees only after a secret ballot.

Colleges and Teachers Turn to Arbitration

TORONTO (CP and Staff)—Outstanding issues in a contract dispute between representatives of 22 Ontario community colleges and their 5,500 teachers will be submitted for binding arbitration following a breakdown in negotiations Tuesday, the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) said.

The association, "the teachers' bargaining agent, and the Ontario Council of Regents, representing the colleges, reached an agreement on job security, workload and some vacation and salary issues, the CSAO said in a news release Tuesday.

A three-man arbitration board is to make a decision Monday.

Paul Wall, president of the Loyalist College teachers' association, said today, "we're not complaining about binding arbitration."

Mr. Wall said he "doesn't have a clue" how long the arbitration proceedings will take and that teachers are "satisfied with the 26 percent salary increase offer for the past two years" on the basis that work load was "the main concern and still to be considered by the arbitration board."

The negotiations have been in progress for nearly two years and a new round of talks are to begin in September, said Mr. Wall.

"We've waited this long for the last contract — we can wait some more to get on with the next set of talks — which will chiefly be concerned again with work load," he said Mr. Wall.

Negotiations resumed after Mr. Justice William Little, arbitration board chairman, gave both sides four weeks to make a final attempt to negotiate a settlement following a general salary award he made last March 31.

The award gives teachers a 26.26-per-cent salary increase over two years in a contract ending Aug. 31. Pay for the teachers, who have been without a contract since September, 1973, will range from about $8,200 to $21,500.

Andrew Todd, CSAO chief negotiator, said no progress was made in two days of meetings in Toronto and "on the issue of teacher workload they actually backtracked."

Don't Like the Water? Ice Is Best Remedy

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

If your water doesn't taste good, put ice in it, says Neil Britton, manager of Belleville's Public Utilities Commission, the body responsible for city water supply.

Mr. Britton — speaking at a seminar at Loyalist College — was responding to one student who commented "my drinking water at home tastes like . . . sewage."

"It's a known fact that the odor and taste of water becomes more noticeable as its temperature rises," said Mr. Britton. "You're not the first to complain. I was once approached by a customer who claimed the water was ruining the taste of his Scotch whiskey."

"The Scotch sure must have improved the taste of the water, though," remarked Ian Fraser, moderator of the seminar.

$68 a Week Increase Proposed for Posties

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a conciliation board report has recommended a $68-a-week wage increase in four stages for Canada's letter carriers.

The newspaper says the recommendation calls for a 70-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1975, 30 cents more July 1, 40 cents next Jan. 1 and 30 cents July 1, 1976.

It says the proposal, when the final rate is reached, represents a 38-per-cent increase over the current $4.41 an hour for a carrier with three years' service.

The Globe and Mail says the increase for the first year is almost 23 per cent.

The recommendation was in a report signed by the board chairman and the nominee of the 16,000-member Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, the newspaper reports.

It says both sides have been silent on contents of the report, to be released Thursday. The union will be in a legal position to strike next Monday.

Trenton Hercules Ordered Home

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the three Canadian Hercules air craft that have been standing by in Hong Kong for use in South Vietnamese evacuations is being brought home.

An external affairs department spokesman said Tuesday the two others will remain until it is decided they are no longer needed either to evacuate about two dozen Canadians remaining in Saigon or to help out Vietnamese refugees or orphans.

The three Hercules, with a total of 36 Canadian on board, interrupted Pacific training flights to carry out relief in Hong Kong.

Two of the planes arrived in the colony last Friday and the third on Monday. Two made trips to Saigon, bringing out 62 orphans and 20 Canadians in one flight and seven adults and a child in another. The second had to leave Saigon in a hurry because of the crisis.

They also took in 20,854 pounds of cargo to Saigon for the Unitarian Service Committee, the Children's Fund of Canada and private orphanages.

External affairs said the number of Canadians now in Saigon is between 20 and 30.

Premiers Meet Trudeau at Ottawa to Set Oil and Gas Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau called today for restraint by business and labor to fight inflation but said the price of oil and natural gas should go up.

He steered clear of saying exactly how much the federal government believes should be added to the frozen price of petroleum products.

But Canadian consumers can no longer expect to go on paying as little as $6.50 a barrel for crude oil—about $5.50 below the world price—or expect Alberta and Saskatchewan to keep selling at that price, Mr. Trudeau told the opening session of the national energy conference.

Mr. Trudeau said much of the recession throughout the world results from sharp increases in the cost of oil since 1973 when the Organization of Petroleum

Driver Unhurt

WAPOOS — A Waupoos area motorist escaped injury Tuesday night when his truck blew a tire on Waupoos Rd., entered the ditch then struck a tree.

Theodore Thiesen, 18 of RR 4, Picton was expected when he swayed his truck on a curve to miss a small animal on the road. The rear tire of the truck blew and the vehicle left the road striking the tree.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,500. Constable Robert Clapman of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated.

Taylor Says Recent Budget Will Stimulate Economy

By MARG HAYLOCK

PICTON — The general theme of the new Ontario budget — stimulation of the economy — may appear contradictory in prosperous times but Canada soon will experience the high unemployment rates of the United States, predicts James Taylor, Conservative MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

Mr. Taylor, addressing the Picton Rotary Club Tuesday, noted the proximity of the two countries and suggested economic trends are set first in the United States with a time lag before they appear in Canada.

"We see a contradictory set of forces, inflation and recession," he commented speaking of the two countries.

Mr. Taylor remarked unemployment rates in the States now have reached approximately nine per cent while in Canada the figure is 7.2 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

"We are experiencing a high unemployment, wage disputes and labor unrest," observed Mr. Taylor.

He said the new budget is a five-phase program to do what the province feels necessary to stimulate the economy.

Mr. Taylor said phase one of the budget is re-inforcement of consumer incomes and purchasing power while other phases include encouragement of home ownership and expansion of the housing supply, encouragement of increased investments and productivity, strengthening of small business and the farming community and a program to restrain the growth of government spending.

"The problem of inflation is always out there," he said.

Mr. Taylor said the reduction in sales tax to five from seven per cent hopefully will encourage the purchase of major consumer items. By the end of 1975 an upward turn in the economy is anticipated, he said.

The MPP predicted consumer spending will be re-inforced through income tax cuts that apply to the lower strata of workers filing returns.

He reviewed the benefits of the provisions granted to the first-time home buyer. The federal government now offers $500 to the new buyer but the provincial government now will pay $1,000 to first-time purchasers and follow up with two additional payments of $250 in future years.

The $1,500 subsidy to the first-home buyer will be offset not just toward the purchase of new houses but for other homes on the market. The federal grant of $500 is restricted to the purchase of new houses.

"When the economy starts to slide you see it first in the construction business," Mr. Taylor said.

He added there is then a spill-over in the "white goods" such as stoves and refrigerators and furniture.

"If we can encourage people to buy a piece of Ontario that will give them a vested interest in the province and stimulate construction and related industries," he commented.

Mr. Taylor praised the budget for the temporary break offered to industry through the $410 million in cost savings on sales tax exemptions on production equipment and machinery.

He noted this should advance industry in the province at the competitive level.

"Hopefully, a larger productive capacity will be generated and expansion in industry encouraged," he observed.

Mr. Taylor also referred to the increase of $380 million in grants to municipalities aimed particularly at meeting police costs.

"It's important to maintain a strong law enforcement organization in the community," he said.

Public Control Costs More

A panel of spokesmen from Ontario Hydro, Bell Telephone and Belleville's Public Utilities Commission and transit commission concurred that public control of such services increase the cost. Norm Manning, of Ontario Hydro, said "because agencies such as ours serve all areas of the community and the province including the unprofitable areas, our commodity costs more."

Free enterprise would be inclined to cut service to remote areas where service was not profitable. The seminar took place at Loyalist College Tuesday.

Citizens Bureau to Move Back to City Within Month

TRENTON — By formal board resolution, it was agreed this week that the Citizens Bureau move into downtown Belleville offices within the month.

The move was announced Tuesday by newly-appointed bureau public relations officer Vernon Farrow, who said the exact location of the new offices will be revealed shortly.

Moving day will bring to a close 16 months of operation in Trenton and is made possible by a recently announced $12,000 grant from the federal government. The consumer help group has slowly been running out of money granted it by the United Community Services of Belleville.

In making the announcement, Mr. Farrow said the bureau will try to open an office in Trenton two nights each week, but the centre of activity will remain in Belleville.

Along with the move, other changes and plans are being considered, mostly in the committee stages:

— Change in name from the Citizens Bureau, now in existence for about three years.

— An increased use of volunteer staff to supplement the expected two-member permanent staff.

— Incorporation of the bureau as a charitable organization.

— Establishment of a fee structure based on the ability of people to pay for services provided by the bureau.

— An approach to Belleville City council for funds though a dollar figure has not yet been set. Trenton council may also be approached.

Mr. Farrow said the board of directors is continuing its pursuit of additional funding from a number of federal government ministries.

Province May Cut Trenton's Budget

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — In 1976, town taxpayers may not be forced to pay the full 6.4 mill increase approved in March by council to cover 1975 capital spending in Trenton.

That indication was given in an interview Tuesday by treasurer Brian Fagan, back from a meeting in Toronto with the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB).

With the board rests the fate of Trenton's $1,262,925 capital budget. Only the OMB can give the town the okay to borrow money to finance capital projects.

Mr. Fagan said Tuesday an OMB official indicated his surprise at approval Trenton received for 1974's budget of $1,088,446.

The official was reported to have said the budget for 1975 was also high and he would look carefully at town expenditures with cost cutting in mind. As an example, the $20,000 set aside for a ball park in Centennial Park and other park projects was cited as a likely area for cuts.

Use of shears by the OMB could mean a decrease in the 29.4 mills required to retire the town's 1976 capital debt.

The treasurer said the official calculated the town's total debt should not exceed an estimated $7.5-million, roughly nine per cent of Trenton's equalized assessment.

Mr. Fagan said that in all likelihood other items would be cut but that he did not feel "they'll cut us off completely".

As the controller of a municipality's power to borrow money, the OMB potentially has substantial impact on primarily road rebuilding projects in Trenton.

Borrowing to finance construction spreads costs over 10 years, thus reducing the town's yearly payments with money raised through mill rate levies on taxpayers. The higher the borrowing rate rises, the more money is needed to repay loans and the higher the mill rate rises to pay for repayment.

Mr. Fagan said an alternative to funding capital projects exists. Funds come from the current budget in which case the entire cost of a project would have to be raised in one year.

Bike-a-thon Planned

PICTON — The Picton Kinette Club is planning a Bike-a-thon to be held May 31 with all proceeds to donation to the Prince Edward Community Swimming Pool.

Participants will include Kinettes, Kinsmen and their families.

King to Gravenhurst

PICTON — Picton Mayor Donald King will attend the 22nd annual conference of the Organization of Small Urban Municipalities on May 9 and May 10 in Gravenhurst.

Theme of the conference is Your Province and You — Is It a Partnership?

Inn to Expand

PICTON — Inn On The Bay, a popular Picton restaurant operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ingarfield, will be expanded.

Town Council this week approved a building permit for $11,000 for an addition and alterations.

'Mr. Rotary'

William (Bill) Purtelle, the witty octogenarian of Picton's Rotary Club Tuesday was referred to as "the dean of Rotary" by Prince Edward-Lennox MLA James Taylor. Mr. Purtelle, who has a perfect attendance record spanning over 40 years enjoyed shaking hands with Mr. Taylor, guest speaker at this week's meeting.

Proclamation Denied

PICTON — Town council has refused to proclaim Secretaries Week planned from April 20 to April 26 by the National Secretaries Association.

It was suggested in council that special weeks for numerous groups are being proclaimed so regularly that meaning is being lost and the volume of requests is growing.

Arena Funds Request Deferred by Council

PICTON — The Prince Edward Centre Commission has submitted a request to town council for a grant of $1,500 but councillor Russell Alexander says it should be turned down.

At a town council meeting this week councillor Alexander noted the Centre Commission already has a bank balance of more than $9,000.

Prince Edward County council is expected to give a grant to the Picton arena and 20 per cent of this grant money is contributed by the town.

For this reason, councillor Alexander said the grant of further $1,500 is unnecessary.

Picton deputy — reeve Larry Richardson opposed this view observing a building like the County Centre cannot be operated "for peanuts."

He suggested the Wellington District Community Centre operates in the black because ice rental fees have been set much higher than at the County Centre.

The deputy - reeve added raising rates at the Picton rink might discourage issues. "We are talking about whether the general population supports this or the users," he said.

Arena Take 2

Councillor Harry Abram noted the grant requested by the Centre Commission would be small in comparison with the town's share of county council's $150,000 grant to the Wellington District Community Centre in 1974.

Town councillor Charles Hepburn commented the grant represents "a small price to look after the youth of our town."

Councillor Alexander observed, "You may change your minds when all of the budgets are in."

Council voted to refer the grant request to its finance committee for consideration.

Citizen's Initiative

Reginald Nicholls of Stirling is a senior citizen who is not allowing the grass to grow under his feet.

With limited funds he is trying to stimulate interest in a variety of activities among his contemporaries.

However, this has not been without obstacles. Among other things he has tried to organize a Stirling "Daystand" to cater to the needs of residents of two local nursing homes — but unfortunately with no response. As a member of the Niteraps International Association of Salt Lake City, he tried a similar venture on a province-wide basis, but learned from the association he must confine his efforts to one county.

Not to be outdone, Mr. Nicholls is now trying to organize a Canadian pen pal club. However, a small test ad sent in to the personal column of a Toronto newspaper was turned down, for undisclosed reasons. Admitting to some confusion, Mr. Nicholls says if it were on ethical grounds he wishes to emphasize his objective is a proper organization, and that he seeks to avoid any suggestion it exists for any other purpose . . . "which of course it does not."

In this regard he points to publication in the same newspaper of women at a rub in parlor, stripped to the waist, polishing the shoes of male clients, such establishments thus receiving free publicity while his modest little ad was rejected!

In any event, the purpose of Mr. Nicholls' Canadian Pen Pal Club is to "provide a source of friendly correspondence for all, particularly the senior citizens, blind, shut-ins, and nursing home residents. It is not intended, however, as a mating club. Where the blind are concerned, correspondence would be through tapes.

Mr. Nicholls points out he has received support from a number of sources, including the Canadian National Institute for the Blind which has sent literature, the Toronto-based United Senior Citizens of Ontario, and an Edmonton group called the Society for the Retired and Semi-retired.

Niteraps International, he explains, is a privately-owned group with a magazine which includes a list of pen pals. It also carries out social welfare programs through day-and-nite stands, and there is also a radio program carried by five stations.

Even though Mr. Nicholls says he has not been able to proceed with his plans through Niteraps he says this organization does a lot of good work. For this part, the Stirling senior citizen has high hopes for the success of his Canadian Pen Pal Club, with extensions possibly overseas.

Olympics 'Gold' Quest

With the countdown to Montreal's Summer Games of the XXIst Olympiad bringing Canada closer to the international sport spotlight, it is worth noting that this country has won only 25 gold medals in previous summer games.

Many of these have come in what would not be described as mass-interest sports, like the 1968 equestrian gold James Day, Jim Elder and Tom Gayford brought home from Mexico City, or the 1964 coxwainless pairs rowing championship won in Tokyo by George Hungerford and Roger Jackson.

Would you believe a clay pigeon shooting medal by George Generovich in Helsinki's 1952 games?

Canada has really only had one Summer Games superstar, although our skaters, skiers, and hockey players have brought this country its share of cold-weather international prizes.

It was in the 1928 Amsterdam Games that Percy Williams streaked to victory in the 100 and 200-metre dashes.

Even if there are no budding Percy Williams' among Canada's current crop of Olympic hopefuls, the experience of international competition and the thrill of competing with the world's greatest before a largely hometown crowd will be a great morale booster for our aspiring athletes.

If Canada does come up with a gold medal next summer, it'll make all those torn up $10 lottery tickets seem like a good investment, after all.

Schools and the Past

It is perhaps a reflection of the contrasting levels of advancement of this country and those of many in the Third World that a school such as Centenary public school is virtually obsolete here, while to have-not people it might be considered a luxury.

Centenary is being closed as of June 30 and its students will attend Sir John A. Macdonald. Renovations reportedly would cost up to $30,000. Perhaps some use can be found for it ultimately that might justify such an expense; as of now declining school population militates against this — a phenomenon which may reverse itself however and see the school in use again. For the moment though the watchword is economy.

Of a more historical nature there is talk of a local group being interested in purchasing the old CP rail station on East Dundas.

Last fall we passed on a suggestion to that effect from a visitor who thought it would be a shame to see it go under the wrecker's hammer.

If it does it would suffer the same fate as the old Hastings County Museum on Church Street. With the city's Centennial only a few years away it would be a pity to sever any more tangible connections with the past.

Viewpoint

MONTREAL GAZETTE

Once again our attention is drawn to the appalling conditions which some people must live in Canada.

Near Amos in northwestern Quebec, 300 people live in 33 houses and an elderly woman finds the three-bedroom home she shares with 11 others tiny but she has ever had.

At Grand Lake Victoria there is a community of 60 tarpaper shacks on an island inhabited for 250 years. But there is no school and the children must board away in the winter. There will be no school because the federal and provincial governments want the people to move away. They are Algonquins, squatters who now cannot even lease the land on which they have lived for more than two centuries.

For the Metis in Fort George it is perhaps even worse. Twenty-seven families there live in 14 shacks that cannot be repaired because they are beyond repair. Electricity and running water are exceptional luxuries.

There accounts by Linda Diebel and Luana Parker in The Gazette this week are only part of the story. Similar conditions could be found from coast to coast. They are characteristic of the worsening lot of our native peoples, who increasingly find their old ways of life destroyed while the doors of the advancing new technologies remain closed.

UK Vote on Europe Has Trade Implication for Canada

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The fate of much of Canada's foreign trade is riding on the outcome of the forthcoming British referendum on membership in the European Economic Community.

As trading partners, Canada and the United Kingdom have been gradually drifting apart. Two years ago, Japan overtook Britain as our largest overseas trading partner.

In June, the British public will vote on the question of whether to stay on as a member of EEC, or to drop out—as the left wing of the ruling Labor party, as well as various nationalist groups, are demanding.

Barring an upset in the referendum, continuation of Britain's EEC membership seems assured.

And that means the continued, gradual application by Britain of the EEC's common external tariff against imports from Canada—unless Ottawa can persuade Whitehall to make an exception in our case as it did for New Zealand's butter exports.

The familiar British answer to Canadian fears has been that the EEC connection will make the UK economy stronger, and that a stronger Britain will be a better trading partner for Canada.

Unfortunately, it hasn't been working that way. Canadian U.K. trade has been growing more slowly than the growth of either country's total trade.)

Canadian businessmen have also been told frequently that Britain, as a part of the EEC, now provides an excellent base for Canadian entry into the world's second-largest free-trade area.

But Canadian exporters have been slow to exploit that opportunity—just as many British companies can't be bothered going after orders from North American customers.

However, can't be bothered Donald Garnock—adviser to the British Overseas Trade Board—points out that British manufacturers' reluctance to export is beginning to vanish in the face of price controls on some products in the U.K. domestic market.

Those price controls, of course, are a response to the flation—and a slowdown in today's galloping rate of inflation would be the best thing that could happen to bolster Canadian-U.K. trade prospects.

But retail prices have still to feel the full effect of last year's 22-per-cent, average rise in wholesale prices in the major industrial countries—Canada, the U.K., the U.S., Germany, Italy, France, Belgium and Denmark).

The recent decline in U.S. wholesale prices may give Ottawa shadow some relief at the retail level—but probably not before the end of this year.

In the meantime, there remains the danger that, with the industrialized countries in the U.K. locked out of other markets, Canada's export prices rose by about 26 per cent on average last year—and the volume of our export sales dropped significantly.

With our main export customers still mired in recession, Canada could ill afford to lose more sales in such a traditional, long-established market as Britain.

Diogenes, Too, Lived In A Barrel

Women's Growing Role in Politics Far Cry from Frost, Robarts, Era

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

From time to time Leslie Frost must have tremors in his grave. And John Robarts must have his moments of shock.

This is "women's year".

A woman is now leading the Conservative party in Britain.

We have one woman as a senior cabinet minister in Ontario and another, the only other one this government side, as a parliamentary assistant.

And women are getting deep, deep, deep into politics not only throughout the world but in Ontario.

And not in the traditional door-knocking and stamp licking roles but as candidates and strong voices in policy fields.

The past is that though both Roberts and Frost played women and their vote well as professional politicians they would just as soon go to sleep in a nest of foxes as have any close association with them.

Frost was the most adept.

He wasn't called "old smoothie" without reason.

He appealed to women and me made sure this appeal was maintained.

Even though he normally only kept two suits on the rack and these could get rumpled, he always managed to appear immaculate. And when travelling he always carried a hair brush in his coat pocket so that when he entered a town or a hall a look of that impressive white-grey locks wouldn't be a waste out of place!

But probably his attitude was not quite in accord with this.

Perhaps he had enough of working with women at home, where by tradition he has to come and gracious while Get-trude kept a firm hand.

In any event, whatever the reason, fitfully he never have chosen for the best interests of this publicity the thought of having a woman in his cabinet or let alone his cabinet turned him off, off, off.

Also far as I can recall there was not a woman candidate running for the PC's during his regime.

There was some talk at one point about Charlotte Whitton running. The thought must have given him nightmares, good sleepers that he was.

Anyway it came to nothing.

A more serious situation was when Mrs. Cameron Montrose, a controller in Windsor was popular in the city was about to get a local nomination as a candidate.

Secret agents were despatched from PC headquarters and somehow Mrs. Montrose didn't get the nomination.

Frost's underlying reason was never expressed but was easily guessed. He just didn't want any female nonsense being talked around his cabinet table.

John Robarts was another ball game.

He didn't make any planned approach to the women's vote. He didn't have to. His obvious virility did his talking for him.

But there was no question that he shared the same feeling as Frost. He didn't want any women cluttering up the government.

He, in fact, was on the spot in that he had a woman in his caucus.

Somehow Mrs. Ada Pritchard slipped through the net and got herself elected, first in Hamilton Centre and then in the new riding of Hamilton West.

And Mrs. Pritchard was a woman with definite cabinet qualifications.

She was a graduate of the London School of Economics and had an abundance of municipal experience concluding as a controller in Hamilton.

But she never made the front bench. The top of her ladder was the chairmanship of one of the house's standing committees. An honor most effort passed out to hard-working veterans who will never quite make it to the flood-lights.

Finally, in disgust, she retired in 1971.

So now what about Bill Davis? He is doing everything he can with women, politically.

Is he living dangerously? Frost and Robarts, at least, probably would say yes.

40 YEARS AGO

April 9, 1935.

Three former rectors of Christ Church will take part in the 70th anniversary ceremonies extending over the last three Sundays in May. They are Ven. Archdeacon Dr. R.C. Blagrave of Peterborough, Rev. C.E. Clarke of St. Michael and All Angels Church, Toronto, and Rev. Canon W.G. Swayne of Bracebridge. It is expected that his Lordship Bishop John Lyons of the Diocese of Ontario will take part in the closing ceremonies. Bishop Lyons is a former rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

50 YEARS AGO

April 9, 1925.

The Easter number of the Belleville Daily Intelligencer, the publication of the local High School students, just off the press, is considered to be the most complete; the best printed, and most attractive in form than any of its predecessors. The editor-in-chief is Miss Helen Deroche. Others involved in the production of the magazine were Gertrude Laster, Lorine Sprague, Ralph Elliott, John Wallridge, Max Farrell, Alice Sulman, Grace Gilbert, Murray Hall and Percy Cole.

Make-work Programs Specialty of Bureaucracy

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — One of the enjoying enterprises of the bureaucrats is their make-work program.

Make work and you force spend.

Force spend and you build staff.

Build staff and you boom budget.

Boom budget and you expand department.

Expand department and you make work.

It is a self-serving, force-feeding, around-the-circle process that has resulted in a four-fold increase in the cost of the federal government in recent years to the current record annual $28 billion.

To the taxpayers' fear and horror it has transformed the federal treasury into a monstrous modern Dracula.

How does it happen?

Usually by design.

Deputy minister competes with deputy minister, department with department, each striving to outgrow, outmeed and outdistance the competition.

Prestige is the name of the game, and it's measured by the hundreds of millions of dollars it the deal and dollar of the departmental budget.

But it can happen by accident, too.

Like with the do-gooding and world-saving immigration program of allowing in obviously "needy" refugees and flooding the country with 250,000 or more fugitives fleeing the poverty of the Caribbean and Asia.

It was all so well-intentioned, all part of Prime Minister Trudeau's plan for Canadian "sharing" with the less fortunate peoples of Third World lands not so richly endowed.

But it got out of control.

It was 1 in 10 of Canada's program, and that department herself admitted, that it was accidental cost — probably enormous if it follows the precedent set in 1947 and 1956 reckoned and revealed in next year's federal estimates.

First the flood had to be stemmed. That took additional staff at the airports and other ports of entry.

Then some — at least a token number — of illegal immigrants had to be rounded up and the underground covers and started through the convoluted deportation process. And that took additional staff.

Fair ball. Immigration was responsible, as the designated agent of government policy for the mess — as Immigration cleans it up.

No wholesale job and payroll profit there for the bureaucracy, though.

But wait.

Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner has an idea.

All those immigrants — many of them illegal "visitors" overstaying their "holidays," and remaining here permanently — need some housing and other problems.

There is what Mr. Faulkner calls "racial tension."

In the big cities, he tells a Commons Committee, but especially in the lower mainland area of British Columbia where thousands of Asians have congregated, and Toronto and its satellite communities where Caribbeans have concentrated, the "trouble" has been reaching "crisis proportions."

Mark Rabina, Liberal MP for Burnaby-Seymour, reports the "crisis of racial prejudice" is spreading across the rest of the country.

And James Fleming, Liberal MP for Toronto's York West, reports that "we are going to have one hell of a mess between our established communities and these minority racial groups."

Other MPs, both Liberal and Conservatives from the affected cities, have said the same.

What is the problem?

A clash of lifestyles. Friction over customs and conduct imported from India, Pakistan, Malaysia and the Caribbean. Unemployment and welfare competition for jobs.

Ironically, while Canada has been welcoming blacks from the Caribbean, black governments in the islands have been expelling out whites, sometimes on a day's notice.

But not to get upset. Mr. Faulkner has it all figured out. He will add $7 million to his $50 million citizenship budget, part of the $28 billion budget, "to develope greater awareness and sensitivity among the majority of citizens (that's us) for minority groups" (that's the "visitors" and other immigrants) who are accusing us of being bigots.

That's the feds' way of providing business with the problem so as to be able to hire staff and spend millions to cure it.

LETTERS

Canada and The Monarchy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I gladly answer "third-generation Canadian" Marion Andrews, regarding the cost of royal tourings to Canada.

Your correspondent is nearly right but mostly wrong. The offices of Lieutenant Governor, both in Ottawa and the provinces cost Canadians plenty — Lieutenant Governors and staff are not cheap institutions.

For extras, we have in the provinces associated with formal visits, expense for royal yachts to bills passed by our parliament.

Oh yes, the heads of state of other countries. Perhaps we would be thankful they don't seem to have as many hangers-on and relatives as the Buckingham Palace crowd.

Just pray that Belleville doesn't go for a royal visit for its city's centennial celebrations. The cost would make the McFarland's hockey scandal look like chicken feed.

I don't wave flags, madam, Britain's or Canada's. I leave that sort of thing to the "third generation".

Anthropologist to Study Marmora and Residents

By RUBY MCCOY
Staff Correspondent

MARMORA — Marmora may be the subject during the summer months of a study by a graduate student in anthropology.

At Monday night's meeting, Marmora Village Council agreed to a request by Catherine M. Cameron, a Canadian graduate student in the PhD program in anthropology at the University of Illinois, to conduct first-hand research of the social, political and economic history of the village; as well as current affairs.

Miss Cameron said in her letter that she had received her MA degree from York University in Toronto and had conducted community research in Venezuela and Colombia. Her attention h a d now turned to North American communities and she had selected Marmora as a potential site.

Miss Cameron said another important aspect of the study included people's responses to conflict situations, specifically how members of small communities deal with conflicts that arise in day-to-day life.

Her research would involve archival work: looking at village census data, consulting historical documents etc. and the interviewing of public and private citizens. Miss Cameron said she does not intend to infringe upon anyone's privacy, nor does she seek information that is not freely given. Her aim is entirely scholarly and the data would be kept confidential.

Miss Cameron said she had a number of reasons for choosing Marmora as the possible setting for her study. According to her research, she believes the village to be a viable and thriving commercial centre with a population size amenable to a small scale study.

She said she understands the village is somewhat more diversified, occupationally, than a number of other places of similar population.

Miss Cameron mentioned that she has had some connection with Marmora, her family having lived some five miles from the town a number of years ago. As well, some relatives of hers will shortly be residing here.

A number of references including the Canada Council, who would vouch for Miss Cameron's research design were given in her letter, in case council wished to check.

The Village council was very happy to give Miss Cameron permission for her research with one stipulation, that she leave a copy of her historical data with the village for possible future reference.

Animal Control Village Problem

MARMORA — "Our dog and cat problem is getting out of hand" Reeve Jack Reynolds commented with exasperation at Monday night's meeting of Marmora Village Council after listening to a number of complaints from residents that had been registered with members of council.

Council adopted a suggestion by Deputy-reeve Grant Aiart that the villages animal Control Officer, Don Tucker of Stirling, be be contacted and instructed to conduct an all-night patrol on Friday nights to try and eliminate the problem of dogs and cats tearing open garbage bags left for collection Saturday morning.

"If Mr. Tucker isn't going to enforce our bylaw, we will have to dispense with his services and look into other possibilities," Reeve Reynolds added.

Cats have become almost as big a problem as dogs, according to some reports. One member of council who lives on a street where there is known to be an extra large number of cats at one residence, wondered about adopting a drafted bylaw proposed by the Ontario Humane Society that would mean permits would be required for keeping a cat or cats and also require them to be spayed or neutered.

Reeve Reynolds noted cats are covered in the present animal control bylaw and felt the problem should be taken care of by Mr. Tucker.

Arena Beams Checked

MARMORA — Mr. Pal of Dowdell, Pal and Associates of Scarborough was expected to visit Marmora Wednesday to make an inspection of the timber structures of the Marmora arena.

Dowdell, Pal and Associates is the engineering firm that carried out reinforcing of the Millbrook arena and has been consulted by the six-man committee in charge of repairing or replacing the Marmora arena.

The company has submitted a written cost estimate of $25,000 to do the same for the Marmora arena, contingent on whether the present timber structures are judged to be sound.

Gordon Bennett, chairman of the six-man committee, hoped Mr. Pal will be able to give an opinion on the soundness of the timber structure immediately following his visit.

Hastings Highlights

Painters Wanted

STIRLING — Volunteers are wanted to paint the new children's room at Stirling Public Library this Saturday. To help, please call at the library personally or phone.

Weekend Raised $11,000

STIRLING — Stirling Rotary Club president Ted Reid advised municipal council by letter this week that Homecoming Weekend raised $11,000 for funds for a new Stirling district arena.

Agreement Explained

STIRLING — An agreement with Campbellford about dogs that Stirling officials knew nothing about a while ago turns out to be one signed in 1965 by representatives of that time, Campbellford reeve Morley Tanner and Stirling reeve Don Rodgers. All it did was allow dogcatcher Don Tucker to impound Campbellford dogs in Stirling. Campbellford was simply advising Stirling that it was terminating the agreement.

Council Protests Airing

STIRLING — Objection was voiced at Stirling council this week over the fact that details about flood plain mapping in the village were aired on the radio before council has been officially presented with them by the Lower Trent Conservation Authority.

It was pointed out that Stirling is going to have to pay some $1,500 for the study. The town foreman, Doug Bolte, who sits on the authority as the Stirling representative, said that they took some land out of Upward Aspiration but put more into that category.

It was observed by clerk Robert Halm that the LTCA had the power to cancel a building permit issued by the village if a building was erected on hazard land.

Records Mystery Solved

MARMORA — Marmora Village Council has received another letter from the Hastings County Board of Education regarding the missing Marmora School records that weren't located last fall.

L.P. Reid, Hastings deputy director of education, gave this explanation in his letter:

"In 1969 when the twelve boards which formerly operated the schools in Hastings County were amalgamated into one board — The Hastings county Board of Education — L.A. Kelts, one of the Superintendents of Schools, began the mammoth task of collecting, cataloguing and preserving all the old records. The response to Mr. Kelts' original request was very encouraging with the result that he was inundated with materials. So overwhelming was the flow of materials that some school areas were asked to hold all materials until further notice.

"Ken Killies, Principal of Marmora School at that time, complied with this request and carefully stored all material collected. Unfortunately, due to some changes in the organization of the administration, coupled with the fact that the board lacked adequate storage space at the main administration building these and other records were never again asked for until my recent request, of which you have a copy.

"I am pleased to say that Mr. Gillies has acted very promptly since the recent request for assistance went out and the Marmora records are now here, or on the way to the Education Centre in Belleville where they will be properly catalogued for future reference."

Mr. Reid said he hoped this information would clear up any misunderstanding that may have occurred about the missing documents.

The records that came to light following Mr. Reid's original letter pertained to the operation of Marmora Township schools and were in addition to the ones stored at the Earl Prentice School.

Car Fire Fatal

Tow truck operator Bruce Woodbeck approaches car in which gasoline fire killed driver William Craig Billyard, RR 4 Stirling, on the Town Line east of the village, early Monday. Police say spilled gasoline ignited, the driver jumped from the car in flames and it rolled downhill into a notehank.

Driver Perishes In Gasoline Fire

A 18-year-old Stirling area man was fatally burned Tuesday morning when the vehicle he was driving caught fire after a gasoline can in the car's rear spilled and ignited, police said.

William Craig Billyard of RR4, Stirling, was alone in his car about 9:15 a.m. Tuesday, travelling west on Town Line Road, a mile east of Stirling when the incident occurred.

Provincial Police in Madoc said a two-gallon can of gasoline in the back of the car spilled and was ignited probably by a cigarette or cigar.

Police said the youth jumped from his car which then rolled down an embankment and into a stream bank.

Coroner Dr. Peter Briggs attributed death to be the result of burns. Investigating officer was Constable C. S. Robinson of the Madoc OPP. A post mortem will be held.

Late Storm Said Worst

MARMORA — Life in the Marmora area is back on an even keel following last week's storm that almost immobilized everyone and everything.

Some of the village's older residents said they could not recall a storm of such proportions little late in the year.

Schoolchildren had a two day holiday, mail could not be delivered, traffic bogged down and area residents were snowed in for two or three days until the road crews could get around to open up all the roads.

Les McKeown, Marmora's superintendent of works was caught in the storm at Cambridge while enroute to Windsor with a busload of other superintendents to attend a County Roads Association Workshop. Highway 401 was closed between Cambridge and Windsor so the men were forced to stay overnight in Cambridge and managed to return home the next day.

Dance-a-thon Planned

The Belleville Junior 10-Pin Association plans a 24-hour dance-a-thon next month to raise funds for its entry in a provincial tournament. The money will help send five teams to represent Belleville at the contest, scheduled for London, Ont., the recreation-committee was told Tuesday.

Don't stop there– pour yourself one, too.

Yes, you need milk too—every day. It is a food so important to health that nobody ever outgrows the need for it.

You pour it daily. Why don't you drink it daily?

Every week of your life, you pour dozens of glasses of milk. For other people to drink.

But during the course of that same week, how many get drunk by you?

Only about two or three?

Well, two or three glasses of milk a week is not enough for any normal adult.

Milk is a food that is fundamental to good nutrition in people of all ages. No other food approaches it as a balanced source of the nutrients needed to maintain good health.

And yet, you've let yourself slip out of the habit of drinking it daily.

Well, now it is time to start again.

Do yourself a favour. Every day.

Luckily, it's not difficult to make a daily place in your life for milk. Just pour a glass and drink it, and you've done it.

But, like any habit, it takes a little getting into (especially if you've spent some years getting OUT of the habit of drinking a glass or two each day).

So here are a few suggestions.

Number one, take a hint from the picture. When you're pouring out your children's daily glasses of milk, pour out one for yourself, too.

It will give you a minute to sit down and talk to your kids, too. Another thing it's good to make time for!

Number two idea, replace one coffee break each day with a milk break. Three, have a glass with breakfast every morning. (This is a good way to increase your morning protein intake—which, in its turn, helps increase your staying-power right through until lunchtime.)

None of the above ideas takes more than a few seconds of your time. But since they help you set a regular habit of drinking milk, they also help you get the most benefit from it.

And those benefits, you will remember, are well worth having; no other food matches milk as a balanced source of nutrients needed for general health.

One more fact about milk. In a day when so many things are changing, and not usually for the better, milk remains what it always has been: a good food made by Nature, not by man.

Such a good food, in fact, that milk has quite truthfully been called "Nature's most nearly perfect food".

Five essential nutrients in milk. You need them all.

Calcium. You know milk is needed to help build your growing bones. But do you know that your bones need it too? The work of repair and maintenance goes on throughout your life. Milk is an excellent source of calcium; and an easily obtainable one, too.

Protein...well, everybody knows how important protein is. Unfortunately, for many people, "protein" means only "meat". But right under our noses is another excellent source of it: milk!

Phosphorus teams up with calcium to keep adult bones going strong. Milk is also an excellent source of this mineral.

Riboflavin is a B Vitamin. Your body needs it for general good health; and milk is an excellent source of it.

Vitamin A is another nutrient essential to the health of young and old alike. Whole milk is an excellent, and readily-available, source of it.

The above five are the nutritional factors of which milk is recognized as an excellent source.

In addition to these, milk is classed as a good source of thiamine; and, in Ontario, Vitamin D is almost always added.

Milk, in short, delivers you more nutrient value per calorie than any other food you buy. And balanced nutrient value, at that: in proportions suited to your body's needs.

Yes, YOUR body's needs.

You, who pour glass after glass for your children to drink...yet too rarely pour one for yourself.

Potatoes are plentiful and cheaper than ever.

Cheap—and Good for You

Potatoes are cheaper than ever and smart consumers are making use of them in many ways. They're a good source of Vitamin C and a medium potato has only a few more calories than half-a-cup of canned peas!

If plain boiling, baking and mashing are losing their appeal, try some of these more interesting recipes.

Rosemary Potatoes

Heat vegetable oil in a large heavy skillet; pare four medium potatoes and cut in ¼ inch cubes. Add ½ tsp. rosemary to oil in skillet and carefully add potato cubes. Reduce heat to medium and cover. After about 10 minutes of stirring and frying, remove cover and turn up heat to brown.

Twice-Baked Potatoes

Bake Idaho-style potatoes until cooked. Remove from oven and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out cooked interior, leaving a firm shell. Mash potato with butter and refill shells. Combine ½ cup dry bread crumbs with two tbsp. grated cheese and three tbsp. butter. Crumble mixture over top of potatoes and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in hot oven an additional 10 minutes.

Extra Special Scallop

Parboil four large sliced carrots five minutes in a small amount of boiling water. Drain. Slice five medium pared potatoes very thinly. Slice 3 medium onions thinly. Preheat oven to 250 degrees. Heat one cup of cream with one cup of whole milk until hot but do not boil. Mix ¼ cup grated swiss cheese with ¼ cup grated parmesan and ½ cup flour.

Layer potato slices, onion slices and carrots in a shallow baking pan with cheese and flour mixture. (Reserve some for top). Salt and pepper each layer. Pour cream over all and top with cheese and flour. Dot with butter. Bake at very low oven temperature (cream must not Boil) for two hours.

Calcasson

Pare and cut up potatoes and add to boiling water. Cook until soft. At the same time, cut cabbage into large wedges and boil or steam until cooked. Dice cabbage while hot and add to hot potatoes which you have mashed. Add generous amounts of butter, salt and pepper; add a dash of mace and chopped green onion if desired.

Potato Pancakes

Grate four large potatoes which have been pared. Add two tbsp. of sour cream, three tbsp. flour, one lightly beaten egg and salt and pepper to taste. Drop into hot hot fat in a skillet. Flatten slightly with turner and fry like a pancake.

Stuffed Potatoes

Boil and then pare six medium potatoes. Dice. Melt three tbsp butter in a large heavy skillet. Add potatoes and ½ cup finely diced onion, salt and pepper to taste. Pack the mixture firmly and cook uncovered until crusty and brown — about 10 minutes. Cut into wedges and turn. Cook until second side browns. Garnish with parsley, serve.

Warm Salad

Slice boiled parsed potatoes and add one minced onion, one cup thinly sliced celery, three tbsp minced parsley, two tbsp cider vinegar, six tbsp oil, salt and pepper. Garnish with crisp bacon if desired.

Cheese Casserole

Boil medium potatoes until tender. Cool and peel and cut into ¼ inch thick slices. Preheat oven to 350; grease a two-quart casserole. Mix three beaten eggs, one cup of milk, ½ tsp. nutmeg. Grate two cups old cheddar cheese. Layer half the slices in a casserole; top with half the cheese. Repeat and cover with egg mixture. Bake uncovered for 45 minutes.

WOMEN'S STUDY GUILD

The Trans-Amazon Highway was the topic of a talk given to the Women's Study Guild recently by Mary Jo Fortin and Marjorie Reid.

Mrs. Fortin outlined the history of the barely-inhabited Amazon region in Brazil, pointing out the need for a national program of integration. When completed the highway will link the already completed roads of the east coast with those of Peru on the west crossing the jungles and rivers of the interior.

The disadvantages of this highway-building program were enumerated by Mrs. Reid who spoke of the ecological disturbances such a highway causes. The interior is the last vast virgin territory on earth except the Arctic she said and from the rain forests here comes a large percentage of the earth's oxygen. The highway will destroy the balance of nature will be responsible for the eventual extinction of primitive Indian tribes and rare forms of wild life.

A discussion period followed the talk after which a lunch was served by the hostess Loreen Ellis assisted by Linda Wilson.

IODE

At a recent meeting of the Argyll Chapter IODE, Regent Joan Birkenshaw presented new member Audrey Sundenhod.

Mrs. Birkenshaw introduced Reverend Sidney Bates, who in his capacity as missionary to the deaf, is Protestant Chaplain at Sir James Whitney School.

Rev. Bates gave an interesting and informative demonstration of the methods of communicates through sign language.

A talk was given by Nancy Stockwell, Civil Defence Secretary, on the survey of fishing vessels in Canadian Waters and the invasion of fishing rights.

It was reported that Joan Adams, National President of the IODE is to be guest of honor at the Argyll Chapter's 65th and The St. Julien Chapter's 60th Anniversary Dinner to be held October 2.

Joan Birkenshaw and Stella Smith are attending the Provincial Annual Meeting at Hamilton April 15 - 17.

Following the closing of the business meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Surgeon gave a talk illustrated with slides of their travels to Greece, Cyprus, Turkey Lebanon and Israel, bringing to the fore the realities of every day life in the strife torn areas.

Ann Landers

Old Aunt Robbed, She's Disgusted

Dear Ann Landers: My aunt who is 68 years old and lives in a nursing home was robbed last week. The lovely robe she received for Christmas, two bottles of cologne, her new nightie, an old wrist watch and a plain gold wedding band were stolen when she had to spend a couple days in the infirmary.

How low can a person get? What is this world coming to when someone would steal from an old lady who has so little? Please print my letter and tell me what you think about this.—Finds Disgusted.

Dear P.D.: It's sickening. But every day thousands of people are ripped off by unconscionable, sub-human, crazy looks who prey on the helpless. Recently I read that a 27-year-old cerebral palsy victim had his wheelchair stolen.

Your aunt, and others who live in institutions, should have your sympathy with a lock on it. This might help reduce the stealing, but the big question is—what can we do about our sick society?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 18, a senior in high school, and am considered a fairly intelligent, well-balanced girl. I've always thought of myself as mature and able to make good decisions. I now am faced with a problem that is testing these qualities.

I should be floating on cloud nine. I'm in love with a great guy. Doug has dated loads of girls but last week he told me he's mine—all mine! The problem: He is my first cousin.

How do I explain this to my family? If Doug and I should decide to marry in a few years, could we have normal children? Please tell me, Ann. I'm—On Needles And Pins.

Dear Needles: If both you and Doug are healthy and there are no illnesses, such as epilepsy, diabetes or blood problems in either your family or his, the chances for having normal children are good.

Some states will not permit first cousins to marry, however. Check with a lawyer and find out about yours.

As for your parents, they will probably be pleased if Doug is all you say he is. Moreover, chances for in-law trouble should be vastly reduced, since both sets will be an aunt and an uncle!

Dear Ann Landers: Here's one you've never had before. My husband and I were married 25 years. Harvey moved out several months ago and we will be divorced eventually, but because of financial problems it won't be for a while yet.

Harvey fancies himself quite a swinger and wants a vasectomy. (When we were married, the old-fashioned methods were good enough.) Here's the rub. The surgeon won't perform the operation without my signature. Part of me says Harvey is the one with the problem and I shouldn't be sanctioning his new life-style by making things easier for him. Another part of me says the world will not be any better off if Harvey has more children. Also, fatherhood could create additional money problems which we don't need.

Ann, you're so good at cutting through to the heart of the problem. Please help me decide. I want to be fair.—Undecided In Detroit

Dear Dee: This is Harvey's problem. Don't allow him to make it yours. Tell the swinger that not all doctors insist on the wife's signature before they will do a vasectomy and that he should scout around and find one who doesn't.

Doris Clark

How Can Upright Fellow Find High-minded Woman?

Dear Doris: I'm a healthy man of 30, closely involved with a lot of people through church and sports activities. But finding a lady friend who has similar high motivations and who can spiritually, intellectually, socially and sexually stimulate me has got this fellow licked.

Where does one begin? I've chatted with social workers and clergy, placed and answered ads in the newspaper, dated, belonged to various clubs and even felt at times I was being pursued (unfortunately by married females already troubled by marital problems of their own.)

My prayer has been for at least a friend, preferably a young wife, perhaps for a widow and family. But how does one make any satisfactory contacts?

Several clergy and social workers I've chatted with have given me sympathy, prayed with me, extended encouragement to preserve my devotion to Christ. But Doris, I'm a man with human needs and who wants his own kinfolk to care for.

Pilgrim Pete.

Dear Pete: It just isn't easy for a person like you with high ideals to find the right partner, is it? And yet we have many Canians who are just as high. I do not conduct a marriage bureau nor attempt to link up possible lifetime partners, but I know people who do.

Contact the Personal Acquaintance Service offered by the Pastoral Institute of Calgary, which has linked up many suitable friends and partners. It has a correspondence service; and singles of both sexes, like you, write to it from right across Canada.

For complete information about the program, write to Personal Acquaintance Service, P.O. Box 70, Calgary, Alta.

And here's wishing you success in your quest!

Actress Portrays Rape Victim For Police Officers' Training

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — "We're going to ask you to help us," the policeman told the woman. "Our main concern is you."

The policeman was Lieut. John Bukunt of Waltham. The woman was actress Maureen Kerrigan. And the setting was a classroom at Brandeis University where policemen were learning how to treat rape victims.

Miss Kerrigan portrayed the victim. Bukunt and Detective Diana C. White, a security officer at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, interviewed her while the class of 25 looked on.

The training program was conducted in accordance with a Massachusetts law passed last October that requires police departments to have specially trained rape investigation units.

"If we can train police to handle investigations more successfully, we can get better prosecution," said Charles H. Rogovin of Criminal Justice Associates, which is conducting the training sessions for the state's Criminal Justice Council.

They are designed partly to meet complaints that police treatment of rape victim often is insensitive, with the officers suggesting that the women led their attackers on or at least failed to fight them off.

FBI statistics show 10 per cent more rapes were reported in the United States in the first six months of 1974 than in the same period of 1973. There is one forcible rape every 10 minutes, the FBI said.

These statistics apply only to rapes that are reported to police. Fear of harsh treatment by authorities, belief that the attacker won't be convicted and worries about unwanted publicity cause many rape victims to let the crime go unreported.

In addition to establishing training programs, many areas are changing rape laws to eliminate requirements that a rape be corroborated and that proof be presented that the victim resisted.

A bill passed in California last year prohibits harassing questions during a trial about a rape victim's prior sex life; a similar measure is being offered in New York this year.

Training Sustained Stewardess

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Dooley, a stewardess on what came to be known as the Doomsday Flight of November, 1971, recently received her 10-year nursing pin from St. Joseph's Hospital.

For almost 12 hours on Nov. 12, 1971, a skyjacker held a gun at her head on an Air Canada DC4 out of Calgary. She was forced for much of the time to hold a bomb in one hand and the passenger's hand in the other.

Miss Dooley had been back six months from Katmandu, the apital of Nepal, where she had been a volunteer nurse for three months in an airline employee organization called Dooley's Overseas Volunteers (DOV), when the incident occurred. The organization is named after Dr. Tom Dooley, a medical missionary.

"I think that sustained me through those hours," she said. "I came home with this sense of peace, and determination to go back, or elsewhere, when I could find it financially possible again."

Miss Dooley, who graduated from St. John's General Hospital in Newfoundland specializing in psychiatric care, said this also helped her.

"When the skyjacker kept talking about his 'voices' I knew something of his torment of mind, and tried to keep him at calm as possible," she said. "There was a point at which I was sure I was going to die"

Later, the man told a psychiatrist that Miss Dobey was "responsible for my failure."

CP News Roundup

PM's Trip Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau escaped to Jamaica's warm climate for a Christmas vacation, and Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) now wants to turn some heat on him for making the trip at public expense.

Mr. Cossitt said in an interview sunday the trip cost taxpayers at least $5,302 because the prime minister "likes to travel as an emperor."

Mr. Cossitt, a long-time critic of the prime minister's life-style and travel habits, made the comment after a written reply to his questions about the vacation.

The prime minister's party, including his wife, two children and an RCMP inspector, flew to Jamaica Dec. 29 on a transport department JetStar and returned Jan. 4.

The reply said only the cost of transportation, $5,302.50, was paid from public funds.

But Mr. Cossitt said the airplane remained in Jamaica during the holiday and he was sure the crew "did not pay their own hotel bills" during the stayover.

No Pressure

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of three Ontario food processors testified Tuesday that no outside pressure was applied to make them buy refined sugar from Eastern Canadian refineries instead of raw sugar abroad.

The representatives of Canada Packers Ltd., E. D. Smith and Sons Ltd., and Weiber Products Ltd. appeared as defence witnesses in the trial of three refineries charged with fixing prices and limiting competition between 1960 and 1973.

Won't Be Admitted

ORONTO (CP) — Ottawa universities have taken the position that unless a dispute between Ottawa board of education and its high school teachers is settled by April 15, graduating students in the capital will be denied admission this fall, Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, said in the legislature Tuesday.

Benefits Limited

TORONTO (CP) — Truckers, public transit commissions or taxi cab owners will not benefit from removal of provincial tax on gasoline or diesel fuel used by industrial, commercial or institutional users, a treasury official said Tuesday.

OUT OUR WAY — by Neg Cochran

'Irresponsible'

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Nixon accused the Ontario government Tuesday of "fiscal irresponsibility" in bringing down another deficit budget.

The Liberal leader told the legislature that the "crockeddness" of provincial treasurers like Darcy McKeough has added $4 billion net debt to the province in the four years since Mr. Davis became premier . . .

Curbs Attacked

TORONTO (CP) — Election campaign contribution and spending restrictions contained in the government's proposed bill to regulate campaign financing "merely legalize exorbitant levels of expenditure," Donald MacDonald (NDP—Toronto York South) said Tuesday.

Without effective enforcement of the bill's provisions, Mr. MacDonald said, "we're going to be spending more on elections, not less."

Women Working

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 3.4 million working women in Canada at the end of 1974—34.5 per cent of the labor force—says a study by the federal advisory council on the status of women.

The biggest single group—36.5 per cent—held clerical jobs while the smallest—seven-tenths of one per cent—worked in natural sciences and engineering jobs.

Bishop Ordained

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP) — In a ceremony attended by more than 1,200 people the Most Reverend Gerard Dionne was ordained a bishop Tuesday.

Called Trickery

TORONTO (CP) — The Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) says the provincial government's proposed reduction in the civil service is "political trickery with no real economic significance."

The CSAO, bargaining agent for provincial government employees, said in a news release Tuesday that the 2.5-per-cent reduction in civil service announced in Monday's budget will result only in poorer service to the public.

Want Facts

OTTAWA (CP) — Contraceptive packages and labels should indicate failure rates and side effects, and carry an expiry date beyond which birth control products may not be reliable, the federal advisory council on the status of women said Tuesday.

The proposal was one of four approved at a council meeting attended by members from across the country.

Found Insane

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Paul Gillis, 26, of Toronto was found not guilty by reason of insanity Tuesday on a charge of murder punishable by life imprisonment in the death last Aug. 5 of Laverne Merle Johnston, 22, also of Toronto.

Police testified that Gillis told them in a statement he had "killed, strangled and raped" Mrs. Johnston in the bush before throwing her body into the water.

Godfrey Grateful

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto Chairman Paul Godfrey said Tuesday he was "deeply grateful" the Ontario government has helped Metro taxpayers a second successive year, through increased financial aid.

Decline Expected In Housing Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Tuesday that his ministry expects housing prices to decline this spring.

"New, used and vacant homes, by necessity, will drop in price," he said outside the legislature after an opposition attack on housing policies laid down in Monday's budget.

The budget promised first-time home buyers a grant of $1,500, which Mr. Irvine says will not necessarily stimulate the housing market but will generate more spending on household items.

"We are providing a buyer incentive," he explained. "The grant will stimulate the economy: the over-all economy will boom."

He said the private sector is going to expand housing construction this spring and summer—"housing that hasn't been on the market in the last six months."

Increased housing starts, he adds, will create a buyers market rather than the seller's market which has driven up prices during the last year.

Liberal leader Robert Nixon asked if the housing ministry intended to establish a mechanism to gauge whether prices jump $1,500 to match the government grant plan.

"It is impossible to establish such a mechanism," Mr. Irvine said, and urged the opposition to rally behind the government's "strong initiative" in the housing field.

Outside the legislature, Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, termed the budget's housing provisions "preposterous" and said the budget decreases spending on housing in some areas.

Many of the budget announcements were retreads of similar announcements made weeks ago, he said.

March Housing Output Only Half Last Year's

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition housing critics demanded Tuesday that the government take further steps to deal with the housing slump.

They were reacting to Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. (CMHC) figures showing that housing production in March was about half what it was last year at the same time.

A CMHC official said the low production rate raises questions about chances of reaching the government's minimum target of 210,000 starts this year.

Later Tuesday, Finance Minister John Turner told the Commons he will introduce a budget in May. Along with the budget, unemployment is at 7.2 per cent.

John Gilbert, NDP housing critic, said the CMHC figures indicate the "failure of the government programs to cope with the housing crisis."

"I would hope that the government will take active measures to deal with it."

Flora MacDonald, Progressive Conservative housing critic, said in a statement issued by her office that it is "imperative that the federal government respond immediately" to provincial demands for a bigger federal housing building.

CMHC Buys Rochdale

TORONTO (CP) — Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. paid $8.5 million Tuesday for Rochdale College, which has been called a "haven for drug abusers and hardened criminals" by a grand jury.

CMHC was the only bidder at a public auction that had been ordered by the Supreme Court of Ontario to sell the 18-storey building.

Municipalities Get Six Per Cent of Levy

TORONTO (CP) — General support grants to Ontario municipalities from the provincial government no longer will be tied inversely to municipal spending growth rates, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Tuesday.

Tabling details of his plan for the province's aid to local governments, the treasurer told the legislature all municipalities this year will receive six per cent of their 1974 net general dollar levies.

Mr. McKeough admitted changes in the grant structure might prove "unduly harsh" to municipalities which would have qualified for a rate in excess of six per cent under the former structure.

For the reason the province would guarantee, for 1975 only, that any grant would not fall below 96 per cent of last year's entitlement, he said.

Eating in New Orleans

Half the tourist interest in New Orleans is the food — a combination of classic French cooking with a dash of Creole inspiration. Creole refers to natives of Spanish-French ancestry, the background of many New Orleans families. Now it's used loosely to describe anything that originates from those early times.

Eat sparingly for a week before departure for this fascinating Louisiana city at the mouth of the Mississippi River. Then forget about calories and reducing diets.

Plan to stay at least four or five full days in New Orleans itself. This way you can plan two brunches that are New Orleans specials and at least four dinners at outstanding restaurants, provided you have that kind of gastronomical stamina. You'll find yourself lingering for at least two hours over each meal.

Eat Sparingly for Week Before New Orleans Visit

NEW ORLEANS, La. (CP) — At least half the tourist interest in New Orleans is the food—a combination of classic French cooking with a dash of creole inspiration. Creole refers to natives of Spanish-French ancestry, the background of many New Orleans families. Now it's used loosely to describe anything that originates from those early times.

Eat sparingly for a week before departure for this fascinating Louisiana city at the mouth of the Mississippi River. Then forget about calories and reducing diets.

Plan to stay at least four or five full days in New Orleans itself. This way you can plan two brunches that are New Orleans specials and at least four dinners at outstanding restaurants, provided you have that kind of gastronomical stamina. You'll find yourself lingering for at least two hours over each meal. —

Important, too, for anyone embarking on a food spree are the prices. Here they are reasonable. For example, Sunday brunch at world-famous Brennan's in the old French Quarter—Vieux Carre—is a New Orleans tradition but the same menu is served daily.

Start with the milk punch (with bourbon) at $1.50. Then choose a typical brunch at $6.75. It includes an appetizer such as creole onion soup, the main course of eggs done five ways, or other dishes, dessert and coffee.

The Brennan egg specialities with a wine sauce, topped are Eggs Hussarde with broiled ham on rusks covered with a grilled tomato, poached eggs, Egg Sardou, artichoke hearts, creamed spinach and Hollandaise sauce.

There are more expensive dishes and also the à la carte menu if you want just a main dish. But who could resist a dessert such as Bananas Foster? The bananas are sauteed in butter, brown sugar, cinnamon and flambeed in rum and banana liqueur.

Or there's crushed strawberry suzette, with crushed strawberries cooked in a suzette sauce and flambeed in brandy. Both desserts are served over vanilla ice cream.

There are the Jazz brunches on Saturdays and Sundays at Commander's Palace in the Lower Garden District. Here, as at Brennan's, the price of the main course is the price for the complete meal. Dixieland jazz is played by oldsters and features well-known trumpeter Alvin Alcorn.

If you go to this restaurant for dinner, the price is also reasonable, especially if you choose the table d'hote meal. One choice at $7.75 is fish poached in white wine with seafood sauce.

Commander's Palace was originally opened as a restaurant in 1880 by Emile Commander. Last year it was acquired and renovated by Ralph Lotorian decor by four of the older businessmen. They had a keen eye to try their hand with a new venture.

Two other excellent restaurants are smaller and more intimate. Louis XVI is in the modern Marie Antoinette Hotel on Toulouse Street.

Try the creole seafood jumbo ($1.40) as an appetizer and then their duckling Montmorency (with cherry sauce) at $8.25. The other restaurant is the Andrew Jackson on Royal Street. About 10 years old, it is one of the most elegant in the city.

Some of their specialities are veal King Ferdinand VII—lay veal slices sauteed in butter and asparagus, ages and overlaid with a Bearnaise sauce, at $8.50. This is the price for the meal including appetizer and dessert.

Another table d'hote specialty, crabmeat Lafitte ($8.25), has morsels of crabmeat sauteed in seasonings and dry wine and covered with Hollandaise sauce.

For those who like hotel dining, there's the elegant Garden room in the Fairmont Hotel. Try their Louisiana prawns baked with crabmeat at $8.50 or the filet of sole with shrimp and oysters, at $9.50.

Express Opinions

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Agriculturist, a rural magazine, says one of its recent polls indicates that most farmers feel food and gasoline shortages are created falsely to raise prices. It said 63 per cent of farmers polled said that shortages probably are artificially created.

Battery Cars To Serve Dutch As Cheap Transit

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—A little white battery-operated car that goes 18 miles an hour, emits no pollution and makes only the slightest noise is going into use in Amsterdam.

Some Dutchmen say the two seat Wikkar — meaning white car—may be at least a partial answer to downtown traffic congestion and air pollution.

It looks like a space bugger and a pedestrian can summon one at a strategically located depot by inserting a key—for which he has paid a refundable deposit of 25 guilders ($10)—into a computer control box.

The Wikkar, invented by Lund Schimmelpennick, is 5 feet 9 inches long, 4 feet 8 inches wide and 4½ feet high. There are only four on the streets now but organizers of the government-backed Wikkar Co-operative Association said they have 2,500 members and plan to put 200 vehicles into service in the next three years.

A Wikkar spokesman said that when the program is in full swing, there will be 35 Wikkar depots about 1,000 feet apart throughout the city.

Members pay the 25 guilders for lifetime driving privileges in addition to the key deposit. They also pay about four cents a minute for use of a Wikkar.

The key is personally coded and fits both the cars and a system of computer consoles.

When the computer is fully installed, a prospective driver will be able to get a car at any depot by inserting his key into the computer control board and specifying his destination depot and, if room exists, the driver is allowed to go there.

If the depot is crowded the driver has the option of travelling to another depot where parking is available.

The computer also bills the driver's account for time used.

The cars pack only 15 minutes of power, but Wikkar station design provides for an automatic battery recharge.

The cars cost about $2,400 each, and the Wikkar Association has been granted a credit guarantee by the Dutch ministry of culture, recreation and social welfare.

While plans are currently limited to Amsterdam, several other Dutch cities have shown a serious interest in the experiment. There have also been inquiries from Denmark and Japan.

"It really is a bouncy beast," commented Gel van Den Berg, a 25-year-old Amsterdam student on for his first Wikkar spin.

"I don't particularly like automobiles, but this gives you sort of a good-natured feeling in traffic."

To drive the Wikkar, you switch on the engine, operate the forward or reverse switch and move away with a twist on the accelerator. There is no clutch and no gear shift.

Van den Berg said he liked the Wikkar's plexiglas windows, which provide 360-degree visibility. "You feel like a prince," he said. "You're really touring the town."

Autos at times get impatient with Wikkar's pokey pace, and Van den Berg said he found himself "keeping to the side a bit, out of the way of the cars."

"But, really, how fast do you have to go in the city? You can't drive aggressively in the Wikkar and I think that's an advantage. It's rather a friendly little car."

X-Raying In Three-D

LONDON (CP) — Electronic equipment which for the first time can take three-dimensional x-ray pictures of the body now is undergoing final clinical evaluation in British and overseas hospitals. The equipment, developed in Britain, is able to give clear pictures of areas of the body such as the lungs, liver, pancreas and kidney.

Cellists To Compete

BRISTOL, England (CP) — An international competition for cellists under 30 is to be staged here in October. Prizes include two gold medals, $4,600 and the opportunity to perform with leading British orchestras. The competition is sponsored by Imperial Tobacco, which has been in Bristol for 75 years.

THE BATTLE FOR BERLIN — John Strawson.

The war against Nazi Germany ended as a battle for Berlin. The question was how, when and by whom the battle would be fought. In February 1945, the Red Army was fifty miles from Berlin, while Eisenhower's forces had not yet crossed the Rhine. However, a month later the Russians were bogged down while the Allies were advancing rapidly. Among the Allied leaders there was fierce controversy about Berlin's importance as a military objective. Mr. Strawson has put together the story of the last few months of the struggle for Europe, from January battles to the nightmare in Berlin.

WORKING WITH GEMSTONES — Alex Firsoff.

The object of this book is to provide as complete a guide as possible to all aspects of lapidary art. Tumbling, cutting cabochons, facetting, inlays, lapidary machinery, lost wax casting, the fundamental properties of minerals, are all discussed with a wealth of practical advice.

BEYOND THE KNOWN UNIVERSE; FROM DWARF STARS TO QUASARS — I.M. Levitt.

Within the past dozen years astronomers have been studying new and exotic phenomena — dwarf stars, quasars, black holes and white holes, pulsars, neutron stars, supernovae — which present very baffling questions. Some pulsars apparently blink on and off some 30 times a second. How can they do it? The neutron stars have solid crusts, in spite of surface temperatures of perhaps seven million degrees. Dr. Levitt tells the story of these new celestial pinballs and relates how scientists around the world are attempting to solve the riddles posed.

COMPLETE GUIDE TO HOME APPLIANCE REPAIR — Evan Powell.

This book explains how to repair a great number of appliances, from toasters to dishwashers. The author is an editor for "Popular Science" magazine. He earned his way through college by repairing appliances, became technical service director for a major appliance company and developed and taught a course in appliance repair. He uses a two step approach; first you learn how an appliance works, second, you learn how to diagnose the problem and make repairs. Also included are rules for the proper use and care of the appliances which can save the owner money.

STRANGE ADVENTURES OF THE GREAT LAKES — Dwight Boyer.

These tales of the Great Lakes recount stories of men battling the elements, the suspense of daring rescue attempts, the mystery of inexplicable disappearances of ships and their crews, and of stubborn sailors and wayward ships. One chapter relates the grim events which took place during the Armistice Day storm of 1940; another, the legends about the schooner "Hunter Savidge", another, the launching of the first iron ship in 1843. Readers who enjoyed "Ghost Ships of the Great Lakes" will like this as well.

Salmon Stocked River

LONDON (CP) — Five thousand tiny salmon have been put into the River Thames in an attempt to restock the river now that it has been cleaned up. The fish were put in between Twickenham and Richmond by Viscount Thurso, who donated them for the experiment. They were bred in his hatcheries in the Thurso River in Scotland.

Rio de Janeiro Drug Squad Is Said Linked with Mafia

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter) — Members of Rio de Janeiro's Narcotics Bureau have been accused of protecting the local drug Mafia and even of acting as executioners in gangland warfare.

A report by four detectives to the state secretary for security says drug traffic "is greater than can possibly be imagined because it is protected by influential people," who receive a big takeoff. The state prosecutor has called for an official investigation.

The detectives reported they had been subjected to great pressure from police colleagues to abandon their investigations. Then they had received death threats.

The report says three district police chiefs, several commissioners and military policemen have not only been protecting the Mafia, led by Milton Gonçalves Tiago (nicknamed Big-Head), but have even been selling marijuana and cocaine.

At least two narcotics bureau agents are being investigated over the "execution" of rival drug pedlars whom Big-Head considered a threat.

The investigations began several months ago and led to the arrest of Big-Head himself and 13 underings. Within days he escaped.

Two of his lieutenants and a policeman were acquitted despite prosecution charges that they were caught with a large quantity of money, cocaine and marijuana.

The prosecution said the policeman was caught in one of the roughest areas of Rio with about $1,000 and large quantities of cocaine, some of which he was distributing to important bosses as a courtesy.

The sister of one of the pedlars denounced two narcotics bureau agents for his execution, which she witnessed. She has since disappeared and the homicide bureau is investigating.

Police said one of Big-Head's lieutenants, supported by several policemen, plotted to kill his boss and take over the ring because Big-Head's own addiction to cocaine was considered to be endangering the whole business.

But the lieutenant was arrested before he could carry out his plan.

Giving Portrait

LONDON (CP) — The National Portrait Gallery here is to get a portrait by Sir Joshua Reynolds of Laurence Sterne, clergyman and writer and author of Tristram Shandy and A Sentimental Journey. Reynolds, first president of the Royal Academy of Arts, was a leading 18th-century portrait painter. The government is paying £115,000 towards the cost; the rest—192,000 will come from the gallery itself, arts charities and private donors.

Rowers To Compete

HOLME PIERREPONT, England (CP) — More than 1,500 competitors from 25 countries are expected to take part in the world rowing championship at the National Water Sports Centre here, Aug. 30-30. It will be the first time the championships have been held in Britain.

Canada's Smallest University

Canada's smallest university, College Saint-Anne in Church Point N.S., is putting bilingualism to an unusual test that has national implications. One Hundred and twenty-eight students and a score of faculty members are living the concept that French speaking and English speaking students can emerge from a liberal arts education not only fluently bilingual, but with a deep understanding of each other's roots. (CP Photo).

Smallest University Testing Bilingualism

CHURCH POINT, N.S. (CP) — Canada's smallest university, underfunded and with a quiet urgency, is putting bilingualism to an unusual test that has national implications.

One hundred and twenty-eight students and a score of faculty members at College Saint-Anne are living the concept that French-speaking and English-speaking students can emerge from a liberal arts education not only fluently bilingual, but with a deep understanding of each other's roots.

"This must work," said Michael Estok, an assistant English professor who was raised in Saskatchewan. "If it doesn't, if we can't achieve bilingual equality here, we might as well give up.

"It is a symbol of a lot of things that are happening in Canada."

College president Louis Comeau, an energetic 34-year-old former MP, describes the ideals of the college with the enthusiasm of a man who is seeing a vision fulfilled.

"I don't know of any other institution in Canada that has the same objectives we do. Our aim is to produce a bilingual student capable of going out in the world and working in a Canadian climate or an international climate with the knowledge of two languages and two cultures.

"Of course there are some institutions that promote bilingualism as an institution. But everything they do, they do in two languages. For instance, they'll have an English education department and a French education department. That's not our aim at all."

The college's calendar states its premise succinctly: a challenge for students to live bilingually. "It is the challenge which our whole society faces on a large scale in every element of Canadian life."

On the surface, bilingualism at the school is French being spoken as a matter of habit—in class and out.

But for the 63 French-speaking students from Acadian areas of the Maritimes and from Quebec, one aim is to speak a continually improving French, gradually rejecting English intrusions into their native language. Most already speak English, but are deficient in writing it. The improvement of written English for French-speaking students is a priority at the college.

For Anglophone students, who are from various parts of the Maritimes, a main goal is the constant exercise of a second tongue itself, as one student put it: "we find ourselves thinking in French."

Both kinds of students not only study the backgrounds of each other's cultures, but the foreground of their common Canadian culture.

The Canadian studies program includes courses on Canadian prose, fiction, drama, film, poetry, folksongs and contemporary music.

"I think we're trying to be a real Canadian institution in the new sense of the word," Mr. Comeau said. "We think the most important thing to emphasize at first is our own cultural landscape whether we're talking about French or English."

One thing that impresses the visitor to the college is the degree of intense commitment shared by students and faculty.

Bryan Empson, an assistant history professor and a French-Canadian from Manitoba said: "It is a real challenge. The government has spent so much money promoting bilingualism, but how we can see concrete examples of it working because the kids want it to."

New Law Enforcement Unit In B.C. Remains Mysterious

VANCOUVER (CP) — City police, RCMP and the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit staged a series of raids early today, arrusting ...

That paragraph has become increasingly familiar to British Columbians in the last year but the third member of that law-enforcement triumvirate, the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit, known as CLEU, remains largely a mysterious force.

When provincial Attorney-General Alex Macdonald announced CLEU's formation last spring, it was as part of a massive package of legal changes. Mr. Macdonald pointed to the provincial task force report on correctional services and facilities completed in 1972, which said B.C.'s crime rate had more than doubled in the period from 1962 to 1971.

Such a situation meant drastic changes were needed throughout the legal system—police, courts, correctional facilities—and the government intended to tackle the problem as a whole, rather than fractionally, Mr. Macdonald said.

Most of what the government proposed, including CLEU, came under the umbrella of a new group called the Justice Development Commission (JDC). But because the proposals were so labyrinthine, Mr. Macdonald's comments about increased crime grabbed far larger headlines than his proposals of what to do about it.

In the year since, CLEU has been the most visible of the JDC activities. It was established to provide an attack on organized crime, which could not be undertaken by municipal law-enforcements agencies because of limitations of jurisdiction, manpower and budget.

To the end of 1974, CLEU:

—seized heroin, cocaine, marijuana and other drugs which had a total street value exceeding $4 million;

—recovered stolen property worth $735,000;

—arrested 110 persons on a wide variety of charges, including conspiracy, trafficking, robbery, breaking and entering, possessing stolen property and illegal firearms and escaping custody.

Although most of the 1974 cases have not been processed through the courts yet, a CLEU spokesman claims the publicity surrounding the force and its activities is speeding up the normal slow pace of high court trials.

"For example, our public complaints about release of drug traffickers on bail—because they consistently continue to operate while awaiting trial—has had an effect," he said. "In the last nine major drug cases, 62 persons were arrested but only four were granted bail."

And, since the suspects pressure for early trial dates by defence lawyers became much heavier, he added.

CLEU's operations are divided into three sections—planning and analysis, investigation and legal research. Overseeing the entire operation is a policy board which determines CLEU's targets, headed by David Vickery, deputy attorney-general.

In a typical operation, the planning and analysis division, based in Victoria, gathar criminal problems — heroin distribution, stolen car or jewelry rings, organized bankruptcy frauds—and presents a report, complete with names of suspected criminals, to the policy board.

Board members determine the goals of any investigation. In addition to Mr. Vickery, the board includes Don Winterton, Vancouver's chief constable, Asst. Commissioner Ed Wiles, commanding officer of the RCMP in B.C.; Dr. Malcolm Matheson, who headed the earlier task force on correctional services; Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, former chief justice of the B.C. Supreme Court; Barbara Sutherland Brown, a Victoria housewife, and Dr. Stuart Jamieson, and economics professor at University of British Columbia.

The board's decisions then are executed by the investigative division. Inspector Alex Andrascik of the Vancouver police and Inspector Ed Nasykens of the RCMP jointly run the day-to-day investigative operations.

Two Area Residents Receive $20,000 from Criminal Compensation Board

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A 36-year-old Shannonville man was awarded $14,970 in Criminal Injuries Compensation Board proceedings at the county courthouse here Tuesday.

Winston Rupert Brant received the award in connection with a shooting incident Dec. 10, 1971 at the Riviera Hotel located on the outskirts of Campbellford.

Mr. Brant was 30 years of age at the time of the incident. He was an employee of Bi-Temp Ltd., of Belleville and was on leave to attend Humber College in an apprenticeship course for sheet metal work, living in Toronto.

Mr. Brant was shot in the abdomen through the front door of the hotel by a man with whom he had had an earlier altercation in another Campbellford drinking establishment.

The man was charged with attempted murder but was finally convicted on a lesser charge of wounding and sentenced to four years in prison.

Hospital records corroborated Mr. Brant's statements which said he is unable to perform heavy labor due to the nature of his wound. Part of his award will be paid in 12 monthly instalments while he attends a training course.

The maximum award is $15,000.

In a second case, Nellie Leola Scrimgeour, 67, of Green Acres Nursing Home in Trenton was awarded a lump sum of about $5,000 plus almost $500 in expenses in connection with a beating she received from an unknown assailant on July 29, 1973.

Mrs. Scrimgeour was beaten about the head by a man wielding a 15-ounce liquor bottle shortly after she had gone to bed that night. Police say the man set fire to newspapers on her bed in an apparent attempt to cover up his crime.

She was found on the floor of her bedroom by a city policeman. Both board members present, chairman Eric Silk and Shaun McCarthy, noted concern over an immediate personality change undergone by Mrs. Scrimgeour as a result of her injuries.

The other case on the agenda involved a juvenile and was non-reportable.

$419,000 Grant to Ease Expected Tax Increase

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A $419,000 phone call from Queen's Park Tuesday set the city hall scene humming in Belleville.

After weeks of budgetary brooding, the call was bright-ening news for Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

"What a relief!" came her immediate response. "We really 1 y received good news today."

The call meant the city treasury, now processing the cost of running Belleville in 1975, is that much richer, in a year of less-than-great financial expectations.

The amount is the total the provincial government is earmarking for assisting the city's local government.

Added to an expected surplus, and increased assessment, it could mean city council enters its budget deliberations later this month with close to seven mills on the credit side, estimated the mayor.

The good news, from Correctional Services Minister Richard Potter, MPP Quinte outlined for the mayor the city's share of unconditional provincial grants to municipalities for 1975, tabled Tuesday in the legislature.

The good news showed:

— An increase in such grants of about 19 per cent — to $1,950,000 in 1975, up from $1,637,000 the year before.

— An assistance grant for police operations of $281,000, up from $175,000 in 1974.

The extra $419,000 this generated means the "city's financial picture is looking much brighter than it was a few weeks ago," said the mayor.

At that time she admitted to not being overly optimistic about new Ontario grant dimensions.

The mayor said the treasury is certain it has a surplus of about $400,000 and another $140,000 is on the books in new assessment.

Added to the increased provincial grants this totals about $960,000 — or close to seven mills, she estimated.

This will help offset wage increases and inflated material and services cost even before council gets around to debating any needed mill-rate increase, she said.

A big question mark still dangling for an answer, she admitted, was the size of educational demands on the city's budget.

Information filtering through municipal circles some time left local governments uncertain as to provincial intentions on how they would allocate their grants in this year's Ontario budget.

Now, "the province realizes the municipalities have to have more help . . . that the property tax cannot meet our needs," said Mayor Jeffrey.

She recalled the recently had forecast city taxpayers would prepare for higher levies.

"I'll certainly be taking a new look at that statement now in light of what the province has done to help us," she said.

Board Remains Silent On Principal Dismissal

Board administrators are remaining mum over the public support given Monday night to Keefe Public School principal Eugene Bright, who was dismissed from his job effective Aug. 31.

Prince Edward County Board of Education director John McNeil said "all in due time" when asked to respond to the public's demand of full disclosure of the dismissal.

About 200 parents, of a concerned committee, met Monday night in the school to give Mr. Bright their full support and demand the board provide "specific details" to substantiate the charges against the principal.

During the meeting it was revealed the board said Mr. Bright had a "low level of acceptance" in the community. It also believed Mr. Bright lacked disciplinary and management skills.

The committee will form a delegation and attend the April 14 board meeting to petition the trustees. Mr. McNeil said he could make no comment at this time.

Several parents at the meeting charged that Mr. McNeil did not have all the facts and made the decision on hearsay and innuendo. The principal has been offered a teaching position with the board in September.

Brighton Man Dies

A 56-year-old Brighton man, George Charles Bellamy, was killed Tuesday when the vehicle he was driving was in collision with a car on Highway 401, about two miles east of Highway 37.

Provincial police in Belleville said Mr. Davis of RR3, Brighton, was travelling east on Highway 401, alone in his car when he came in collision with another eastbound vehicle, driven by Neil A. Barr, 18, of Rhi, Spenadie, N.S.

A passenger in the Barr vehicle, Elaine Dyke, 21, also of Nova Scotia, was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital.

The accident occurred about 3:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Steel Flowers

Grade 9 welding students Tim Caul (top) and Randy Woodcock came to the rescue of Quinte Secondary School authorities with these flowers, made out of steel scraps, to be used as decorations around the school. Apparently, real flowers at the school had a habit of ending up in the hands of girl friends. The welding class is taught by Ed Thibeault.

Detroit Resident Killed

A resident of a Detroit suburb was killed at about 5 a.m. today, his brother and the brother's daughter, injured in a collision on Highway 401 about a mile east of the Salmon River Bridge. At about 5 a.m. the American car was in collision with the rear of a semi-trailer that was moving at the time. Identification is withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Palmer Highrise Ready Next Month

The Palmer Rd. highrise will be complete in six weeks, says a spokesman for the new owners, Val Park Corp.

The 18-storey building containing 115 units along with four penthouse suites has been in construction for the last two years.

The project got the green light this week when the province's ministry of labor certified the building's two elevators. Until now, only the apartments on the first four floors could be rented.

"Elevators have always been our big hold up," said George Farhburst, local management officer for Val Park.

Val Park is owned by Kingston contractor Antonio Valenti who purchased the building for $2.4 million. Until the building is completed by the former owners, Val Park Corp. will oversee on-sight work.

Mr. Farhburst said at least 60 apartments will be rented by the end of the month and "the entire building will be complete within six weeks."

Demand Exceeds Supply Of City Garden Plots

The demand for homegrown food has sprouted in Belleville.

All 36 of the plots, made by the city's parks department as Belleville's first venture in community gardening — have now been rented.

In fact, there are 18 more applications for garden plots sited on land donated by Albert College between Wellington and Sidney streets — parks director Lloyd Syer said Tuesday.

The situation contrasts with that of two weeks ago when parks officials were expressing concern about the poor response of Bellevillians to the project.

Publicity on the problem was followed by heavy demand for the plots, leased for $15 for the summer.

The department has sufficient land left over to open about 40 more lots, Mr. Syer told his parks committee.

The response also brought a community gesture, he said. The Belleville Garden Club has leased one plot on which it plans to grow produce for the Cheshire Home for handicapped adults, said Mr. Syer.

Ski Club Funding Debated

The city's recreation - arena committee Tuesday took no action on an appeal for support from Batawa Ski Club.

The club last October first wrote the city asking for $500. It also sought aid from other local municipalities.

Without such help the club's executive "can see no way" to maintain future skiing, the committee was told.

The nominal fee — which has run instructional ski programs at the club for four years — decided the letter, deferred from last year, should be received. However, city manager Wilbur Purcell was asked to inquire if any reply had been sent to the request.

Now 16 years in operation, the club last year had an operating deficit of $1,400. Money carried over from previous seasons helped offset the loss. But the club now has only $800 in the bank, wrote its president, John McCormack.

Some 40 per cent of its 1973-74 income came from sale of advance memberships. But lack of snow — therefore poor skiing — is expected to "drastically" reduce this revenue.

The club, with a record of volunteer participation in its evolution, is hopeful that with "few good future seasons" it will be able to install snowmaking facilities, wrote Mr. McCormack.

His appeal also solicited grants from Trenton, Frankford and Hastings County Councils.

With such help the club hoped to "keep ski recreation in the area . . . at a nominal rate".

Games Still Undecided

More information—from an experiment somewhere still to be awaited before any decision is made on Belleville seeking the Ontario Games for its 1978 centennial year.

Clifford Belch, city recreation director, said he was still seeking information from Oshawa on its experience as host city to the games last year.

The information should be available at the next recreation-arena committee meeting, said its chairman, Ald. George Zegerras.

Demolition on Target

Demolition workers with United Rigging and Machinery Movers were only temporarily disrupted during the April storm last week. While snow still covers the site the crews are on schedule with the project. The site is being cleared for the $5 million Century Place. There will be five floors, two commercial and three office.

Some Question Need For 14-401 Connection

Is too much emphasis being placed on a connecting link with Highway 401 in planning the new traffic route across the Bay of Quinte?

The concerns of local people must also be considered, provincial government experts studying location of a new Highway 14 link across the Bay were told Tuesday night.

The cautious came during a highly-attended meeting on the issue at Loyalist College involving relocement of the years-old Belleville — Rossmore Bay Bridge Road.

Dr. John Clarke, who commutes from Ameliasburg to his dental practice in Belleville, said people seemed "overly - obsessed" that the new Highway 14 should connect with Highway 401. Prince Edward County, he added, has "ample" access to the provincial throughway.

Roy Baigent, a former Prince Edward resident now living in Cannifton, said current study — by transportation and communication officials — should be concerned with local needs. Most of the traffic across the present bridge involves people heading into Belleville, he said.

"It doesn't take too much study to my mind," said Mr. Baigent.

Peter Pinfold, ministry environmentalist, said the response was "smaller" than anticipated — or indicated by previous reactions from municipalities and individuals since the study was first being organized late last year.

Both public sessions fill in the initial groundwork for the study, expected to take 18 months to complete.

It concludes the input stage which has seen information also gathered from local government administrators, politicians and provincial MPPs.

Tim Stevens, senior project manager, said Thursday night that a traffic survey scheduled for summer months and the Easter weekend — a holiday season may mean it could be September before his group returns to discuss the second phase.

The study area — reaching along a 13-mile stretch of the Bay from Point Anne to the CFB Trenton base near Bayside, already has three alternative sites proposed to the present Belleville — Rossmore structure — Point Anne, Wallbridge-Loyalist Road and Bayside.

And a fifth suggestion, Sidney St., — was put forward during the Loyalist session, said Mr. Stevens.

All About The Bridge

Exhibits were available for scrutiny and provincial government professionals for questioning as first of two public meetings on Bay Bridge replacement project was held Tuesday at Loyalist.

Harry Vander Kooi, a project manager, outlines area under study for new Highway 14 link to Howard Lockwood, (right) as Ernesto Salva, senior transportation and communications ministry designer, observes discussion. Second meeting will be held at Ameliasburg Township hall tonight.

Public Response Poor to Bridge Meeting

A provincial government study team is in Ameliasburg Township today wrapping up preliminary contact with local reaction to a new Highway 14 route across the Bay of Quinte.

The first phase of gathering public opinion — on siting of a replacement for the antique Belleville-Rossmore Bay Bridge — ends with a public meeting in the township hall tonight.

Officials of the team — from the transportation and communications ministry — indicated hopes the Ameliasburg contact will draw wider response than a similar presentation Tuesday at Loyalist College.

Last year, the township's council passed a resolution calling for a Wallbridge-Loyalist Road route leading to Highway 401. This year, a new council resolved the new structure be sited at or near its present location.

Aimed at facilitating residents in the Belleville shoreline area of the Bay the Loyalist afternoon-evening public information session ended only 17 people prepared to question the experts at the night-time meeting.

Earlier in the day, about 60 more people trickled into the Loyalist gymnasium — some of them students — to view displays of the study area and personally talk over project proposals with the ministry team.

Peter Pinfold, ministry environmentalist, said the response was "smaller" than anticipated — or indicated by previous reactions from municipalities and individuals since the study was first being organized late last year.

Both public sessions fill in the initial groundwork for the study, expected to take 18 months to complete.

It concludes the input stage which has seen information also gathered from local government administrators, politicians and provincial MPPs.

Opposition Grows Against Proposed Tax Increase

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Public utilities such as hydro, transit and water cost more under government supervision than they would if left in the hands of free enterprise, says Norm Manning, public relations officer for Ontario Hydro.

Mr. Manning — along with representatives of Belleville's transit and public utilities commissions and a representative of Bell Telephone — was speaking at a seminar at Loyalist College Tuesday.

"A publically-owned utility costs more," said Mr. Manning.

In utilities such as provision of municipal water and electricity, and in transit systems, "there are higher standards," said Mr. Manning.

"In carrying the responsibility of serving the public, we have the obligation to serve areas that are not profitable," in a business sense, he said.

Utilities such as Ontario Hydro must serve outlying areas that free enterprise wouldn't touch because of the costs involved, he said.

"Free enterprise would trim their operations to include only the profitable areas and further, free enterprise is more inclined to take a business gamble," said Mr. Manning.

Marylea Burtt, chairman of the city's transit commission said some of the blame of financial losses is due to "people on boards who are only interested in being appointed to a board".

She said the attitude some times has been, we're getting subsidized anyway, we might as well spend more money. "The strings would be tighter if a private company owned the commission."

"Some people are only interested in another feather in their cap while climbing the political ladder," said Mrs. Burtt.

The city's transit authority provides a good example of the cost of running a public utility.

The transit commission faces increasingly large annual deficits with the deficit for 1979 estimated to reach $1-million said Mrs. Burtt.

When asked if the city really needs the transit commission, Mrs. Burtt replied "a lot of people are getting along without it right now". A strike of transit employees has halted the city's bus system.

Macs Meet Stars In Benefit Game

Add Jean Paul Payette and John Muretich to the list of former Belleville McFarland stars who will be returning to the city for Saturday's Fred Goegan Memorial Night at Memorial Arena.

Both residents of Montreal, Payette and Muretich join Don (Turk) Barclay, Joe Lepine, Minnie Menard, Bep Buldoc, Johnny McLellan, Keith Montgomery, Goose Gosselin, Bobo Bolonic, Pete Conacher, Rags Raglan, Don Hogan and Greg Currie in the list of famous names who will be back.

Not all of those were associated with the Allan Cup McFarlands (1958) and the World Champions (1959).

Orville, for instance, is connected with Toronto Tores of the World Hockey Association when he isn't handling manager's duties for Toronto Globals. Now reported to be he combined with Richmond Hill Dynasty of the Ontario Fastball League.

Greg is no stranger to sports fans in the Bay of Quinte area. At one time, he brought Toronto-based teams (among them Turk Broda and his All-stars) to this district for exhibition softball games.

Rounding out the McFarland lineup for Saturday's benefit game, are players who reside in the city and district. Among them are Gordie Bell, Lionel Boily, Wayne Brown, Floyd Crawford, Dave Jones, Jean Paul Lamirande, Keith MacDonald, Ed Marlineau and Lou Smyke.

The club will be wearing a new jet of McFarland-Canada sweaters for the game which the Syracuse Stars, a club Goegan played for and coached during the 1960s.

Included on the Syracuse roster are Belleville players Ralph Plume, John Baker, Doug Murray and Jack Hughes.

Dr. T.I. Woodley, club doctor with the McFarlands, will be the referee.

Tickets are on sale at Murray's Food Market, Reading and Greeting Shop, McKnight's Variety and from former McFarland players. Price is $1.

Bobcats Select Outstanding Players

This season wasn't exactly the best for the Belleville Bobcats, but it was a rebuilding year. Their ranks were filled with many rookies and that was proven Saturday night at Hillcrest Community Centre when the Bellville Bobcats Booster Club sponsored the Annual Bobcats Awards Night. Three out of four players honored for their achievements in the 1974-75 season were in their first year as Bobcats.

Wayne Calberry, a first year player from Trenton, and Jim Richardson, who completed his second season as a Cat, split honors as the Bobcats Most Valuable Player (MVP).

Calberry was used both as a defenceman and a forward-centre through the season. His aggressive, free-wheeling approach to the game earned him a threat to every team the Cats played in the Metro Junior B League. The rookie was ninth highest scorer on the team with 12 goals and 13 assists.

Richardson was the Cats highest scorer with 44 points, for the second season in a row. He was selected to the Metro Junior B East All-Star squad, but that was an honor that proved costly. During the game he suffered a shoulder separation and was lost to the team for the remainder of the year. Nevertheless, the sharpshooting right winger was named the club's MVP.

Scott Samis, from Bancroft, finished fifth in the Cats scoring race with 20 goals and 15 assists. His offensive output, and defensive prowess earned him the Rookie-of-the-Year award.

The Bobcats should count their blessings for getting the 17-year-old. He had a choice of playing for the Markham Royals, the Peterborough Lions and the Bobcats. Fortunately, for Belleville he chose to play here.

A third rookie figured in the awards. That was 17-year-old Al Jeffery. His family had moved to Belleville from the Montreal area just prior to the 1974-75 season. Jeffery completed his first year in the Metro League with 11 goals and 24 assists, for 35 points, and sixth spot in the list of Cat scorers. Those statistics along with his sportsmanlike conduct earned him the team's most Gentlemanly Player Award (MPG). Awards however, are not stranger to Jeffery. In the junior league in which he played in Montreal, he was voted rookie-of-the-year last season.

For the last two seasons the MGP trophy had one to Rob Foster, last year's MVP trophy went to Mark Coates and the rookie-of-the-year was split between Bruce Clark and John Sargeant.

Coates was on hand Saturday night to present the Most Gentlemanly Player trophy in memory of Bill Cook to Jeffery. Ken Caswell did the honors for the Black Ethire Memorial, which is the Rookie-of-the-year award and Don Foster presented the Bobby Hull Trophy, which is in memory of Foster's son Bill and Art Culloden (both boyhood friends of Hull's) to Calberry and Richardson.

Leagues, Referees Set for Season

Belleville's Bernard Howe will be busy again this year in his capacity as a member of the Ontario Lacrosse Referees' Association (OLRA).

Howe, a four-year man with the association, will be working Junior A and Senior games in the Whitby area, as well as assisting Harry Walsh in the Peterborough junior series.

Charlie Stark of London joins Howe on assignment to the

BERNIE HOWE

(OLA) junior and senior divisions.

The Belleville lacrosse referee would like to see more officials allotted for the Cobourg to Kingston area. At present he fills one of only two positions available in the district. He'd like to see that number brought to four.

Officials in the OLRA will sport a new look this season. Gone is the old black and white striped sweater, a standby for years. In its place, is a colorful orange trimmed with black sweater.

The OLRA has made four suggestions to the OLA. The referees' association suggestions include; a two-minute minor penalty for a player judged to be guilty of misconduct involving the referee; a limit on team penalties during a game (similar to the rule in use in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association); more control by club management in an effort to curb foul language, and two-game suspensions for players picking up game misconducts.

Last year, the OLA kept a chart of misconducts per team and the referees who assessed the sentences. As a result of this, certain clubs, managers, coaches, and players were reprimanded and disciplinary measures followed.

Referees do not escape scrutiny by the OLA. In 1974, eight of the 62 OLRA members were removed from duty or disciplined when they were found to be ruling in a manner described as "too strict".

Turning to the National Lacrosse League, teams in Montreal, Quebec City, Long Island, Landover, Boston and Philadelphia will operate.

COUGARS FILE SUIT

CHICAGO (AP) — A trustee for the former owners of Chicago Cougars filed suit Tuesday against the World Hockey Association seeking payment of $741,000 in unpaid taxes and bills. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, contends Chicago Cougar Hockey Club, Inc., is entitled to at least $454,000 in WHA franchise fees. It also contends the WHA owed the organization $117,500 for loans made in 1972 and 1973, and $175,000 in pay federal income taxes.

So-GreeN The 4-Step Program So-GreeN

When our customers ask us how they can get a beautiful, trouble-free lawn, Thrasher's Farm & Garden Centre recommends the So-Green Four-Step Program. When used as recommended we guarantee results.

1 MARCH/APRIL

To get your lawn off to a fast, healthy start in the early Spring, apply So-Green Premium 21-7-7 with Iron. You use only 1/3 the amount compared to 7-7-7 fertilizers, saving you time and money, while achieving the same results. This product contains time release nitrogen for long lasting results.

If you were troubled with Crabgrass last year use So-Green Crabgrass Killer plus 10-5-10 fertilizer and do two jobs with one application.

Premium 21-7-7
50 lbs feeds 10,000 square feet
25 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
10½ lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

Crabgrass Killer 10-5-10
40 lbs. treats 5,000 square feet
20 lbs. treats 2,500 square feet
5 lbs. threats 650 square feet

2 APRIL/MAY JUNE

For your second feeding use new So-Green Super All Purpose 14-7-7 with Milorganite and Iron. The Milorganite ensures a long lasting Organic feeding and the Iron guarantees a deep green lawn. This fertilizer contains all the nutrients essential to plant life. It will not burn your lawn.

If you were plagued with ants and other soil insects last year, use So-Green Bug Killer 10-5-10. We guarantee it.

Bug Killer 10-5-10
20 lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

3 SEPTEMBER OCTOBER NOVEMBER

A most important time to feed your lawn to help it survive the winter ahead. Fall Season Lawn Food 3-6-10 is a formula designed for just this purpose. It contains Milorganite, to keep your lawn green throughout the Fall season.

If you failed to eliminate your weeds earlier, ensure they're gone by next Spring by applying So-Green Fall Season Weed Control. It is formulated to winterize and fertilize your lawn while controlling persistent weeds. Don' forget: use So-Green Guaranteed Grass Seed for your Spring and Fall seeding.

4 MAY/JUNE JULY/AUGUST

A vital time to feed your lawn with So-Green High Organic containing 60% Milorganite. The organic nature of this product prevents your lawn from turning brown during the summer and its trace elements will give you a deep, dark green lawn. High Organic will not burn your grass.

If weeds are still a problem, use So-Green Weed Killer with 10-5-10 fertilizer. It kills dandelions, plantain and other broadleaf weeds while feeding your lawn.

Rangers and Blues Choke in Third Periods

Phil Bombards Kid Brother As Bruins Mangle Hawks 8-2

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

Maybe Phil Esposito needed only the sniff of Stanley Cup money to get the juices flowing again.

After enduring what was a slump by his standards in the second half of the National Hockey League schedule, the Boston centre re-discovered his first-half form Tuesday night to spark Boston Bruins to an 8-2 win over Chicago Black Hawks.

Phil scored three times as the Bruins drove his brother Tony from, the Chicago goal in the first game of their best-of-three first-round series.

In other first-round opening games Tuesday night, New York Islanders shocked New York Rangers 3-2, Pittsburgh Penguins edged St. Louis Blues 4-3 and Los Angeles Kings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in overtime.

Phil Esposito had an awesome first half for the Bruins, scoring 42 goals in their first 41 games, but produced only 19 goals in their last 39 games.

Tony, who had 29 saves, was lifted in the second minute of the third period after Phil's second goal gave the Bruins 7-0 lead. The Hawks' Esposito was replaced by Michel Dumas.

Greg Sheppard added two goals and Carol Vadnais, who also had three assists, Johnny Bucyk and Andre Savard one each for the Bruins. Dick Redmond and John Marks were the Chicago scorers.

The Rangers blew a 2-0 lead in a 8½-minute stretch of the third period on what Islander goalie Glenn Resch described as good bounces.

"You guys saw it," said Resch. "We got three good bounces and three goals."

Ranger captain Brad Park scored his club's first goal and assisted on the second by Peter Stemkowski.

"You work hard for two periods and have the game go your own way and all of a sudden you lose it in the third, blowing a two-goal lead," Park said. "That's not the way the game is supposed to be played."

Clark Gillies, a rookie from Moose Jaw, Sask., who scored 25 goals in the regular schedule, scored the decisive goal for the Islanders.

He split Ranger defencemen Gilles Marotte and Ron Greschner late in the third period to get in position for the winner.

Billy Harris had scored the Islanders first goal and Jean Potvin tied it. Potvin skated in on the left side of Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin, shot wide but chased his rebound behind the net and scored before the net-minder could regain position.

PHIL ESPOSITO
Scores Hat Trick

Now the Rangers must beat the Islanders on their own ice at Nassau Coliseum on Long Island Thursday night.

The Blues twice blew two-goal leads. The Penguins overcame a 3-1 St. Louis lead in the third period on a pair of goals by Chuck Arnason, then won the game when Pierre Larouche, a 19-year-old rookie, scored with 2:21 left in the game.

Larouche, who led all NHL rookies with 68 regular season points, slapped in a 20-foot shot from the slot after taking a pass from veteran Vic Hadfield who was behind the net.

Mike Murphy took advantage of a second chance to give the Kings their win. A minute after Toronto goalie Gord McRae blocked a shot by Murphy, the Kings regained possession with a 3-on-1 break and Murphy took a pass from Gene Carr and scored the winner at 8:31.

Never behind, the Kings lost a chance to win in regulation time when Toronto's Ron Ellis rebounded a Dave Williams shot and knocked it past Rogie Vachon with 1:30 left in the third period.

A crowd of 12,638 saw Bob Berry and Carr give the Kings 1-0 and 2-1 leads. Blaine Stoughton had the other Toronto goal.

All four series resume Thursday night at Chicago, Long Island, St. Louis and Toronto.

Nighthawks Take Lead

NEW HAVEN (AP) — New Haven Nighthawks, behind the strong goaltending of Brian Holderness, defeated Virginia Red Wings, 4-0 Tuesday night to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series in the American Hockey League.

The Nighthawks had finished in fifth and last place in the Northern Division but got into the playoffs by defeating Syracuse in a special playoff. Virginia finished first in the Southern Division.

Fincups Upset Petes

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Hamilton Fincups defeated Peterborough Petes 5-2 Tuesday in the first game of their eight-point Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A semi-final series.

Petes' coach Roger Neilson had predicted a rough game but the Fincups came here and outplayed the Petes to erase the home-game advantage in the series.

Hamilton goals were scored by Ted Long, with two, Archie King, Greg Hickey and Dave Norris.

Gary McMonagle and John Pollock scored for Peterborough.

Hamilton outshot Peterborough 28-22.

The next game is in Hamilton on Thursday.

SPRING ATTENDANCE UP

Nordiques Win WHA Opener

Running Roads Tires Roadrunners

By AL McNEIL

Quebec Nordiques took advantages of a tired Phoenix team Tuesday night to defeat the Roadrunners 5-2 and take a 1-0 lead in their World Hockey Association best-of-seven, quarter-final playoff series.

The Roadrunners had spent all day Monday travelling from Phoenix to Quebec by way of Los Angeles, Chicago and Montreal. Coach Sandy Hucul said his club was forced into the round-about route when management of the Quebec team unilaterally decided the series would start Tuesday.

"It (the route) was the only way we could get here," Hucul said. "It's just a rotten deal by Quebec—Quebec made the decision to open here tonight, not the league."

The Phoenix coach could have a point. The other three quarter-finals were scheduled to begin at least 24 hours later than the Quebec-Phoenix round.

Tonight, Toronto Toros visit San Diego Mariners and Minnesota Fighting Saints open against New England Whalers at Hartford, Conn. The fourth series begins Thursday when Cleveland Crunaders visit defending champion Aeros at Houston.

REJEAN HOULE

The second game of the Nordiques-Roadrunners series is also scheduled Thursday at Quebec.

Quebec built up a 5-1 lead by in the first two periods. Wingers Rejean Houle and Ronald Leclerc scored two goals each to raise a cheer from an otherwise listless crowd of 10,195 on hand for the Nordiques first playoff game in three seasons of WHA play. Michel Parizeau was the other Quebec goal-scorer.

The Nordiques led 2-0 before centre Robbie Ftorek scored for Phoenix at the 33-second mark of the second frame. But Houle's second goal of the night, this one on a power-play, and Leclerc's pair against Phoenix goalie Jack Norris, appeared to leave the Nordiques in the driver's seat as the third period started.

But the Roadrunners were stronger in the third period, dominating play and outshooting the Nordiques by a 21-4 margin.

The excellent work of Richard Brodeur in the Quebec nets limited the Phoenix club to only one goal, a sizzling 40-foot wrist shot by left winger Dennis Sobchuk.

General manager Maurice Filion of the Nordiques said his team had taken a good lead in the first two periods and then "sat on it" during the third.

He said Brodeur's his fine performance had made the difference between victory or defeat for the Quebecers.

On the other side, Hucul said he was proud of the way his team had rebounded in the final period.

"When you're tired you make mistakes and you have no concentration," the Phoenix coach said. "But one team was as bad as the other—we came back and tied them up in their own end for all of the third period."

Takes from the Rich Gives to Religion

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Calling himself a "black Robin Hood," heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali said Tuesday that boxing against the likes of Chuck Wepner and Ron Lyle "is a big ripoff."

"I admit it. It feels like stealing sometimes. I just made $1½ million beating a nobody like Chuck Wepner. I'll make another $1 million beating another nobody like Ron Lyle.

"Sure, what I'm doing is a big ripoff, but I can't stop fighting while I'm making all this money. I want to make as much money as I can. I want to take as much money from the rich as I can."

Ali confessed to "fighting for the money and the money alone."

"I've got a little pride, sure, but I don't have to prove I'm a good fighter. Everybody knows that I'm the greatest."

In this resort city where, as Cassius Clay, he first won the heavyweight title from the late Sonny Liston, Ali has begun training for his championship bout May 16 with Lyle in Las Vegas.

"People don't know this, but almost 90 per cent of the money I make I turn over to the Muslim religion or buy a building for my religion."

"I guess you can call me the black Robin Hood. I'm stealing from the rich to give to the black poor."

He talked about retiring in two or three years, after meeting top-ranked contenders George Foreman and Joe Frazier one more time, for $10 million and $7 million payoffs, respectively.

"I'm going to box Foreman and Frazier one more time and beat them, and then I'm going to hang it up. That will take a couple of more years, probably, and I'll be 35 or 36."

Miller Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Golfer Johnny Miller has been voted the outstanding athlete of the year in voting by United States sports fans, conducted for a 90-minute television special Tuesday on NBC.

Fans also named their favorites in 11 sports. Besides Miller in men's golf, the winners were Jimmy Connors, men's tennis; Chris Evert, women's tennis; Sandra Haynie, women's golf; Ken Stabler, pro football; John Havlicek, pro basketball; Lou Brock, baseball; Bobby Orr, hockey; Muhammad Ali, other men's pro sports; Archie Griffin, men's amateur sports; Olga Korbut, other women's sports.

Each award carried a grant of $5,000 to a youth sports or physical fitness program designated by the winner. Miller also received an additional $10,000 grant for a program of his choice.

Game Plan Number Grows

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of Game Plan international card athletes rose to 91 Tuesday with the release of 1974 track and field ratings that include four A-card and seven international B-card competitors.

The 1974 total of 91 world-ranked athletes compares with 57 in 1973.

Under the Game Plan athlete classification system, A-card holders rank one to eight in the world in their sport, and B-card athletes are rated nine to 18.

The track and field listing includes A-card athletes — Marjorie Bailey, Vancouver, Marvin Nash, Toronto, Debbie Brill, Victoria, and Glenda Reiser, Ottawa.

B-card athletes—John Beers, Merritt, B.C., Hugh Fraser, Ottawa, Claude Montmigny, Cap de la Madeleine, Que., Yvonne Saunders Guelph, Ont., Dan Shaughnessy, Toronto, Bruce Simpson, Ottawa, and Thelma Wright, Vancouver.

Game Plan, a co-operative effort of the federal government, provinces, Canadian Olympic Association and Olympic Trust to increase Canadian excellence in international sport, provides sports governing bodies with training and competition allowances based on classification and number of carded athletes in each sport.

Big Guys Feel Pressure As 39th Masters Approaches

TOM WEISKOPF

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Golf's great and near great eyed each other as rivals today. Nervously, they shared a common concern—pressure—on the eve of the 39th Masters tournament.

"It's the only tournament I know that you start choking at the gate," said Arnold Palmer, now a graying 45, seeking to end a major victory drought that started with his fourth Masters title in 1964.

"My attitude is good," said Tom Weiskopf, suddenly projected into the role of co-favorite with Jack Nicklaus. "I don't feel the world is going to collapse if I don't win the Masters this year.

Perhaps the heaviest tension of all strummed the nerves of Lee Elder, the first black man to compete here and the recent centre of world-wide attention as a breaker of racial barriers.

"I do not feel like a great man in history," Elder told a presidential-style news conference Tuesday. "And that's the way I would like to keep it."

Elder pleaded to be left alone while facing the greatest challenge of his career, and added: "I am playing well enough to win if breaks go my way."

Nicklaus wore a mantle of supreme confidence—the kind you'd expect of a four-time winner—as he returned from a weekend break with his massive hitting power and putting artistry more evident than ever.

In his practice round, he almost holed out from the fairway on the ninth hole, thrilling a clubhouse gallery. Then he spotted a couple of putts about 40 feet from the hole and knocked them into the cup.

Nicklaus, winner of his last two tournaments—the Doral and Heritage—and his former Ohio State schoolmate, Weiskopf, who led all the way in last week's Greater Greensboro Open, have been established as the players to beat for the 1975 classic.

An international field of 78, including 54 United States and 17 foreign pros and seven U.S. amateurs, tees off Thursday for the first four rounds over the majestic 7,035-yard, par 72 Augusta National course.

Prize money is never announced until the last day of the tournament. It normally is more than $300,000 with $90,000 going to the winner. Purse becomes the champion have been estimated at $1 million.

Helicopter Drops

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A helicopter being used to dry out the soggy outfield at Arlington Stadium fell several feet in the ground Tuesday but the pilot was not injured. The helicopter was chartered by Texas Rangers to far the outfield dry before Tuesday night's American League baseball opener with Minnesota Twins.

Houston, Seattle Win NBA Playoff Openers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The home-court advantage helps in the National Basketball Association. But it doesn't hurt to have a good defence, either.

Houston Rockets and Seattle SuperSonics had both Tuesday night, and as a result have a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three opening-round playoff series.

"I'd have to give credit to their defence," said New York coach Red Holzman after the Knicks dropped a 99-84 decision to the Rockets in their Eastern Conference opener. "They really played well, plus the fact that we shot poorly.

In Seattle, the SuperSonics played what coach Bill Russell called "our best defensive effort of the season."

It resulted in a 90-77 rout of the Detroit Pistons in their Western Conference opener. Tom Burleson held Detroit's Bob Lanier to a sub-par 15 points while scoring 19 himself.

In Tuesday's only American Basketball Association game, Kentucky Colonels beat Memphis Sounds 119-105 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final.

Along with Houston's glittering defence, the youthful Rockets used 22 points by Calvin Murphy to whip the Knicks. The Rockets, in the playoffs for the first time ever, moved to a seven-point halftime lead, 46-39, by outscoring the Knicks 8-6 over the final 2:27 of the second quarter and Houston never trailed again.

Fred Brown came off the bench to pop in 23 points for Seattle. Seattle, which led from the opening minute, held off an early fourth quarter Detroit rally to win going away.

Windsor Nullifies RCGA's Excuse

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Windsor group has offered to guarantee that the Royal Canadian Golf Association (RCGA) won't lose any money by staging the 1976 Canadian Open golf tournament.

The RCGA pulled the Open out of Windsor last Friday, citing adverse economic conditions in the Windsor-Detroit region.

A letter sent Tuesday by the committee to the RCGA guaranteed that any deficit incurred in staging the tournament would be covered by funds put up by local business interests, said Windsor realtor Gordon Ellis, who heads the group.

The RCGA announced in February that the $200,000 tournament would be held at the Essex Golf and Country Club. The association announced Friday it would be moved to a Toronto-area course.

"We've taken away their excuse for not holding the tournament here," said Ellis. "What this means is that we will satisfy their request for money."

Backing the guarantee are five major Windsor business firms and a local of the United Auto Workers. The group also hopes to get the backing of Detroit businesses.

The group has asked the RCGA to provide a surplus figure for gate receipts, based on receipts at past tournaments. The group would then put the RCGA's 50 per cent of the target figure in escrow.

General manager Dave Moote of the Essex club, which is entitled to the other 50 per cent of the receipts, said the club does not share the RCGA's concern that Essex would incur a serious loss if the Open were held there.

Essex officials say the RCGA would not consider evidence that the economy in the Windsor area has taken an upturn. The RCGA asserts the economic situation has not improved in the area since February.

Mayor Bert Weeks said discussions between the Windsor and Detroit Chambers of Commerce will be opened on collecting the necessary funds. "They (Detroit) wanted the Open, too."

Monday night, city council passes a resolution officially protesting the decision in "the strongest language possible."

Exact wording of the resolution had not been formulated Tuesday.

Glen Abbey in Oakville was to have become the permanent site of the tournament in 1976, but poor growing conditions resulted in the switch to Windsor. LT PEC is urging devr

Booked in Soccer Flareup

LONDON (Reuter) — Three players were sent off and four others booked during an English League Third Division soccer match between Grimsby and Crystal Palace Tuesday night.

Referee John Hough sent off Jim Cannon and Alan Whittle of Crystal Palace and Mick Chapman of Grimsby following a flareup in the 70th minute.

Palace, fourth in the standings, were beaten 2-1 and lost a chance of making up ground on the leaders.

Plymouth Argyle, who won 2-0 at Huddersfield, took over the Third Division lead from Blackburn Rovers.

Arsenal, in the First Division relegation zone, eased its worries with a 2-0 home win over Coventry City. Both goals were scored by Brian Kidd.

In Division II, Norwich City moved from fifth to third with a 1-0 away victory over Sheffield Wednesday.

Several of the matches were played in snow blizzards.

CATS SIGN PAIR

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League said Tuesday they have signed Gary Hammell, 23, a defensive back and punter, and Ed Sluciak, a 22-year-old linebacker, who both played last season for Niagara Regional Raiders of the Ontario Football Conference.

ARGOS ADD STAR

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League said Tuesday they have signed defensive back Steve Dennis, who played last year with New York Stars of the World Football League, and Ray Brust, a 23-year-old linebacker from University of Nebraska who played last season for a semi-professional team in Omaha. Dennis will compete for the cornerback job left vacant by the departure of Tim Anderson, who has signed with San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

NEW TRACK OPENS

DUNDAS, Ont. (CP) — Flamboro Downs, a new harness-racing track built at a cost of about $6-million per this Hamilton suburb, opens tonight with a nine-race card.

TV DRAWS 7,699

TORONTO (CP) — Closed-circuit television of Tuesday's National Hockey League playoff game between ronto Maple Leafs and Los Angeles Kings drew a crowd of 7,699 in Maple Leaf Gardens. Tickets were sold for $6 on a first-come, first-served basis for the game, which was not available on home television.

Poaching A Chicken

Most "leftover" chicken dishes taste better if they are made from poached chicken. If you have leftover roasted, broiled or fried chicken choose a leftover dish with a sauce or broth base.

Poaching chicken is easy. Simmer in water in a covered pot with a stalk of celery, an onion and a little salt until tender. Strain the broth and reserve it. Cut the chicken meat from the bones in generous slices. Any unused portion of the poached chicken may be stored in an air-tight container in the refrigerator or freezer for later use.

Robinson Debuts With Home Run

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson did something in his club's first game of the season no other American League manager has done for more than 20 years.

He hit a home run.

The homer started Cleveland Indians on their way to a 9-3 win over New York Yankees.

Robinson faces the twin hurdles of being baseball's first black manager and trying to be the first man to play for and manage an American League team since Lou Boudreau piloted the Indians and Boston Red Sox in the 1960s and early 1950s.

Mrs. Jackie (Rachel) Robinson, the widow of the first black man to play in the major leagues, threw out the first ball and said she was "proud, proud, proud to be here."

FRANK ROBINSON

Then Robinson, who will be the Indians' designated hitter, hit his 575th homer in his first time at bat as manager.

In Tuesday's other American League games, Oakland A's slipped Chicago White Sox 3-2, Minnesota Twins crushed Texas Rangers 11-4 and Boston downed Milwaukee Brewers 5-2.

A game between Kansas City Royals and California Angels was rained out at Anaheim while Tuesday's scheduled opener between Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers was postponed earlier because of a Michigan snowstorm.

Robinson brought a Cleveland crowd of 56,904 to its feet with his first-inning homer off New York's George (Doc) Medich.

The first player to greet him at home plate was winning pitcher Gaylord Perry, who had a couple of publicized squabbles with Robinson.

"I wanted to let him know I was with him," said Perry, who scattered nine hits. "I was probably more happy for him than he was for himself."

Despite that dramatic homer, the Indians fell behind 3-1 in the second inning. But an old Battle more team-mate of Robinson's, Boog Powell, hit a two-run homer and Jack Brohamer hit a run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly to beat the Yankees.

Vida Blue allowed four hits in seven innings and centre-fielder Bill North cut down the tying run at the plate in the ninth as the world champion A's opened their season.

Designated hitter Tony Oliva's three-run homer capped a six-run Minnesota assault against 35-game winner Fergusson Jenkins in the first two innings.

Bobo Montgomery doubled home two of Boston's three runs in the third inning and Tony Conigliaro made a triumphant return to the major leagues as the Red Sox spoiled the American League debut of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron.

Aaron, the Brewers' designated hitter, walked, struck out and grounded out twice. Conigliaro, Boston's designated hitter, helped set up a first-inning run with a hit-and-run single.

Tom Terrific At It Again

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Seaver looked like Tom Terrific again Tuesday afternoon.

The veteran right-hander displayed the form missing last season when he surrendered six hits in defeating New York Mets to a 2-1 win over Philadelphia Phillies in their National League baseball opener.

"I'm ecstatic," said Seaver of his win over Steve Carlton.

In Tuesday's only other National League game, Atlanta Braves blanked Houston Astros 3-0.

San Francisco Giants and the Padres were rained out at San Diego. A game scheduled for Tuesday between Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cubs at Chicago's Wrigley Field was postponed last week because of a Midwest snow storm.

Seaver struck out nine batters and came up a winner because of Met newcomers Dave Kingman and Joe Torre. Kingman hit a long home run in the fourth inning and Torre delivered the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth.

Seaver, who struggled to a sorry 11-11 season last year after being regarded as one of the game's top pitchers for many years, is the man on whom so much of the Mets' hopes rest for 1975.

"I couldn't be happier," said Seaver, who was nicknamed Tom Terrific when he became a star in the late 1960s. "I was strong all the way, throwing fairly hard with a good breaking ball. I didn't throw too many bad pitches."

The Phillies nicked him for a third-inning run on Dave Cash's double. But Kingman tied the score in the fourth, golfing a two-out, two-strike pitch far beyond the left field wall.

Felix Millan opened the Mets' ninth with a single—only New York's third hit and first since Kingman's king-sized homer. Then Carlton walked John Milner on four pitches and missed with his first two to Torre.

On the next pitch, Torre singled.

Carl Morton's five-hitter and Derrell Evans' run-scoring single in a two-run fifth inning carried the Braves past Houston. Morton retired 16 batters in a row after a pair of first-inning singles before shortstop Larvell Blanks' throwing error ended the string in the seventh.

TOM SEAVER

Ralph Garr singled to start the fifth against Astros rookie Doug Konieczny. Garr moved to third when Marty Perez was safe on shortstop Roger Metzger's error, Evans singled for one run and Perez scored on Mike Lum's grounder.

HOW MUCH SHOULD GOOD NUTRITION COST?

The latest report from the Food Prices Review Board asks this question — as a reminder that especially with rising prices, it's important that every penny spent for food should buy sound nutrition, and not frills.

Plan menus with Canada's Food Guide in mind, rating extra foods you want only after you have provided foods your body needs. Watch our Consumer Corners for help in shopping and meal planning. If you lack a Canada Food Guide, get one from a local welfare agency or drop us a line.

Menus providing basic body needs can be interesting and appealing for as little as $42.00 a week for a family of four. Add extras only when your budget and calorie needs allow.

ANDRE LACROIX

Lacroix Wins WHA Crown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andre Lacroix has captured his second scoring championship in the three-year history of the World Hockey Association, but he needed a late-season spurt and a record number of points to do it:

Lacroix picked up five goals and 12 assists in his last five games with San Diego Mariners to finish with 147 points, the most ever by a WHA player and the second-most ever in major-league hockey.

He had eight goals and 23 assists in his last 10 games, leading the Mariners to a second-place finish in the Western Division.

The late-season splurge enabled him to catch Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets, who led Lacroix by five points with five games to play. Hull's 142 points also topped the WHA record 124 points accumulated by Lacroix with Philadelphia Blazers in 1972-73.

Lacroix' point total ranks behind the 152 points Phil Esposito picked up with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League in 1970-71. His 106 assists topped the record 104 Orr had in that same season.

The 28-year-old native of Lasarre, Que., was a journeyman National Hockey League player until he joined the Blazers in 1972-73.

He was traded to New York Golden Blades before last season, moved with the Blades to New Jersey in mid-season and then moved with the club again this season to San Diego.

Hull deprived Esposito of another major league record he set in that same season when he scored his 77th goal Sunday night against San Diego. Esposito's record was 76.

It was the eighth season in an 18-year career in which Hull scored 50 goals. The points total was the highest of his career.

Quebec Nordiques' Serge Bernier, with 122 points, finished third in the scoring race, followed by Winnipeg's Ulf Nilsson with 120 and Houston's Larry Lund with 108.

The Hull-Nilsson-Anders Hedberg line finished with 362 points on 156 goals and 206 assists.

Every man on the roster of Houston Aeros finished with a plus in the goals-for and goals-against department, led by defenceman Marty Howe with plus 46. Hull led the league with plus 55.

Gordon Gallant of Minnesota Fighting Saints was again the league's most penalized player, overtaking John Hughes of Phoenix in the final week. Gallant, who drew 223 minutes last season, had 203 this year to Hughes' 201.

There was a change in goaltenders in Houston this year, but the Aeros still took defensive honors. Ron Grahame led the league with a 3.09 average and Wayne Rutledge was second with 3.24.

Don McLeod, who moved to Vancouver Blazers after leading the league with the Aeros last season was eighth this year with 3.51

Weightlessness Improves Product

HOUSTON, Tex. (Reuter) — One of the most valuable spin-offs from the world's first manned international space mission may be the manufacture of a space-made product which would dramatically improve communications through television, telephone and computer.

During the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project (ASTP) this July, the spacemen will use a small electrical furnace to make optical fibres with qualities which cannot be produced on earth.

United States astronauts and Russian cosmonauts will use the furnace for several other experimental manufacturing processes.

Light waves through optical fibres are expected to transmit light, signals, images and other types of information.

Optical fibres have been made on earth for a long time but the earth's gravity field keeps scientists from developing them to the length and purity they need.

Gravity sets up convection currents and vibrations that prevent the growth of continuous and homogeneous fibres from the elements from which they are made are fused.

In the furnace, lithium fluoride fibres will be embedded in a sodium chloride (salt) matrix.

The Apollo-Soyuz space launch will blast off from the Soviet Union with two cosmonauts aboard. About 7½ hours later, three American astronauts will take off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in an Apollo spacecraft.

The Apollo crew will join the Soyuz in orbit and they will ride, linked together, some 210 miles above the earth for about two days.

Cave Warm in Winter Makes Ice in Summer

BEAMSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — With caves that form ice in the summer, mineral springs, traces of an Indian encampment and unusual wildlife and vegetation, Cave Springs Farm has always been a topic of rumor and conjecture.

The 113-acre farm nestled at the base of the Niagara Escarpment is located on a road which roughly follows the old Iroquois Trail which was the main Indian east-west route for centuries before the white man settled in Canada.

It is believed the area was inhabited by Neutrals, a tribe peculiar to the Niagara Peninsula. The Neutrals, who had inferior weapons and a less warlike disposition, were wiped out by the Iroquois in 1653.

Margaret Reed, who with her husband, an insurance salesman, occupies a 19-acre plot called Panacea Farm in the middle of the property, said: "There is an aura here that resists change."

She pointed to a cave and explained: "It is dry and warm in winter and forms ice in the warmest days of summer."

The warm air, "apparently moistened by an underground lake, rises and hits the cool cave walls. Icicles form from rapid condensation, and eventually there is a heavy layer of ice like a refrigerator that needs defrosting."

Mineral springs flow from crevices in the escarpment wall. Recent scientific analysis has shown that the water might be a mild laxative and provide relief for some stomach ailments.

The property has changed hands frequently since the original Crown deed was filed in 1796.

Scotland Yard Still Tries To Convict Bermuda Killers

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuter)—Every two or three months two or three men in business suits arrive from England and go directly to police headquarters where, ignoring the commanding view of Hamilton harbor, they pore over hatches of documents.

They are Scotland Yard detectives and their job is to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to bring charges in a string of murders with black-power overtones that have shocked this tiny British colony which prides itself on its race relations.

The murders date back to 1973 when the island's 41-year-old police chief, George Duckett, heard a noise outside his house in a bleak and isolated section of the island and went out to investigate. He was shot dead.

Six months to the day later, Sir Richard Sharples, the island's governor, and his youthful aide-de-camp were gunned to death on the lonely grounds of Government House.

Sir Richard had only been on the island for five months. He had made what some residents describe as "the right noises." He and his aide, Capt. Hugh Sayers, had no known enemies. They had not been here long enough for that.

A few days later, two people were killed in armed robberies in local supermarkets.

Murder is not common on the coral islands of Bermuda nor, for that matter, is crime. The oldest of Britain's colonies, Bermuda has a well-earned reputation as a tourist paradise.

It has a population of 54,000, of which 60 per cent is black. This population is almost completely occupied with the care and feeding of nearly 500,000 tourists a year.

Although the island imports almost everything, its people have a tradition of full employment. "We believe in hustling, working hard," said one white.

He added: "We are not as subject to the winds of change as others. Black people here are shocked when they see some of those West Indian islands where people live in tin shacks."

Until the night of the Sharples murder, people here believed their island was different, not subject to the tensions that affected other parts of the world.

But the killings have stirred a re-evaluation.

Police launched a two-pronged probe. They searched Sir Richard's life.

At one time he had been a secretary of state for troubled Northern Ireland. Police wondered whether the Irish Republican Army had reached across an ocean to dispatch an enemy.

And, if so, was it just a coincidence that Duckett was killed six months before?

The first theory in the Duckett killing was that he had been murdered by a personal enemy. Gossip suddenly sprouted up about his life.

But in the Sharples case police arrested a half-dozen members of a black-power group called the Black Berets, a group they admit is bombed out of existence.

They built their case slowly, until today they are convinced they know who killed the three officials, why and how.

Well-informed sources on the island say police are convinced the killings were the result of the preaching of hatred of the island's politically and economically powerful whites.

But whatever evidence has been compiled, and informed sources say it is considerable, police keep asking themselves, "Do we have enough to convince a Bermudian jury?"

Because of the racial makeup of the island, this jury would be mostly black and officials wonder whether a black jury could be made to believe that the crimes originated in their community.

Black Bermudians agree. As one woman teacher said: "He was nothing to us. No one had anything for or against him.

"This man and his aide were killed by marksmen. We are not marksmen. What do we know of guns?

The killings had the earmarks of a professional, hired killer. And we wondered who in the white community wanted these people out of the way."

The Black Berets were started by students educated in the United States in the 1960s, a time of demands for radical, often violent solutions to racial problems.

Police said they believe this thinking filtered down to certain criminal elements on the island.

New Zealand Has Jobs For Almost Everybody

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — With unemployment ranging from five to eight per cent in many Commonwealth and Western countries, New Zealand remains a haven of nearly full employment.

The last statistics showed the total unemployed for the whole country at 3,135, slightly more than one-quarter of one per cent of the work force.

This was certainly a steep increase over figures of a month before—up 625—but in fact the number out of jobs for any length of time is even smaller than the figures suggest.

In Auckland, for instance, 791 were registered as unemployed, but only 99 have been out of work long enough to qualify for unemployment pay.

Many register for jobs—and then find work themselves and do not bother to report that they are no longer out of work. Some are described by labor department officials as "tongue-in-cheek" registrations—they put even their names but make no serious effort to take up offers of jobs.

Many who register do not even bother to return in two or three days as requested to check for vacancies.

The chief employment officer in Auckland reports that if anything jobs are becoming easier to find and his office is finding fewer problems in placing applicants. The fact that there still are unfilled vacancies is self-evident to anyone driving through factory areas of Auckland. Notice boards outside premises in many of these industrial districts still carry signs advising that jobs are available immediately in a wide variety of callings.

The general explanation of New Zealand's continued freedom from unemployment is that there was a large surplus of vacant jobs. Even with tighter conditions in business and some companies reducing staff, the situation is only coming somewhere near balance.

BIRTHS

BELMAR — Tom and Betty are happy to announce the birth of their twin girls, Jean Lynn and Anne William on Tuesday, April 8, 1975 at the Belleville General Hospital weighing 7 lbs., 4½ ozs. Special thanks to Dr. Harris, Dr. Dinsmerthe and all the nurses of the fifth level.

IN MEMORIAM

PARM — In loving memory of a dear aunt, Mrs. Ruth Parm, who passed away April 11, 1974.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance.
Just a memory ad sad true.
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who loved you too.
—Ever remembered by nieces Dorothy and family.

PARM — In loving memory of a dear sister Ruth Parm who passed away April 11, 1974.
Many a day her name is spoken,
And many an hour she is in our thoughts,
A link in our family chain is broken
But has gone from our home but not from our hearts.
—Ever remembered by sister Lillie, Norman and family.

45 BRIDGE STREET EAST

Brahms' Requiem Draws Full House at Bridge St.

By EUGENE LANG

Bridge Street United Church was practically filled to capacity Tuesday evening as a packed congregation was present to hear the first performance ever in this city of Ein Deutsches Requiem Op. 45 by Johannes Brahms. The Bridge Street Church Choir (augmented) has attempted some of the formidable religious masterpieces ("Messiah" — "Elijah" — "Creation" — "St. Matthew Passion") in years gone by, so once more Director Robert Reid has added to his laurels another five stars for an excellent performance of this demanding work.

This, the composer's greatest choral work occupied him on and off for over 10 years. It was inspired by his sorrow after the tragic death of his personal friend and benefactor, Robert Schumann in 1856. After his mother in 1865 he added the fifth movement in memory of her. Parts of it were performed in 1867 and 1868, but it was not until 1869 that the work was given in its entirety as we know it today.

Among all oratorios since Beethoven this masterpiece stands supreme and it could be considered as the most consistently choral work since Bach's B Minor Mass and Handel's Messiah. It is the most extensive score that Brahms has written. Using his inserting judgment Brahms compiled the text from the German Bible, treating of the transcience of earthly things, the bliss of heaven, comfort in sorrow, the sad lot of mortals, resurrection, and the blessedness of those who die in the Lord. Although firmly rooted in the Christian faith, it is wholly removed from dogma in the narrower sense. It is, shall we say, addressed to all who believe, irrespective of creed.

Inspiration was the feeling everyone received from the 30 voices that sang with such conviction at all times. A perfect opening was attained with limpid simplicity and clarity as the serene singers detached themselves from the dusky background of the accompanying lower strings (here Brahms calls for no violins).

Splendidly stirring is the second movement, although this slow march has a grisly and grotesque tone in its opening and closing offset from the overall gloominess of major sunshine in the middle section. Sonority was the keynote in this section, although in some places the accompanying pizzicato strings were nearly inaudible by the forcefulness of the voices.

William Perry, the bass soloist in the third movement declared his phrases with dramatic declamation. The concluding fugue was sung with inexorable increasing intensity as it carried the text on its wings impetus over the long D pedal point from lower strings and foot of organist — one of the most remembered series of pages in all religious music.

The fourth section was attained with lilting gait of orchestra under flowing violins that wafted with non blatant blendings. Brahms here gives both performer and hearer a restful respite from the violent emotions of the former two movements.

Soprano Hazelanne Reid brought to her solo an emotion of maternal consolation in a beautifully conceived vocalization of this lovely movement that the composer dedicated so rightly to the betterment of the entire Requiem.

The sixth section was given an exultant exhortation by the choir, with organ and orchestra giving full support to overpowering passages that carry the final tremendous fugue to its blazing eruptions. As the voices crowded eagerly upon each other all were engaged in a whirlwind of enthusiasm, and by this we include the nearly 1,000 listeners.

Once again Robert Reid has given us an inspired recreation of one of the 'greats' in all sacred musical literature. The long hours of plodding practice received their just rewards in flourishing fruition. The final applause in a standing ovation was sufficient proof as to the reception of the Requiem by the congregation.

The program began with a warm up anthem, "Praise" by Alec Rowley, which saw choir in instant command of its vocal blendings and powers. Blare of trumpets in final chord brought this lineonable selection to stirring end.

We can only say that the 25-piece orchestra gave of its best at all times, and was a decided asset to the performance. Dr. Frederick R. C. Clarke of Kingston provided sensitive organ accessories as befits the various scorings.

The well-known Hallelujah Chorus from Messiah by Handel was sung in rousing rendition by the choir, this sending a lot of listeners away with a feeling of familiarity, so, no doubt the Requiem is not the best known composition to local audiences.

Two congregational hymns were sung, the final one arranged in impressive fashion by S. Alec Gordon, organist of Bridge Street Church who was on hand, but because of recent illness was not available for his usual role at the Casavant.

Opening welcome and closing prayer was given by Rev. George K. Ward, Minister of the host church.

In summation, a superlative performance by all — but we hope that this Requiem will be done again, and in it's entirety. The last movement is so much a part of the work as a whole with its long emotional decrescendos that brings us back to a livable world, that without its inclusion the full message as Brahms intended is not completely realized.

This machine, designed by Ryo-Cateau of Walterior, Fujnon, is the mechanical device which will be used in the Ontario Lottery draws. The first draw will be made Thursday May 15. Regular draws will be held every other Thursday for a grand prize of $100,000 and a variety of other cash prizes. Tickets will cost one dollar each, and all prizes will be tax free.

Through the Ministry of Culture and Recreation, the net proceeds from the lottery will be used by the government to support programs for physical fitness, sports, recreation and culture in Ontario. The Ontario Lottery Corporation hoped, within the next three years, to be selling tickets at the rate of $100 million after year, and that about $40 million annually would then be available to support the public projects.

Carney Best Actor

Godfather Still Oscar Favorite

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Carney, Ellen Burstyn and a movie about the Mafia were the stars of the 47th Academy Awards. Francis Ford Coppola's The Godfather, Part II won top honors with six Oscars, including best picture.

The sweep made the 36-year-old Coppola Hollywood's undputed king. But Carney, 56, was the sentimental winner of the festivities.

"I'm numb. I'm happy, why should I be embarrassed—I'm Irish!" he said after his surprise win as best actor for playing a 75-year-old cross-country traveller with a cat in Harry and Tonto.

Carney's win was a delight to the audience, which rose in tribute to the veteran television actor. It was his first starring role in a movie.

Miss Burstyn, nominated twice before, finally won as best actress for her role as the errant housewife with ambitious as a singer in Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore.

Robert De Niro, the young Mafia don of Godfather-II and Ingrid Bergman, one of the suspects in Murder on the Orient Express, won as supporting performers.

The awards shaped up as yet another sweep for director Coppola's sister, Carmine, composed the score with Nino Rota and his sister, Talia Shire, was nominated as best supporting actress in the film.

But Coppola said after the awards that he was surprised that the film won best picture.

Coppola was also nominated in two other categories—best picture and best original screenplay for The Conversation.

Two years ago, Coppola lost in the best director's race for The Godfather, but the film and its star, Marlon Brando, won Oscars.

Miss Burstyn, in a New York play, Lolly Madonna War, making a film in Italy, did not claim their awards. Miss Bergman was there and she received a standing ovation from the admiring crowd.

"All good things come in threes," she commented afterwards, referring to her previous wins as best actress for Gaslight (1944) and Anastasia (1956).

Only Helen Hayes and Jack Lemmon have also won Oscars in both the main acting category and in a supporting role.

Amarcord, Frederico Fellini's affectionate autobiographical comedy set prewar Italy, was named best foreign language film of the year.

Best song went to We May Never Love Like This Again, from The Towering Inferno. The disaster film also won for cinematography and editing.

Unlike recent Oscar shows, Tuesday night's went off smoothly and with little incident. No streakers, no refusals of Oscars.

The closest thing to controversy came when producer George Schneider accepted the award for best documentary feature for his film opposing the Vietnam War, Hearts and Minds.

The producer read a telegram of friendship from the Viet Cong delegate to the Paris peace talks.

Later in the program the Motion Picture Academy screened through Frank Sinatra, master of ceremonies, "We are not responsible for any political references made on this program tonight and we are sorry they were made."

The award to De Niro was a surprise since he was contending with two actors — Michael C. Gazzo and Lee Strasberg—from the same film, and Fred Astaire of The Towering Inferno.

There also was a question whether De Niro's role was actually supporting or of full star status with Al Pacino.

The proceedings were marked by two sentimental bouquets to the past.

Miss Bergman presented a special Oscar to veteran French director Jean Renoir, too ill from a recent operation to attend the ceremonies.

Said Miss Bergman: "In the cinema universe, he is the living god.

John Wayne, who appeared in four Howard Hawks films, presented another special Oscar to the veteran director.

Hawks recalled conversing with John Ford in the late director's final days and hearing Ford's prediction: — "You're gonna get an award."

NEW YORK (AP) — Beverly Sills made a triumphant Metropolitan Opera debut Monday in The Siege of Corinth to end a 20-year feud and cap a career that has made her a superstar here and abroad, but not at the Met.

Miss Sills's Met debut followed a long-running feud between the Brooklyn-born diva and Sir Rudolf Bing, now retired manager of the opera company.

However, both have been soft-pedaling their historic inability to get together.

"There were one or two attempts to have her sing, but they just didn't work out," said Bing recently.

"I was either busy some where else or I didn't like the roles he suggested," Miss Sills said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rock singer Stevie Wonder, 24, became the father of his first child Monday afternoon.

Wonder was at the side of Yolanda Simmonds in St. Luke's hospital when their eight-pound, one-ounce daughter was born.

They named her Aisha Zakia—African words for intelligence and strength.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday April 10

You're likely to run into opposition from several sources today. Don't try to bull your way through—this will only complicate matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Responsibilities you've neglected will begin causing immediate problems. Tackle them in order. Don't letthings pile up in the future.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good time to become involved in new projects that could press you financially. Your budget isn't healthy enough.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be too self-serving regarding personal ambitions. It will only result in alienating those whose help you'll need.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) This is a very tricky time for you, businesswise. Take care not to be nome involved in something beyond your financial scope.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) Don't yield to pressures now and do things against your better judgment. Give yourself time to think before making important decisions.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) The next few days you're going to feel more crash than usual in your work or career. Forewarned is forearmed—don't snap at this.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Select association with great care at this time. Shun those who deal in intrigue or persons you're not sure of.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Can you have some important dealings with a growing impatient at the way you're handling your end and may take some drastic steps.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Words you thoughtlessly utter now will come home to roost. Weigh very carefully what you say to avoid repercussions.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Be very careful who you do business with in the i present. Deal only with firms or individuals above reproach.

Herpes Simplex Attacks Genitals

By G. C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was treated for herpes progenitalis several years ago, but no cure resulted and it continues to spread. I'd like any information you may have on this.—J.S.R.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you give me some information on herpes progenitalis infection? I've had it for over a year and only recently found out what it is. My last doctor said it is an incurable virus and that they are working on a vaccine for it. -

Is this correct? How do you develop this infection, and is it contagious?—Mrs. V.N.

I continue to get a great deal of mail on this subject.

The viruses that give man trouble are usually identified by the "target organs" or localities of the body which offer them the most inviting environment. This is readily noted in such diseases as pneumonia and hepatitis (which derive from Greek words for lungs and liver, respectively). The herpes simplex II virus is the infective organism in herpes progenitalis, and its target is the genitals of both men and women. And since it is passed on by sexual contact, it meets the description of a venereal disease.

This is a stubborn virus, and for the time being, it seems to be resistant to treatment, a fact both of you have learned during your long periods of infection. Developing an effective treatment is a prime goal of those doing research in the field of communicable diseases.

There is a drug called Stoxil (idoxuridine) which has been effective against a form of the herpes virus thatt attacks the eye. This drug has also been used against the genital herpes, but with mixed results. And I am told that other new drugs are being studied for anti-herpes II treatment. But they have not been released for general use—which means that they may be used only in authorized experimental situations. However, results in the small number of experimental cases so far look encouraging.

Effective vaccines against virus infections are not easy to come by, as many has learned. Many years of research were required to develop protection against German measles, polio, mumps, smallpox, and other diseases. But the whole field of virus research holds much promise for the future.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A young couple, married three years, are hesitating to start a family of their own for fear drug experimentation when they were in college would adversely affect their baby.

Is there a test to determine whether or not chromosomes have been damaged, or to otherwise reassure them?—Mrs. J.A.P.

There is some evidence that chromosomes may be altered by drug use, but whether this carries genetic defects is not quite clear.

There are some tests that can be made, I understand, but the average physician would not be equipped to conduct them since they are sophisticated, complicated and expensive procedures. They are usually done in medical centres.

The couple might seek genetic counselling, a new specialty which has only recently emerged in medicine. In this they could have their question answered to the extent that an answer can be given, and go on from there. Your local medical society, or are large hospital in your area, might be able to tell you where such counseling is available.

It is known that some damage can occur to a fetus exposed to drug abuse in the mother during pregnancy. This is why physicians avoid prescribing many drugs during pregnancy, especially during the early months.

Polish Is Taught

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Polish has been added to the list of languages being taught at the University of Waterloo. Since 1969, the subject has been offered by the department of German and Slavic languages and literatures.

Anna Newman, the course director said: "We have about 10 registered students plus two or three who are auditing it.

She said the suggestion that the course be offered came from the Polish community in the Kitchener-Waterloo area.

Mrs. Newman, who moved to Canada two years ago after marrying a Canadian said the reason people wish to study Polish is that they are of Polish ancestry and want to improve their ability in the language, as well as an appreciation of that country's literature and culture.

"Poland has, by the way, a very beautiful literature."

Others interested in the course are people with Polish or Slavic backgrounds who simply want to learn the language or nonbelievers who have some knowledge of other Slavic languages and want to add to it, said Mrs. Newman.

Also, there are engineers and scientists who want a reading knowledge so they can keep up with Polish scientific publications and people travelling abroad or studying the Polish culture, she said.

She foresaw the possibility that the university will some day offer a full four-year honors program in Polish including a cultural studies course.

"If you insist on opening 20-point two notrumps, you ought to learn how to play the dummy," remarked North.

"What could I have done?" replied South. "West made a brilliant defensive play and upset my applecart."

South won the club lead with dummy's queen and decided that his best chance for nine tricks would be to collect three diamonds. So he led a low diamond and stuck in his 10. West won and shifted to the 10 of spades.

South won and led his deuce of clubs with every intention of creating an extra entry to dummy by finessing the nine. Unfortunately, for that plan, West played his 10 spot and South was one entry short. He did take a successful diamond finesse but that gave him only two diamond tricks and the combination of the bad spade break and the unfortunate position of the king of hearts left him one trick short.

Do you see how South could and should have played the hand?

At trick one he should have played dummy's ace of clubs and dropped his king under it. That play would have left him with two more sides to dummy and the means to score three diamond tricks.

Of course, if East had shown up with the 10 of clubs South would have looked rather silly. But those are the things that are sent to try mens souls.

Party Lines Broken Over MPs' Pay Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Party ranks were broken Tuesday as the Commons resumed debate on the government's quasi-release bill to increase the pay of MPs and senators.

Charles Caccia, deputy government whip, spoke against the proposed 33 1-3-per-cent increase. It would raise the annual pay and tax-free allowance of MPs to $26,000—$28,000 in salary, $10,600 in expenses.

But two New Democrat MPs announced their support after their parliamentary leader, Ed Broadbent, had outlined the party's opposition.

Mr. Caccia (Toronto Davenport), whose job as deputy government whip includes rounding up Liberal members to vote along party lines, said he disagrees with the approach and the timing of the bill.

He said MPs salaries should be studied by an independent commission and that any pay increase approved now should not take effect until the next federal election, expected in 1978.

"This bill was produced here internally with very little, if any, consultation with the outside world," Mr. Caccl said. "It is no surprise that the public was rather dismayed and that a certain degree of resentment developed."

Parliament should adopt a procedure that would make the public—"part of the process rather than alienate them."

He suggested that delaying an increase until the next election "would indicate our intentions, prepare the public and develop a greater support for a measure of this kind."

Despite his opposition, Mr. Caccia indicated he will accept a pay increase.

"On this measure, as with any other measure, the will of the majority of this House will rule," he said.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) and Stuart Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster) both called for immediate passage of the raises.

Mr. Leggatt said the proposed increases are "long overdue and well justified." Mr. Gilbert said, however, that he "would be quite happy with $20,000 a year plus a cost-of-living allowance."

In addition to the immediate increase in salaries and allowances, the government proposes tying the salaries to the industrial wage index, which presumably would provide automatic annual increases.

Mark MacGuigan (L—Windsor-Walkerville) said higher salaries for MPs would safeguard the public interest in addition to providing fair pay for parliamentarians.

The indexing plan was introduced before Christmas when the government, faced with a public outcry, backed down from its original proposal for a straight 50-per-cent increase. Mr. Broadbent has said the wage index would provide for higher salaries by 1978 than the original proposal.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the government's original proposal for a straight 50-per-cent increase "did damage to the economy of this country." He refused the last increase, which took effect Oct. 8, 1970.

The government's announcement sparked inflationary wage demands from other groups, Mr. Knowles said. A case could be made "for some increase" in MPs' salaries, but the one proposed was the "height of irresponsibility."

Max Saltsman (NDP—Waterloo Cambridge) said Parliament is setting an "example of greed."

He also criticised the Progressive Conservatives, asking "what they would have said if some other sectors of the economy had raised their salaries by 50 per cent."

Ontario Opposed To Any Oil Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario is adamantly opposed to any increase in the price of crude oil produced in Canada, Premier William Davis confirmed Tuesday.

"Ontario's position is that there should be no increase," he told a news conference following an informal meeting with premiers Peter Lougheed of Alberta and Robert Bourassa of Quebec.

Premier Bourassa also wants no substantial increase in the price of domestic crude, but Premier Lougheed was expected to close today for a substantial increase at the two day federal-provincial first ministers' meeting on energy and the economy.

Mr. Davis confirmed the position enunciated by Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough when the Ontario budget was brought down Monday—that an increase in oil prices would only feed the fires of inflation.

"Inflation is still a very real problem in Canada and not an awful lot is being done about it," the Ontario premier said. GOT MORE

He added that since the price of oil was jacked up to $6.50 a barrel for Canadian consumers, of $1.5 billion, 95 per cent went to the oil-producing provinces and the federal government.

That added revenue was not reflected in new jobs in the oil-producing provinces, Mr. Davis said.

The premier emphasized that if an increase in oil prices could affect Ontario, Canada's wealthiest province, it could have an even more adverse effect on other provinces.

"It's not a totally parochial stance we're taking," he said.

Mr. Davis said that the ultimate decision on the rise of oil prices rests with the federal government.

"We're going to take a very firm position, I think that is evident," he said.

What if your pay cheque was late?

For many of us this would be a calamity. Your Intelligencer carrier is a young, independent businessman; he doesn't receive a pay cheque. His profit is the difference between the wholesale cost of his newspapers and the amount collected from his customers.

Most subscribers pay their carriers on the first call. But some people say "come back later" . . . and the carrier's profit is put off. It's like asking you to come back two or three times for your pay cheque.

Of course, you want to be paid promptly. All of us do. The boy or girl who delivers your Intelligencer will appreciate being paid promptly.

Service Will Decline If Rate Hike Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada must have rate increases or users of its telephone and other services will face "a deterioration of service," Jean de Grandpre, president, told shareholders at the annual meeting Tuesday.

He noted other utilities, like Ontario and Quebec Hydro, have stated similar positions recently and have warned consumers those services are going to cost 10 per cent to 15 per cent more annually for some years.

He indicated Bell Canada feels it should have a rate rise in the area of five per cent annually.

The rate rise granted by the Canadian transport commission in August, 1974, generated only $13 million more revenue last year. But the 10-per-cent surtax on non-manufacturing corporate income announced in last November's federal budget cost Bell about $7.9 million, or 21 cents a share, in higher taxes.

Bell Canada had profit of $224.4 million or $5.37 a share in 1974, compared with $205.4 million or $5.18 a share a year earlier.

In response to a shareholder's question, chairman Robert Scrivener revealed that Bell's subsidiary, Northern Electric Co. Ltd., has obtained more than 90 per cent of the shares of Microsystems International Ltd. under a share exchange offer.

New Bill Sets Limit To Hen Production

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart introduced a bill in the legislature Tuesday to provide a new set of controls on Ontario's egg producers.

The bill is designed to control the number of hens in the province, a ministry spokesman said. Existing controls place a quota on the number of eggs that can be marketed.

By switching the control mechanism from eggs to birds, it should be easier to monitor the number of eggs reaching the market, the spokesman said.

Not Parallel Situation

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen says the current military offensive by North Vietnam does not represent a "similar parallel" with United States bombing of Hanoi.

In explaining to the Commons why the Canadian government has not lodged an official protest with Hanoi—a Commons resolution denounced American bombing in January, 1973—the minister said the "worthwhileness" of such a move must be considered.

UNTIL NOW, THE CARS THAT NEEDED RUSTPROOFING MOST COULDN'T GET IT.

Because they're used cars. And there's never been a rustproofing process that could work effectively on a car that's already started to rust.

Until now.

Now there is one. And only one. The only rustproofing system in the world that really works on used cars.

It's Tuff-Kote. Which makes Tuff-Kote dealers the only people in the world who can rustproof not only new cars — but cars that are anywhere from 5 months to 5 years old.

What's more, they'll guarantee the job in writing. Something no other rustproofer in the world will do.

Because they don't have Tuff-Kote's exclusive double coating system for rustproofing both new and used cars.

Oil Price Accord Effort Dropped

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and the 10 premiers have failed to reach any agreement on future oil and gas prices and after a further token discussion today, they tackled broader economic issues.

The failure of the petroleum talks, became obvious Wednesday, the opening day, when the provinces—particularly Alberta and Ontario—held to uncompromising terms.

Even a private Trudeau dinner Wednesday night made no dent in the differences.

"If there was any hope of agreement yesterday, the dinner proved otherwise," one premier said.

So the 11 leaders went behind closed doors today to compose a tepeorary finale to the oil-gas question. Most expect another conference before June 30 when the current freeze on crude oil at $6.50 a barrel expires.

The premiers planned to begin with Finance Minister John Turner on the state of the economy.

They have said they want some impact on the federal budget that Mr. Turner has said he hopes to deliver before May 31.

This discussion was carrying through lunch and the conference was to conclude following this closed session.

There has been some hope that despite the obvious and strong disagreements on petroleum prices, some settlement might materialize at the private dinner.

"It was a very friendly, happy and convivial occasion," said Premier William Davis of Ontario. "But in that atmosphere it was clearly decided we couldn't agree on price increases."

He, like other premiers, felt the announcement of a May federal budget just one day before the conference began might have undermined the talks.

"How can we agree on prices that will have a profound effect on inflation when we don't know what will be in the budget?" asked Mr. Davis.

The alternatives for a settlement at this stage before June 30 seem to be another conference or a unilateral federal decision to impose the petroleum price increases it says must come, raising domestic prices closer to the higher world levels.

On the Commons agenda is a proposed government administration act that can get rates, although Alberta undoubtedly would take such legislation to the Supreme Court of Canada, it is widely feared.

Ontario Premier William Davis and Nova Scotia's Gerald Regan, who took the strongest positions against a price increase, agreed after the private dinner that an agreement seemed out of the question at this conference.

"I think we're moving to lack of agreement," commented Mr. Regan after the dinner. "My guess is we'll be back here in June."

Mr. Davis agreed there was little chance of a new price being set now. He said another conference probably was necessary within a month or two.

Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed, whose province produces the bulk of Canada's oil and gas, and wants an increase, said he wasn't disappointed about lack of progress Wednesday.

"We will not set a figure at this conference," he predicted to reporters.

Before Alberta could agree to a price, Mr. Lougheed said, it wants a better indication of economic moves the other premiers have in mind. Alberta also might want to see what Finance Minister John Turner proposes in the federal budget to be brought down before the end of May, he added.

Allan Blakeney, premier of Saskatchewan, likened the opening statements of the first ministers to bargaining positions. It was not surprising then, he said, to have Ontario, Nova Scotia and other consuming provinces such as Manitoba and New Brunswick, reject any increase for starters.

Neither Mr. Trudeau nor Mr. Lougheed mentioned any figures. But Mr. Blakeney, outside the conference, mentioned a $2 per barrel increase in price for a barrel of oil unless some of Saskatchewan suggestions were accepted.

One of the Blakeney proposals is to create an energy development fund for any increase over the $6.50 a barrel now in place until June 30.

The only outwardly happy man around the table was British Columbia Premier David Barrett after Mr. Macdonald announced Ottawa plans to increase the export price of natural gas going to the United States.

Mr. Macdonald also said that the federal government wants the price of natural gas "over the next few years" to climb to parity with oil.

At one point Mr. Macdonald rejected Mr. Regan's claim he was a leading proponent of higher energy prices for Canadians.

Mr. Macdonald replied he was being given the facts as the premiers could make a decision.

Mr. Macdonald said Canadians now understand "that the era of cheap energy has ended". There was nothing to support the view that Canadians could go on forever enjoying substantially lower prices than the rest of the world.

The world price for a barrel of oil is about $5 higher than that paid in Canada.

Mr. Macdonald said he has assurances from leaders of oil companies that they will put new revenues from a price increase into exploration and development in Canada.

"In addition to bringing on new discoveries, higher energy prices would lead Canadians to restrain the rates of growth of demand and to use these resources more wisely."

Phnom Penh Airport Within Mortar Range

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Rebel forces broke through a gap in the government's defenses late today and moved to within two miles of Phnom Penh airport, military sources said. They said the advance put the insurgents within medium mortar range of the vital airstrip.

Cambodia's acting president, Saukham Khoy, presided over an emergency cabinet meeting as the military situation around this city deteriorated following insurgent attacks on the capital and its vital food lines.

A high-ranking American diplomat met with Phnom Penh leaders before the cabinet discussions began, the sources added.

It was predicted that the government will make an important announcement after the returns here of Prime Minister Long Boret, and speculation is rife that it will be made to coincide with or before President Ford's speech tonight.

Attack Renewed

SAIGON (AP) — The battle for a provincial capital 40 miles east of here entered its second day today as North Vietnamese forces began their second attack at daybreak.

Military analysts said it was still too soon to say whether the repeated attacks on Xuan Loc, the capital of Long Khanh province, were the prelude to a drive on Saigon.

The attack on Xuan Loc, a city of more than 100,000 residents, was the first major assault in this region since the Communist offensive began five weeks ago.

Ford Will Seek Aid for Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford met with Democratic and Republican leaders Wednesday to discuss a major policy speech he will deliver tonight asking Congress for increased military aid for besieged Indochina.

Ford's speech will be broadcast by television and radio networks beginning at 9 p.m. EDT.

House Democratic leader Thomas O'Neill Jr. said Ford told 18 congressional leaders the address will be the most serious he will make to Congress as president.

Dramatic Warming Trend Predicted

HAMILTON (CP) — A Columbia University scientist said Wednesday that the world may experience a dramatic and sudden warming trend in the next few decades.

W. S. Broecker of Columbia's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory told an international symposium on environmental biogeochemistry organized by the Canada Centre for Inland Waters that a cooling trend in the last few decades will probably end soon.

"By the first decade of the next century we may experience global temperatures warmer than any in the last thousand years," he said.

He said the effects of carbon dioxide—which acts to warm the earth's atmosphere—will reinforce a natural upturn in global temperatures.

Postmen and Treasury Board Remaining Mum on Proposals

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiators for 16,000 letter carriers and the government are playing their cards close to the vest on a majority conciliation report released Wednesday that proposes pay increases totalling $58 a week over a two-year agreement.

C. M. Drury, acting treasury board president, said in the Commons Wednesday that both parties had agreed not to comment on the report, while Letter Carriers' Union president Roger Decarie said union leaders were still studying its proposals.

Mr. Decarie also said the union is not talking about a strike, raising hopes that a settlement may be reached. The union is legally entitled to strike Monday.

However, even if the union accepts the report, government negotiators could turn it down.

The conciliation report, concurred in by the union nominee to the three-man board, would raise weekly pay to letter carriers with three years experience to $245.60 by July 1, 1976, from the current $177.60.

The report proposes a pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1 of 70 cents an hour; another 30 cents on July 1; a further 40 cents next Jan. 1 and a final raise of 30 cents on July 1, 1976. Hourly wage now for the letter carriers after three years is $4.44.

Egg Control To Be Tighter

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial agriculture ministers reached broad agreement Wednesday on measures to give the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) greater control over production and marketing of eggs.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan, chairman of the meeting, said he expected an agreement to be signed within two weeks.

The agreement would provide for an expansion of CEMA's inspection and monitoring system to exercise continual surveillance of the national hen flock to ensure that producers remain within their quotas. Greater accuracy in reporting all egg production and movement will be ensured by the licensing of all producers, dealers, graders and vendors.

News Briefs

Catch-up Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration warns there will be fewer jobs and more inflation if labor unions press for higher wages than the recession-weakened economy can afford. The Council on Wage and Price Stability noted that wage increases lagged behind price increases last year, but said attempts to recover this loss in 1975 could be counter productive.

Increase Below Normal

TORONTO (CP) — Although sales of gasoline in Canada totalled 7.19 billion gallons in 1974, the 4.2 per cent increase was below the annual average in the 1970s, Ethyl Corp. of Canada Ltd. reported Wednesday.

Release Advocated

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet was urged Wednesday to release abortionist Henry Morgentaler from jail, commute his 18 month sentence and grant him a full pardon. The recommendation was made by the federal advisory council on the status of women.

Power to Fire Asked

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board in Ottawa, has recommended legislation or dismissal of government employees inciting certain types of illegal strikes.

Full Employment Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower policy should be formulated on a full employment assumption rather on the current three per cent rate, says the Canadian Council on Social Development in a brief presented to the Senate committee on national finance today.

How to Keep Warm

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — People can heat their houses by making love, the head of a NATO scientific project said Wednesday. Prof. Vagn Korsgaard of Denmark, whose zero energy house will be opened in Copenhagen Friday told reporters that it would use the body heat of people as part of its heating system. He pointed out that body heat is increased by strenuous physical activity, such as making love.

Talks Continue

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the ministry of education says talks aimed at ending a 42 day strike by Ottawa school teachers were adjourned Wednesday night but will continue this morning. Education Minister Tom Wells, who joined the talks Tuesday, imposed a news blackout on what officials described as a "delicate situation."

U.S. Oil Price Boost Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a surprise vote to allow 30 per cent higher prices for a share of the nation's oil production, the Senate is considering whether Americans should be forced to reduce energy consumption.

Final action was scheduled this evening on a bill giving the president broad authority to impose conservation measures during an emergency, and requiring the states to enforce fuel-saving measures.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee planned to continue its consideration of various options for an energy tax package.

In a significant victory for oil-state senators, the Senate voted Wednesday to allow higher prices for a portion of domestic oil production. Sponsors said the action could provide the incentive for pumping 19 billion barrels of oil that would not be produced at today's frozen price of $5.25 per barrel.

British House Backs Staying In Euromart

LONDON (AP) — By a vote of more than two to one, the House of Commons has backed Prime Minister Harold Wilson's recommendation that Britain remain in the European Common Market on the new membership terms he has negotiated.

Wilson's Labor party split over the issue, with 144 of the 314 Laborites in the Commons voting against Wilson, 133 voting with him and 37 absent or abstaining.

The split was expected, though the size of the anti-Market vote surprised some observers, and Wilson had agreed on a free vote, meaning that the party was not required to support him. But he fired a junior member of the cabinet, Minister of State Eric Heffer of the trade department, who defied his order that no minister was to speak against him in the debate.

Boy Has Clocked 560 Miles In Winter Track Training

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Andrew Cook keeps warmed up — by using a snowbound city park.

The 14-year-old has been using Zwick's park as a training ground for getting in shape for his collegiate's warm-weather athletics.

Almost every day since January, Andrew has donned his jogging suit after school and trots a round trip of three miles from his George St. home to Zwick's.

Once there he jogs another seven miles, a solitary figure between the snowbanks flanking park roadways.

The unpeopled, chilly park is an ideal spot for his workout. It's spacious, has good pavement and little traffic.

Andrew — who moved here with his family from Pennsylvania last fall and now attends Belleville Collegiate — chose the park for just those reasons. In a community the size of Belleville, he says, it's difficult to find a spot that meets all the qualifications for long-distance, undisturbed jogging.

He'll keep the heat on his timbering-up until the warm weather arrives and he seeks to join the collegiate's track and field events.

By then he'll also know how many miles he's jogged to qualify. He keeps a daily track record. To date, he's marked up 560 miles.

Uniform Downtown Shopping Hours Possible

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Downtown businessmen will soon be surveyed on their outlook towards uniform store hours:

Gerry O'Shaughnessy, president of the downtown association, said Tuesday a questionnaire has been circulated to each member of the association and replies are already being returned.

"We want a good amount of input from the merchants themselves before the association executive makes any recommendation on uniform hours," he said. "We must have a good communication link between the executive and the members . . . we don't want to appear to be ramming anything down the merchants' throats."

If uniform shopping hours are accepted by the downtowners, customers will be able to shop with the certainty that if one store is open all the rest will be open.

Modellers Honored

Six Quinte area modellers walked off with prizes in the first annual plastic model contest held Wednesday at Stephen Licence Ltd., sponsored by the Quinte chapter of the International Plastic Modellers Society (IPMS).

Gerry Bongard, store owner, said it was the first occasion his business has conducted the event and added there are plans to realize it as a yearly happening.

There were 16 contestants in two categories of 8-12 years of age and 13-18 years of age. Neither first prize winners were able to be present.

The winners were — (8-12) Victor Rivets, RR3, Frankford, first; Dave Dagley, 8 Third St., second and Gordon Spurgeon, 16 Murney St., bonus.

For the 13-18 category — Anthony Chin of Albert College, first, Gregory Charlton, 9 Forest Hill, second, and Freddie Johnston, 181 Burnham St., bonus.

War Effort Surpassed Canada's Size: Plomer

Canada's effort in the First World War was far out of proportion to her size and manpower, Commodore James Plomer told Quinte-area veterans Wednesday night, and "don't let us forget that. The Canadian identity was established at Vimy Ridge."

Comm. Plomer described Canadian forces as pioneers who had to be resourceful volunteers — "A efficient army, much as we have today in our militia."

Guest speaker at the annual banquet to commemorate the 38th anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, Comm. Plomer, a resident of Milford, spoke to veterans of both wars in the Tête-an Loupe of the ANAF.

"Canadiata," he said, "have a special kind of courage that is all the stronger because of our dislike for war. Veterans know how awful was is and we can take all our lessons for today from the experiences of our country and our men during the First World War."

Comm. Plomer, former senior officer afloat on Canada's east coast and commander of HMCS Cayuga during the Korean War, is also distinguished by the fact he had a tooth pulled by his surgeon aboard Cayuga, Ferdinand Waldo Demera, the Great Impostor.

Three Wars Recalled

Vimy Banquet guest speaker Commodore James Plomer of Milford, a veteran of the Second World War and the Korean War chats with First World War veteran Alf Woodhouse, 87, who served with the Black Watch. The banquet Wednesday night was organized by the Veterans of Belleville Council with First World War veterans as guests of the council.

Sharp Increase in Grants Lessens Trenton Tax Rate

TRENTON — Unconditional grants to Trenton from Quinte's Park in 1975 have jumped 29 per cent over last year to $1,012,000 and could mean a 10 mill decrease in town taxpayers.

The announcement of the impact of the Ontario government's grants came Tuesday from town treasurer Brian Fagan.

Over 1974, the 29 per cent jump represents $227,976, a sum that includes a $45,000-increase in a grant aimed specifically at covering police department operating costs. For the police department alone, the jump in the supportive grant means a 38-per-cent increase over the $73,000 grant in 1974.

Details of the increase in government grants was tabled in the legislature in Toronto after Monday's budget was released.

Mr. Fagan said Wednesday the dollar increase theoretically means the town can get the same level of services this year as last year without levying 10 mills in the total rate.

Grants, termed unconditional by the province, can be applied to any expenditure the town sees fit.

On the other hand, conditional grants must be applied to specific costs. For example, said Mr. Fagan, the transportation and communications ministry gives Trenton approximately $300,000 of which each dollar must be met equally by the town.

Open House at Fisheries Education for Students

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

GLENORA — The Glenora Fisheries Research Station operated by the Ontario ministry of natural resources Wednesday held its annual open house with emphasis on what director Jack Christie termed "face to face contact."

Mr. Christie observed that instead of leaving visitors to "go it alone" efforts were made to explain the numerous displays and programs.

He said student tours of the station planned for today and Friday are experimental this year.

Groups of about 20 students will visit the station and hear lectures by staff members there. Later, it is expected they will report to fellow pupils on one or more of the areas of study.

Mr. Christie said fisheries management is a concern for all, not just the sporting fraternity, commercial fishermen and tourists.

"Fish integrate the whole aquatic system," he noted in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Christie explained if there are healthy fish stocks the aquatic environment is "in good shape."

He suggested the public often fails to appreciate the difficulty in attempting to husband common property resources.

He added that it has been observed that what belongs to everyone in fact belongs to no one.

The director said if the public can recognize the problem in trying to preserve resource a more general involvement may result.

He referred to user conflicts in multiple-use situations and commented that fisheries resources usual take "short shrift."

Displays at the fisheries research station included the Food Web, Fish Autopsy Sampling a Fish Population, Processing Sample, Fish Examination and many others.

Harmony with Nature Theme of Displays

GLENORA — Students of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute today will tour the Glenora Fisheries Research Station where displays focusing on the roles of this government facility will be explained.

Don Hurley, MA, PhD, a biologist specializing in warm water fish studies, says efforts have been made to make this year's exhibits "more comprehensive".

Before arrangements were made for the annual student visit to the research station, teachers were consulted to learn what information would best dove-tail with classroom studies.

"We are showing what we do and what we attempt to do in the Great Lakes, in Lake Ontario in particular," commented Mr. Hurley.

He said the over-all question to be forwarded is "Can we live with fish in harmony?"

Mr. Hurley said there is a fisheries research station on four of the Great Lakes with the facility at Glenora probably the largest. A total of nine persons are employed full-time in addition to casual help.

He observed that in former years elementary school children have visited the station but many of the displays proved too complex to offer real benefits. Teachers generally agreed that the program was too advanced for public school children to derive much information.

Fish Story

Jack Christie Wednesday greeted hundreds of visitors at the open house held annually at the Glenora Fisheries Research Station. This display was part of the exhibit that was prepared for the tour.

Chopper Curious

About 250 students at Smithfield Public School all armed with curiosity, swarmed around Cpl. Bob Abra and one of the two Ontario Provincial Police $200,000 Jet Ranger helicopters. The helicopter visited seven area schools Wednesday in conjunction with the Trenton Knights of Columbus Law Enforcement Week.

Early Morning Crash Kills Detroit Driver

A Detroit man, Louis Joseph Abraham, 53, has been identified as the driver of a 1971 Cadillac killed in a collision with a semi-trailer on Highway 401 a mile east of the Salmon River Bridge about 5 a.m. Wednesday.

With him in the car were his brother, Nastef Abraham, 41, of Melvindale, a Detroit suburb, who is in Belleville General Hospital in serious condition with multiple fractures. Also in the car was Velerie Abraham, 18, of Melvindale, Nassef Abraham's daughter, who is classified in satisfactory condition in BGH with head, neck and foot injuries.

Belleville detachment OPP officers say the Abraham car was in collision with the rear of the transport truck.

Driver of the Canadian Tire Corp. semi-trailer transport suffered minor neck injuries, was treated at Belleville General Hospital and released.

Government Believes Public Wants Strong Measures

Minister Would Close Colleges for a Term if Staffs Take Strike Action

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — There well could have been more than a smidgin of significance in a speech Universities and Colleges Minister James Auld made a while ago about colleges and their staffs.

You may remember it.

The minister said that if colleges' staffs started things strikes, work to rule, banking off or otherwise disrupting the colleges he would take a simple step: he would close down the colleges concerned for a term.

One reason he gave was that it wasn't fair to students, many of whom had worked to get to their colleges, to give them an escapist off-again education.

There could, however, have been another reason, a practical one, a political one.

The Davis government may now be ready for a show-down fight with our teachers.

Teachers at all levels have been getting more and more demanding in Ontario. Demanding and irresponsible.

We have had wildcat strikes. And just currently Toronto elementary teachers have been demanding a 45-per-cent raise.

They have had the government here over a barrel.

Direct negotiations, of course, are carried on with local boards. The government could step in but it has not done so, for what has appeared principally as fear of offending the teachers and the large vote they represent. They have played them patsy.

There now could have been a government decision to reverse this.

Both Mr. Auld's speech and recent stronger positions by Education Minister Tom Wells would indicate there has been.

And if this is true it could have been assessed by the party leaders that politically it could be wise in the election, now expected this spring, for the government to be taking a strong hand against the teachers.

Liberal leader Bob Nixon, regarded as the main threat in the election has been having what appeared to be a public love affair with the teachers.

The NDP is in a position where it hasn't, and wouldn't, publicly oppose them.

Yet every indication is that the majority of the public now is thoroughly fed up with teachers, and what at least comes across as their griping.

The average voter, particularly if a parent, sees them as coddled, working a nine-month year, taking paid sick leave at every opportunity, always complaining about the size of classes and their big work-load and always looking for more money.

As a realistic gamble the government may well have decided that it will attract more votes than it will lose by backing the class-room community and pulling it into line.

The Debacle in Asia

What does the onrushing Communist advance in Southeast Asia mean to Canadians, even to the people of Belleville?

Is it any concern of ours?

Yes. To the extent that, as John Donne put it long ago, "Any man's (or country's) death diminishes me . . . For I am involved in mankind . . . Never Ask to Know . . . For Whom the Bell Tolls . . . It Tolls for Thee."

And didn't Hemingway take a line from that for his book on the Spanish civil war which by drawing Italian Fascists, German Nazis (and their first use of dive-bombing techniques) and Soviet Communists illustrated how others can become involved.

Shouldn't it concern us that the Communist North Vietnamese have broken the Paris peace agreement and are engulfing the territory of the Thieu government in Saigon.

But isn't all this a far cry from Canada? Not really, for wasn't Canada for many years part of the International Control Commission, a body unhappily divided against itself and of little influence in controlling the combatants.

It should concern us because of the deafening silence in Ottawa — from a government which nobly castigated the U.S. bombing of Hanoi, thereby joining the clamor of the left wing both inside and beyond Canada — the placard-waving rabble who emerged from the garrets and the woodwork for even the slightest pretext of an anti-American demonstration, and who now, like Ottawa, are mute. Silent on the killing and maiming of countless South Vietnamese civilians, people hurt and slain just as expeditiously as was achieved by any bomb.

It should concern us because, aside from any government hearts that once bled for the Hanoi Reds there are, right in our midst, fellow travellers who must now be rejoicing over events in Southeast Asia and who might be expected to support an increasingly lettist posture in Canada as well. Support too for what some observers believe could be impending Communist takeovers in Europe, beginning with France and Italy.

Ironically, a Hanoi-published sheet called Vietnam Courier, mailed to us from a union source in Trenton, of all places, last year spoke of "progress toward peace" — once there was an end to "Yankee neo-colonialism" and "overthrow of the puppets. Then, it said, there could be progress toward "the building of a really independent, sovereign and democratic South Vietnam."

Independent?

How independent, incidentally, are we in Canada? What of those "bleeding hearts" (a phrase coined ironically by Prime Minister Trudeau) in Ottawa? How secure are we from the same kind of subversion that is eating away at societies abroad? Does anybody care?

Certainly in the West we are a long way removed from the "bearing of any burden and paying of any price to ensure the cause of liberty" that the late President Kennedy enunciated.

City Roads

Road repair work has been such an on-again-off-again municipal platform in Belleville that it has come to be a case of believing it when we see it.

City Engineer Joe Angelo is on record as saying that in many cases it is not just a simple matter of resurfacing. Older neighborhood streets, he indicates, have stood so much that only total reconstruction would look after the job adequately.

It's a problem that is not going to go away and Council of course realizes this and is doing something about it. The city's recent capital works budget of slightly over $3½ million includes provision for an expenditure of $772,000 on roads — this to cover Dundas East to Bleecker reconstruction, the balance of funds for the Pinnacle Street extension and the initial phase of the industrial-park servicing.

This aside, there is still a lot of ailing road surface around the city. There is much to be done. — and Council knows it.

Cabs Fill Bus Vacuum

Getting to work by cab Belleville-style, because of the trans-It strike, is an expensive proposition. But that's the way it has been for many city employees. It has not even been good cycling weather for those who would try that mode of transportation.

How about walking then? Again, it could be too far for some, but for those who live within a reasonable distance it would go far toward fulfilling the spirit of Canada's new drive for fitness.

Last December company and union representatives got together with Government people, medical men and physical fitness experts in Ottawa to develop a plan for in-plant exercise programs.

Fitness classes are held in some branches of the Health and Welfare department and employees of the Post Office in Ottawa reportedly participate in similar programs.

Periodic tests on the Health and Welfare participants showed marked improvement in fitness.

It's fair to say though there are still too many Canadians who are not exercising enough; if more programs such as the above could be sanctioned by industry and workers it could bring about a more widespread improvement in the nation's health.

Viewpoint

Ottawa Citizen

Canada may achieve two major objectives at the Law of the Sea conference in Geneva, but only if it is prepared to make concessions.

Its first goal is to get agreement not only on economic jurisdiction 200 miles out to sea, but over the whole continental shelf. That would give Canada 400,000 square miles more than the 200-mile limit would provide.

The second goal is to get agreement to clean up river pollution and; therefore, much of the ocean pollution. Most sea pollution originates with rivers.

Stock Market Slips Once Again

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The stock market's early-1975 strength seems to be melting away like the mid-winter snow.

For Canadian investors, the current slump in stocks is made all the worse by the relatively stronger performance of U.S. markets.

The New York market, even though it may have been drifting lower, at least has found a certain measure of support in the recently announced federal income-tax cuts amounting to $22.8 billion.

Canadian taxes, too, were cut in last November's federal budget, but that action seems to have had little long-lasting effect on market psychology.

It appears to have been outweighed by such factors as these:

—Serious disruptions in the Canadian labor market. Wage demands are higher than ever this year, despite rising unemployment and the continuing recession.

—A Canadian inflation rate that shows no sign of being brought under control. Many businesses cannot automatically pass their cost increases along to their customers.

—A depressed outlook for Canadian exports. Our foreign sales have been hit by the current recession in the United States and Japan, by Britain's adherence to the European Economic Community, and by inflationary increases in our selling prices.

Confidence is, as always, the key factor in the movement of stock prices.

Investor confidence in the policies of the prime minister and his comrades—who are proposing to pay themselves a salary increase described, somewhat conservatively, as 33 per cent—remains at a low level.

Even the stockbrokers, who can always be counted upon to be optimistic, are more and more cautious in their comments.

"Until there is some evidence that business inventory liquidation has run its course and that the reorder cycle is visible, and because of developments in the Middle East, we believe a conservative policy still is in order," says Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities of Toronto.

The firm suggests that 20 per cent of the portfolio should be in cash or equivalent and warns that, with few exceptions, it is premature to buy cyclical stocks.

A firm of investment counsel, Babson's Canadian Reports Ltd., takes a similar position.

"It still is too early for a wholesale re-entry into the stock market. . . . A major re-entry should be avoided now and adequate reserves should continue to be maintained."

Wood Gundy Ltd. suggests that Canada's economic position relative to that of the U.S. will suffer during the rest of 1975.

But the Toronto-based firm rejects the view—implicit in the current level of Canadian stock prices—that the North American economy will decline over the next decade.

Its advice: Maintain a prudent cash reserve, but establish strong positions in carefully chosen stocks.

It's true that stock markets usually lead the way. The investor who waits for positive proof that market confidence has returned will probably find stock prices much higher than they are today.

And the attention of a good many investors today is concerned not so much with the upside opportunities as with the downside risks.

So far, the market has borne up reasonably well under the weight of some very bad economic, political and military news.

Analysts are wondering how it would react to a renewal of war in the Middle East, if that calamity should materialize.

Chiang Kai-shek Was Last of the 'Big Four'

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

There have been so many summits, meetings of world leaders meeting in consort since the Big Four of the Second World War that few of us remembered Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek while alive was the last of the wartime Big Four, Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin and himself.

The above-mentioned had him by many years, Franklin D. Roosevelt dying on the eve of victory in Europe, 1945, Stalin in 1953 after a life of monstrous crimes, Winston Churchill of great old age a decade ago.

When the war ended in 1945, Chiang Kai-shek had been fighting the Japanese since 1937 and the Chinese Communists on and off for even longer.

He still ruled most of China in the fall of 1945, a power which the Chinese Communists would whittle away while they demoralized his armies and his immensely corrupt regime to win in 1949 and form the People's Republic of China.

Chiang's domain was reduced to the large island called Formosa by the colonial Portuguese, their word for "beautiful", but better known since he arrived there in mid-1949 as Taiwan.

It would be Nationalist China or the Republic of China, his foothold for a return to the mainland, always a futile hope, but in the Cold War days of the early 50s, one which he was encouraged to maintain, given the massive American support to his cause.

Though his island domain was small, Chiang Kai-shek in the 1950s was still a force to be reckoned with. His rejuvenated army was made up of new officers, as well as the surviving veterans of the mainland war.

His navy and air force were re-created with the latest in American equipment, destroyers and jet fighters.

And the Taiwanese economy in general boomed and continues to do so with substantial American, then Japanese and some European investment. Prosperity and the passage of the years brought the Taiwanese a renewed interest in independence which the aging generalissimo did not anticipate and would not accept. Demands were made for Taiwan's status in her own right as a state and an end to the fiction of the Republic of China.

Such a move would have been absolutely out of the question for the determined general and president and the Taiwanese delegations were called and jailed, their opinions not published.

The change in fortunes came with the move to the real China by some of the world's leading powers, a move to recognize Peking in which Canada had a large role.

Indeed it was the Canadian formula over Peking's claim to Taiwan as a part of China, which permitted not only our recognition but that of about 40 other European, Third World and Asian states.

In that formula appeared the expression, "Canada takes note of the claim of the People's Republic of China to Taiwan," a phrase acceptable to the Communist Chinese.

Today the pendulum of recognition has swung in China's favor and away from Taiwan, though her diplomatic presence still is strong in the world and her economy is one of the strongest in Asia, in spite of global inflation.

These strengths are reason enough to suggest that with the generalissimo gone at last, dead at 87, Taiwan will be able to search for effective independence, in spite of possible great pressures from Peking or the countries which recognized her to impede that process.

LETTERS

The Finances of Royalty

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Queen,

Unhappily the Queen's allowance is not evident, the opposite side of the ledger is not listed in the Public Accounts.

I realize that this letter will have no effect on Mr. Hockley's opinion since we are on opposite sides of a fence, but perhaps he might ponder the reason for the non-payment of tax by the Monarch is because of the differential mentioned above. Parliament is evidently satisfied that the Royal Family deserved and has been for 300 years, despite the efforts of the Knowledgeable fellows as Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Hockley.

E.A. DANDRIDGE.

Who Will Take the Blame?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

There seems to be a fatal tendency these days for everyone to blame everyone (or someone) else for all of the things that are wrong. But each person has been playing a bigger part than he or she realizes in producing the mess that we see around us. It is time that everyone took a real change until there are individuals who take personal responsibility and letting the world wait for us, and letting the quality of that be related. Maybe Jesus is a unifying factor capable of achieving the worldwide brotherhood so many have looked for over the years. Instead of the answer being nowhere, we may find it "now here".

I'd be most happy to hear from any of your readers on this matter. I am an editor of a weekly newspaper located here in western Canada.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 10, 1955.

Ontario Baseball Association president, Clarence Riddell, announced recently that Jack Carson, manager of the Belleville Bulls, has been appointed a member of the association executive. Jack is the first Belleville representative on the body since the late Ken Collier, former sports editor of this newspaper. The OBA could not have selected a more capable executive member than Carson. In fact he is one of the best, if yet the best, in this district, qualified for the post.

The last Canadian infantry battalion to see service in the Far East, the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, sailed from Korea on the 6th of April. They sailed aboard the General W.A. Mann, and are expected to arrive in Seattle on April 21st. Several of the men are from this area.

April 10, 1945.

To help make motor cars last longer and to reduce accidents, Belleville police will co-operate in a Dominion-wide brake check program, it was announced today by Chief Constable F.T. Probert. During a six-week period police will check the brakes of all cars involved in moving traffic violations and in accidents. Mr. Probert said it is to be hoped that motorists will take advantage of the brake-testing device which will be available at the police station at no charge wanting to have his brakes tested. Cars being driven now are cars as old as the hills, on the average, as cars driven before the war — and brake failure can pose a very serious hazard.

40 YEARS AGO

Effective June 30, the Wall St. United Church of Brockville, Ont., and the Young Canada Church of Winnipeg will exchange pastors. At a special meeting of the official board of Young Church, last night Dr. F.E. Malott announced he had accepted a call to the Brockville ministry. It was also announced that Rev. W.E. Donnelly of Young Church had accepted the call extended by the Winnipeg church. Dr. Malott came to Young Church in 1929 from Bridge St. United Church, in Belleville. Prior to that he held pastorates at Orillia, Chatham and Ottawa, all in the eastern Essex County, Ont. Prior to taking up his Brockville charge, Mr. Donnelly held pastorates at Amherstburg, Exeter and Strafordville.

Tweed Chamber Balks At Tourist Booth Cost

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Reporter

TWEED — Unless two regional tourist associations come up with more funds, the Tweed chamber of commerce won't operate a tourist booth this summer. The chamber also wants to see the yearly snowmobile races "A" sanctioned by the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation and wants to keep funds for this purpose rather than spending them on the tourist booth.

This was decided by a meeting of the Tweed chamber of commerce at a meeting in the Tweedsmuir Hotel Wednesday evening. Chamber president Doug Storey told the meeting last year it cost in excess of $1,000 to operate the booth, which is housed in "North America's Smallest Jailhouse", and was staffed by two girls.

"220 people stopped at the booth last year," said Mr. Storey.

"That's small," Bill Thomlinson, a chamber member noted. He said it should be closed for one year.

Mr. Storey pointed out that the Highlands of Hastings and Land of Lakes tourist associations gave but $200 each least year and got all the benefits from the tourist booth.

"The Chamber of Commerce hasn't done anything for five years," Mr. Storey said.

"That's because the bulk of the money is going to the tourist booth," Mr. Thompson added.

"Let's take $2,500 and put a wading pool in the park," Mr. Storey urged. Mr. Thomlinson suggested that the money be kept to be used in conjunction with the snowmobile racing if it is sanctioned.

Mr. Thomlinson pointed out that the races during the Tweed winter carnival have consistently made $2,000 a year for four years. He said that if the races are sanctioned the figure would be $5,000 or even $8,000.

To be sanctioned, the race track would require proper facilities. To achieve this, the chamber plans to approach the Tweed Fair Board with the suggestion that with the aid of a $10,000 LIP grant, a 20- or 60-foot wide banked track be built. Mr. Thomlinson said the race should be a one-day event.

Chamber vice-president Clayton Langevin said such a track could be used for go-kart racing or for 10-speed bicycle racing. Mr. Thomlinson also said motorcycle races would be a big event.

Driver Unhurt

TWEED — A single car accident near here on Wednesday has caused an estimated damage of $200 to a Belleville man's car.

Madoc OPP said a late model car, driven by Doualas John Human, 26, 229 Pine St., in Belleville, went out of control on Highway 28, about three miles south of Ridge Rd. The vehicle also broke through a fence and caused $25 damage.

Provincial constable Rick Doucette is investigating the mishap. There were no injuries.

Fiddlers Tuning Up For Hastings Festival

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — The sound of violins tuning up and old folk melodies being practiced is in the air in North Hastings these days with contestants warming up for the first Bancroft Old-Time Fiddling contest.

The contest, which will be held May 3 in conjunction with their North Hastings Science Scope is being organized by the Bancroft Lions Club. Organizers say they hope to bring fiddlers from many of the surrounding areas into Bancroft.

One of the judges for the contest will be Ramona Hawley, who, herself is an accomplished violinist.

According to the chairman of the contest, Ivor Macleod, each contestant "will be allowed four minutes for the playing of the compulsory numbers of a jig, a waltz and a reel".

The contestants will be competing in two categories, junior and senior, and the judging will be on a basis of music, smoothness, timing and showmanship.

A tape will be made of each contestant and, says Mr. Macleod, in addition to cash prizes "the committee is hopeful that one or more trophies will also be offered if interested donors are found".

The contest will be open to any interested old-time fiddling devotees, however registrations close on April 24.

Entry forms can be obtained by writing to Mr. Ivor Macleod, Box 960, Bancroft.

Prepares for Contest

During the May 1 to 3 North Hastings Science Scope in Bancroft there will be an old-time fiddle contest. Ramona Hawley, an accomplished violinist and one of the judges, gets in some early practice.

Woodburn Praises Festival

BANCROFT — The presence of vocal and instrumental music in North Hastings Schools and the number of private music teachers in the area have been praised by Dawson Woodburn, adjudicator at the North Hastings Music Festival.

"The quality may not be there as much as you wait," said Mr. Woodburn during the festival exercises on Tedneaday, "but ete marvelous to see that people in this area have a great interest in music."

Mr. Woodburn particularly commended the church and school choirs for the quality of tone and the number of participants.

The North Hastings Music Festival is organized and operated by a group of interested parents and citizens.

"You really have to compliment this organizing group," said Mr. Woodburn.

"They don't have the backing of a group like Rotary or Kiwanis . . . they're just truly interested people who are doing a good job."

During the course of the festival, Mr. Woodburn will hear performances by school choirs, rhythm bands, woodwind ensembles, stage bands, triple trios and duets as well as solo performances on the violin, clarinet, recorder, mouthpiece and woodwind instruments.

Enjoy Music

Enthusiasm for the song and rhythm was evident on the faces of the children involved in the North Hastings Music Festival in Bancroft this week.

Joint Director Considered

MADOC — Clerk Tom Burnside is going to write to the townships of Madoc and Huntingdon to find out their thoughts on a joint hiring of an area recreation director.

Councillor Tom Delina at Madoc council meeting this week, suggested such action be taken, noting there are lots of sports facilities and volunteer help but no one to coordinate it, nor get the grants to which they should be entitled.

Swine Bylaw Debated

MADOC — Providing the proper provincial ministries approve, Madoc council will consider amending a bylaw so that pigs can be raised in a barn in the village, council decided at a meeting this week.

Ted Sexsmith owns a farm which is partly in the village and an adjacent township. He told council he would like to raise pigs in the Madoc-bound barn, but a bylaw prohibits this, and he needed approval before he could expand his pig business.

Brandt Considers HOME Lots

STIRLING — A few weeks ago deputy-reeve Fred Brandt said that Stirling should seek some residential building under the provincial HOME (Home Ownership Made Easy) plan, but that was the end of the discussion at 11 p.m.

The matter was brought up again at council this week when Mr. Brandt wanted to know how to get HOME lots in the first place.

Councillor Wayne Martin said there are three different plans, and the matter ended there temporarily.

Sexy Innocence, Bottled Trickery

"I've been talking this week to some of the fellows in the office about femininity.

"Not mine (or theirs), you understand. I've just been conducting a small personal survey about the male attitude to females.

"And it has yielded some fascinating results. Men, it seems, can be tricked into yearning after women just as easily as women have always thought.

This discussion all started with a photograph of a young woman in a frilly (and low-cut) dress, with gently curled (bleached) blonde hair and fringed (artificial) eyelashes. Holding a large lollipop up to her smiling mouth, she looks a little shy, and a little comfitther in her glance.

She's part of a promotion campaign for a new cosmetic preparation — the kind of unsolicited literature that unfortunately crosses the women's desk — and she illustrates what women will look like if only they'll buy the product.

My informal poll shows that although the women around here wouldn't be caught dead in a pose like that, the men all think that this particular girl is pretty hot stuff.

"Why?" I asked. And, as frankly as they could, they told me. She looks innocent, naive, untouched, as if she needs taking care of, they told me. Some noted her freckles (so nice and natural, they enthused), some commented on her dress (lacy things are always so . . . feminine, they sighed) and some thought her expression was both virginal and provocative.

In other words, sexy.

But when I gave them the cosmetic product that accompanied the photo, and asked them to smell it (and give me their opinion of whether it was sexy or not, they all, to a man, said, "Well, it's okay, but it smells more like a baby!"

Right on, gentlemen. That's the whole point of this campaign.

Since the free-thinking attitudes of women's liberation have filtered through to the mass of female consumers, the cosmetics industry has been a little worried.

Hoping to capitalize on the neophoney trend at the same time as keeping women sweet, they've tried the honest-back-to-nature approach. The market has been swamped by avocado creams, lemon and herbal goat, essence-of-carrot, shampoos and honey-hazelnut sprays.

In defiance, a large number of independent young women gave the whole thing up and turned to the stuff of their childhood — baby powder, baby oil, and baby shampoo.

Stunned and hurt, this cosmetic company has swung into this new trend with a vengeance.

They're turning out baby products especially for women, describing it in their advertising copy as the newest thing to turn women into desirable creatures.

"It's natural! Yet sexy!" they clamor. (As if to be both natural and sexy is next to impossible.)

"It's pure . . . clean . . . tender . . . soft . . . fresh . . . and sexy in its own way . . . and you'll feel just like a baby after a bath."

Well, I'm not about to point out how damaging the whole Female as Infant trip is . . . or how, in appealing to men's protective natures, women put themselves down as human beings. No, I won't say a word about how ridiculous it is for grown men to be seduced by women pretending to be helpless.

I'd just like to suggest to the cosmetic people that they stay on this new realistic track.

Keep on this natural kick long enough, and you'll be able to sell us bottled tap water to spray on our "fresh, clean, natural (yet sexy) selves."

Salvation Army Women Hold Home League Rally

More than 400 women from 17 centres attended the Women's Home League Rally earlier this week held by the Mid-Ontario Division of the Salvation Army.

The women came from such places within the division as Whitby, Fenelon Falls and Gananoque. The one day affair was organized by Mrs. Lt. Col. Harold Sharp.

During the day, two sessions were held in Tabernacle United Church, one in the morning and the second in the afternoon. A lunch was held at the Four Seasons Hotel, followed by a fashion show featuring the latest in footwear.

Sides were presented showing life in Pakistan. The Women's Home League has undertaken a project to raise money to build a combination girls' hostel and medical clinic. In this division about $1,500 has been collected so far for the project.

Books By And About Women

MARY MARTIN'S NEEDLEPOINT
By Mary Martin

Autography fans and needleworkers alike will find this colorful and well-illustrated book both interesting and useful. Through the story of her needlework projects the book winds through the show business life of Mary Martin and many of her famous friends.

From a super-ambitious first project — a fruit-ball rug — begun during the long New York run of South Pacific to "theatre sampler" depicting the great moments of her career in Broadway and on the London stage, her love of creating with wool and canvas becomes apparent.

Published six years ago, it is more relevant to the craft scene now than it was then — needlepoint is undergoing a revival comparable to the great crochet boom of the late 60s.

For those little interesting in "show biz" or Mary Martin's career the book provides a valuable appendix with clear explanations and diagrams on needlepoint. Good explanation of canvas and wool types along with a gauge of stitches make it a useful book; advice about design and color make it an interesting one.

Breast Cancer Questionnaire May Keep More Women Alive

VANCOUVER (CP) — One North American woman in five will suffer the emotional and physical agonies of breast cancer in her lifetime but, despite the high incidence of and interest in—the disease, very little is known about it.

A Vancouver doctor and a group of women's organizations headed by the 750,000-member National Council of Women, have decided to rid the causes numerous autopsies on women who had died as a result of breast cancer, Dr. Richards reasoned that before much can be done to stop the disease, more must be known about its causes and so he developed his idea for a national—maybe international—registry.

Every woman in Canada would be encouraged—by media saturation, through women's organizations and doctors' offices—to answer a few computerized questions at periodic intervals in her life. The women would be divided into four separate groups based on age, the number of children they have and whether or not the children were breast fed.

Dr. Richards says that within five to 10 years, researchers would have a massive body of data not now available to answer vital questions about breast cancer.

Dr. Richards said he has collected 1814 and has an estimated computer cost of 1 million a year, based on participation of two million women.

"The only costs above that would be printing and mailing for the questionnaire, and a maximum of one staff person per province to handle clerical functions," he said.

So far, Dr. Richards says, the project has the support not only of the National Council of Women, the Catholic Women's League of Canada, the National Council of Jewish Women, Young Women's Christian Association of Canada, Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, the Voice of Women and a long list of other groups.

Recently the Canadian Medical Association indicated its moral support of the program to Kay Armstrong of Victoria the president of the National Council of Women.

Mrs. Armstrong said she hopes there is enough indication of interest before the council's annual meeting June 2 through 6 in Montreal to organize the project's first year.

When she discussed the project at the Paris meeting of the International Council of Women three weeks ago, she said delegates from Great Britain and the United States expressed interest in establishing such a registry international.

Mrs. Armstrong also plans to present the project and ask for international cooperation at the UN's women's year conference in Mexico City later in June.

However, the medical research establishment has been much more circumspect in its approach to the subject when Dr. Richards has asked for funding.

Dr. Richards says the apathy of the research establishment is only a typical professional reaction to new ideas—especially if they are simple in concept and relatively inexpensive.

Ann Landers

Sensible Solution? Ann Doesn't Agree

Dear Ann Landers: I am 77 and my wife is 68. We have always had a happy life together, despite 17 years' difference in age.

About 10 years ago I was no longer able to function sexually. My wife was only 50 then, and I knew I wasn't being fair to her. She was not one to run around and chase men and although I did my best, I knew it wasn't good enough.

We have a mutual friend (unmarried) who is exactly my wife's age. I told her a few years ago that I'd wanted to get together with him once every few weeks, it was all right with me. I like to play pool, so every other Tuesday night this friend comes for supper and stays a few hours while I go to the billiard parlor.

This arrangement suits the three of us fine. Nobody is getting talked about and we figure it is strictly our own business since no one is getting hurt and several people are getting helped. Wouldn't you say it's a sensible solution?

I realize that many women with impotent husbands either prowl the bars or go nuts. We think our way is better. Please comment.—Satisfied in Texas

Dear Tex: Your solution is better than prowling the bars or going nuts, but if you believe in the Ten commandments, surely you must be aware that one of them is being broken every other Tuesday night—in your own home.

Dear Ann Landers: May I give a word of advice to the men who, though they have wonderful wives they love and trust, still horse around with bold hands with, big eyes and sweet-talk other gals—innocently.

My wife caught me dancing with no music in the office (after hours) with a girl whose hands are on every man within reach. This woman meant nothing to me, but it was terribly upsetting to my wife. Now she wonders what else I've been up to.

That little bit of foolishness hurt my dear wife and destroyed the mutual trust and dignity that our marriage had enjoyed for 25 years.

Fellows, it isn't worth it. The girl wasn't worth the dirt under my wife's little foot.—Stupid in Florida

Dear Friend: You may be stupid in Fla-ida, but I'm not ignorant in Illinois.

Men don't write like that. Women do. You are the wife. I'm printing your letter in spite of the duplicity because there's a message there. But please, honey, don't try to put your words in your husband's mouth.

Dear Ann Landers: I've seen many letters in your column about spoiled children but never have I heard of anything like this.

My 17-year-old step-daughter is after her father to buy her a house.

She and I never got along. Now she says when she becomes of legal age (in a few months) she wants to move into a home of her own and her father should buy it for her. I've already told him that if he buys this kid a house I'm divorcing him. Now he says he will buy US a house first (we're renting at present) and then he will buy her one.

I went back to work a few years ago so we would have some money for our old age. I can't bear to see him take the little nest-egg we have accumulated to buy a house for the pampered child. Your comments would be greatly appreciated.—Fed In Philly

Dear Fed: Your husband sounds as if he is carrying a load of guilt and he hopes the gift will make everything OK. I can't imagine what a house would do for a spoiled teen-ager except make it easy for her to get into a pack of trouble. I hope your husband regains consciousness soon.

Doris Clark

Party Hints from Doris: Play Games, Serve Juice

Dear Doris: I'm planning to have a party. This will be my first attempt at anything of this sort and I would appreciate any help you could give me.

This will be a very casual party, with kids ranging in age from about 16 to 20; liquor will be served. I'd like some ideas on how to be a good hostess and how to keep the party "alive".

Youthful Hostess.

Dear Youthful Hostess: Good for you for tackling a party. Far too many of our young people miss a lot of fun because they are clueless when it comes to getting a group together to have fun.

Being a good hostess means making every guest feel welcome. It means seeing that everybody is introduced to everybody else, and if you know that two people have similar interests help them to get together.

A good hostess circulates among her guests, spending them. Never, never does the hostess indulge herself by merely talking and laughing with her own little inner group.

Some of our would-be sophisticates think it is corny to play games. But believe me, if a party lags there is nothing that can get things going again like a funny game. Most of the ones on the attached 25-cent leaflet (Party Games) are pretty active. They make people forget themselves in tackling a funny — sometimes hilarious — challenge together.

You know, don't you, that it is against the law to even offer liquor to a minor? Youth has far too much peep and interest in living to need artificial stimulation. If you go by me, you will serve orange juice — and maybe save breaking someone's heart by preventing indiscreet behavior.

Dear Doris: No one in the world knows the agony I'm going through. I'm 40 pounds overweight. Being 15 years old and without one single date, I feel so miserable.

Please don't suggest a weight-reducing club because it is too expensive and I'd probably be the only teen-ager. My mom and Dad are divorced. All I do is stay home and eat myself sick.

Slim.

Dear Slim: A weight-reducing club isn't more expensive than all those rich goodies you're consuming! And most of those clubs have plenty of teen-age members. First, you've got to stop feeling sorry for yourself and do something about your weight. You can do it — and you are the only one who can solve your problem.

See your doctor. Ask him to tell you what your correct weight is, and ask for a diet sheet. Make up your mind to stick to it, then do it! instead of sitting home by the fridge, get involved in sports at school, candy-striping at your hospital, and other community activities. You'll soon look and feel 100 per cent better.

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Surely We've Paid

You know, maybe Spring is just playing hard to get and that's why she sent her big tough brother back last weekend. Well, assuming she's made her point — and who won't be glad to embrace her with open arms? — then you'd better get that car of yours ready for her. And that means a spring tune-up from the expert mechanics at Vader's Car Sales on College St. just around the corner from North Front St. With their expanded facilities, Vader's are ready for myself short, but I don't think that reading my column was on your list of priorities with all that snow. The news is that Ice On The Bay is now open for on Sundays too. Hours are Sunday noon until 2:00 p.m. and dinner, from 6:00 until 9:00 p.m. Reservation can be made by calling 476-3114. And surely we have seen our one and only glimpse of weekend sunshine for the last weekend. So get ready for a weekend at Ice On The Bay yet, the final arrival of spring should ensure that you will. Let's hope.

Ah Baseball!

It seemed ironic as I drove past the snow banks this week, to hear it announced that the Expos were having their first game of the official season. (It's a good thing it wasn't a home game — that's for the polar bear league). And you know what the tempers are going to be like at your house when baseball and golf are being spoiled by a T.V. set in poor working condition. Saserfer T.V., 161 Canallton Rd. can help. Superior prides itself on fast and efficient service — and service that's going to keep your set running well for a long time. Someone isn't effed to do any less — they're too busy. Call 962-9516 and save your family tranquility.

Now Is Definitely The Time

Okay . . . so we had a spring setback. But that should not have interfered with your calling Bellevlew Glass and Mirror at 968-5731 and placing your request to have estimates on getting aluminum screen doors and windows for your home or a patio door. The phones weren't out of order. And sooner or later, we're going to have summer and sunshine and mosquitoes and flies and breezes. The breezes and sunshine you'll undoubtedly take and the bugs you'll undoubtedly leave. And Bellevlew Glass can make sure that's the case. That is, they can if you call or visit them at 234 Pinnacle St. and give Spring a run for her money . . . or at least for her time.

Warehouse Carpet Sales

If you didn't get out last weekend to Warehouse Carpet Sales, 301 Pinnacle St. to investigate the carpet bargains in name and quality brand carpet remnants, I'll understand . . . the weather did it. Let's hope you don't have a similar excuse this week. Because, and very seriously, you'll be sorry. For Warehouse Carpet Sales have recently acquired a good selection of quality carpeting in sizes from 1½ foot widths to good old 9x12. And some of this carpet is very expensive when sold in regular widths. So here's your chance to get something good at an equally good price. Visit Warehouse Carpet Sales this weekend, open Friday night until 9 p.m. at course.

Garden Dreaming

The Sidney Inn, 265 West Moira St., tells me they have more garden supplies in. I think that reading about them in last week's column, in last week's weather, undoubtedly broke your hearts. Who could imagine green with all that white? Well you can ask much less of your imaginations this week (so far anyway). And a garden is just as good as the planning and care that go into it. Sidney Inn has onion seed, both Dutch and Spanish sets, and is expecting seed potatoes in soon. Sidney Inn also has cabbage and lettuce seeds, plus many other garden varieties. Go and take the pick of the selection early. Just because spring had one set back, you don't have to give it another.

Never Too Many

My friends at Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. tell me that interest in buying is really picking up. So if you're interested in selling, you'd better call 968-6175 and get your property listed — building lots, farms and homes. This is the time of year to sell, but you've got to do your part and tell Gord Roblin what you've got. One of the capable sales staff at Gord Roblin will help you assess the value of your property, advertise it for you and bring responsive buyers to you. All you have to do is pick up the phone. The Gord Roblin staff will do all the hard stuff. What a team!

More New At Pet Shop

I really like contacting the Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. — all their news is good news. For instance, this week they have three new Pomeranian pups (Pomeranians are very tiny by the way) and a new batch of kittens, some of which are half Persian. When you buys pets from the Tropical Garden, you get much more than an animal; you get experience and advice on caring for your pet too. Absolutely free of charge. The Tropical Garden is not just selling pets, it's selling itself and its business. So it has to do the job properly. You'll see for yourself.

Great Studio 231 Service

Connie Mitchell and her staff at Studio 231, 231 Front St. take the whole matter of customer service very seriously. That's why Connie is now offering queen-size sportswear as part of her spring and summer fashion package. The major item in black now is pant suits. But there are lots more on the way. Queen-size apparel covers sizes 38 to 44. So now you've heard the news. And if you Ms. Readers aren't in this large category, you can tell your friends and relatives who are. You'll be doing them a great service — just as Studio 231 is doing. Thanks.

Wagons Rolling

NOBLETON, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Wagon Train got underway again Wednesday after a week's delay, leaving two wagons, several horses and a mule behind.

The train had been stalled near Nobleton, about 15 miles northwest of Toronto, by both breakdowns and a surprise blizzard after covering only six miles of its planned 3,000-mile journey to Alberta's Peace River country.

Guard Slain

COWANSVILLE, Que. (CP) — Police said a 19-year-old convict, Maria Gauthier, is being held as a material witness in connection with the slaying Tuesday of a guard at the Cowansville medium security prison.

Georges Nadeau, 34, chief paint shop instructor at the prison for seven years, was beaten to death with a hammer as he entered his office in the institution, 50 miles east of Montreal.

Cover Ordered

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has ordered Toronto Refiners and Smelters to enclose its lead-processing plant because of pollution of the environment, it was announced Wednesday.

Ira Kaufman, a lawyer for the firm, said it would involve putting a "dome" over the four-acre site and cost more than $1 million.

Ashes Lost

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — Ashes of man cremated last fall, mailed to Toronto, are still lost despite a search which has involved the emptying of 250,000 mail bags.

In September, the ashes of Michel Klechko, 77, were mailed second class from Grimsby, about 10 miles west of St. Catharines, to the Prospect Cemetery in Toronto but never arrived.

New Cadillac

DETROIT (AP) — In the midst of a business slump with United States car sales off 20 per cent, General Motors will put its Seville—the first small Cadillac—on sale May 1 with an expected $11,000 price tag.

Plan New Inn

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Alex Scourides, president of Ravensfour Development Corp., said Tuesday that Holiday Inns is interested in building an 85-room hotel on the Cobourg harbor front.

The proposed site would be a 6½-acre parcel of land owned by Canadian National Railways.

Needs Not Met

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The provincial government's housing policies are not meeting the needs of young couples, renters or senior citizens, Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, said Wednesday.

Dislikes Shows

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General John Clement said Wednesday that he watches less television these days because he's sickened by what he sees.

"Night after night, heroes and villains alike are run down by cars, shot in the head, stabbed, pushed over cliffs and thrown out of helicopters," he told the annual meeting of the York North Progressive Conservative Association.

Expediency Seen

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Cuts in the civil service announced in the Ontario budget Monday result from political expediency, not a provincial manpower evaluation, says G. G. Norman, general manager of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO).

He told a union meeting here Tuesday that the Davis government was looking for political support when the cut was announced.

Ontario Airlift Plans Are Scrapped

GENEVA (CP) — The adoption of Vietnamese children contravenes the Geneva Convention code governing the protection of Civilian populations, a spokesman for the International Committee of Red Cross (ICRC) said Wenesday.

The 1949 conventions permit providing temporary homes for war children, but forbid "formal and definitive adoption such as is being practised now when everyone wants to import Vietnamese children," the spokesman said.

The conventions laid down certain "guarantees" for receiving and housing children under 15 in a neutral country while conflict lasted—including stipulations that in the case of children orphaned or separated from their families, efforts should be made for their upkeep and education and opportunity be given to practise their religion.

Education is to be provided, where possible, by persons of the same cultural tradition, the ICRC spokesman said.

The parties in the conflict also have to take all necessary measures for children under 12 to be identified.

Won't Copy

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will not follow Ontario's example in providing homeowner grants to purchasers of existing houses, Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday.

Vietnamese Adoptions Said Violating Code

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario plans for a large-scale airlift and adoption of war orphans from South Vietnam have been "virtually scrapped," a spokesman for the provincial ministry of community and social services said Wednesday.

The spokesman said it had become apparent "better negotiations" exist with the Saigon government in attempting to arrange adoptions on an individual basis than through a large-scale effort.

The Ontario government in co-operation with federal officials and private agencies had hoped last week to airlift about 500 orphans from a half-way house in Saigon.

Waterfront Grants Cut by Province

Provincial government funding for acquiring public access points along the Lower Great Lakes has been reduced, Belleville parks board learned Tuesday.

The board and city council earlier this year recommended the Moira River Conservation Authority investigate property purchase the Herchimer Ave. waterfrontage area of the Bay of Quinte.

The authority has requested $75,000 under the acquisition program.

But J. H. McLeod, the authority's secretary — treasurer recently wrote city hall, that allocation of provincial funds has been reduced from $1 million to $200,000 the parks board was told. Any amounts to be alloted local conservation authorities has not yet been decided.

Mr. McLeod's letter said no further action is contemplated until a specific amount has been allocated the authority.

Board to Let Tenders Despite Lack of Budget

The city's parks board this week decided to go ahead with tendering for two pieces of machinery — even though it is not in its budget estimates — to step up delivery.

The equipment sought is a van for carrying small garden mowers and a self-propelled sweeper for cleaning turf.

Ald. George Zegouras, recreation-arena committee chairman, said he opposed the move. He was concerned, he added, about including new items in departmental estimates before city council strikes its budget.

But, noted Ald. Jean Smith, city council does not strike specific items from the parks budget. It may shave its estimates, but what specific purchases are affected is left up to the board's discretion.

Lloyd Syer, parks director, sought permission to tender immediately. Waiting until the budget is struck would delay bids — and delivery — until mid-summer. The equipment is needed as soon as possible.

Hearing Week Set for May 5-11

The Belleville Speech and Hearing committee has named the week of May 5 to 11 as Deaf Awareness Week with major events taking place in the community.

During May 8,9,10 the committee will sponsor displays at the Quinte Mall. The displays will include demonstrations of special devices used by the deaf, displays by hearing aid dealers and information about early detection of hearing problems.

The Quinte Club of the Deaf is planning a Get Acquainted Dance for May 24. The committee will hold a meeting April 16 at Centennial Secondary School for organizational purposes.

CD-4 Discrete 4-Channel Disc System
CD-4 keeps the signal separate all the way from the recording studio to the living room without mixing them in any way. Captures those qualities that make the concert hall performance unique — the sound reflections, the presence, movement and resolution; qualities that discs have never before been able to create.

SEA — 5-Ways Better Control Over Tone
The unique Sound Effect Amplifier splits the sonic spectrum into 5 separate bands and you can emphasize or de-emphasize any or all of these bands by 13 dB. You can use S.E.A. to compensate for variations in room acoustics, or to create sound effects of your own choosing.

ANAR — Automatic Noise Reduction System
The equal to open reel decks and are increasingly being used in audiophile systems. ANRS eliminates tape hiss and increases the S/N by 5 dB at 1kHz and 10 dB above 8kHz. It does this without altering the music signal in any way only the noise is affected.

BTL — No More Wasted Watts
Balanced Transformer = Less circuitry is another JVC exclusive innovation that is incorporated into our 4 channel amplifiers and receivers. When they are switched for 2 channel sound the 4 power amplifiers are reconnected in 2 pairs — internally and automatically so that each of the stereo signals is amplified by two power amps. This way, no power amps are wasted.

TREES FOR CANADA

'Trees For Canada' is an ideal opportunity for Scouting to do a three-way good turn — for the country, for the boy who participates and for Scouting at all levels.

Each participant — boy or leader — commits himself to plant a designated number of trees. People are asked to sponsor the participant at an amount per tree as is done in a walk-a-thon.

No one can deny the benefit to the boy. His participation in such an environmental project will give him a first hand association with the problems facing the country concerning forest coverage. His present profit is the pride in taking part in a big project which helps develop the country. The growing forest will be a constant reminder to him and others of his participation in a practical, useful good turn during his youth.

This project is also ideally suited to reinforce and enlarge Scouting's program in the outdoors and ecology. It also can be directly linked to star and badge requirements.

Local Planting Saturday, May 3, 1975

BOY SCOUTS OF CANADA

BELLEVILLE DISTRICT.

"Trees For Canada" Is a Canada-wide Project Designed to Give All Members of Scouting the Opportunity to Demonstrate Through Action Their Concern For Their Country.

Trees For Canada Is Also a Fund Raising Project. The Funds Raised Through This Project Will Be Used To Help Further Scouting In Our Community, Meet Other Local Needs and Worldwide Jamborees, Rallies, Cubaramas, Etc.

Our Belleville District Has Secured 30,000 Trees, Which Will Be Planted By the Boys, In Belleville and Near Read.

These Trees Will Not Be Cut for Christmas Trees. They Are To Be Grown to Maturity.

We Need Your Help, By Sponsoring Each Tree. The Boys Will Be Around to See You This Month. Please Be Generous.

One Million Trees In 1975

One million trees will be planted in Ontario this year by Scouts participating in the 'Trees For Canada' project.

In every province and the Northwest Territories, Scouts will be expressing their concern for their country through planting trees. The results of this project will be a more beautiful Canada, a land which is less susceptible to flooding and a future source of vital raw materials.

The 'Trees For Canada' project was launched on a trial basis in Ontario in 1972. A similar program 'Trees For Tomorrow' was undertaken in Manitoba. Both of these projects have proven that Scouts enjoy the opportunity to get personally involved in contributing to the future of Canada.

'Trees For Canada' is a fund raising project. Most of the funds stay in the community where it is raised. Some goes to the International Brotherhood Program 'Operation Amigo'. This is a four year program designed to help five South American Scout Associations adapt the Scout Program to the needs of their boys.

The funds are raised through pledges from people in each community involved. In most communities only one contact will be made with a householder. This, combined with knowing how many trees the Scout will plant, makes it easy to determine how much to pledge.

One million trees will reach their maturity when the Scouts who planted them have children of their own. 'Trees For Canada' is a project concerned with tomorrow. A tomorrow which will be better because communities supported the Scouts in this project today.

Lighting A Priority

Lighting of the baseball facility at Centennial Park in west Belleville is a priority, and "every effort" will be made to have it installed by 1978 at the latest, AM. George Zegouras, chairman of the city's recreation-arena committee said this week.

His remarks, at a committee meeting, followed discussions last month with a representative of the city's Minor Baseball Association.

Other parks and recreation staff comments on Centennial facility:

— Using washroom and dressing room facilities at the nearby Dick Ellis Rink gave the "best overall advantage" for all sport programs in the recreation complex.

— A water outlet will be installed behind the baseball backstop.

Health Unit Waits Word On Funds

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit is still awaiting word from the provincial ministry of health on the amount of money it will receive to conduct its proposed family planning program.

Dr. C. H. Lenk, medical officer of health, said Monday the health unit has drafted its program but modifications might be necessary if insufficient funds are available from the Ontario government.

However, he noted the province is committed to pay the total cost of the program which will mean no financial obligation on the part of municipal taxpayers in the two counties.

Dr. Lenk related the program developed from two health ministry philosophies. "The general philosophy is the population explosion around the world," he said.

He added, "in particular, they want to give people a chance to plan their lives . . . and not to be haphazard." more

Dr. Lenk elaborated with the example of a newly-married couple, perhaps entering the working world for the first time or still attending a learning institution, attempting to budget their finances for the first few years of their marriage.

The program will assist them in avoiding untimely pregnancies, he explained.

Should the government offer to pay the maximum cost, Dr. Lenk has one definite view on one part of the program. "I certainly would be for free issue of contraceptive drugs and instruments," he commented.

As for introducing a separate program into the secondary school system, Dr. Lenk said the health unit will not approach board of education authorities until it has a concrete plan.

However, he pointed out the health unit would favor as much school involvement as possible in the general program.

Car Lands In Ditch

BRIGHTON — A Trenton man is in hospital with pelvic injuries after his car smashed through several barricades and plunged into an open excavation ditch on Main St. here Tuesday.

In satisfactory condition in Trenton hospital is Leslie Stewart McNeil, 21, of 1 Marmora St.

Brighton provincial police say the McNeil vehicle was eastbound on Main St. when it missed a detour and dropped into a ditch, smashing against an exposed concrete man-hole form.

No End in Sight to Week-old Belleville Transit Strike

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Striking transit commission workers will begin receiving strike pay once their regular pay runs out, a spokesman for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CBRT) said Wednesday.

Transit employees were told before they took a strike vote that there is no provision in the union constitution for automatic strike pay.

Hugh Kerr, local president of the union, said the situation isn't too good but there's not much we can do about it.

Jack Thomas, representing the CBRT, said the union represents some 20,000 train employees and it would be impossible to provide them all with strike pay.

"However, because the transit local is so small in size having only 23 members — the union will give them strike pay once they have no more pay coming from the commission," said Mr. Thomas.

Transit workers have been off their jobs since last Friday with wages at the central issue in dispute.

The union has demanded an across-the-board increase of one dollar an hour. The commission stood by a counter offer of an immediate 75 cents-an-hour hike, followed by a 10-cent-an-hour raise effective in June.

"We'll have enough money to give the boys strike pay until hell freezes over," said Mr. Thomas.

He could not say exactly how much pay each man could expect.

Mr. Kerr said "to the best of my knowledge none of the men have found part time jobs so far — mainly they're on working wives."

There has been no sign of renewed negotiation between the union and the commission.

Provincial Team Defends Validity of Bridge Study

AMELIASBURG — The Bay Bridge relocation study is no public relations scheme designed to support a political decision already taken, provincial government planners said Wednesday night.

But a public credibility gap is not unusual at the outset of such studies, indicated one of the officials in charge of the transportation and communications ministry project.

The assurances of validity came after the study team finished gathering initial local reaction to a new highway link across the Bay of Quinte.

The end to the first phase of the four-part study — expected to take 15 months — came at a crowded meeting in the township hall here.

More than 100 persons packed the building to query the ministry team assigned to discover the best site and type of facility to replace the present Highway 14 Bay route — 84-year-old swingbridge now channelling traffic between Prince Edward County and the Belleville mainland.

One township resident said if he wanted to build a bridge he would conduct a study and present it in such a way to prove his point.

"Is that what's happening here?" he asked.

"No," retorted ministry environmentalist Peter Pintofi. "It's as simple as that."

Mr. Pintofi agreed in an interview later he took the question to imply the site of the new link already could have been decided.

"I think the very fact this is an open study all the way through disproves that," he said.

Ignacio Ardione, ministry area manager in charge of the study, said in such studies "initially we get a great deal of credibility gap. It's difficult (at first) to make people believe we're much more an open planning approach and we want input."

The crowded response here was in contrast to a session attended meeting on the Bay's north shore Tuesday when less than 30 people showed out for the team's public presentation at Loyalist College.

However, many of the questions were the same.

Even the theme of some opposing opinions were similar: Whether the new link should service through traffic to the Highway 401 expressway, or be designed to help local commuters to and from the city.

Said one Prince Edward resident: The entire project "boils right down" to cost and people — those who work and live in Belleville.

Retorted another: "It's ludicrous to funnel it (traffic) . . . into Belleville. . . . It's already bottlenecked."

Such opinions and suggestions the study team now adds to data already compiled in contact with other agencies, local councils and MPPs in a project first ordered last October.

It followed the August announcement by Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes that a new traffic route would replace the decrepit swingbridge and causeway.

Next on the team's schedule is an early fall survey of origins and destinations of traffic using the old swingbridge at time when vehicles approach a peak of 12,000 daily. Volume on Highway 14 now for which the aged bridge must open also will be studied.

Bridge Size Hampers Equipment Movement

AMELIASBURG — It's one thing to drive the Belleville-Rossmore swingbridge and north through city traffic in a car.

The frustration grows however, when the vehicle you're steering is a big, broad piece of farm machinery.

The woes of such a challenge were outlined — by a farmer — to a public meeting in the township hall here called to discuss a provincial government study on replacing the old bridge.

Alfred Cairns, who farms on the township's second concession, noted farm implement dealers are mainly located in Belleville's north end.

Manouvering machinery in need of servicing by the dealer can be a "pretty hair-raising experience" crossing the narrow, old bridge. Cars sometimes have to back off to allow such machinery to cross.

At Belleville's North Front St. is a "hazardous place" in which to steer such equipment, said Mr. Cairns.

Bridge Talk

Seymour Hamilton, Ameliasburg farmer, engages in serious discussion over new Bay of Quinte route for Highway 14 with Ignacio Ardizone, transportation and communications ministry manager at Ameliasburg meeting Wednesday night. Mr. Hamilton was among about 100 who packed township hall to hear presentation on bridge study by ministry study team.

Doctors Fear Hypertension Reaching Epedemic Level

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Time Magazine calls it the "quiet killer" and a group of doctors at Belleville General Hospital Thursday night called it a "common disease" that affects one out of 10 city residents.

High blood pressure, known medically as hypertension, affects about two million Canadians and most medical authorities now consider it to be at an epidemic level. About 150 people heard five doctors discuss the incidence and treatment of the disease at a public seminar sponsored by BGH.

"Of the 10 per cent of the population who have high blood pressure only one-third are aware of the problem and only one-quarter receive adequate treatment," said Dr. Paul Armstrong, director of the coronary care unit at Kingston General Hospital.

For this reason, said Dr. Armstrong, public education is the only answer to bringing this disease under control. High blood pressure is the leading cause of heart attacks, strokes and kidney disease. It kills thousands each year.

Dr. Armstrong, also a professor at Queen's University, said the causes are unknown but there are several factors, including over-weight, stress, salt, lack of exercise, and heredity, which can affect the disease.

He also said blacks are more prone to high blood pressure than are whites. Sex also plays a part. Men are affected by the disease at earlier ages while women tend to be affected in later stages of life.

A Belleville internist specializing in cardiology, Dr. Conrad Kuebler said people with high blood pressure usually have to remain on medication for indefinite periods. He said the disease is controllable but that it is seldom completely cured.

"The physicians and the public have a responsibility to accept it's not going to go away — it's a life-long proposition," added Dr. Armstrong. High blood pressure normally does not have any symptoms but is easily detected during a medical examination. All the doctors urged people to have their blood pressure taken.

Dr. Robert Steele, a professor of epidemiology at Queen's University, said "effective treatment can dramatically reduce deaths". He also said environments can play a factor in high blood pressure.

A Belleville family physician Dr. Lionel Dockrill suggested that BGH should develop a type of service whereby people could have their blood pressure tested without having a complete medical examination.

100 Artists on Display At Artfest Corby Show

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Artfest '75, the month-long festival devoted to the arts in the Quinte area and sponsored by the Quinte Arts Council, shifted its attention to the visual arts Wednesday night with the premiere of an art display at Corby Library Gallery.

The display was officially opened by Mayor Robin Jeffery at a wine and cheese party. It opens to the public today and continues until April 26.

Something new this year besides the change from Ben Director Auditorium is the fact that the library gallery will be open Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. during the 26-day event.

Chosen the best piece of art in the exhibition was a work done in conte crayon called Break by Morus. Best craft piece in the exhibition was a porcelain bowl by Donnah Cameron Finnegan.

On display at the gallery are 54 pieces of art from six to water colors chosen by the two jurors out of 151 entries. In the crafts section, ranging from macrame to pottery, 52 pieces were chosen out of the 90 that were entered. A total of about 100 artists and craftmen are represented in the display.

Thurlow May Curb Speed Limit

Thurlow Township council is considering lowering the speed limit on a stretch of road in the township running from the village of Foxboro to an area near the railway tracks. Although no limit is posted, the usual limit in such areas is 50 miles per hour and council is considering bringing it down to 35 miles per hour.

Reason for the move prompted by council Wednesday is a proposed new school and the number of senior citizens in the area.

In other township business, council heard a representative from contracting firm ask for approval to build a three-bay garage on Highway 14 near Thompson's Furniture Warehouse.

The garage to be 3,000 sq. ft. in area would go to council for approval, who would then refer it to the ministry of housing for the final say on the matter, taking into account such issues as health factors involved in such a project.

A visitor during council's afternoon session Wednesday was Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings who stopped for half a brief visit on his way to Peterborough.

Winning Smile

Local craftsman, Donnah Cameron Finnegan has plenty of reason to smile. A porcelain bowl created by her was chosen best piece of craft entered in the juried art and craft exhibition which opens today at Corby Library and runs until April 26. The visual arts display is part of the Quinte Arts Council's Artfest '75, a month-long display of the arts of the Quinte area.

Mishap Costly

WAUPOOS — A Belleville motorist escaped injury Wednesday night in a single-car accident on the Waupoos Rd.

Thomas Field, 40, of Bird's Belleville, was unhurt following the mishap that caused approximately $1,000 damage to his car.

Police said details of the accident which occurred shortly before 10:30 p.m. are not yet available.

Stolen Van Found

TRENTON — Brighton Provincial Police today continued to investigate an abandoned van that was found on its side heavily damaged on the old Wooler Rd. Wednesday.

Police said the vehicle, belonging to Leslie Hile, of 190 Dundas St. E. was reported stolen Wednesday.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated by police at $4,000 and was termed a write-off.

Most Parents Backing School Dental Program

The ongoing fluoride treatment program for Grades 1 and 2 in Quinte area elementary schools conducted by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit is receiving successful acceptance, officials says Dr. Dennis A. Warrick, director of dental services.

He told the health unit board Wednesday clinics have been held in five Trenton schools so far and at the health unit's Picton office, the latter by appointment only. Trenton does not have a fluoridated water system.

A total of 12½ clinic days were held and 400 students treated.

Dr. Warrick said the health unit will organize clinics by appointment in municipalities with fluoridated water.

He noted co-operation from the boards of education. "We're really thankful for the assistance with this program," he said, pointing out board vans were used to carry equipment.

Dr. Warrick said there were a few negative responses. "There are one or two in each school along with a sarcastic note from the parent," he remarked.

Smith Gets Nomination

Ald. Jean Smith of Belleville City Council has been nominated by Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit Board for an executive position on the Association of Ontario Boards of Health.

Members voted Wednesday to nominate Mrs. Smith to the association's board of directors.

It elected during the association's annual meeting in London, Oct. from April 20-22, she will be the second executive board member to sit on the executive.

Present member is Enos David of 7 Eastwood Park Dr. in Belleville who is chairman of the association's education committee. He was not reappointed to the board this year, making him ineligible for re-election.

Fluoride Working

Results of the current fluoride treatment program being conducted in Quinte area elementary schools by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit show a 40 per cent reduction of tooth decay but this does not approach the benefits from a fluoridated water system, says Dr. Dennis A. Warrick, director of dental services.

He told the health unit board Wednesday there is a 67 per cent reduction among people consuming fluoridated water. Belleville and Picton have fluoridated water systems while Trenton does not, he noted.

Dr. Warrick said the program reaches each child once a year but this is not sufficient. "A child should be done every three months but there's no way parents can afford it," he commented.

He said as an alternative the health unit aims for an average number of treatments per year, depending on the ability of a child to resist tooth decay.

First Aid Outlined

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit has compiled and printed its first leaflet on first aid procedures designed for use in school.

Clifford R. Cotton, business administrator and secretary — treasurer, told the health unit board Wednesday compilation and typing, about a week's work, was accomplished entirely by health unit staff. Cost for printing by the Hastings County Board of Education.

The booklets will be distributed to the Children's Aid Society and Victorian Order of Nurses in the two counties.

Health Unit Approval of Budget

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit board members are crossing their fingers, awaiting provincial ministry of health approval of their 1975 budget, which they hope will alleviate a public health nurse shortage.

Clifford R. Cotton, business administrator and secretary-treasurer for the health unit, told the board Wednesday the ministry cannot approve any health unit budgets from across Ontario until final salary negotiation figures between health units and their nurses have been received.

In a later interview, Mr. Cotton explained those figures must be submitted in the form of a supplementary budget. The health unit here is currently in the middle of salary negotiations with its nurses.

He elaborated there are actually three budgets — A, B1 and B2. He said A and B1 are global budgets which include all salaries and expenses incurred to operate the health unit.

B 2 is the crux of concern, however. Mr. Cotton said the budget involves new programs and additional staff.

Early-morning Blaze Guts Home

An early morning fire Wednesday gutted a two-storey home on Victoria Ave., leaving a mother and her two teen-age sons homeless.

City firemen were called to 41 Victoria about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday morning when fire broke out in the basement of a home, owned by Mrs. Don Whalen. First Chief Dave Culhane said Mrs. Whalen and her two sons, asleep upstairs, were aroused by smoke and managed to escape without injury.

Chief Culhane said the fire moved from the basement to the first floor quickly and by the time the fire was under control about 1 a.m. it had reached the top-half of the house. He said there was extensive damage to the interior and contents of the house. There was no estimate of damage.

Duffy Critical of EMO Cutback

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Wednesday's announcement by acting provincial solicitor-general John Clement that the province plans to phase out its participation in the emergency measures branch came as a "complete surprise" to Quinte Emergency Measures Organization coordinator Angus Duffy.

"In fact, I had a call just yesterday saying it was the intention of the government to continue its support until the end of this year," Col. Duffy said.

Mr. Clement, in Toronto, said the government plans to develop task forces consisting of senior representatives of provincial ministries involved in alleviating such emergencies as major floods, forest fires, air crashes, epidemics and similar disasters.

"This concept will provide similar services as those formerly co-ordinated by the emergency measures branch.

"Therefore it has been decided by cabinet to gradually phase out the emergency measures branch over the course of the coming year," Mr. Clement said.

At present, EMO financing is split between federal, provincial and municipal governments. The municipal share is 10 per cent.

To keep operating, Col. Duffy says, municipal financing would have to be increased to 10 times its current level if other funding is not provided.

A meeting of area municipal EMO officials is slated for April 16 at which the future of the operation will be discussed. Quinte EMO's 1975 budget is $25,000.

"I don't see how the province can cope with a disaster situation," Col. Duffy said. "The big thing is to have an effective plan, so that when disaster strikes you're ready. An after-the-fact bandaid from the province isn't going to help the people who are bleeding and need help right away."

"Guesspert" Likes These

Following up on Tuesday's first-round National Hockey League playoff predictions, I offer the balance of my fearless forecast.

Upon completion of the first round, teams remaining, listed according to points on the regular season, will be: Philadelphia Penguins, New York Islanders, Vancouver Canucks and Chicago Black Hawks.

Remember, now (said Peter Puck —ugh) the team with the most points meets the team with the fewest.

And that matches Flyers and Hawks, Sabres and Canucks, Canadiens and Islanders, and Kings and Penguins.

It's Flyers over the Hawks in five games; Sabres over Canucks in five; Canadiens over Islanders in six, and Kings in seven over Penguins.

That brings us to the semi-finals where it's Flyers defeating the Kings in six games and Sabres sopping Canadiens in seven.

And here we are in the final series and it's only about four months to the start of training camp and the 1975-76 campaign.

It's in the bag.

Flyers will repeat as Stanley Cup Champions, getting by Sabres in six games.

Now, if I just had the courage of my convictions,I'd make a fortune — or lose one.

Anyone who is serious about making predictions, deserves the title "guesspert." There's nothing expert about it.

ELIZES — Ron Stafford at Belleville Utilities Commission, gets the record straight concerning his Trenton entry in the Dixons Shrine Peewee Hockey Tournament.

Coach Stafford points out that it was Mike Peterson in goal for his club in the 4-2 defeat of Niagara Falls.

In a tournament report, the other half of the fine Trenton goaltending duo, Al Marchand was mentioned. Marchand is between the pipes for the club's other tourney start and was solid.

It seems goaltending excellence runs in the Peterson family. Mike's brother, Steve, was a standout for Trenton Major in the recent Golden Hawk Midget Tournament.

Jake Berkuizen, convener of the midget division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, suggests that one of the problems affecting the calibre of officiating in the sport, is a lack of interest among young people.

He is not alone when he says more young men who have benefitted from being part of the minor hockey setup should "give something back" by giving officiating a whirl.

Of course, hockey is not alone in this respect. Too few graduates of minor programs return to the associations as executive members, coaches, managers, or game officials.

It's time more young people got the message and became involved.

Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association have named Trenton Minor Hockey Association product John Garrett, the club's most valuable player for the 1974-75 season.

In goal for 56 of Saints' 78 regular season games, Garrett chalked up a solid 3.28 goals against average. He recorded a pair of shutouts.

That 3.28 average gave him sixth place in the list of top goalies but the race was so tight, he was just a shade away from finishing second. a position held by Houston Aeros' Wayne Rutledge with 3.34. The leader was Houston's Ron Grahame who boasted a mark of 3.01.

Cowley Upsets Brown In Men's Club Final

Dan Cowley upset Dave Brown's foursome Sunday night to win the 1975 Quinte Curling Club Men's crown. Cowley won on last rock with a freeze draw to the button.

The competition, which began last week, consisted of the top eight rinks in Regular and the top eight in Competitive curling from the 1974-75 season.

In Regular curling skips, leads, seconds and vice-skips play as individuals rotating to different rinks throughout the season. They collect points on an individual basis and then at the end of the season the top eight skips, leads, seconds and vice-skips are put together in eight different rinks.

Competitive curling, on the other hand, has the same four curlers playing together on the same rink for an entire season. Then the top eight rinks are put in the playoffs. Competitive rinks are given a slight edge over Regular rinks because of the length of time rink members have curled together.

After the top eight Competitive rinks played off, Brown had finished first, Cowley came first in the Regular Bonspiel. The two then faced off for the club title.

Cowley's underdog rink consisted of Bob Graham, Dick Lumbers and Ron Krause. Lumbers is only a second year player and Krause just completed his first year.

Brown's runner-up foursome is comprised of Bill Henderson, Paul Knudsen and Bob Burkitt.

The consolation men's championship went to Finlay McCorquodale's Competitive rink. McCorquodale also skipped the consolation champion rink in the mixed-club bonspiel. Glen Watson, Bob Anderson and Bob Smith made up the McCorquodale rink.

Phil Dyble skipped the consolation runner-up. His rink members are Ivan Hilbert, Ron McLean and Murray McLean.

Stanley Back On Right Track

Knocked slightly off keel on their crash to the playoff championship of the Gas House Hockey League when they dropped a 9-4 decision to Belleville Generals, Monday night, the Stanley Structures' skaters righted themselves, Wednesday, at Memorial Arena.

Playing in the fourth game of the league's eight-point final series, Stanley posted a 5-2 win to move in front 3-1 in games. Monday's setback was only the second of the season for the powerful Structures.

Goals by Wayne Levesque, Russ Harrington, Wayne Storms, Ray Summers and Mike Gorgan moved Stanley's to within two points of the championship. The club can wind it up, Monday night.

Levesque and Storms also picked up a pair of assists each with single helpers for Charlie Rowbotham, Harrington, Gorgan and Bob Mulvin.

Dave Skelton and Hyalie Bryant replied for Generals with defenceman Gary Geyer in or both scoring plays. Steve Truskow and Pete Delanty each earned one assist.

Gray Scores TKO

HULL, Que. (CP) — Clyde Gray of Toronto scored a third-round technical knockout Wednesday over Songbird Williams of Memphis, Tenn., in a professional welterweight boxing match.

Gray, 152 pounds and defending Canadian and Commonwealth champion, now has won 31 of 34 professional fights.

Williams weighed in at 147 pounds for the scheduled 10-round bout.

OFL President Resigns

HAMILTON (CP) — The governors of the Ontario Football League have accepted the resignation of Matt Blair as league president, it was announced Wednesday.

Blair told the governors Monday that personal commitments do not allow him the time he feels should be devoted to the presidency.

McFarlands Reunited for Saturday Goegan Memorial Night

Belleville, home of the World Champions.

That's the way it was in 1959 when Belleville McFarlands captured the World Amateur Hockey Championship.

Ads, that's the way it is today, since many of the players on that championship club have made their homes here and continue to make contributions to the city in sports and in many other community endeavors.

Saturday night at Memorial Arena, those former McFarlands will be joined by others from across the country, in a tribute to the late Flori Goegan.

After his days as a defenceman with those great McFarland teams of the 1950s, Goegan became player-coach with the Syracuse, N.Y. Stars, a team which played a regular schedule of weekend exhibition matches with all comers.

Teammates with Flori on that club were Belleville players Ralph Finan, John Baker, Doug Murray and Jack Hughes.

The Syracuse squad will be reunited, Saturday, and will supply the opposition for the Macs, in a benefit game scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start.

Expected to be in McFarlands' lineup are goalie Gordie Bell, a standout in the club's march to the Allan Cup in 1958 and again the following year when the team took the World Hockey crown in Czechoslovakia; Jean Paul Lamirande, named the top defenceman in that World Tournament; Floyd Crawford, team captain; Wayne Brown, Lionel Rolfy, Dave Jones, Keith MacDonald and Lou Smrke.

Returning to the scene of former glories will be Joe Lepine, Minnie Menard, Don Barclay, Bep Goldstein, Johnny McLellan, Keith Montgomery, Goose Gosselin, Bobo Bobenic, Pete Conacher, Jean Paul Payette and John Murecich.

Lepine is now a resident of Ottawa; Menard will be coming in from Des Moines, Iowa; Barclay (the club's spare goalie-trainer who was known as Turk) resides in Brantford; Goldstein is coach of the NHLs Kansas City Scouts; McLellan is assistant manager of Toronto Maple Leafs; Montgomery hails from Lindsay; Gosselin and Bobenic call North Bay home; Conacher resides in Toronto.

Proceeds from the game will go to a fund to be used to further the education of Goegan's sons.

Tickets are $1 each and may be purchased at the Red Barn, Reading and Greeting Shop, McKnight's, Variety, Murray's Food Market, or from any former McFarland player.

BCI Continues to Dominate Bay of Quinte Gymnastics

MADOC — Other high schools in the Bay of Quinte area haven't given up aiming for the district honors in girls' gymnastics but they must be getting accustomed to seeing Belleville Collegiate Institute (BCI) walk off with the crown.

Since Sue Davie began combining instruction in gymnastics with her teaching duties at BCI, five year ago, the city school has owned the Bay of Quinte title. With Mrs. Davie in charge, BCI is five for five.

And when the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Athletic Association competition takes place, April 18 at Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School in Peterborough, BCI will be trying for its fourth championship in a row.

At a team, the BCI girls finished the Bay of Quinte competition at Centre Hastings Secondary School here Wednesday, with a point total of 79.30.

Moira Secondary School, coached by Valerie Paddon and Donna Patterson while settling for second place, gave the winners a battle, scoring 76.68 points. It's an annual rivalry.

"We've been close but not quite for the past four years," offered Mrs. Paddon.

"We'll be there next year and things may be different."

Third place went to Bayside Secondary School with 72.93 points.

What makes a champion?

Coach Davie doesn't have any magic formula for success.

"It's lots, and lots of hard work," she explains.

The Spartan approach pays off but Mrs. Davie admits there is still time for fun and the girls enjoy the training as well as the competition.

"It helps to have a tradition of winning," comments Mrs. Davie.

BCI gymnasts took top honors in all round senior where Holly White was in command, and in all round elite with Wendy Donovan showing the way.

Moira captured first place in all round novice, Michelle Harrison, and intermediate, Leslie Claney.

Second and third in novice were Lynda Farnsworth, Moira, and Nancy Trumbley, East Northumberland Secondary School.

Intermediate, Ann Dodson, BCI and Susan Cooney, Bayside.

Senior, Sandy Guay, Moira, and Ann Douglas, BCI.

Elite, Fran White, BCI, and Karen Kellar, Centre Hastings.

Player Shrugs Off Miller

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player shrugged off the challenge of golf's newest wonder boy, Johnny Miller, and prepared for another faceoff with Jack Nicklaus today in the 39th Masters tournament.

"I could win this tournament," the 39-year-old South African said as if to quell speculation that the season's first major championship shapes up as a Nicklaus-Miller shootout at Augusta National.

"If you have a favorite charity, I will bet you $500 I was 30 strokes better than Miller—maybe as much as 40—in the four majors last year," Player said. "I feel that the best judge of a player is how he does in the four big championships. That's how history will judge us all."

The informal comment in the players' dining room after Wednesday's final day of practice sent researchers thumbing through the record books and, sure enough, Player would have won his bet.

Based on performances in the United States and British opens, the Masters and PGA, which represent the grand slam, the part-time farmer from Johannesburg was 30 strokes better than Miller and six better than Nicklaus.

"Actually, I would have preferred Player's record over that of Miller last year because Gary won two majors," Nicklaus said. "But you must remember that Miller was just trying to establish himself on the tour, and he did."

Miller won eight U.S. tour titles and a ninth in Japan, leading the money winning list with $353,021 and gaining Player-of-the Year honors. Besides the Masters, Player won the British Open and the Danny Thomas tournament at Memphis.

The value of major crowns was the subject of brisk discussion as 78 players, including 18 foreigners and seven amateurs, teed off today for the four-day, 72-hole test. Rain was forecast.

Player, with eight major championships, is breathing down the neck of Nicklaus, who has 14 major titles and 18 if you throw out the two national amateur crowns he won.

Miller, despite his impressive collection of titles last year and his three quick wins on the Pacific Coast's winter tour this season, has only one—the U. S. Open, won in 1973 with a record 63 finish.

Nicklaus' glistening cache includes four Masters, three U. S. Opens, two British Opens and three PGAs. Player has three British Opens, two Masters, two PGAs and a single U. S. Open.

Nicklaus says his primary objective in golf is to win all four of the majors in a single year for an unprecedented grand slam.

Saints Harpoon Whalers, Mariners Bull Toros

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints upset New England Whalers and San Diego Mariners rallied against Toronto Toros in World Hockey Association playoff openers Wednesday night but neither of the victors was expecting its series to end early.

"Sure it was nice to win the first one on their ice," said Saints coach Harry Neale after his club's 6-4 win over the Whalers at Hartford, Conn.

"But they'll be back. I expect this series to go a long way and both teams are capable of winning on the other team's ice."

In San Diego, the Mariners rallied from behind a 3-1 deficit to take a 5-4 win and Mariners winger Rick Smith said: "This is a big win for us since you have to take advantage of the home ice while you have it. I thought Toronto played a very tough, hard-checking game and it won't be any easier Saturday night."

After the second game Saturday night the teams move to Toronto for the third and fourth games Monday and Wednesday in the best-of-seven quarter-final.

The Whalers-Saints series resumes Friday in Hartford.

The other two quarter-final series are in play tonight with Phoenix Roadrunners at Quebec and Cleveland Crusaders visiting Houston Aeros.

Quebec Nordiques won the first game of their set against Phoenix on Tuesday. Tonight's game at Houston is the opener of that series.

The Saints never trailed in the game Wednesday night, but the Whalers tied it twice.

Gord Gallant and Bill Butters scored to give Minnesota a 2-0 lead, but Ron Climie and Larry Pleau matched those goals for New England before the first period ended.

Wayne Connelly's power play goal gave Minnesota a 3-2 edge early in the second period but that was erased 35 seconds later by Pleau's second goal of the night.

Gary Gambucci and Mike Walton scored for the Saints in the second period before New England's Wayne Carleton reduced the edge to 5-4.

Connelly scored what proved to be the winning goal midways through the final period. John French's goal with 36 seconds left brought the Whalers closer, but not close enough.

Toronto, with goals from Lou Nistico, Vaclav Nedomansky and Gavin Kirk, took a 3-1 lead midway in the second period but two goals by Ray Adduono tied it up before the end of two periods.

The Toros slowed down in the final period and saw Wayne Rivers break the tie at 6:13 and Andre Lacroix add a power-play goal in the final minute.

Some of the Toronto players were restrained by Toros general manager Buck Houle. Meanwhile, Joe Hardy of the Mariners and Tony Feather-stone started fighting on the ice.

Order was restored and no penalties were assessed.

STAN MIKITA

PHIL ESPOSITO

Mikita's Method: Pray a Lot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita has an idea about how Chicago Black Hawks, perennial contenders for the Stanley Cup, can stay alive in their playoff series with Boston Bruins.

"We have to pray a lot, and hope a couple of them get run over by a steamroller."

Mikita and the Hawks must win tonight or be knocked out by the Bruins, who took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three first round National Hockey League playoff series by routing Chicago 8-2 in Boston Tuesday night.

The Hawks, with the home-ice advantage tonight, will try and figure a way to stop Boston's Phil Esposito, who broke out of a scoring slump with three goals Tuesday night against his brother, Tony, the Chicago goalie.

Phil thought his brother, who was in goal for 70 of Chicago's 80 games during the regular season, definitely was not up to par.

"Why don't you tell my brother to start eating?" he said. "I've never seen him so haggard."

Chicago is one of four teams whose NHL seasons could end tonight.

New York Rangers must win on the road to stay alive against New York Islanders in their commuter series; Toronto Maple Leafs hope to even their series against Los Angeles Kings at Maple Leaf Gardens, and St. Louis Blues will be at home in their effort to even things with Pittsburgh Penguins.

The upstart Islanders apparently don't know they were supposed to fold under the pressure and, bow to the playoff-seasoned Rangers.

"I'm proud of my kids," said Islanders coach Al Arbour after three third-period goals produced a 3-2 victory over the Rangers at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night. "It was their first playoff game in the Big Apple, so to speak, and they handled it well, exceptionally well."

Among those handling it best of all was 21-year-old rookie Clark Gillies, who scored the winning goal with 6½ minutes to play.

The Rangers, meanwhile, are up against the wall, and they know it.

"It's do or die," said winger Rod Gilbert. "But funny things can happen when your back is to the wall."

Toronto lost to the Kings 3-2 in an overtime contest in Los Angeles, but coach Red Kelly is hoping playing at home will make enough of a difference to reverse that result.

The Leafs were given a big lift by the work of goalie Gord McRae, who came up from the minor leagues late in the season.

"We took them nine minutes into overtime so we must have played well, said Kelly. "Especially with McRae's goaltending."

Gord McRae, a 25-year-old Sherbrooke, Que., native, was laboring with Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Hockey League until the Leafs decided to get rid of Dave Wilson in mid-season.

His arrival turned Toronto right around and he finished up with a record of 10 wins, three losses and six ties. Not bad for a guy whose identity was a mystery to Rogatien Vachon who was tending goal for the Kings at the other end of the rink Tuesday.

"Who's that guy?" Vachon asked after the game. "He's a hell of a goalie."

Pittsburgh, meanwhile, bridged the generation gap to beat St. Louis. Veteran Vic Hadfield, 34, set up rookie Pierre Larouche, 19, with 2:35 to play for the winning goal in a 4-3 game.

Larouche, 19, might be too youthful to know teen-agers aren't supposed to come up with game-winning goals in Stanley Cup play.

"I was sure I would score," he said later. "I never looked— I just shot. It was the biggest thrill I ever had in hockey."

Mile in 2.09.8

OTTAWA (CP) Posey Town, owned by Gilbert Gaipou of Gatineau Pointe, Que., and driven by Ferdinand Tirenne, of Lucerne, Que. stepped off the mile in two minutes 09.8 seconds to win the featured race at Connaught Park Wednesday and return $6.00, $3.60 and $2.30.

Rangers Record Second Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas Rangers, manager Billy Martin's pick to dethrone Oakland A's as baseball champions of the American League West, are going about it in strange ways, such as rally-killing baserunning, costly errors and, most of all, losing.

The Rangers made it two bummers in a row when they lowed to Minnesota Twins 3-2 Wednesday night. Elsewhere in the AL, Chicago White Sox rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and defeated the A's 7-5, Kansas City Royals edged California Angels 7-6 on Hal McRae's RBI single in the ninth and Milwaukee Brewers beat Boston Red Sox 7-4.

Minnesota capitalized on two Texas throwing errors and Tony Oliva's second home run in as many games in edging the Rangers, who had a 19-3 record last April but are 8-8 this year. "I guess you can say we're off to a slower start," said pitcher Jim Bibby.

Eric Soderholm's sacrifice fly in the second inning and Oliva's homer in the fourth gave Minnesota a 3-0 lead. The Twins scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth. Soderholm singled with two out, stole second and continued to third on catcher Jim Sundberg's wild throw. Steve Braun followed with a routine grounder back to the mound but Bibby threw wildly to first, and Soderholm scored.

Texas chased Joe Decker in the sixth on two-out singles by Willie Davis and Jeff Burroughs and walks to Mike Hargrove and Jim Spencer, forcing in a run. Ray Corbin walked Toby Harrah, forcing Burroughs home, but ended the rally by retiring Dave Nelson on a grounder.

Davis singled with one out in the ninth but was nailed trying to steal.

Pat Kelly's pinch triple off relief ace Bollie Fingers with two out in the ninth inning drove in the tying and go-ahead runs for Detroit. Fingers after an intentional walk violated the book by pitching the winning run aboard.

Jorge Orta started the uprising with a double off Paul Lindblad, who came on to quell a three-run Chicago rally in the eighth after successive singles by Bill Melton, Ken Henderson, Brian Johnson, May and Bucky Dent.

Fingers retired the next two batters as Orta remained at second, but Henderson was purposely passed and Kelly tripled.

McRae drove in the winning run for Kansas City with his fourth hit, a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, and then threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the bottom of the ninth.

Amos Otis drew a one-out walk from reliever Chuck Dobson stole second. Mickey Scott retired John Mayberry on a ground-out but McRae, who had two single, a double and a home run, greeted Orlando Pena with a single.

George Scott and Robin Yount drove in two runs apiece for Milwaukee. Scott "gave the Brewers the lead in the third inning with a two-run single off loser Bill Lee and Milwaukee added Lee for three more runs in the fourth on Sixto Lezcano's double, single by Darrell Porter, Pedro Garcia and Yount and Bob Coluccio's sacrifice fly.

Argos Sign Hunsperger

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts announced Wednesday they have signed defensive tackle Garrett Hunsperger, formerly with British Columbia Lions, to a three-year contract.

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound import was picked up by Argos on Canadian Football League waivers after the Lions released him following a B.C. Supreme Court decision in February ordering Hunsperger to pay $16,500 in alimony arrears.

Hunsperger now is on bail pending his appeal of a two-month jail sentence on two charges of assault causing bodily harm arising out of incidents in B.C. last spring.

9 to 1 Wins Ruthless

NEW YORK (AP) — Nicosia, a 9-to-1 shot, ran Funakoshi in the stretch to win the $28,250 Ruthless Stakes for three-year-old fillies at Aqueduct Park Wednesday.

Running as an entry with Cut Class, Nicosia passed Funakoshi on the outside in the eighth pole and went on to win by three-quarters of a length. The time for the 1¼ miles was a stakes record 1:49 3-5.

Nicosia paid $21.60, $8.60 and $5.40. Funakoshi returned $4 and $2.80. Something Regal finished third, 3¾ lengths behind the runner-up and paid $6 to show.

Piece of Luck finished fourth in the field of 12. Gallant Trail was fifth, followed by Maidee Bell, Funny Cat, Cut Class, Indigenah, A Charm, Isle of Fortune and Noblesita.

Forsch Faces Minimum No.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Forsch took only one hour and 58 minutes Wednesday to stop Montreal Expos with a two-hit pitching performance in a 4-0 St. Louis Cardinals National League baseball win.

"Everything felt real good," said Forsch, who faced the minimum of 27 batters. "I felt just as strong at the end as I did at the beginning."

Both the hits that Forsch allowed were erased on double plays. Thus the 6-foot-4, 200-pound pitcher was able to keep from working up a sweat in his first start of the year.

"I think it compares to the game I threw last year against the Expos toward the end of the season," said Forsch, who pitched a two-hitter against Montreal last Sept. 30 and had a no-hitter for seven innings.

In other National League games, Cincinnati Reds edged Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and Houston Astros beat Atlanta Braves 14-3. San Diego Padres' season opener against San Francisco Giants was rained out for the second day in a row.

Forsch, extending his winning streak to five games over two seasons, allowed just one hit in the Expos in the first six innings, an infield single by Barry Foote. Gary Carter then hit into a double play.

The only other hit off the Cardinal pitcher was a single to centre by Gary Scott leading off the seventh. Scott was wiped out when Foote hit into a double play. Between the second and seventh innings, Forsch retired 12 straight batters, most of them on fastballs.

Forsch got all the support he needed when the Cardinals scored two runs in the first inning on an RBI single by Reggie Smith and a sacrifice fly by Ted Simmons. Simmons drove in his second run of the game with a double in the seventh inning and Ted Sizemore's RBI hit in the eighth wrapped up the St. Louis scoring.

Darrel Chaney and Dave Concepcion hit run-scoring singles in the ninth inning off relief ace Mike Marshall to lead Cincinnati to its second straight victory over Los Angeles, the defending National League champion.

Down 3-0 at one point, the Reds rallied with a run in the sixth on a double by Ed Armbrister and a single by Joe Morgan, then scored again in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Chaney. Marshall came into the game when Dodger starter Andy Messersmith faltered in the seventh.

Cliff Johnson and pitcher James Rodney Richard each knocked in two runs in a six-run fourth inning and the Astros struck for eight more runs in the seventh en route to an easy triumph over Atlanta.

After a single by Cesar Cedeno, produced Houston's first run, the Astros scored five more times in the fourth as Johnson contributed a two-run single and Richard a two-run double. Richard hasn't pitched from the big rug production. He hammed his toes on a play at first in the fifth inning and had to leave in favor of Dave Roberts, the eventual winning pitcher.

Poland Bounces U.S.

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Poland knocked the United States into last place in the Group A world hockey tournament Wednesday with a 5-3 victory.

Poland ended the first round with one victory and four defeats. The U.S. team lost all five of its matches. The Soviet Union leads with a 4-0 record followed by Czechoslovakia and Sweden, both at 3-1, and Finland at 2-2.

Poland and the U.S. meet again next week in the second round with the loser likely to be relegated into the B Group unless tournament rules are altered.

Love Leads Bulls Over KCO Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago's Bob Love lined in 38 points and his team-mates held Kansas City-Omaha's Nate Archibald to 13 as the Bulls gained a 92-80 victory over the Kings Wednesday night in the opener of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

It was the only NBA game played Wednesday. The best-of-seven quarter-final resumes Sunday afternoon at Kansas City.

In Wednesday's American Basketball Association games, Utah Stars took a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final with a 122-108 win over Denver Nuggets and the Spirits of St. Louis tied their best-of-seven quarter-final 1-1 by beating New York Nets 115-97.

With Love blazing away, the Bulls led by as many as 14 points. The Kings' swift little Archibald was limited to well below his 36.5 season average, mainly under the tight guarding of Norm Van Lier.

No Truth To Rumor

SAN DIEGO (CP) — Forget about Russian stars Valery Khrlamov and Alexander Yakusher joining Toronto Toros of the World Hockey Association.

General manager Buck Houle of the Toros said Tuesday that he doesn't know anything about a report from Munich which said his team has made an offer of $1 million through the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation for the players.

"I don't know anything about it and neither does Johnny Bassett (president of the Toros)," Houle said. "In fact, the first I heard about it was when Mr. Bassett asked me what it was all about. Wish it were true, though."

Romantic Pianist Looks Like Tight End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Garrick Ohlsson looks more like a tight end for a pro football team than a young man often credited with restoring 19th-century romanticism to piano playing.

Standing six feet four and weighing in the range of 240 pounds, Ohlsson offstage affects collared shirts, turtleneck sweaters and sports jackets. He has a shock of dark brown hair and a beard.

"I consider myself extremely lucky," he said in an interview. "I feel my calling is to play the piano for people. I consider my career a spinoff from my inner commitment to music."

Now 26, Ohlsson has been committed to music since he was eight and growing up in White Plains, N.Y. His mother played the piano a bit and thought it might be nice if young Garrick took lessons. "I was hooked," he says. "I was a maniac after the second week. It was hard to stop me from practicing."

Ohlsson has performed with most of the major orchestras of the world since winning the Warsaw International Piano Competition in 1970—the first American to do so. Earlier he had won the Busoni Prize in Italy and the Montreal Piano Competition.

"My career at that point was developing nicely," he says of his decision to enter the Warsaw competition, "but I thought it would be helpful to win a competition to give it an extra kick.

"In America either you play the piano in the basement of the YMCA or you play at the Kennedy Center or Avery Fisher Hall. I obviously chose the competition route because it was the line of least resistance."

He says he expects to play 65 to 75 concerts and recitals this year—fewer than he did in the year after his Warsaw triumph—but still a fairly hectic schedule "when you figure in travel time, rehearsals, receptions, interviews and a little sleep."

He found a recent appearance with the National Symphony Orchestra something of a busy because it involved playing the same Chopin concerto four times, and he was able to stay put for nearly a week.

"I heard the Boston Symphony last night," he said, "and I don't know whth I last heard a symphony concert at which I wasn't playing. And when you play you don't hear much else that's going on."

Ohlsson has also found time to do some recording, appear three times on the Dick Cavett show, do a television special with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra play at a White House state dinner in 1970 and appear in an ad endorsing a scotch whisky.

He has not found time to get married—"so far; I don't know how long that's going to last." Is there someone special? "Let's just say I am enigmatic about it."

Ohlsson has made two Chopin recordings for Connoisseur Society, one of the Piano Concerto No. 1 in E Minor with the Warsaw National Philharmonic, the other containing a sonata, a polonaise, a scherzo and an etude.

For Angel he also has cut two Chopin albums, the complete polonaises, and four scherzos combined with Fantasia in F Minor. Angel has plans for six more albums in the next two years.

The pianist says he practises daily and also studies exclusively although not now in an organized way. One obsession is to listen to all the old, recorded piano music he can find.

"Music is as much of a tradition as poetry was in the Greek classic days," he says. "I'm insanely curious about the passing on of the musical tradition.

Critics across the country praise Ohlsson's playing and he took understandable pride in reviews of a recital in New York in January. The music critic of the New York Times, Harold C. Schonberg, who had panned him two years earlier, wrote that he was right up in the rank of major pianists . . . He can be a musical giant."

BIRTHS

IN MEMORIAM

FAIRBROTHER — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Walter Fairbrother who passed away April 18, 1973.
Dear Dad, I would give it I could say Wish, Dad, in the same old way.
To hear your voice, see your smile, To sit with you and chat awhile, On you who have a father, Cherish him with care, For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see his heart clean.
—always remembered by your daughter Marilyn.

FILLMAN — In memoriam for Robert who passed away April 18, 1971.
Beautiful memories woven in gold, This is the picture we tenderly hold
Deep in our hearts the memory kept,
To love, to cherish and never forget.
—Lovingly remembered by his family.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all my relatives, friends and relatives for their phone calls, visits, cards and gifts while I was in hospital. Also to all who have made the stay seem shorter at Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Medco Ambulance service, Dr. Walsh, Dr. Paul Thomas, Dr. McCoy and the nursing staff on 3 Medical. Thanks again, give my best wishes to all and away. Many thanks. God bless you all.
—Mrs. Murray (Annie) Morgan.

My sincere thanks to Drs. Ferguson, Fisher and Murphy, nurses and staff 3B for their care, also to everyone room 3C for my family, friends and relatives for their visits, cards and flowers for me, for the beautiful flowers and fruit baskets, for their visits at the hospital and when I left Stella and Carter and for those who drove my wife to the hospital, who drove my wife to the hospital. Many thanks.
—Wm. Buckley.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Friday, April 11

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) You're going to make a sudden change in direction. A self-interest you've been vigorously pursuing will no longer appeal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It will be difficult to get a handle on things today. Much of what you desire to do will be beyond your control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful how you treat friends or associates today. Thoughtless actions could terminate a good and long-standing relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Pay extra heed to things reflecting on your honor and reputation. Your actions are being observed by hostile eyes.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Now is the time to discard worn-out ideas that haven't accomplished the results you had hoped for. Think of new approaches.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Don't rely on resources of others. One who promised to help you won't be able to now through no fault of his own.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) One who is usually a staunch ally will behave in a very uncooperative manner today. Be forgiving. His defection is temporary.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Place yourself sensibly at work today. Don't tackle tasks exceeding your talents or present capabilities.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23-Dec 21) Be on your best behavior socially or you may act so as to cause others to hold you in less esteem.

CAPRICORN (Dec 23-Jan 19) You have a tendency today to shut others out if they don't comply readily with your ways. It could cost you a friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Be careful while travelling today. If driving, keep your eyes and mind on the road. Don't daydream or talk incessantly to passengers.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Continue to be extra cautious and watchful in financial dealings. Count your change. Get receipts of all transactions.

Opening lead — Q ♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Lancelot, the peerless knight and bridge player, looked at his collection of aces, kings and queens with almost as much awe as if he had found the Holy Grail. Then he looked over at Dinadan, his partner, and decided he had better make sure to play extremely if the hand worked out that way. He opened five notrump.

Dinadan wasn't sure what that bid meant but he thought his kind of spades justified a raise to six.

West opened the queen of spades, Lancelot won with his ace in order to keep dummy's one entry alive. Then he cashed his top red cards. East discarded a couple of small spades.

Now came the top clubs. West had to throw the 10 of spades in order to hang on to his red jacks. Now Lancelot led his last club, the deuce; West had to make another discard. It had to be his last spade. He could not spare a red jack.

Lancelot now was able to discard dummy's king of spades. East won with the jack of clubs and had to lead a spade. Lancelot's nine and seven had become a winner since over East's eight and six.

Raw Milk Brings Danger of Fever

Dear Dr. Thoelsen: I know a young mother who is giving raw milk to her baby. Is bringing milk to the boiling point enough to kill bacteria?

Please describe undulant fever and tell me if there now is a definite cure for it. Other children and adults in this family are drinking raw milk. I am so concerned. — G.E.B.

Raw milk is not, in and of itself, dangerous—only raw milk from cows (or goats) infected with the brucellosis germ. Cows from registered herds are checked carefully and raised frequently for the disease, so if the milk is from a registered animal you can cool your concern.

Undulant fever is associated with the brucella organism. It is usually acquired by drinking the infected milk or by persons handling infected meat (beef, pork or lamb). The infection route here is through breaks in the skin.

It is not a pleasant disease, and the little to be saved more tarily from drinking unpasteurized milk is not worth the risk.

The disease is not easy to detect, but a positive diagnosis can be made with appropriate blood tests. Symptoms include fatigue, headache, and rise in temperature that abate in the early morning, then recur in the afternoon.

Treatment is with antibiotics (tetracycline) which are effective in most cases.

If the folks you refer to are using milk from an unrecfertered family bessie, then they should take the precaution of doing their own pasturizing, a simple matter of heating the milk to 140 degrees fahrenheit for 30 minutes, then storing it in a cool, sanitary place before using.

Dear Dr. Thoelsen: My wife, now 66, has had yawning spells for several years, but the spells past two years they have been more severe. She has a shortness of breath.

Her doctor can find no cause for it. Please comment.

Yawning is one of the pleasant little respirations no one has been able to explain satisfactorily yet. there has been speculation that it signifies a deficiency of oxygen in the body, but this doesn't explain why one person will yawn because someone nearby has done so, or why it is associated with being weary or bored. Anemia, or possible low thyroid function, might be investigated.

Beyond this, I can only suggest, frankly without medical confidence, that your wife's yawning and her shortness of breath may be related to a possible lung problem.

Dear Dr. Thoelsen: Itching is my problem. You've heard of the three brothers? One was always itching to go west, one to go east, and the other was itching always itching. I'm the last one.

I am 73, married 50 years to the same woman, completely happy. I'm lean and healthy, take no medication of any kind, don't use tobacco or alcohol. But at most anytime of the day or night some area of mv carcass comes up with an itch.

Can you think of any valid cause for this condition? — C.S.

"I can think of a few.

Only One Norse Camp Discovered

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP)—Despite numerous reported Viking sites in North America, only one—L'Anse Aux Meadows in Newfoundland—is genuine, says Scandinavian archeologist Helge Ingstad.

The archeologist from the Carlsbe Museum in Pittsburgh told the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Archeological Association that supposedly genuine sites in Minnesota, Northern Ontario and the eastern United States all are hoaxes or misinterpretations.

She predicted that no Viking sites will be found in North America outside of Newfoundland and Labrador, where climate and geography approximate those of Viking sites in Greenland and Iceland.

The site at L'Anse Aux Meadows on the north coast of Newfoundland was found in 1960 by Norwegian explorer Helge Ingstad and it was subsequently dug by Ingstad and his wife and by the national historic parks and sites branch of the federal government. The site became a national park in 1977 and exhibits reconstructed Viking buildings.

Miss Wallace, who helped excavate the site last summer, said there is no doubt that L'Anse Aux Meadows is a genuine Norse site. It is situated in an area of field and bog containing bog iron and would have been attractive to the vikings who were cattle and pig herders and used bog iron extensively for manufacture of tools and weapons.

It contains the remains of a sod house similar in both building technique and layout to structures of the Viking period in Iceland, she said. The house was made of layers of sod in a brick-like pattern and contained raised earth platforms along the side walls and central hearths.

An iron smithy was found some distance from the house structure, similar to other Viking sites in Iceland.

Artifacts found include a soapstone spindle whorl of the type also found on Viking sites, a clear glass bead difficult to date but common in the Viking era and a bronze pin.

She said evidence from the site indicated about 40 to 50 people lived on the site for 10 years or less. The sagas say the Vinland settlers were driven away after a few years by attacks from the native population.

Davis Predicts Another Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be no increase in the price of oil or natural gas at the conference on energy and the economy which concludes today, Ontario Premier Willis m Davis predicted Wednesday.

He emerged from a dinner meeting with the nine other provincial premiers and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and said the conference was stalemated.

Mr. Davis, who is opposed to any price increases, said he expected another conference would be called within the next two months to again discuss the question.

"The former understanding (a price of $5.50 a barrel for oil negotiated last year and which continues until the end of June) will probably continue," Mr. Davis said.

The Ontario premier also stated flatly that Ontario's position at the next federal-provincial conference would not change unless there was a dramatic upturn in the economy.

At the opening session of the conference Wednesday, Ontario flatly rejected any suggestion of an increase in the price of oil and natural gas. The federal government, Alberta and Saskatchewan favor an increase.

"We think the position we are taking is in the national interest," Mr. Davis said in an interview.

He was asked if he felt Ontario was fighting a rear-guard action in battling against an increase in oil and natural gas prices.

"The price of oil still hasn't gone up," he replied.

Mr. Davis also was asked about a reported statement by federal Energy Minister Donald MacDonald that it might be in the province's best interest to negotiate a settlement because an imposed settlement might be higher.

"If the energy minister imposes a price "that is higher than he feels could be negotiated he is not acting responsibly," Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis concluded that he had not given up hope that the province's position on holding the line regarding oil prices would be accepted by the federal government and the other provinces.

Pressure on Food Prices Still Exists

OTTAWA (CP) — Food cost increases have moderated in the last three months but strong upward pressures remain, the food prices review board said Wednesday.

The board's seventh quarterly report, for January-March said the "strong upward momentum of food price inflation has still not yet been broken."

It said the farm sector, where take-home prices have levelled off, may well be looking at the wage gains of industrial workers in assessing what they should be getting, rather than continuing to rely on past levels of farm income.

The report amounted to some hedging as what will happen to food prices, compared with most recent board forecasts.

A grocery industry meeting in Toronto earlier this week heard suggestions of declines in prices for a number of basic foods ranging from oils to sugar and coffee.

The last quarterly report in December forecast a climb of at least 16 per cent in 1975 unless there were reductions in consumer spending and income demands.

The latest report, cautioning against ever-optimistic expectations for future prices said sharp declines in beef and sugar, and to some degree in potatoes and eggs, caused a decline in food costs in the January-March period.

But at the same time, prices rose substantially for milk, pork, bread, processed vegetables and fresh fruit.

Rest Harmful If Bones Broken

TORONTO (CP) — New ideas, which are expected to revolutionize the treatment of broken bones, are being studied at the Hospital for Sick Children.

Dr. Robert Salter, surgeon-in-chief at the hospital, told the Clinical Research Society of Toronto that studies with rabbits overturned teaching of more than a century that rest is essential to healing.

He said the need for motion, rather than rest, has been proven in testing with rabbits. When rabbits were totally immobilized, joints never healed properly, he said, but when the knee joints of the animals with damaged knees were kept in motion they healed much more rapidly.

He said constant motion apparently stimulates immature cells to bone marrow to differentiate into proper cartilage.

Argument Described Over Hunt for Plane

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A radio operator said Wednesday a lawyer for Pan-arctic Oils Ltd. advised him not to testify at an inquest into a missing aircraft in which 20 persons were killed.

The operator, Roderick Brooks, also told the inquest of a disagreement with a superior over whether a search should be started for the aircraft.

Brooks, 20, said Donald Brener of Vancouver, counsel for Panarctic, where four-engine Lockheed Electra aircraft crashed last Oct. 30 into the sea ice off Melville Island near Rea Point, N.W.T., in the worst air disaster in arctic history, warned him he might become involved in civil suits if he appeared.

Mr. Brooks, who quit the company two months ago, said he argued with another Panarctic employee, Len Storvald, in an attempt to have a search started quickly.

Only co-pilot David Hatton and flight engineer Gary Weyman survived the crash.

Crown Attorney Ed Brogden said attempts to obtain testimony from the two survivors is continuing. Mr. England, who adjourned the inquest in Frobisher last week when key witnesses were not available, has asked that witnesses be forced to testify in supreme court of the areas in which they live.

The radio operator, who said he did not hold a radio operator's licence when employed by Panarctic, quoted Mr. Storvald as telling him "not to worry about it" when Mr. Brooks grew concerned about the late arrival of the aircraft.

Mr. Storvald was in the radio tower when Mr. Brooks heard a radio transmission saying the Electra, which used the call letters CF-PAB, was six miles out on final approach.

When Mr. Brooks grew concerned, he said, Mr. Storvald told him the report said the plane was 60 miles away—not six.

One-half hour after the scheduled arrival, Mr. Brooks called Mr. Storvald again, he testified.

"After a few minutes of arguing, I managed to convince Mr. Storvald that even if it had been 60 miles out, it should have been here anyway," said the witness.

"As near as I can recall, he didn't want to believe something of this magnitude had happen."

Mr. Brooks testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act and the Territorial Evidence Ordinance, which give him immunity against incriminating himself or becoming party to an act action which might arise from his testimony.

MPs Move Quickly To OK Billion Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is wasting no time in its move to increase MP salaries.

The bill designed to raise their pay and allowances by one-third was to go before the miscellaneous estimates committee Monday. It received Commons approval in principle Wednesday.

"I don't see why we should delay the bill," said committee chairman Fernand Leblanc, an accountant who represents the Montreal riding of Laurier for the Liberals.

If the accelerated vote is any indication, detailed study will be anything but smooth. The vote was 166 to 27 with 17 Progressive Conservatives and one Liberal breaking party ranks to vote against the bill with nine New Democrats.

Three NDP members also broke party lines to join the rest of the Liberals and the Conservatives in supporting it.

The committee had two meetings scheduled today—one at 9:30 a.m. EST, the other at 8 p.m.

"And there will be another Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. and more next week if necessary," Mr. Leblanc said.

The proposed legislation would raise Commons members' salaries from $21,000—$21,000 in salary and $10,000 in tax-free allowance—retroactive to last July 8. The present level is $18,000—$18,000 salary plus $8,000 allowance.

The bill that goes before the committee today actually would increase income 50 per cent. But the government reduced her in the face of strong NDP this to 33 1-3 per cent in December criticism and a wave of public protest.

As remedment to this effect likely will be first on the agenda today, followed possibly by a change in the degree that the salaries and allowances will be increased annually to keep pace with living costs.

Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp has said the government is prepared to amend the escalation formula. The original proposal was to peg incomes to the Industrial composite index (ICI), a Statistics Canada economic indicator based on what unions are able to get from employers in contract talks.

The NDP says the ICI has been rising by about 10 per cent annually in recent years and contends that tying MP incomes to this eventually would provide even higher salaries and allowances than a flat 50-per-cent increase, Mr Sharp said the government might be amenable to using a percentage of the index rather than the full amount.

This approach was referred to in the Commons Wednesday by NDP parliamentary leader Ed Broadbent, who said all the profession ask for are unscrambled eggs.

However, three New Democrats—Wally Firth (Northwest Territories), John Gilbert (Toronto Broadview) and Stuart Leggatt (New Westminster) supported the bill Wednesday.

A lone dissident in the Liberal ranks is Charles Caccia (Toronto Davenport), the deputy government whip, who feels that any increase should be delayed until 1978.

Mr. Broadbent said the proposed increase goes beyond maintaining what he says is a decent standard of living. He recommended Parliament leave the present $8,000 allowance alone and increase the basic salary by the amount the consumer price index has risen since the last raise in October, 1970. This would be between 30 and 30 per cent.

"Those in high income brackets should half further increases beyond what is necessary to maintain their standard of living," he said Wednesday.

He said the only way to achieve an equitable distribution of income "is for those with very high incomes to say 'we've got to stop.'"

More Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal student summer employment program is getting an additional $13.4 million, Manpower Minister Robert Andras said Wednesday.

The details will be given shortly but I can say it will include a substantial increase in the Opportunities for Youth (OFY) program," he told Ed Broadbent, New Democrat parliamentary leader, in the Commons.

Phase-out Of EMO Is Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Joint action by government ministries in time of emergency will replace the need for a provincial emergency measures branch, acting solicitor-general John Clement said Wednesday.

This concept calls for the development of task forces consisting of senior representatives of different provincial ministries involved in alleviating such emergencies as major floods, forest fires, air crashes, epidemics and similar disasters," he said.

"This concept will provide similar services as those formerly co-ordinated by the emergency measures branch.

"Therefore, it has been decided by cabinet to gradually phase out the emergency measures branch over the course of the coming year."

Price and Pay Restraints Urged

Premiers Endorse Voluntary Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — Although they couldn't agree on an oil price rise, delegates to the federal-provincial conference on energy and the economy that ended Thursday did fall in behind Finance Minister John Turner's proposals for voluntary wage, price and rent controls.

The three-to-four-year program Mr. Turner presented to provincial premiers and finance ministers was coupled with a warning that the economy will continue to slide unless inflation is brought under control. National production already is being hurt because of inflation, fuelled largely by higher wage demands, he indicated.

The government wants an agreement on targets for a staged reduction of the inflation rate. Wage increases, as well as professional fees and rent increases, would be tied to these targets.

Industry price rises would be limited to those needed to recover higher costs.

Overzealous wage and price rises would be monitoring boards, Mr. Turner insists these would not be a revival of the 1969-72 experiment with a prices and incomes commission, which foundered after labor refused to agree to restraints.

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer summed up the feeling of several premiers, commenting: "I'm satisfied that while there's reason to be skeptical, nevertheless it must be tried."

He called for a three-year effort to make the program work. But with tentative support for this initiative, Mr. Turner was left to decide whether the government can proceed with its announced May budget.

The two-day conference's failure to agree on future oil prices above their current $8.50 a barrel level makes it hard to frame budget proposals, Mr. Turner said he could proceed, but he would have to make assumptions about any oil price rises that might be agreed to later.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said after the conference that the cabinet will have to decide whether to proceed. He said the provinces have used big federal spending announcement as a boomerang, and won't agree to oil price changes because they want to know the budget proposals.

Meanwhile, the cost to the federal government for subsidizing eastern oil refineries to keep consumer prices down there is mounting. As U.S. exports are trimmed back to zero by 1980, revenue from the higher export prices for this product disappears.

So federal payments to eastern refiners to continue the subsidy will rise from between $250 million and $400 million in the current fiscal year that started April 1 to between $450 million and $600 million in the 1976 fiscal year.

Ottawa had favored letting domestic oil prices drift higher, closer to parity with prevailing world prices of about $12 a barrel. Ontario and Nova Scotia strongly resisted any price change.

Mr. Turner said the government will schedule intensive discussions over the next few weeks to flesh out the details of its wage and price restraints program. There have already been 20 meetings of federal ministers and representatives from all economic sectors.

Commitments have neither been sought nor obtained from any groups to agree to restraints, he said.

Food Cheaper But Index Up

OTTAWA (CP) — There was a drop in average food prices last month for the first time in a year and a half, Statistics Canada reported today.

The consumer price index went up, as usual, but the five-tenths-of-one-per-cent rise was the smallest increase since the fall of 1974, except for a similar increase in January.

The price index in March was 11.3 per cent above a year earlier.

Main factors in the index increase in March were petroleum, cars and clothing.

"Fuel oil prices, moving up for the first time since last June, as well as increasing gasoline prices in most parts of the country, accounted for about one-fifth of the nine-tenths of one per cent rise in the index for all items other than food," the agency report said.

"Higher clothing prices, some rebounding from sales in the preceding month, contributed to a similar extent.

"New car prices also rose between February and March with the termination of manufacturers' rebates on selected models, and higher quotations were recorded for all major and small appliances surveyed."

The all-items index was at 178.9 in March. Stated another way, this meant that a basket of consumer items that could be bought for $100 in 1961 cost $178.90 last month, $178 in February and $160.80 in March of last year.

The purchasing power of the 1961 dollar now is 56 cents.

Ontario Satisfied

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario is "satisfied" with the stalemate over oil and gas prices which developed at the federal-provincial conference on energy and the economy, Premier William Davis said Thursday.

"All I know is that there hasn't been an increase in the price of oil as of April 10," the Ontario premier said at the end of the two-day conference.

He emphasized in an interview that Ontario will continue to be adamant in its opposition to price increases as long as inflation and high unemployment are problems.

Nixon Backs Stand by Davis

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Energy Board should be given the power to control gas and oil prices in Ontario if substantial price increases evolve from the federal-provincial energy conference being held in Ottawa, Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Thursday.

Mr. Nixon said he agreed with the position being taken at the conference by Premier William Davis but said the premier should have taken a similarly hard stand at the previous energy conference, in January, 1974.

Charges Laid Against Strikers

OTTAWA (CP) — The first charges were laid today against federal employees who engaged in recent illegal strikes, a spokesman for the Public Service Alliance said.

The alliance spokesman said RCMP today served notice of prosecution on 36 air traffic control assistants in Moncton, N.B.

Oil Parley Failure From Start

OTTAWA (CP) — "It failed before it began," admitted Prime Minister Trudeau at the close of the two-day federal-provincial conference on domestic crude oil and natural gas prices.

Mr. Trudeau, who joined the producing provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan in seeking higher prices than the current $8.50 a barrel, blamed "uncompromising stands taken by premiers who said no increase should be made at this time.

The premiers left town giving Mr. Trudeau authority to seek a compromise in individual talks with premiers.

At news conference Mr. Trudeau expressed optimism that a price agreement can be made before the current agreement expires June 31.

He said Ottawa would not set a price on its own unilaterally but abundantly clear that premiers would continue miles apart on the issue.

Ottawa would have the right to unilaterally set prices under the petroleum administration bill now being considered by Parliament.

But, Mr. Trudeau's statement left open the possibility of at least an informal get-together of first ministers before the June deadline.

U.S. May Pay More for Gas

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet is considering an increase of between 50 and 60 per cent on the price of natural gas exported to the United States, government sources confirmed today.

Although no final decision has been taken, the cabinet is understood to be looking at increases to $1.50 or $1.60 a thousand cubic feet from the current price of $1.

Parking Near Plaza Banned

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Parking of cars along the East Dundas St. flank of the Belleville Plaza will be banned.

The ban — following complaints to city hall about cars owned by employees of the adjacent Unemployment Insurance Commission regional office — will be partial, for now.

City council's traffic committee Thursday agreed with a report from Police Chief Douglas Crosbie that the plaza's Dundas frontage be a prohibited parking area.

The committee two weeks ago was told by Mayor Robin Jeffrey she had received complaints from shoppers that the parked automobiles observed vision on the plaza's two Dundas exits. The committee ordered a report on the problem — which stemmed from a contrary last November after the shopping centre's management decided to charge UIC workers of using its property as a workhours parking lot.

Chief Crosbie suggested that only the section of frontage leading to the plaza's east exit be posted with warning signs at present. If cars are then parked in the unmarked zone, it also will get signs.

West Riverbank Park Is Given Ontario Grant

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The provincial government has made a $73,000 grant available for development in Belleville's West Riverbank Park.

The grant brings to $100,000 the provincial funds alloted the development in recent years and is the total sum originally requested by the city for the project.

The funds are made available under the Parks Assistance Act, which means the city must contribute an amount equal to provincial funding.

The original $100,000 request was first filed from city hall two years ago and the natural resources ministry allocated $25,000 at that time.

To date, about $6,000 of the first grant has been spent, said Lloyd Syer, parks director. This year's parks budget calls for spending another $28,000 — with the city paying it shall share.

About 87 acres of the park — with 3,000 feet of waterfronting on the west bank of the Moira River in north Belleville — already have been made available for public use. The total development will be about 100 acres.

Plans for work this year include some service road construction, grading, seeding and tree-planting.

Availability of the additional grant was announced from the office of Correctional Services Quinte.

Ford May Get Leave For Armed Evacuation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders predict rejection of President Ford's request for $722 million in military aid for South Vietnam but indicate likely approval of limited authority for United States troops to evacuate endangered Americans and Vietnamese.

Even before Ford spoke to an unusually silent joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives Thursday night, key congressmen were saying there was no chance that additional arms would be voted for South Vietnam.

"Congress will never vote for military aid," said House Democratic Leader Thomas O'Neill of Massachusetts.

"Further military assistance would only prolong or merely postpone an ultimate Communist victory," said Senator John McClellan (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the appropriations committee and until recently a strong supporter of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Ford coupled his request for the additional military aid, more than double the $300 million for arms and ammunition he has been unsuccessfully seeking for South Vietnam since January, with an appeal for a $250-million initial installment for food, medical supplies and other humanitarian aid for the hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese refugees.

In contrast, he made no renewal of his $222-million aid request for neighboring Cambodia, saying "it may be too late" already to prevent the fall of that embattled country to Communist insurgents.

South Vietnam Troops Repulse Strong Attack

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops withstood a third day of assaults today at a provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon today and met attacks on two district capitals to the south, the Saigon command reported.

The command said the North Vietnamese—who began attacking Xuan Loc, the capital of Long Khanh province, Wednesday—hit the eastern and southeastern edges of the city today.

The Viet Cong said the Communist-led forces gained control of the market place, the provincial headquarters, an engineering base and the eastern part of the airfield. But the Saigon command said the invaders were driven out.

Phnom Penh Airport Protected

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Cambodian government ground forces and planes using advanced United States fire bombs halted a 200-man Khmer Rouge force that battled to within two miles of Phnom Penh's airport.

Military sources said "the government's defence line strengthened somewhat" after the air force dropped fire bombs on insurgent forces that penetrated to within mortar range of the airport, the capital's last supply line.

Old Lincoln Jail for Sale

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Imagine chewing chicken in the same courtyard where Sydney George Chambers was hanged after he was hanged Dec. 18, 1946, for the murder of a nine-year-old girl.

The Lincoln County jail is up for sale again and owner Jack Birnie says the 113-year-old, three-storey jail building is ideal for conversion to a restaurant or discotheque.

Just think of waiters dressed in striped uniforms, cooks with iron, cannonballs strapped to their legs and customers sipping wine from bent tin cups they use to beat tables and bars for attention in the best late-movie tradition.

Or dancing next to the trapdoor where Chambers dropped to his place to hanged as the only man ever hanged at the jail.

Mr. Birnie bought the jail and one acre of land last May for $95,000 and it now is for sale at $175,000. If there are no buyers, he says he will go ahead with a restaurant himself in a few years.

For now, the owner and operator of a dental laboratory in the city owns the only jail in town.

The hirkless Chambers admitted to police in a statement that he killed the girl, who disappeared on Christmas Eve in 1946 and whose body was never found, but later denied it and asserted his innocence right up to the end.

His body was buried in the courtyard and exhumed and reburied in a cemetery in September, 1973. It remained there until the Niagara regional government decided to sell the Lincoln County facility and the Welland County jail after they were replaced by a regional centre.

Pollution Controller Sniffs Out Disasters

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Bolling sniffs out disasters.

He also predicts them as part of his job as contingency planning and development officer in the pollution control branch of the Ontario environment ministry.

He keeps track of the number of chemical spills and leaks during the year in Ontario and tries to plan ahead to avoid such incidents.

His recently-completed statistics for 1974 show 525 reported chemical spills.

Some of his observations have led jokers in the ministry to refer to him as the prophet of doom.

In March, 1974, he recommended a closer look at the danger to shipping in the St. Lawrence Seaway and lower Lake Erie. In April, the tanker Imperial Sarnia went aground in United States waters near Brockville. Ont., leaking 100,000 gallons of oil. Some of that oil reached Canadian shores.

Last Jan. 5, he sent a memo to ministry regional offices saying that a study showed railways were less safe than other means to transport hazardous materials.

On Jan. 9, a Canadian National Railways train left the tracks at Paisley about 25 miles southwest of Owen Sound, spilling about 50,000 gallons of bunker fuel oil.

From his office in downtown Toronto Mr. Bolling can see trains in the yards of the city at 30 m.p.h. and more and wonders whether they are transporting dangerous chemicals.

His report shows most 1974 Ontario spills involved petroleum products—a total of 284 incidents accounting for about 720,000 gallons spewed out on the countryside.

The largest was caused by an oil pipeline break near Sarnia May 1. About 44,000 gallons escaped into a small drainage ditch.

The remaining 131 spills concerned such nasty substances as acids and caustic alkalis.

Mr. Bolling said statistics show about 29 per cent of all spills are caused by equipment failure and another 23 per cent by human carelessness.

But it is easier to blame a faulty valve than yourself and some reliable workers have told him "the equipment failure rate is dead wrong; we can attribute almost all these cases to carelessness."

He said when a spill takes place, speed means money saved. A barrel of oil worth $10 can cost up to $100 to clean up and $200 if it is not done immediately. In some spills, costs have gone roomed to $600 a barrel.

Mr. Bolling is getting ready for a rash of calls this spring reporting green creeks, and streams along the Great Lakes.

The green substance is used to combat sea lamprey eels and is not a threat.

But he said the public's reaction is appreciated because it shows they are alert and ready to report any seeming chemical spills.

In 29 cases during 1974, the cleanup crews were first summoned by a citizen.

Tour of Battlefield May Locate Missing Color

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

The mystery of the missing regimental color of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment could be solved later this month when an official pilgrimage is made to Second World War battlefields and cemeteries in Italy.

Col. Argue Duffy, wartime regimental sergeant major of the Hastp Pees and post-war commanding officer, recalls the color — a flag upon which the regiment's battle honors were etched — was stolen from the Officers' Mess in the Belleville armory in 1958.

"At first we kept it quiet, hoping the thief would return the flag. Then we began getting letters, unsigned, saying the color would be well looked after and would be returned to its proper place. The Boot — meaning Italy.

"When we heard no more and the color wasn't returned, as CO of the regiment I called a special parade and declared the regiment had been disgraced. As a token of this, I swore never again to wear my cap badge until the color was returned to the regiment, and I never have."

As a member of the pilgrimage returning at Italy this month, Col. Duffy will be wearing his beret — with no cap badge.

"I'm convinced whoever took the color was a member of the regiment, probably over-emotional as a result of his wartime experiences," Col. Duffy said.

"If the color is still in Canada, I would be delighted to deliver it to Italy and install it in the church at Ortona. Or perhaps we might come across it on our Italian pilgrimage."

Under the auspices of the federal department of veterans' affairs, the pilgrimage will be led by veterans' affairs minister Daniel J. MacDonald, himself a veteran of the Sicilly-Italy campaign.

Included in the party, which leaves April 19 and returns May 2, will be representatives of the units of the First Canadian Corps' that liberated Italy. Representing the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will be Col. Duffy and Basil Smith, of Carrying Place. The 4th Field Company, Royal Canadian Engineers will be represented by Hap Chartres, of Belleville, Ken Bradford, former principal of Loyalist College, now a resident of Alberta, will represent the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

Also on the tour will be about 100 schoolchildren, boys and girls, who will get a first-hand look at Canadian military history.

On a private, parallel tour the following area residents will take part in the pilgrimage: Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Scott, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Grey, Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Grey, Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Sirkie, Colborne; Jack Rashotte, Belleville and Mrs. Helena Duffy, Belleville

Pilot Project Aiming at Troubled Students

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

A pilot project that reaches out to heal the social wounds of students while attempting to meet their academic needs is being planned for Quinte Secondary School next fall.

The project, now dubbed "The Little Red School House," will be headed by a community contact team that will attempt to break down social problems that hinder some secondary school students. The project will be directed at those students who feel they cannot cope with the conventional classroom.

The community contact team will be made up of two groups. The inner team, forming the core of the project, will consist of a teacher-counseller, a school nurse, an in-class teacher and an attendance counsellor. The second team, referred to as advisory personnel, will be on standby to back up the inner team with a variety of skills and resources.

"If this project can save just five students a year then it will pay for itself," said Frank Chapman, vice - principal of Quinte Secondary School and a planner with the project team. About 19 teachers and guidance personnel met at the high school Thursday to iron out preliminary details.

Mr. Chapman said the pilot project will offer an alternative to students who through family or social problems can not complete their education. He also said that teachers must work "to heal the social wounds before they can expect students to achieve academically."

Jack Dixon, a teacher-counsellor and a member of the inner team, explained the contact team would be involved with the family or by whatever means possible to solve social problems. He said teachers are becoming increasingly aware that many academic problems are caused by family or out-of-school situations.

The committee, investigating this alternative, will apply to the ministry of education for a grant under the community programs. The maximum grant under this plan is $10,000. Some additional funds for the project could come from the alternatives in education fund of the Hastings County Board of Education.

Mr. Chapman said the project may only involve five or six students initially. Several other Ontario schools, in Toronto and London, have similar projects under way.

Committee members also expect to include the seven elementary schools, belonging to the Quinte family, as part of the preventive work by the contact team. Mr. Dixon stressed the need to develop preventive programs.

Trouble in River City

Professor Harold Hill played by David Smith tells the residents of River City they have trouble in their community. The scene is part of The Music Man a Belleville Theatre Guild production by Meredith Willson which will be presented at Belleville Collegiate Institute auditorium on April 30, May 1, 2, 3 and at 8 p.m. The musical is part of Artsfest '75, a presentation of the Quinte Arts Council. Director is Liz Marshall while Frank Martin is in charge of musical direction.

Pulse and Pinches

Tests for Fitness

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — If are not entirely effective," he said. He cautioned against putting faith in health foods, starvation diets or vitamins for effective results.

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — If your pulse is more than 72 and if you fail the pinch test, chances are you are out of shape and overweight, says Everart Van Beek, fitness and teaching master in the athletic and management program at Sheridan College of Applied Arts and Technology.

"To determine if you are fit or not, begin by measuring a resting pulse rate first thing in the morning," he said.

"At the wrist or neck, using fingers only as the thumb also has a pulse, take a 15-second count and multiply by four."

The pinch test is one method to determine overweight, said Mr. Van Beek.

"Place the thumb and forefinger above the hip, at the waist, behind the back and on top of the leg. At each area there should be no more than one-half inch excess. Of course, the bathroom scales can provide the same results."

Mr. Van Beek said a person can't spot-reduce, as many health clubs claim, because muscles are toned through proper exercise.

Ellis Critical Of Policy Timing

OTTAWA — Timing of the announcement of new federal dairy policies recently encouraged premature price hikes and hoarding, Jack Ellis, MP Hastings says.

He called on Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan to make all such future announcements in the Commons.

Recent announcements on dairy policy were made outside the House by the minister, he said.

Despite previous questioning in the Commons the minister waited until the Easter recess to make his statements outside the Commons, he said.

He called the statement deceptive in terms of returns to farmers. It also encouraged "premature price escalation in the consumer and hoarding by those financially capable of doing so."

The policy he said should have been announced at least two months earlier so that the industry had time to review and comment.

Despite the fact Mr. Whelan had announced a review of the industry a year ago, the minister did not consult with industry or dairy farmer, Mr. Ellis said.

Until the government fulfils its commitments to farmers, herd number will decline and overall annual production continue to drop.

Mr. Ellis said the government also has ignored problems caused by specialty cheese imports, affecting industrial milk production.

In December 1974 imports of processed cheese totalled 3,532,000 pounds while exports during the same month were only 425,000 pounds.

Chamber Not Anxious To Run Dock Facility

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Town officials are still waiting for response to a tender call for a Canadian government dock operator after talks with the Trenton Chamber of Commerce failed to produce an agreement with the group over dock operation this summer.

A tender call, to close in five days, has invited persons interest but no firm commitment from a Trenton group or individual to operate a canteen and gasoline bar at the dock.

Chamber manager Jack Wilson said Thursday recent talks with town council ended when the town indicated it plans to tender for an operator.

The chamber was given the opportunity to first refuse to operate the dock. Over two years ago, the Trenton organization ran the dock service for three consecutive years.

During this year's talks, said Mr. Wilson, the chamber indicated it was concerned over a number of new charges to be levied at the dock and the operation's profitability.

"We haven't said we would run it," he said "We wanted council to investigate other charges at the dock, but we got a letter saying that it would be tendered."

Cost of operation was a prime factor in the talks, said Mr. Wilson. "There's no way we'd go into it if we'd go into it at all."

Concern over the dock operation's profit picture was allied with operating deficits the Chamber is forecasting for this year. In 1974, the Chamber went into the red.

Mr. Wilson said that at the minimum wage, both those of the provincial and federal governments, it would cost the chamber at least $48 a day to provide staff to man the gas pumps and small canteen.

Other services, such as power, water and sewer disposal, are provided and paid for by the town. An operator would sell gasoline, bought through the town, and run the canteen from May 17 to September 15.

Chamber involvement in the dock operation will likely continue in the form of assistance to incoming boaters. Information about the town and location of various business has been, and will continue to be, provided by the group, said Mr. Wilson.

Legion Cannons May Have Guarded Canada

PICTON —Twin cannons mounted on the front lawn of the Picton Legion Hall may have been used in historic battles says Jack Weisman, president of the Prince Edward Historical Society.

Mr. Weisman, a well — known Prince Edward gun collector, claims he learned something of the cannons' history from an old issue of the Picton Gazette.

The guns were reported purchased by canning factory magnate Wellington Boulter to grace the grounds of the old Picton collegiate.

When this building burned in the 1960's the cannons were removed and re-erected on the Legion lawn.

One of the cannons was supposed to have been used during the battle of Queenston Heights and the other at the Battle of Windmill Point.

Authority Outlines Four Arbor Day Projects

PICTON — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority will observe Arbor Day and Conservation Week in Ontario on April 18 with plans for four special projects.

The first annual conservation poetry contest will be sponsored this spring and is open to all interested persons who reside within the area encompassed by the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority.

Authors of winning poems will be guests for a one-day conservation excursion to be organized this year.

The conservation poster contest will be sponsored for its seventh year by the PERCA.

A tree planting project in conjunction with the Boy Scouts "Trees for Canada" program also will be held.

The public will be invited to tour conservation authority sites and inspect PERCA projects that are funded in part by the provincial government. The balance of costs paid by member municipalities in the Authority.

In the Big Ditch

Work crews continue to install water and sewer mains under Elgin St. in downtown Trenton Thursday. Work along Elgin is almost complete and connections with mains along King St. will soon take place. Once Elgin is rebuilt, town crews will move over to Middle and Murphy street under a program to revamp part of the downtown core's services.

Industries Open Doors To Trenton Students

TRENTON — Education Week organizers at Trenton High School are in the middle preparing a program that will give students a more intimate picture of industrial activity in Trenton.

Displays and a number of tours inside local industrial plants are planned for April 20-26. Theme for the week is "Learning — A Co-operative Community Experience."

On Tuesday, April 22, 13 industries will be setting up displays in the school gymnasium and cafeteria. After students go through the mini-exhibition in the afternoon, the public is invited to attend between 7-9 p.m.

The following day, teacher — accompanied tours will be made at 13 plants ranging in size from Trent Valley Paper-board Mills in Glen Miller to Central Bridge.

Educational Award will—be presented is felt to have made the most significant contribution to education in Trenton.

Three Hurt In Crash

PICTON — Three men were treated and released from Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Thursday evening after their van collided with a hydro pole at the intersection of Spring and Mary Streets, here.

Driver of the van, Wesley Hicks, 22, of Picton and two passengers were treated for cuts and bruises.

Damage to the van was estimated at $1,000 in the accident which occurred shortly after 6 p.m.

Music Box Generates Interesting Collection

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — When Frank Foley of Belleville opened a birthday gift from his wife several years ago, he lifted the lid on a Pandora's Box playing a pied piper's tune.

Her unusual gift of a small music box triggered her husband's curiosity and has led him across Europe in search of collector's items.

"I became so fascinated that I started this," said Mr. Foley indicating a display of music boxes prepared for the Prince Edward Historical Society's annual meeting.

"The charm of music boxes is hearing tunes the world has forgotten," he told society members.

Mr. Foley, one of about 25 serious collectors in the world, says each music box has its own personality because of the quantity of hand workmanship in its creation.

"You can almost get an indication of the workman's soul," he remarked.

The collector said the mention of music boxes frequently prompts images of "tiny power-puff things" but such machines were only the beginning.

"The fun of a music box is not only listening to it but watching it work," he explained.

To illustrate his point Mr. Foley played his "real fan" music box featuring a wooden clock simulating a drum, tiny bees and butterflies and castanets.

Another machine prized by the collector is a barrel organ or Hurdy Gurdy, one of the oldest in his collection, that dates back to the early 1800s.

The organ features Pan pipes which are loud and shrill and is the type of machine used by organ-grinders who made their living on the streets.

It was made in Berlin by Cocchi, Bacigalupo and Graffigna.

Another favorite of the collector's display was a Concert Roller Organ that was sold $6.75 in Sears-Roebuck catalogues of 1908.

Among his latest acquisitions is a fairgrounds organ bought in Vienna. Mr. Foley says he now is primarily collecting larger machines such as this.

The collector retired from the Foley Foundry in Belleville in 1973 and since that time has spent much time studying his hobby.

He was invited by the Belgium government to spend a summer at the Royal Museum in Brussels to evaluate and catalogue its collection of 135 music boxes.

Although he has collected many machines since the first given to him by his wife, "Pandora's Box" remains in his home on the plane to remind him of his discovery of the worl of music boxes.

Nicol Critical Of New Budget

PICTON Jan Nicol Prince Edward-Lennox NDP candidate in the upcoming provincial election terms the budget announced April 7 by the province's Progressive Conservative government "an attempt to woo votes rather than check inflation."

The Conservatives, Miss Nicol said, "consistently introduce watered-down versions of NDP programs because they know they are popular."

Miss Nicol approved of protection for farmers against loss, but only as a first step in an agricultural stabilization program.

The NDP candidate also approved of the reduction in sales tax, pointing out that the NDP has always opposed this form of taxation that taxes everyone at the same rate, regardless of income.

What We Think
an engineer's view of current affairs

Nationalism and Canadian Engineers — It seems that Canadians talk incessantly about foreign control. Some claim it has become a national obsession. Perhaps it has. It would be a dangerous assumption, however, to assume that Canadians will continue to talk indefinitely and do nothing about it. The quest for a distinctive Canadian identity is a matter of real concern, and for professional engineers the quest extends to a search for a Canadian engineering identity also.

As a leading industrial nation, Canada is heavily dependent on technology and I feel very strongly that Canadian engineers have a duty and a responsibility to contribute their input. The fact is, however, that industry in Canada invests a smaller share of the gross national product in R&D than most industrialized nations. Seventy-five per cent of Industrial Research and Development establishments employ five or fewer scientists or engineers.

In 1972 the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario appointed a nine-man Committee to investigate the increasing tendency to employ non-Canadian engineers and engineering in Canadian projects. In its report to the Council it was indeed confirmed that the concern had a basis in fact. Data available from federal government sources indicated the probability that payments to non-residents for professional fees in 1969 represented some 10,000 engineering jobs. As Chairman of this Committee, I was even more discouraged hat there were definite indications that many public and private bodies were ill-informed as to the true nature and extent of Canadian engineering capability.

Space will not permit a complete disclosure of the Committee's findings; however, as a nation we cannot afford the under-employment of our native engineering potential not lose the spin-off effect of proper or full utilization. The solutions to the problem are now being considered at the national level through the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers. Ontario engineers will continue their interest in this vital issue — not because we want space on the nationalistic bandwagon, but because we feel strongly that Canadian engineers have a vital role to play in the development of our Canada. To do this we must have Canadian hands on the engineering tiller — not just manning the oars.

As C. James Moull, P.Eng., while serving as President of APEO, put it—"In seeking greater Canadian engineering involvement in the development of our own country, we are not asking for special privileges or favors. We are seeking what the majority of Canadians in other walks of life want for themselves, namely, participation in the future of our country, not as followers or imitators but as innovators".

I believe that Canadian engineers and Canadian workers are equal of any, and in matters affecting our own development and our own environment there are no better.

It is tragic that Canadian engineers should be inhibited from realizing their full potential through failure to adequately use their capabilities. Your comments are invited.

Immigration's Image

About a month ago a young German, Michael Daniisch, 19, came to Canada to visit his 19-year old fiancee, Veronica Schinker of Kitchener.

Immigration officials in Toronto decided Daniisch was not on a visit at all, but rather was in Canada to get a job without a work permit. And he was deported.

This despite the fact he had a large amount of cash as well as a return ticket.

"I feel like a criminal," Daniisch is quoted as saying. "I am sad and angry. I can't find too many nice things to say about Canada."

He also said immigration people at the airport treated him coldly and with bad manners.

This is not the first such case by any means of cavalier treatment of visitors by immigration officials at major points of entry. At least nobody can excuse these worthies of being racist because, to our personal knowledge, there have been complaints of visitors being raked over the immigration coals from such assorted nationalities as Kenyans, Sri Lankans (Ceylon) and New Zealanders. But it's still a lousy image for the officials of any country to project and Immigration Minister Andras would do well to tell them to cool it; and preferably, improve their manners.

Taken along with recent complaints of Canadian travellers behaving boorishly in the United States, assuming a mantle often worn by Americans themselves, it is bad news for Canadians at large.

Having said that, it must be said also that Canadians and Americans are not alone in this situation. As against the young New Zealand woman who wrote to a Montreal newspaper complaining about her rude reception by officials at the airport, there is the experience of a Belleville woman who was rudely treated . . . yes, on a visit to New Zealand. The French had a bad reputation for a while, at the height of the de Gaulle era, visa-toutists, and there is a personal recollection across the years of being tongue-lashed by a policeman off the grass at Versailles.

Toronto travel writer Robert Turnbull tells of a "grumpy, uninformative guide" in legendary Tahiti, and we recall a less than charming waitress in Honolulu — even though another travel writer has referred to Hawaii as "all sweetness and light."

For every good experience in a country, or with the officials of the country, there can be these other unhappy experiences. The trouble, moreover, is that they can linger in the mind for a lifetime.

Ann Landers, responding to a writer who is deaf and works as a meat wrapper and often does not hear questions addressed to him, described it as "another example of the growing lack of consideration and concern which has engulfed much of the world in recent years."

It may be worldwide, but let's start reversing the trend by putting our own house in order.

Court Penalties

Reference has been made in this space to a 40-year-old Toronto man, Robert A. Marks who was so severely beaten in an attack by a teenage gang, while out for a walk with his wife, that he can no longer work.

The police made one arrest in the case, of a man who was 23 at the time of the attack and whom they say initiated the beating.

He was sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years indefinite on conviction for assault causing bodily harm.

It was the kind of sentence that is causing grave doubts in the minds of many people as to the administration of justice in this country. A man is virtually crippled in the prime of life, and his attacker gets in all a mere four years less a day.

Money By Any Name

Supermarkets in Belleville carry signs asking customers to tender correct change where possible, because of a coin shortage.

It's a bad scene for our "Proud Canadian" bumper touters, American baiters and all, for a good deal of the blame in circulation these days is from south of the border.

All the more ironic too, to observe the likes of this by Toronto Globe and Mail columnist Scott Young: "Final patriotic item: When I mentioned recently that Canada of late refused to accept U.S. money, I received many snappish comments. . . : 'Good on Canadian Tire.' And Joan Holloboni: 'Good. It's about time Canadian stores began to refuse U.S. coins. We don't expect other countries to accept money other than their own currency. . .'"

Which is all very patriotic, but who is it really hurting, in a relationship which for many practical reasons, gets by on many an anomaly such as this.

Seasonal Contrasts

If Robert Louis Stevenson had been around for our late-winter-early-spring storm he might well have felt at home. For didn't he spend a year or two in a modest cottage at Saranac Lake, amid the clean mountain air of the Adirondacks, in the hope of improving his delicate health?

But it was a very different scene, known also to Stevenson, which presented itself to those who saw Nicol Smith's Kiwanis series film last week. Swaying palms and exotic beaches took minds off unseasonably stormy weather as the beauty of Fiji, Western Samoa, and Tonga enfolded itself.

From Saranac, Stevenson went to Western Samoa and built a mansion near the capital, Apia, living there from 1889 until his death in 1894.

The famous Scots poet and writer likely would have been pleased to know that 80 years or so later, a group of Canadians — half as many as usual because of the storm, and not too far from his old home — had turned out to see the South Pacific paradise where he spent his declining years.

P.M. Grabs Opposition Plan for Curbing Strike Action

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — In federal politics you come on with a good idea, and the government grabs it.

Just ask the New Democrats. They have been complaining for years that every time they propose a significant reform or advance in social legislation, the Liberals lifted it.

There was the old age pension, family allowances, medicare and so on. The New Democrats dreamed them up . . . but the Liberals, being in power (and aren't they almost always?) put them into operation.

That is why the New Dems like the CCF before them are known basically as "Liberals in a hurry."

So you have got an idea with obvious political sex appeal, and New Democrats or Conservatives alike, you discover it suddenly becoming government property.

Otto Jelinek, one of only two Conservatives to survive the Liberal sweep of the Toronto-Metro constituencies in last summer's election, is the newest victim of Liberal "appropriation."

A two-term parliamentarian, he had watched the labor scene deteriorate — especially in the federal government's own public service — into disaster in the last few years.

Then, at the turn of the new year, he had this idea to restore, he said, the balance between the public servant's right to strike and the taxpayer's right to service.

To end the blackmail-by-strikes, legal and illegal — shutting down the Post Office, the airports, airlines, civil service, grain exports by different unions walking out at different times — he proposed "sector bargaining."

It would mean all the different unions controlling air services would bargain on wages and working conditions under the one collective umbrella.

So if there had to be a strike, it would be a big one, involving all the unions at the one time and not in a creeping line of work stoppages.

Good idea.

So good that Liberal Labor Minister John Munro purloined it.

He even wrapped the idea in some of Otto Jelinek's own phrases, and presented it as a package to the Trudeau cabinet with the recommendation it be accepted as government labor policy.

He must have made a sale in cabinet.

For Prime Minister Trudeau himself has tried in the past sign on the Canadian Labor Congress.

He did not come right out and say he would force the unions to wear it.

But he just asked them to think about it.

He reminded them that everybody — including unions with other unions — long since had their overfill of strikes.

The taxpayers had run out of patience.

The government itself was hurting. The economy was taking a beating.

And the unions, if they faced up to it, Prime Minister Trudeau told the labor congress, were feeling the consequent pain of layoffs.

So there had to be a different way, he counselled the Congress.

The only question was how it would evolve. Would it be by way of through parliamentary action . . . by royal commission . . . or even by a federal task force.

One way or another, union wage and working negotiations, warned the Prime Minister, must be "restructured."

This being so — and that is what it was because the Prime Minister was saying it — then why didn't labor help itself by thinking about what he termed "industry wide bargaining?"

It was clearly Otto Jelinek's "sector bargaining," borrowed, or, to put it bluntly, stolen by the Prime Minister and trotted out under a thinly disguised new label.

He even appropriated Otto Jelinek's lines about how strikes, called and to end in economically disastrous succession, could — and had, at various intervals — paralyzed grain export, postal and air service operations.

But unlike Otto Jelinek, the Prime Minister had the clout to "warn" the Congress to ponder the problem before Parliament, or a Royal Commission, or a Privy Council task force imposed a solution.

To Jelinek, there must go the credit and the taxpayers thanks for having the brains and guts to stand up to Big Labor before which successive governments, until now, have cowered in fear.

A Dismal Unemployment Picture

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The number of people out of work in Canada has reached the highest level in many years—and the unemployed are not the only ones who are worried about it.

At mid-March, 7.2 per cent of the labor force—one out of every 14 workers—were unemployed and looking for a job.

That's the seasonally adjusted figure, which means seasonal factors so as to make the rate comparable from month to month. The raw, unadjusted figures show an actual jobless rate of 8.6 per cent of the labor force.

The continuing month-by-month rise in the jobless figure (800,000 Canadians now are drawing unemployment insurance benefits) points to a sustained period of high unemployment for the first time since the 1930s.

No one welcomes the return of such affairs, with the suffering and distress that it brings to thousands of families. But, in the past at least, high unemployment has always brought with it a return to more realistic wage demands, a distinct improvement in labor productivity, and a slowdown in the rate of inflation.

What's missing from today's economic picture is any such good news to help offset the bad news of unemployment.

Wage inflation continues to grow, responsible to the well-publicized leadership of the strong multi-service unions that are demanding year-to-year pay boosts in the range of 30 per cent.

Labor productivity figures for 1973 and 1974 have not yet been published by Statistics Canada. Data for 1972 showed a decline in the rate of improvement, and estimates by Wood Gundy Ltd. put 1973's productivity increase at 1.78 per cent and suggest that productivity actually dipped by 0.41 per cent last year.

The same estimates put the increases in unit labor costs at 5.02 per cent in 1973, and at 12.06 per cent—which would be a record high—in 1974.

Assuming the estimates to be reliable, they show a sharp divergence from the long-term post-war trend. In Canadian manufacturing, output and compensation per man-hour worked have been rising at an average of 4.1 per cent and 5.9 per cent a year, respectively, since 1946.

That means that unit labor costs have been tending higher by approximately 1.8 per cent annually—until now.

Today's rapid advance in labor costs, despite the lack of improvement in productivity and the growing surplus of workers on the Canadian labor market, seems to demonstrate that inflationary price increases and big wage boosts go hand in hand.

But with market conditions changing, how long can wage expectations remain unaffected?

That question goes to the heart of the modern inflationary dilemma. There is so little in economic history to compare with today's ever-growing inflation that one is tempted to look in medical history to find parallels in destructive addictions to narcotics and alcohol.

For a society addicted to inflationary increases in everything, high unemployment is becoming a serious side-effect.

Relief from the anti-effect would require some effective treatment of the addiction. So far, there's not much indication that the addict—society—really wants to be cured.

Election Year Budget By Treasury Wizards

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — As we entered the locked room to get the advance look at the budget given the press, there was one question on everybody's mind.

This was would it be an election budget? And if it was where could the goodies be found which feature such election-year statements?

After a few minutes, a quick glance through the first questions was answered. It was an election budget—in spades.

It was all good, good news.

And after a closer reading it was evident the government diggers had come up with an answer to the second part of the budget—goodies in spades.

There was something in it for everybody.

The general public got a reduction in sales tax.

Young couples got a $1,500 gift towards a new home.

Farmers got their guaranteed protection boosted.

The elderly one-eighth of the province's population got free drugs and minimum income boosted.

Small business got its incentives boosted and industry got a tax write-off on new machinery.

One had to marvel at the wisdom of the treasury experts in coming up with such a package in these disturbed times.

While political, the budget also has every appearance of being a good one.

It should stimulate the economy and cut down on unemployment while at the same time avoid contributing to inflation.

The drop in sales tax should encourage buying. Particularly as the drop is only until the end of the year.

This will encourage people to buy this year, particularly in major articles such as automobiles, household appliances and housing where the savings will be major.

And it certainly should encourage industry to buy machinery, which will benefit not only the producing industries themselves but also the manufacturers of the machines.

And it was a bold and imaginative budget.

What other government has thought of cutting down on sales tax?

And finally it was wise. Referring again to sales tax, by introducing the sales tax reduction for only a limited period, Treasurer Darcy McKeough avoided that great political trap of being stuck with it permanently.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In this International Women's Year the Women's Christian Union believe that our community and nation need Christian women who are dedicated to total abstinence from all mind altering drugs in themselves and others. The motto of the WCTU is "For God, and Home and every Land". Anything that would in any way interfere with the peace and happiness of the home and family is the concern of every WCTU member.

The work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was first organized in this area over 20 years ago. At that time a Children's Camp was operated at Conneaut. We, the WCTU counsellors, had to sell the camp. We are actively concerned with the problems that alcohol and drugs create for the youth of our community. Through the schools we seek to have children and young people educated in essay contest and scrap-book contests on temperance and tobacco themes.

This year we are financing a spot on local radio stations warning listeners about the dangers of intemperance. Locally we expect to send four young people to a weekend conference, Youth-a-rama, where dedicated Christians seek to inform and assist of experimenting with alcohol and drugs.

Finances of Control Dams

The reported cost of land acquisition alone is close to $1,500,000. I know I am only supposed to help pay the cost of such flood control dams but would surely like to know the names of the people who sold their property and the amount of money each received.

Think of the plight the insurance companies would be in if such dams could be assured that for 20 years we would be free from sickness, car accidents and domestic fire?

Bancroft Councillors Approve Parking Meters

By NAN WHITTAW
Staff Reporter

BANCROFT — Following a marathon three — hour discussion this week, Bancroft councillors decided unanimously to install parking meters in the main commercial area of the village in an attempt to control the congestion of traffic.

In a resolution which states "In an attempt to control the flow of traffic on the main streets, the council of the village of Bancroft will meter the downtown streets of Bridge St. from the York River to Hastings St. from Hastings St. north to Station St. and Station St. to the York River and both sides of First St. from Hastings to Cleak."

Some of the councillors however were reluctant to impose the parking restriction on the Bancroft consumers.

"It seems to me that the average Joe who drives downtown will be paying for the merchant who has failed to provide sufficient parking," said councillor Bob Blatherwick.

Reeve Russell Mawley assured the council that the meters would not be installed as an attempt to raise funds for the new municipal parking spot on Hastings St.

"What we're trying to do on the main street is to keep the traffic moving," he said.

Bancroft bylaw enforcement officer, David Talbot told councillors that a bylaw would cover merchants and employees who would feed the meters all day in an effort to control a parking spot.

"You can't keep on plugging nickles in — the parking would be only for an hour," said Mr. Talbot.

The new municipal lot would also be in for some parking restrictions council decided.

"The meters won't be the whole answer," said Reeve Mawley," "but it's going to help. The parking lot will also be a restricted two-hour parking area. If you want to stay there all day, you'll have to pay for a permit."

The meters will be ordered by the council as soon that they can be installed prior to the advent of the 1975 summer tourist season.

Meters Coming

Shoppers parking on downtown Bancroft streets will soon have to pay for the privilege. Town council voted this week to install meters on several streets to reduce all-day parking and improve traffic flow.

New Sewage Facilities Means Hydro Bill Hike

BANCROFT — Local residents will soon be paying additional charges for the services which will be provided by the new Bancroft sewage system and treatment plant.

The manager of the Bancroft Public Utilities Commission, Dean Laundry, told council this week that, "The ministry of the environment will soon be expecting the village to start to pay for the system and treatment plant, so we had better get some revenue in."

Mr. Laundry said that the PUC would be billing each residential village user on the traditional hydro bill and that the charge will be about $4.50 per month.

For commercial establishments, Mr. Laundry anticipated the bill to be about $9.00 monthly.

In the case of large users such as schools, laundromats and government office buildings, the rate will be individually computed.

Bancroft's new system was installed in 1974, however, because of supply problems, the $1.5 million dollar sewage treatment plant is not yet completed.

Most Merchants Favor Metered Parking

PAT MacLEOD

Pat Macleod, owner The village Book and Fabric Shop said "I'm delighted.

I'm sure that if the parking spaces were well marked out, we would be able to get one third more cars parked there. Meters have been good and effective in many other Ontario towns and I'm sure it will be good for Bancroft, but I do feel that the large municipal parking lots should be metered too."

DEAN LINTON

Dean Linton, owner Dean's Men's Wear said "It's a hell of a good idea.

It will keep the downtown merchants themselves from parking all day on the street. I've even seen school buses parked there all day. It will really keep the traffic moving the way it should."

MADELINE HOLDEN

Madeline Holden, owner Holden's restaurant, said "I'm sure that it is the only fair solution to the parking problem. The downtown traffic must be kept moving.

You know, the merchants are the worst offenders for the all day parking. I really hope that they cover the meters during the winter months.

RON MISKO

Ron Misko, owner of the newly-remodelled Ron's Discount Mart said "All other towns have the meters. I guess that it's a good idea.

There's no reason why you should be able to use the street like a parking lot. We did it, so now this will keep people moving."

Church Join Hands For Marmora Crusade

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Reporter

MARMORA — The Good News Crusade gets under way here Saturday and runs until Sunday, April 27. A five-man team has flown over from England. Two arrived in Marmora earlier in the week, and the remaining three landed Thursday afternoon in Toronto.

Rev. Gerald Kemp of the Free Methodist Church in Marmora said at a meeting Thursday evening of the crusade was the idea of the Anglican minister in the community, Rev. John Lombard.

"The crusade is not sponsored by any group or group of churches," Mr. Kemp said. "Members of the team will preach at various Sunday morning services."

Besides the Free Methodist and Anglican Churches the United Church with Rector John Peters and the Pentecostal Church with Pastor James Stevenson will be participating.

Every day from Monday through Saturday the Good News Crusade team members will be holding meetings in two locations, East Prestlee Public School and in the hall of St. Andrew's United Church.

Besides preaching at regular Sunday church services, the Crusade will have a family rally at 3 p.m. on Sunday in East Prentice School and in the evening at 7:30 there will be a crusade service.

There are four special youth nights, Tuesday, April 15, Friday, April 18, Tuesday April 22 and Friday, April 25.

Weekdays and Saturday there will be 9 a.m. prayer meetings in St. Andrew's United Church on Highway 7, at 4 p.m. there will be children's hour.

At East Prentice School on William St. two blocks north of the United Church, weekdays and Saturday, there will be a youth discussion at 6 p.m. At 6:15 there will be a Bible exploration class and at 7:30 there will be a crusade service.

Fire Truck Considered

MARMORA — A resolution proposed by Wollaston Township requesting the provincial government to provide assistance with fire protection expenses has been agreed to by Marmora council.

Councillors said they hope the resolution will produce results before the next seed for a new fire truck becomes critical.

Clerk-treasurer William Shannon was instructed to investigate the procedure for purchasing a new truck by departure. Councillor Bert Gray said he believed a new truck would cost between $31,000 and $35,000 and must be ordered a year before delivery date.

Madoc and District Churches Book Topic

MADOC — One hundred and fifty years of Madoc and district church history has been published and today a tea is planned at which interested persons can meet the three authors and get autographed copies of the 400-page book.

Alma Blackburn, Alma Moorcroft and Blanche Sandford started a combined effort to compile the book in 1972 and they finished the task this January.

Miss Moorcroft was first appointed to a committee whose task was to save this area of Ontario history seven years ago. When the team effort got under way, they spent all their spare time for three years searching through church records, old newspapers, personal diaries, minute books, and archives in Toronto.

There are sketches in the book, which is called Pilgrimage of Faith, prepared by Miss Moorcroft. There are also reproductions of old documents, individual histories of churches and many photographs both past and present.

The book was partly financed under the New Horizons federal program for retired persons.

The Pilgrimage of Faith promotional tea is being held in the Trinity United Church parlors, Madoc, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Marmora Considers Adding Fluoride to Drinking Water

By RUBY MCCOY
Staff Correspondent

MARMORA — The cost and method of adding fluoride to the municipal drinking water system is to be investigated by Marmora village council following the recent visit of Dr. Dennis Warrick, director of the dental health unit for the hastings and Prince Edward counties health Unit.

Dr. Warrick explained the benefits to be derived from fluoride treated water and gave council some idea of the cost entailed.

Fluoride treatment could be provided for as little as 21 cents per person a year, Dr. Warrick explained, adding how important it is that young children be given the benefits of fluoride treatment before their permanent teeth grow in.

The use of fluoride tooth pastes helps and is not the answer, Dr. Warrick said. Even the children being bussed into School in Marmora would be benefited by the addition of fluoride to the water system because children are known to drink a lot of water, he pointed out.

A dental health program is being carried out in the elementary schools and Grade 9 in high school to provide examinations and health information. An examination of Marmora student from Kindergarten to Grade 3 showed that only 30 percent were free of decay, Dr. Warrick reported.

The Village of Bancroft, which some time ago installed fluoride equipment at a cost of $2,300., was used as an example of the benefits derived from fluoride treatment. Their percentage of tooth decay — free children has increased from 15 to 50 per cent, he said.

Studies have shown, Dr. Warrick said in answer to questions by members of council, that fluoride does not cause cancer or damage internal organs. The city of Brantford was cited as an example of having natural fluoride in its water and studies have turned up no ill effects in people there.

The average person spends $10 per year on dental services and this could be significantly reduced by fluoride in the water, Dr. Warrick emphasized.

He also inquired where the juggle of Marmora are going to obtain dental services and was told that Madoc, Stirling, Belleville and Peterborough are the main centres.

He was advised by Reeve Jack Reynolds of Council's unsuccessful attempts to get a dentist for Marmora. Dr. Warrick [illegible] that every civil apply new for a dentist graduating in 1976 as the students start looking a year ahead for a place to locate. One of the main things in attracting a young dentist is suitable accommodation and willingness to help, Dr. Warrick pointed out.

The members of council had been approached by the people of Marmora to look after their welfare, Dr. Warrick suggested, inclusive of their dental health. He offered to do a study and keep detailed follow-up records if Marmora will apply now for a dentist.

The fact that Marmora has never had a vote taken on the issue is of great help, Dr. Warrick said, because council is then in a position to proceed. Once a vote is taken fluoridation can only be implemented by a majority of the people in favor.

There are anti-fluoride people and organizations that would just love to move into an area and conduct a campaign against installing fluoride treatment facilities, Dr. Warrick explained.

Hastings Highlights

Housing Study Planned

MADOC — The Ontario Housing Corporation is to conduct a study here to determine the need for a housing project to house senior citizens.

Skunk Found Rabid

HAVELOCK — A skunk, killed on a road east of here recently, has been proven rabid by laboratory tests.

There are six houses in the area and students walk the road to catch school buses.

Marmora to Be Studied

MARMORA — Students of anthropology wants to research the social, political and economic history of this village. Catherine M. Cameron, a Canadian student at the University of Illinois has been hired for the project approved by village council

Well Contaminated

MADOC — The provincial consumer relations ministry is to investigate contamination in one of the wells which is the source of this village's water supply. Gasoline is reported seeping into the well and village council doesn't plan on its use until the problem is cleared.

Positions Available

TWEED — Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, reports that three new positions for conservation officers have been made available in the new provincial fiscal year for the Tweed forest district.

Ann Landers

Can Handwriting Reveal Character?

Dear Ann Landers: Can a person's true character be revealed through his handwriting?

My 25-year-old son has fallen in love with a 20-year-old woman. She has him completely wrapped up. He is walking on air, and it's simply nauseating.

I happen to know Dennis gave this woman a very expensive piece of jewelry, although he still owes his father a large sum of money.

On three occasions I have been in Madame Svengali's company when Dennis was not present. All three times she showed a very bad temper. The last time she lost control of her mouth, she realized she went too far. The following day she wrote me a letter of apology. I took that letter to a handwriting analyst and it is what he said: "The woman is potentially dangerous. She is hiding some sort of secret."

Should I mind my own business or am I obligated to tell my son? I happen to agree with the handwriting analyst. I'm sure Dennis has never seen her temperamental side. Please advise.—Mrs. Z

Dear Z: I do not believe a person's handwriting can reveal to me or she is potentially dangerous and is "hiding" something.

It Dennis is unaware of his lady friend's temperamental side he is sure to witness it eventually. Should she manage to keep him completely fooled until after they are married, that's his hard luck. A 25-year-old man should not be cheated by his mother, so MYOB, dearie.

Dear Ann Landers: I found out yesterday that my husband has a $25,000 life insurance policy and the beneficiary is his former wife.

Should I bring this matter to his attention? I am terribly hurt and feel he is not playing fair. I can't give you more details because I don't want to reveal my identity. We live in a small town and I would surely be recognized. Please express your opinion.—Second Best Ina's Good Enough

Dear Second: You had given me enough to give me more details such as how long was your husband married to his first wife? How many children did they have? How old are you? How old is SHE? Did that woman help your husband become a financial success? Did she take care of his mother in her old age?

After you read my response I doubt that you'll want to "call the matter to his attention." You might get some answers you don't care to hear.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 25, my fiance is 29. We've been going together for two years and pretty much in love. Don was married briefly when he was 18. This will be my first marriage and I want it to work.

Everything is perfect except my ex-in-law problem. It is killing me. Don doesn't want children. He says kids make him nervous. He can't stand his sister's children. They are spoiled and ill-behaved. I have tried to explain that our children would be different, but he says he doesn't want to take the chance.

My parents are dying to have grandchildren and I am their only hope. My brother was injured in Viet Nam. I adore children and can't imagine life without them. What should I do? He won't go for counseling. His mind is made up.—Seeking Guidance

Dear S. G.: I would not make this decision for anybody. But if it's guidance you want I will tell you that a marriage that starts out with a problem like yours has two strikes against it. Your resentment could grow with the years and you might end up blaming Don for cheating you out of something very precious.

Research Underway

Women as Police Officers

VANCOUVER (CP) — For perhaps the first time in Canada, research is under way to investigate the relationship of women to police as offenders, victims and fellow-officers on the force.

Last June, the British Columbia Police Commission set up a special group to investigate the subject.

"Because of the time involved, we had to set priorities so we tackled the subject of employment of women as police officers first," said Joanna Prindiville, a University of B.C. doctoral candidate in anthropology who was hired as principal researcher.

"The deployment of women in patrol work here had been the subject of concern, particularly since human rights legislation had stipulated that they were entitled to equal opportunities in this field of employment as well as any other," she said.

"There were nine women on the force in 1969, then they were taken off the streets and given inside clerical jobs. However, the policy was changed by late fall of 1973 women were introduced into regular police patrol duties.

"Our job was to try to assess their situation through the eyes of women themselves and of the people they worked with."

Policewomen now work as shifts alone and with partners, carry guns, work the cars, and are assigned to fight calls or anything else that comes up in the line of duty.

"They cannot strip-search male prisoners but in practically every other way, including pay, they're treated equally with their male counterparts," said Ms. Prindiville.

"We're inclined to be more Inventive because we're women," said sixfoot, 165-pounds Barbara Melymick.

"If we're in a tight corner we're not above pulling hair if we have to—we're not as predictable as men.

"And when it comes to urging fresh language, well, most of us can chew out an offender pretty good if we have to, though surprisingly, we don't often have to."

Five years of psychology at Simon Fraser University helps too, she said.

Not all the 21 policewomen currently on staff are sergeants. Some are like Constable Jone Roberts, who is five-foot-six.

Constable Don MacIntosh said male officers tend to simmer down when there's a woman present. He had seen some potentially violent situations cooled simply because both he and a male offender reacted automatically to the fact that the other constable was a woman.

Women officers, however, "have no inhibitions about hitting other women," said Ms. Prindiville.

"Women constables admit that they have more problems with female offenders than with male."

When police are called to investigate a rape, the victim seems to find it easier to undergo the intimate questioning that has to be done initially by police if the officer is a woman.

"Sexual offenses require a very special kind of approach," said Teresa Moore on staff at the Rape Relief Centre.

"The questioning comes at a very traumatic time for the victim. Male constables, they say, tend to be brusque and unfeeling. Women, on the other hand, are much more empathetic. Their instinctive approach is—this could have been me."

Though it's not a policy of the force, there is a tendency for policemen to shield women not called to duty work. As a result, policewomen said they're not given the same opportunities to carry out duties done by men.

"Well, yes, I guess that's true," to a degree," said Constable Marlenes. "But once they've proven themselves, I think we look on them as equal in every respect.

"My partner (Constable Melymick) is as good as any man I've worked with."

Some policemen's wives have found policewomen hard to accept. They have been known to protect when their husbands were teamed with a woman constable.

"Any wife that would worry about that kind of thing just doesn't understand the nature of the job," said Constable MacInnes.

Constable Melymick's husband understands perfectly—he's a city traffic cop.

Sabia Predicts Backlash

TORONTO (CP) — Laura Sabia, chairman of the Ontario Status of Women Council, says there may be backlash from both male and female civil servants to the Ontario government's hiring of 21 women to improve the lot of women civil servants.

In a telephone interview Wednesday from her home in St. Catharines, Mrs. Sabia said:

"I had nothing to do with the appointment of these women. I was not consulted, the council was not consulted, and I personally think it was the wrong thing to do."

She said she made it clear to government officials how she felt about the new program for hiring women counsellors, "but I was told it wasn't my department."

The women work as co-ordinators in various government ministries and agencies, but only seven work full-time at promotion of women's programs, they are paid salaries up to $28,460 a year.

Earlier this week in the legislature, Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, referred to them as "token" women in the government. Environment Minister William Newman could not remember the name of his ministry's co-ordinator, Grace Blackadar, when challenged to do so by Mr. Lewis.

Mrs. Sabia said that by "paying high-priced salaries to the women', the government may be lowering discrepancies between male and female employees, but I think they are going to get a backlash in the ministries from both male and female employees."

"Governments have to change their attitudes (toward women employees), have to change the legislation, and have to change the employees' opinions," she said.

Most of the co-ordinators have 10 to 15 years in the civil service and many were transferred from their departments when they were given their new jobs as women's co-ordinators.

"I'm a great believer in the merit principle, and we have to give opportunities to women in advance," said Mrs. Sabia. "But my office (the council of four) has got larger than it I'd get the hell out."

Quit Smoking, Lengthen Life Span

Dear Doris: Thank you for permission to publish your article about smoking — the one signed by "Average I.Q.". I have arranged to have the same article published for other newspapers in this country.

The letter reminded me very much of my own experience. When young I smoked cigarettes to the the extent of two packs each day.

One of those days I got thinking how much life insurance that amount of money would purchase for me, and I just quit suddenly and have not touched a cigarette since. That was in the year 1923. Yes, the first week was rather tough but my determination was strong and after that the desire was not great.

Last September a nephew of mine who lives in Toronto staged a nice dinner and surprise in honor of my 80th birthday, so I am what you would call an octogenarian and enjoying very good health.

J.W. Bryan, Ohio.

Dear J.W.: Congratulations! So with the money you had been purchasing coffin nails you secured a lease on longer living.

According to statistics I have been reading recently, you have increased your chance of living to enjoy an 80th birthday party.

Dear Doris: I also am past forty-five but had a hysterectomy five years ago and thought that was the end of things. Six months ago I married, for the second time, and have moved away from home and children. For the past six weeks I have been having hot flashes (a thing which my mother had told me I never experienced) and if they don't become worse I can live with them too, as I don't perspire like some people do.

In my new environment I am happy and contented.

Prior to my second marriage I worked in a large office in a city, travelling 25 miles each day to work. While I miss my closest colleagues, I can honestly say I don't miss the noise of traffic, the pressure of deadlines and the all-too-frequent wondering how important a lot of jobs are! I have certainly created equaling success with dollars, and enjoy an adequate living in a comfortable home.

Please send me your 25-cent leaflet "Facing Forty", and keep your counsel.—J.A.M.

Dear J.A.M.: The leaflet is on its way. My medical consultant suggests that the decision of a marriage partner may be responsible for a certain amount of glandular reaction. However, this is something you should discuss with your own doctor; it may be that he can relieve your symptoms.

You are not the first one who has found, to her surprise, that rural living has a big going for it. Have you compare it with the "rat race" associated all too often with our large centres of population. It does help one to readjust some values, doesn't it?

Leaflets mentioned by Doris are available to readers for 25 cents and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your letter in care of this newspaper.)

Backyard Swing Sets Can Be Dangerous

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — That swing set you put up in your back yard may be more dangerous than you think.

Each year some 450,000 children are treated in emergency rooms in the United States for injuries received on home playground equipment. Add public playground equipment and he figures' climbs to some 800,000youngsters.

Who's to blame?

"Almost 50 per cent of the accidents in home playground equipment are directly attributable to the manufacturer," said B. M. Mahajan, an official with the National Bureau of Standards. "Much of it is poorly designed structurally, with pinch points, protrusions, exposed bolts, sharp points, edges" and corners, S-hooks and hard swing seats.

"Design and construction defects, when combined with misuse and abuse of these products during unsupervised play, lead to traumatic mishaps."

Mahajan has been commissioned by the federal government to study playground equipment. Jurisdiction is shared over to the Consumer Product Safety Division.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is a recently created enforcement agency that has the power to impose mandatory safety standards. It has yet to set any for home playground equipment. Mahajan said some manufacturers are trying to set voluntary standards.

Although most injuries from home playground equipment fall into the cuts and bruises division, more serious accidents do occur. Children have fingers amputated in movable joints, pinch points that often are located at the junction of the top cross bar and the vertical bars and cause strangulation, he said.

Research shows that swing seats made of metal or wood can strike a youngster with enough force to cause a concussion or fractured skull.

Mahajan has come up with a ribbed plastic seat which he said would cut down significantly on such injuries.

Although fatal accidents are rare, they do happen. Mahajan recalls one in Chicago where a six-year-old girl caught her pony tail in a protrusion on a sliding board and strangled.

"The data indicates that a large number of injuries could have been prevented if more foresight had been used by the playground equipment manufacturers," he said.

Mahajan offered this advice to parents who are either considering buying home playground equipment or already have it in their back yard:

—Pile off any sharp points.

—Check periodically for loose nuts and bolts. Articles of clothing, especially shoe laces, can catch on such objects.

—Follow the manufacturer's suggestion to anchor the equipment.

—Look for pinch points at joint or holes that a child might get his fingers or toes stuck in.

—Select equipment with mov-

$400 Million in Toothpaste — But Does It Do Any Good?

WASHINGTON (AP) — America is a nation of toothpaste, $400 million of gooey dentifrice squeezed from rumpled tubes last year in search of mint-fresh breath, pearly white teeth, cavity-free chewups or a new love life.

Did it do any good?

Dental health experts generally agree that toothpaste containing fluoride prevents cavities, if used regularly. But after several decades of research, scientists are uncertain whether toothpastes without fluoride have any advantage over a wet brush sprinkled with table salt or baking soda.

"If you're going to use a dentifrice, there is absolutely no reason it shouldn't be a fluoride dentifrice," said Dr. Stanley B. Heifetz of the National Institute of Dental Research.

As for non-fluoride toothpastes . . .

"Brushing your teeth with toothpaste is pleasant, there's no doubt about that," said Dr. Herschel S. Horowitz, another National Institute of Dental Research public health dentist. "It tastes good. It's foamy. Your mouth tingles. It's definitely a part of our culture."

But the rigorous clinical trials that would prove other major advantages of tooth pastes without fluoride—for example, controlling chronic bad breath—haven't been conducted, say Dr. Heifetz, Dr. Horowitz and others of the National Institute.

Dental researchers agree that for millions of people a wet brush is sufficient, with not toothpaste.

But researchers, in interviews, express puzzlement why anyone taking the trouble to brush his teeth wouldn't use a fluoride toothpaste because of its proven cavity-fighting ability.

Living in a community with fluoridated water supply and then brushing with a fluoride toothpaste may heighten protection, some studies have indicated.

The usefulness of unfluoridated toothpaste may be questioned. But there is little disagreement that brushing the teeth—with or without toothpaste—is essential.

Hospital Auxiliaries Hold Annual Spring Conference

The largest group of women ever recorded attended the district Spring Conference of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario held Thursday at Belleville General Hospital.

More than 100 women from eight area hospitals in Napanee, Belleville, Trenton, Brockville, Kingston and Picton, attended.

Chairman of the conference was Selma Bochnek, president of the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary.

The conference began with a roll call with representatives of each auxiliary highlighting the year's events for their auxiliary. The members also displayed popular hand-made items from their hospital gift shops.

Seven workshops followed by summations of the discussions took place during the morning session.

Ruth Murray, president of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario addressed the luncheon session which was attended by Mayor Robin Jeffrey, J. M. Legate, vice-chairman of the BGH Board of Governors, and Philip Rickard, executive director, BGH.

After luncheon, a business meeting was held followed by a tour of the hospital.

'Communications' Workshop Topic

Communication was the theme of the workshops held Thursday morning during the spring conference of the district Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario.

The conference was held in Belleville.

Kay Rodrigues, of the Lennox and Addington Hospital Auxiliary, told women at the conference that volunteer communications within hospitals was handled by various auxiliaries through the use of telephone committees, publications and newsletters, personal contact and even suggestion boxes.

"We all felt the need for get-togethers so that volunteers could get to know each other and exchange ideas," Mrs. Rodrigues said.

Charlotte Holfelder, of the BGH Auxiliary, discussion group leader for chairmen of volunteer services, told the women that maintaining complete records and training of volunteers were important to a useful hospital auxiliary.

"These things help be sure that policy and rules of the hospital are being carried out."

Helen Logan, of the Belleville Auxiliary, said that complaints of services found that communication is the biggest problem in the interpretation ship of volunteers and the hospital.

Marnie Dickinson, of the Lennox and Addington Hospital Auxiliary, said that her discussion group on recruiting volunteers revealed that everything from church bulletins to coffee parties were used to solicit volunteers.

"You've got to be honest — if you want a volunteer to work in a coffee shop you've got to tell them its work — not a glamor job."

Kerry Marshall, director of nursing at BGH, led a discussion group on job description.

Miss Marshall told the women that a volunteer has a right to know exactly what job he or she is to do and what the outside limits of her responsibility is. The hospital also has a right to know what to expect, she said.

Miss Marshall said that proper job descriptions, which are reviewed with inputs from the volunteer, help the volunteer know what she's there for and adds to her status in the hospital.

Mary Cooke, unit co-ordinator at BGH, said that the object of the volunteer in long-term care units is to help the patient become re-motivated and to help her re-adjust to society.

"It's important to do things with the patient — not for the patients," she emphasized, adding that the volunteer should work to reestablish the self-esteem of the patient.

To that end, she said, crafts and other activities, should have a purpose, should result in a product useful to the patient.

Most of all, remember long-term patients are adults — don't talk down to them."

Volunteers Of Future

Ruth Murray, president of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario, told more than 100 women Thursday that concern about volunteers of the future is exaggerated.

Mrs. Murray addressed the annual District 8 Spring Conference of the association held at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital.

The question has been asked "where will we find volunteers in the future with so many women joining or returning to the work force", Mrs. Murray said.

But, she added, 100 years of service by Ontario hospital auxiliaries proves that the future does not be any problem.

Two events of recent years, particularly, Mrs. Murray said, should alleviate the gap left by women entering the work force.

The auxiliaries have been opened to men and boys and the age for junior volunteers has been lowered."

The junior volunteers will graduate to volunteers as they get older," Mrs. Murray said. "Once involved, they rarely lose their interest."

The change in name generally from "women's" auxiliary to simply "auxiliary" has paved the way for men to join. "That name 'women's' does hard, but as men retire they're beginning to join volunteer services."

She added that retired persons add greatly to the auxiliary.

"It's not how old you are but how you are old."

Mrs. Murray told the auxiliary that in April 1974 in Minneapolis a North American volunteer conference was held.

At the conference, elevating the status of the volunteer was discussed.

Mrs. Murray said that some factions discussed remuneration for volunteers or "payments" like tax deductions.

But, she pointed out, another faction criticized such moves as removing the work from the realm of the volunteer into that of the underpaid worker.

People and Events

QUINTE WI

A pot luck supper was held at the Memorial Hall by the Quinte Women's Institute April 8, after which committee reports and treasurer's reports were heard.

The election and installation of officers followed, conducted by Olive Weese, federation representative of the East Hastings District.

The 1975-76 executive includes: Harriett Fleming, past president; Helen McLaren, president; Mary Davis, first vice-pres; Mabel Sargeant, second vice-pres; Eileen Darling, secretary-treasurer; Myrtle Vivian, assistant secretrea; Evelyn Wood, public relations, assisted by Bessie Keene.

The Quinte WI will hold its first euchre party of the year in the Memorial Hall, April 11, beginning at 8 p.m.

CHRIST CHURCH A.C.W.

The April meeting of Christ Church Anglican Christian Women, was held Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members and friends.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Mrs. Mae Bonter who gave an interesting talk and showing of slides depicting life in the U.S.S.R. today.

President Lou Beeby welcomed the group and gave an account of the recent "Leaten Quiet Day" held in Stirling.

The devotional was conducted by Dorothy Wright, assisted by Jane Hickey.

Reports were heard from various' conveners with news from the work group, Hastings Manor, the Altar Guild and the Euchre group. Plans are underway for a rummage sale to be held on May 2.

Wool and materials were distributed to members for projects to be worked on for the Charity Bazaar at the Quinte Mall in the Fall.

The annual meeting of the diocese A.C.W. will be held in Kingston, April 29. A bus will leave St. Thomas' Church at 8.15 a.m.

Louise Demczyna, Hobbyist and Teacher

If you were a student in Louise Demczyna's fifth grade class at Cannifton Corbyville Public School you'd be learning to do macrame and make old fashioned apple dolls and building terrariums right along with learning to multiply and spell.

In fact, crafts are pretty well a way of life for Mrs. Demczyna and her enthusiasm just naturally spills over into the classroom.

"I just see something and have to try it right away," she says.

Making things began when she saw a lamp in a friend's home and realized it was made from paper cups. "Turning things into other things seemed really interesting."

Well, she made the lamp and went on to macrame. Then she began teaching macrame to a school interest group. One way or another that led to paper tole — the art of constructing three-dimensional scenes — and apple dolls and terrariums and weaving and drying vegetables for table decoration and wreaths.

The kids are enthused, too, and the classroom in a happy muddle of everything from sophisticated macrame hangings to macaroni-covered vases.

Being crafty, however does have it's drawback. Once Mrs. Demczyna produced a macame owl person after person saw it and liked it and hinted.

In the end, I made 17 of those owls!"

She Supported Him Through School, Now It's His Turn to Pay for Her

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman, who quit college to pay her husband's way through law school, was given an alimony settlement Wednesday designed to make her the ex-husband pay her way through medical school.

Justice Bernard Kassal of Manhattan Supreme Court awarded Ethelyn Morgan, 27, a total of $200 a week for alimony and child support for as long as she remains unmarried and continues her medical studies.

She and Charles Morgan were married Jan. 27, 1967, while he was a third-year private student at the University of North Dakota and she was a sophomore studying biology at Florida State University.

"Recognizing that both could not simultaneously continue their education and be self-supporting, they agreed it would be preferable for him to finish his undergraduate and law school education while she worked," the judge said.

During the seven years she was married, Mrs. Morgan became skilled as an executive secretary and data analyst, she could probably earn $10,000 a year, the judge said.

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Something To Shout About

Here is a quote of Paul Bennett, the craft juror of the Quinte Arts Fest, about Donpah Cameron Finnigan's pottery: "These bowls are superb. They have, in my mind, what I call a true artistic concept. I could look at them for a very long time and receive a tremendous enjoyment from the porcelain quality, the simplicity of shape and the almost mystical sense of transcendence . . . they are altogether delightful". You can see Donnah's bowls at the show now on until April 20th at the Corby Library. Admission is free and the hours are 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sundays. And you can always see some of her work at the Cameron Gallery, 1½ miles west of Redneersville on the Redneersville Road.

Just Out of The Box

When I called Jean Smith at the West Wind Boutique this week she was just unpacking some new and exciting imported fashions — such as summer dresses from Finland that are made of material that dances like summer breezes. She also has just received Swiss twill suits — pants and tops, and shirts and tops, and dresses and jacket ensembles, those staples of any well-planned wardrobe. Jean will be glad to show you all her exciting fashions 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. everyday but Sunday. Sunday hours are 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.; although she can see you after 6 if you'd call 478-3130 for an appointment.

ServiceMaster is very interested in providing an adequate and reliable housekeeping service in our area. But they need two things: People who are interested in doing the service and people who are interested in providing it. If you are either, then you should call 967-1672. If you require this service, you will get competence and efficiency for your investment; if you can provide such a service, you will get stability and a secure working environment with the usual employee benefits. Sounds as if ServiceMaster could really have a good thing going here for everyone. How about it?

Study Time Help

Students of all ages are putting last minute touches to term papers or essays or exam preparation. Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 291 Coleman St. has just the items to assist this very vital process — a good selection of college desks, desk lamps, dictionary lamps, and desk lamps that you don't have to be a student to require adequate lighting when you read, so if you've some dissatisfactions in this area at your house, you know where to go too. These items come in decorator colors too. And why not a study lamp as a wedding or graduation gift?

Full Service Optician

So many people, agencies and retailers are always talking about their service — how good it is, why we should try it etc. Trenton Optical doesn't just talk about it; they do something about it! For instance Trenton Optical describes itself as a full service optician! What does that phrase mean? It means that Trenton Optical can arrange an eye examination with a reliable eye expert; can show you a wide range of glasses frames from which to choose; can mail them to you in a week; can compete in price with any other local optician; and can take care of you without an appointment. Visit 54 Bridge St. E. Trenton Optical is "Worth Looking Into".

Delightful Dinner . . . Delightful Price

It's hard to believe that for only $8.50 you can enjoy the delicious Dinner Special in the Dining Room of the Four Seasons. This $8.50 provides you with: soup of the day or tossed salad; prime rib of beef; or roast pork; baked potato; dessert; and coffee — all this with the detail to service and atmosphere for which the Four Seasons is noted. Dinner is served in the entertaining surroundings of the Matt Pines Trio in the Terrace Lounge, where you can make a pre-repast dinner visit. All in all, you've got a lovely evening ahead of you, if you'll just call for reservations at 968-3411.

Making Improvements

I think we're all going to be so glad to be able to take off our storm windows, that we will be in a great mind cleaning them. But there are many other more major improvements to your house which you may now be planning. Get Highland Construction in on the ground floor of that planning. As you'll see when you visit Highland Construction and Home Improvement Centre, 257 North Front St., they keep up to date with the latest in materials and the techniques of home improvement. At the centre you can see and touch the materials for yourself, so it's not guessing about the reality of a Highland's impression. There is nothing left to guessing with Highland Construction. Visit or call 962-1184.

Snow Or No

Bad snow storm or no, we're well into April now and thoughts of holidays occupy our daydreams and our evening conversations. Holiday Car and Truck Rentals, 11 Victoria St. can help those daydreams and those conversations by supplying the facts, figures and prices on renting a car or truck to help make that vacation the vacation of your dreams. Holiday deals great cars and trucks; they know transportation and whether it's a trek to the cottage or a trip across Canada, Holiday can help you get there safely and comfortably. Call 962-8411 for more information.

April Showers All Year

One thing about the weather . . . if and when we ever do get some of those April showers, we won't dare complain. One way to have the softness of April water at your house all year round is to have an Aquafine Water Refiner from Moira-Schuster installed at your house. And this type of April water is as safe from your taps as if Heaven itself had sent it. And the miracle of soft water and soap will also be apparent to you too — no conditioners or softening agents are needed; all you need is right there in your Aquafined water. Call 962-4504 and say hello to April Showers all year round.

It Really Is Coming

In all his wisdom, Murray Atkinson of Murray's Food Market on Frost St., tells me that spring really is coming. OK Murray . . . I'll trust you. And Murray can help you get ready with the business of spring planting and growing. Murray has bulbs and seeds for flowers and vegetables in good quantities and he also has grass seed. As he passes along some grass-growing tips: Throw some grass seed on that film of snow we still have . . . you might be very delighted at the results. Thanks Murray.

Spring Cleaning Preparation

Gibbs and Son, the vacuum cleaner specialists at 27 Albion St. are all ready to help you get your spring cleaning done — something you can't possibly do without a vacuum in good working order. Gibbs and Son will check hoses, belts, and brushes — and cords, a very important safety factor. Gibbs and Son also carry vacuum supplies such as bags and shag rakes. You'd hate to go all through that effort and find your efficiency was severely curtailed by a vacuum in poor working order. Visit Gibbs and Son first. Then you'll only have to do this big job once.

Proctor-Lewyt Closes Until July

PICTON — Plant manager here of Proctor-Lewyt, division of SCM Canada Ltd., J. W. (Bud) Stewart, confirmed today the plant will remain closed until mid-July.

Mr. Stewart said the reason for the lengthy shutdown is a large surplus of finished goods and inventory levels of Picton-manufactured products.

He added the layoff will affect approximately 85 employees.

A skeleton crew of warehouse and maintenance workers will be retained at the plant.

In December, 1974, Proctor-Lewyt announced a shutdown to extend from Dec. 13 to Jan. 13. Workers returned to their jobs in January, but a few weeks later were laid off a second time, supposedly for a six-to eight-week period.

Announcement of a prolonged shutdown was made this week.

Proctor-Lewyt manufacturers household appliances such as irons, toasters, vacuum cleaners and electric sweepers.

OMB Rejects Request For Tracey Sidewalk

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) has turned down city plans to build a sidewalk deemed necessary for safety reasons the length of a north Belleville street.

But the OMB's proposed alternative sparked criticism from Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

City council earlier passed a bylaw to build the sidewalk along Tracey St., from Sidney to North. First Street — an area used by young students attending George Vanier separate school. A 10-year-old girl was killed in a traffic accident on the street a year ago.

But residents between the school and Sidney objected to extending the sidewalk so far and brought on an OMB hearing.

Thursday, the city's traffic committee was told the inquiry had ruled the city should build only a third of the proposed sidewalk — from Lemoine St. to Harris Cresc. in the school's immediate vicinity.

What irked Mayor Jeffrey was that OMB also decided the city should pay 75 per cent of the installation costs. Standard formula under local improvements calls for the city and property owners to share the bill equally.

"The OMB is asking us to change our policy on local improvements which is 50-50 (payment split)" said the mayor. "I had no idea it had the right to dictate that kind of decision."

He said that he feared such a move could set a precedent.

Ald. Paul Russell suggested if the committee believe the sidewalk necessary for the full length of Tracey Street and it wasn't approved, (by the OMB) the city should bear the full cost.

This would mean putting the project on the general rate and again Mayor Jeffrey objected.

She said council had decided the sidewalk was necessary but if constructed on the general rate it would demand similar action in future 'to be fair to the citizens."

Ald. Zegouras said if the city paid 75 per cent citizens would protest and "they have every right to object."

The committee finally agreed with Mayor Jeffrey that a pedestrian count will made along Tracey. Then the committee would await official word from the OMB on its decision — Thursday's debate was prompted by a letter from city solicitors — and then approach both separate school authorities and the Hastings County Board of education which owns adjoining property to the George Vanier school.

Woman Wounded

SHANNONVILLE — A 27-year-old Shannonville man has been charged with wounding following a shooting incident which occurred early today in this village located about eight miles east of Belleville.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville identified the man as Charles William Latimer. A second unidentified man has not been charged.

Police said Doris Spencer of Shannonville was wounded in her left arm by a shotgun blast at her residence.

Police said officers were called to the village at 2.11 a.m. and received a description of a car containing two men. A chase followed north on County Road 7 to Roslin where the vehicle returned south and was abandoned.

Provincial police from Belleville, Madoc and Napanee, village police from Deseronto and Sabre, the OPP tracking dog, searched area fields before finding the men who surrendered peacefully. The entire pursuit lasted about 45 minutes.

Parade Approved

The annual Highland Weekend organized for the past six years by the Belleville Kinsmen Club returns to town June 21-22.

Thursday, city council's traffic committee complied with a Kinsmen request for a partial street closing to facilitate the event opening parade.

The closing involved Bridge St. and between Pinnacle and Church streets for an hour June 21.

Students Get Experts To Teach Fundamentals

The community use of schools concept can work both ways and two Belleville hairdressers are out to prove it.

The trend during the last few years has been for the community to take advantage of school facilities for educational or recreational purposes. The reverse occurs when the school reaches into the community for resource people.

Belleville Collegiate Institute has done just this and is currently conducting the experiment of two hairdressers in setting up a hairdressing course for about 12 Grade 9 and 10 girls.

George Hicks, a 25-year-old owner of Beauty Chalet on Pinnacle St. for the past one period every Wednesday afternoon has been teaching these girls learn the skills of hairdressing and good grooming.

Eileen Dempsy, from the Parkdale Beauty Salon, Victoria St., has been taking a group of students to the salon once a week for instruction.

BCI teacher Larry Guy, head of the occupations department, said both hair dressers give their time and talents freely in an effort to contribute to the girl's education. Both hairdressers have been instrumental in establishing a hairdressing course for future classes.

George, who is married with two elementary school children, said he's invited back next year he will make several changes. "It was my first teaching experience with young girls and I also learned," added George, who has taught and trained professional hairdressers in his own business.

He said he enjoyed working with students and feels he had contributed greatly to their education. "I noticed many changes in the girls particularly in their attitude towards themselves," he added.

Several girls in the class indicated they would like to pursue careers in the hairdressing field Mr. Guy, 32, and a new resident of Belleville, touches the class academic courage in addition the intraining program.

Mr. Guy said other courses use community resource people for a variety of programs but not as extensively as the hairdressing course. He hoped that additional experts from the community could be used in other courses next year.

On (Tip) Top of Things

A familiar landmark in downtown Belleville, the Tip Top Tailors sign atop the building at the four corners is no longer there. But it took a joint effort to get it down, United Rigging and Foley's Supplies and Machine Co. with Gary Matier of Foley's guiding the sign to its resting place. United Rigging's Ray Finkle said the sign most likely will be used for scrap as there was no buyer for it.

Work Begins on Expansion Of Quinte Shopping Centre

The preliminary layout work for a 58-per cent expansion of the Quinte Mall has begun.

Engineering studies have been completed on the north Front Street sight and stakes and grid layouts now mark the proposed new structure to follow in the spring.

Fred Smith, manager of the Cambridge Leaseholds shopping mall, said this week, "construction will definitely begin this spring or early summer . . . but due to weather conditions it is difficult to give an exact starting date."

He said completion of the $12-million expansion is expected in the fall of 1976.

Though original plans called for maximum utilization of the development's 68.3 acres, Mr. Smith said because of drainage problems the project has been scaled down excluding construction of a number of industrial sites and a motel to the rear of the mall."

"It would cost us a million dollars to adequately drain the area that would have housed the industrial and motel sites . . . making the project financially impractical," said Mr. Smith.

The retail extension will provide another 135,000 square feet and will house 20 small retail and service outlets and an unnamed "anchor store" of the same size as Simpsons.

In 1974, Quinte area shoppers doled out $25 million for consumer products in mall stores.

In addition to mall expansion, Cambridge Leaseholds will construct two, 13-storey apartment buildings which will house 300 units.

Youth Charged With Theft

A 16-year-old Belleville youth has been charged with seven counts of theft in connection with five incidents of shoplifting and two others involving theft of tapes and tape decks from cars.

Deputy-Chief Harold Reid of city police identified the youth today as Michael Allan Wessels of no fixed address.

He said the charges resulted from an investigation into the theft of eight tapes and a tape player from a car owned by Brian Hughes of 43 Elgin St., parked outside his residence. Total value of the loss was set at $120.

Volunteers Seeking Cancer Research Funds

By JIM SMELLIE
Staff Reporter

The annual campaign to raise funds for the Canadian Cancer Society is under way in Belleville. Target this year is $32,000.

One bright and visible sign of the campaign in the city will be the daffodils sold throughout the city April 17, 18 and 19 to raise money to fight the disease.

Will be the daffodils sold

With no cure yet found for the disease, money raised goes towards research.

Awards totalling $3,495,185 have been granted to Ontario research workers, says an announcement by the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

The money is part of the approximately $7,500,000 to be distributed to support research into the causes and treatment of cancer. Most of the funds come from the April campaign underway throughout Canada.

The local cancer society offices are located at 42 Bridge St. E. and donations may be taken there if a canvasser hasn't approached you.

Purcell: Signals Can Do More Harm Than Good

An urban community can have too many traffic control signals, city manager Wilbur Purcell cautioned Thursday.

"There's nothing worse than when not properly located they delay traffic flows and could be the source of noise complaints — as trucks change gears to stop and go.

The committee agreed with Mayor Robin Jeffrey that the request be received and the association told it could not at present recommend the lights to city council.

to get a city full of traffic lights that are not warranted," he told city council's traffic committee.

His comments were prompted as the committee sought Mr. Purcell's opinion on a request from the Harry J. Clarke Home and School Association for traffic signals at Victoria and Hershiner avenues.

Committee members noted that the request had been turned down by city council in February since traffic counts showed control lights unwarranted at the intersection.

Mr. Purcell said another count taken as recently as last September showed the situation still did not justify lights at the site.

Ald. George Zegouras said he was concerned that young students still used the intersection in summer — when school guards are not on duty.

Both Mr. Purcell and Deputy Police Chief Harold Reid, said, however, that young people cross the street indiscriminately and wouldn't necessarily use the intersection — or the traffic signals.

Signal controls also work in reverse, warned Mr. Purcell.

Nurses Still Negotiating

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Board of Health and its 29 nurses employed at the counties' health unit are in the midst of contract negotiations.

Clifford R. Cotton, board administrator, said today the nurses' last one-year contract expired Feb. 28. Talks have been going on since about mid-February.

The board's chief negotiator is Donald L. Black of Currie, Cooper and Lybrand Ltd. of Toronto, a management consultant firm. Larry Robbins of Toronto represents the nurses. He is employed by the Ontario Nurses' Association.

The health units nurses include public health nurses, registered nurses and registered nursing assistants.

'Ma' Burris Has Special Rapport with Students

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth of a series featuring county educators. The personality sketches include teachers, administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

To her students she's "Ma" or "Mum" Burris, to her colleagues she's "Mother Burris" but for the record she's Margaret (Peggy) Burris — one hell of a teacher at Quinte Secondary School.

Her special skill is rapport with students which she discovered in the gymnasium as a physical education and later developed it as a full-time guidance counsellor. An active leader in girls' sports, Peggy coached basketball and other sports for the first 16 years of her career.

Born in Baltimore, Md., Peggy immigrated to Toronto with her family and finally settled in Trenton where she graduated from Trenton High School. She later attended Queen's University where she graduated in 1957 with a degree in English.

An early back injury prevented her from studying physical education at Queen's but it was not enough to keep her out of the gymnasium once she landed her first teaching post at her old high school. Through summer courses she qualified herself as a physical education instructor. She combined English and physical education for many years.

"It was in the gym office I discovered many of the girls had problems and that I could relate to them," explained Peggy, who married to two children, Paul, 11, and Jacqueline, 8.

Peggy said she believes guidance counselling is more crucial today for students than ever before. She said the relaxing of curriculum requirements, has presented real problems for students. "It's our job to keep as many avenues open for the students as possible," she added.

The 39-year-old teacher, who has been at Quinte since 1969, said a guidance counsellor must first be a good listener as well as have an appreciation of the problems students become involved in.

Describing herself as "old-fashioned" Peggy said she still nags at students about values in their lives but she also keeps an open mind to their problems.

"I try to mix understanding with a very down to earth approach to students," explained Peggy, who this year will obtain her specialist certificate in guidance counselling from the University of Ottawa.

She said with today's problem guidance counsellors are involved with "crisis counselling" ranging from home problems, boyfriends, and girlfriend problems to personal problems.

"My main goal has been to make a positive contribution to the students and suggest ways he or she can pick up the pieces," said Peggy.

'Ma' Burris

Margaret (Peggy) Burris, a guidance counsellor at Quinte Secondary School, is known to her students and fellow teachers as Ma Burris. She is well-known for her affinity with students and their problems.

Suspect Arrested

A 52-year-old Trenton man has been charged with the theft of an aircraft in connection with an incident which occurred almost four years ago.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said today Harry Joseph Cannel was arrested late Thursday by RCMP officers at Toronto International Airport following his return from Kingston, Jamaica on a commercial flight.

Police said a 1971 Cessna Skylark airplane was reported stolen from the Oak Hill Flying Club, located about five miles west of here, on Sept. 2, 1971. It was owned by Doubee Larrivera of Frankford and has never been recovered.

It was discovered the aircraft had made several stops at various locations in the United States, Canada and, and was later confirmed it landed in Cuba.

Builders Break Through

Reid's Dairy, apparently headed for a sweep of the Quinte Hockey League six-point final series after knocking off Cornerstone Builders in the first two games of the title set, got a rude awakening, Thursday night.

Steered into a corner and forced to produce or else, Cornerstone did just that, at the Memorial Arena, scoring a 5-3 win.

The teams are scheduled to book up in the fourth game of the series, Sunday night, at 8.30 p.m.

Cornerstone got hot in the late going of the third game, rattling in three goals in the last 18 minutes of play to wrap it up.

Norm Pope was top trigger-man for the winners, potting two goals. He also picked up an assist. Bruce Racicot, Phil Meeks and Barry Fyfar notched the other Cornerstone goals. Terry Pope was in on three of the Builders' scoring plays.

Reid's production came off the stick of Moe Hunter. He accounted for both his club's goals in defeat.

Wyn Maund skipped her rink past 15 others to win the 1975 Quinte Curling Club women's championship. Members of the winning rink are (left-to-right) Jean Cameron (seated), lead, Sylvia Grills, vice, Maund, and Nina Gault, second, (seated).

Eight Ender

It's hard to come by something perfect in the world of sport but Helen McCorquodale's rink scored a perfect eight-point end in first end of the first match of the Quinte Curling Club's women's championship bonspiel. Here the rink poses with the rocks as they were after the end. Only twice has a women's rink scored a perfect end at the Quinte Club. Members of the rink are (left-to-right) Betty Clarke, lead, McCorquodale, skip, Marg Dowin, vice, and Marg Callahan second. Last year when the club had it's first eight-ender by a women's rink, Dowin was a member of that unique foursome as well.

Palmer's Last Chance for a Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer says if he can't win another Masters golf tournament now he's not sure if he will ever win another.

"If it doesn't peak now, I'm not sure it will ever peak," says the 45-year-old Palmer, surveying the game that thrust him into the thick of a gold-studded pack going into today's second round of the Masters.

"I have been getting ready since December. I have been swinging better for the last month and a half, I feel my game is as good as I can possibly make it."

Polite cheers early in the day for Lee Elder, the first black man ever to tee it up in this festival of golf's elite, turned to exciting roars at dusk for the Masters sentimental favorite as he toured a steady par and birdie course to the final hole where he ran into his only bogey and finished with a 69.

The first-round leader is Bobby Nichols who hardly hit a faulty shot in firing a 67, five under Augusta National's par 72.

Poised behind Nichols at 68 were the heavily-favored Jack Nicklaus, bidding for his fifth Masters, and Allen Miller, a University of Georgia graduate who joined the tour in 1971.

Johnny Miller, sensation of the wicker tour with three victories in Arizona and California, came in with a 75, putting him in jeopardy of missing the cut.

Palmer's 69 put him in a tie at that position with J. C. Snead and Tom Weiskopf, winner at Greensboro, N.C., last weekend. Just behind them at 70 were former champion Billy Casper, Bob Murphy and young Tom Watson.

Sam Snead, 62, winner of three Masters, joined a half dozen others, including a received Lee Trevino, at 71—making 16 players under par. Defending champion Gary Player and Hale Irwin each shot 73.

Elder was one of the 60 over par, shooting a 74 under extreme pressure.

"It was super for me," said the 40-year-old Washington, D.C., pro. The Augusta gallery saluted him with 32 rounds of applause, the applauded every time I walked on the green," said Elder. "They were beautiful."

Braves Bounce Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington Bullets had the best home-court record in the National Basketball Association this season, winning 36 games—tying a league record—and losing only five.

But Buffalo Braves aren't convinced of the Bullets' superiority at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

During the regular season, the Braves won both their games against Washington on the Bullets' court. And Thursday night, they again beat the Bullets at Landover, 113-102, in the opening game of their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final playoff series.

In other NBA playoff games, Detroit Pistons tied their best-of-three opening round Western Conference series against Seattle, beating the SuperSonics 125-106, and New York Knicks evened their best-of-three opening round Eastern Conference series against Houston, beating the Rockets 106-96.

In the American Basketball Association playoffs, Kentucky Colonels beat Memphis Sounds 101-80 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven quarter-final, and the surprising Indiana Pacers also took a 2-0 lead over San Antonio in their quarter-final series, beating the Spurs 113-103 in overtime.

Bob McAdoo, the league's Most Valuable Player and scoring champion, paced the Braves with 25 points and 14 rebounds. Randy Smith added 27 points and Gar Heard contributed 24 points and eight rebounds.

Phil Chenier, returning to action after a week-long layoff because of a back injury, led the Bullets with 23 points.

Dave Bing's 24 points and 11 assists, George Trapp's 24 points and Curtis Rowe's 22 points led Detroit's fast-breaking offence against defenceless Seattle.

Hanley Award To Jarvis

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Doug Jarvis, captain of Peterborough Petes, has been selected for the Bill Hanley award for outstanding and gentlemanly play in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series.

Roger Neilson, the Petes coach, announced Thursday that Jarvis, selected by the coaches, received 27 of a possible 50 votes. Runner-up was Gary Farelli of Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, who had 11 votes.

Bruce Boudreau of Toronto Marlboros and Dale McCourt of Hamilton Fincups were tied for third with 10 votes each.

This is the first time the award has been made since Hanley retired as OHA secretary-manager last January after 27 years service.

THE BAXTER CANNING CO. LIMITED

APPOINTMENT

Mr. Roy W. McDannold

Mr. C. H. Franklin, Chairman, announces the appointment of Mr. Roy W. McDannold as Vice-President and General Manager of The Baxter Canning Co. Limited of Bloomfield, Ontario.

Mr McDannold, who holds an Engineering Degree from I.C.S. and a B.Sc. Degree from the Detroit Institute of Technology, has more than twenty years experience in the food industry. Most recently he was Manager of Operations, Thomas J. Lipton Ltd and prior to that was Vice-President and General Manager of Metcalfe Foods of Canada Limited in Deseronto. He is a Director of both the Canadian Food Processors Association and the Ontario Food Processors Association. He is also a member of the Canadian Institute of Food Technologists.

As the company's Senior Operating Officer, Mr. McDannold will direct all processing, production and marketing activities of The Baxter Canning Co. Limited, control of which was recently acquired by Hardee Farms International Ltd of Toronto. Mr. Donald Baxter will continue his long association with the food processing industry in Prince Edward County as Vice-Chairman of The Baxter Canning Co. Limited.

Introducing the new Ontario Lottery

"For a buck a throw, she sure sounds like she's a ring-dang-do of a lottery".

CHARLIE FARQUHARSON
FROM PARRY SOUND

You were never more right, Charlie. We're going to call it Wintario. And, with a new draw every two weeks for a grand prize of $100,000 tax free and up to 1350 other big cash prizes, it's going to make a whole lot of people all over Ontario very happy.

Price of the tickets? Just $1.00. And they'll be almost everywhere. Places like cigar stores, newsstands, gas stations, milk stores, grocery stores, restaurants–that's right, almost anywhere.

But that's just the beginning. Through the Ministry of Culture and Recreation, the millions of dollars raised by the lottery will help support a wide range of activities and facilities right here in Ontario. Things we can all enjoy. So you see, Charlie, with Wintario we're all going to win.

"Support yer sports and yer physical fittings, you say? About the only thing that runs 'round here is my Allis Chalmers".

Well Charlie, it's the same with most of us. So Wintario will help support big sporting events like the Ontario Summer Games. And small events like building a new ball diamond in your town. And coaching clinics so our kids get the best instruction. There'll be something for everyone, everywhere in Ontario.

And more, Charlie. Wintario will help support hundreds of historical projects across Ontario. Places like Ste. Marie Among the Hurons, Nancy Island Museum and Old Fort William. And preserving our past through the work of the Ontario Heritage Foundation, for example.

And more, Charlie. Lottery dollars will provide huge assistance for groups like the Ontario Arts Council. For visual arts programs like the McMichael Collection in Kleinburg, big art galleries like the Ontario Art Gallery and small local galleries. For grants to local painters, potters and sculptors to continue producing and growing. And for musicians of all ages all over the province, all the way from small town Barbershoppers to big city symphonies. Plus, money to support playhouse theatres, drama societies, modern and ethnic dance troupes. Charlie, they're all important.

"No question, you gotta preserve yer hysterical sights and yer monumental statuatory".

"Say now, reminds me, we'll be needing a new buffoon for the Parry Sound Sympathy Orchestra".

You've got the right idea, Charlie. Now, be sure you get a ticket. First draw is May 15th and tickets go on sale in April. One way or another, we know you're going to win. With Wintario, we all win.

It's our own lottery and we all win

Blues First to Bite the Dust

Leafs, Hawks, Rangers Get Even

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Blaine Stoughton and Chicago's Ivan Boldirev didn't mind weekend overtime Thursday night. Their goals in sudden-death Stanley Cup action meant sudden life for the Maple Leafs and Black Hawks when their National Hockey League playoff epitaphs already had been written.

Meanwhile, at Nassau Coliseum, the fellow working the double-time was the man on the penalty clerks. By the time the Rangers finished stomping the Islanders in the second game of New York's "commuter series," 170 penalty minutes had licked away—as had the hopes of an Islanders sweep into the NHL quarter-finals.

There will be no such fun for St. Louis Blues. A shorthanded goal by Pittsburgh's Colin Campbell sent the Penguins to a 5-3 victory and an in-Sunday's opening of the best-of-seven quarter-finals.

Stoughton's goal at 10:19 of overtime gave the Maple Leafs a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Kings and a 1-1 tie in their best-of-three first-round series.

It took 7:23 for Boldirev to make the Black Hawks a 4-3 winner and send them back to Chicago, beaten 8-2 in Tuesday's opener, pleased coach Billy Reay with "the best key game we've won all year."

Boldirev's second goal of the game won it after Bobby Orr's shorthanded goal had brought the Bruins even at 1:31 of the third period. Boldirev and Stan Mikita had put Chicago ahead 2-0, then Don Marcotte and Ken Hodge wiped out the lead.

"It's a big lift for them to win in overtime," agreed Bruins' coach Don Cherry. "But then, we don't lose too many. Boston."

At Uniondale, N.Y., the differences of opinion carried off the ice and into the dressing room. After the teams had amassed a record 50 penalties—77 against the Islanders—there was no shortage of discussion about the work of referee Ron Wicks.

"It was an excellently officiated game," said the Rangers' Derek Sanderson, referring to the work of referee Ron Wicks.

"He's a disgrace to the refereeing profession," replied Islanders coach Al Arbour, whose club set a record for penalty minutes against and most penalty minutes against (101) by any team in a playoff game.

Bill Fairbairn scored twice within 51 seconds—one on the power play and once short-handed—while Steve Vickers and Jean Ratelle added a goal and three assists each for the Rangers. J.P. Parise, Jean Potvin and Bert Marshall scored for the Islanders.

The Penguins beat the Blues on the breakaway goal by Campbell which made it 4-2 with 15:27 left. The Blues dug out Pittsburgh 42-29 and led three times, but they're finished for the year now.

"My first intention was only to clear the puck," said Campbell, who thought better of it and instead put the Penguins in the quarter-finals.

Red Berenson, Bill Collins and Larry Sacharuk scored the goals. Jean Pronovost, Ron Stackhouse and Syl Apps were the other Penguins scorers.

Boston for tonight's deciding third game.

The Rangers scored early and often on the way to a penalty-filled 8-3 triumph and tonight's final meeting with the Islanders at Madison Square Garden.

"We have to play a believe or we'll be watching the rest," said Rangers' defenceman Brad Park. He was speaking not only for his mates but for the other clubs who know that a loss tonight will be their last this season.

The Leafs and Kings face a tough assignment in Los Angeles. The game comes less than 26 hours after Stoughton's win in Toronto—some 2,500 miles away. Tuesday's first game also had gone into overtime, with Los Angeles coming away a 3-2 victor.

After Darryl Sittler had given the Leafs a 1-0 lead midway through the first period, Mike Murphy scored twice to put the Kings in front. Dave Dunn forced the overtime when he beat Kings goalie Rogatien Vachon at 8:45 of the third period, then Stoughton rapped in a pass from Dave Keon for Toronto's first victory over Los Angeles in 10 games going back to to 1973.

Nordiques, Aeros Show Their Stuff

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Houston Aeros and Quebec Nordiques, the top two clubs during the World Hockey Association regular season, continued to show their superiority in playoff action Thursday night.

The Aeros, who finished the season with a record 106 points, opened their best-of-seven quarter-final with an 8-5 victory over Cleveland Crusaders while Quebec took a 3-0 lead over Phoenix Roadrunners with a 6-2 win.

Houston resumes its series at home Saturday while the Nordiques move to Phoenix for their third game, also on Saturday, and the fourth game next Tuesday.

Tonight's action has Toronto Toros at San Diego looking to even the series against the Mariners who won the first game Wednesday.

The fourth series has Minnesota Fighting Saints, who won their first game, visiting New England Whalers for the second game Saturday.

A crowd of 10,546 in Quebec City Thursday night watched the centre, which threatened at times to erupt into a rough house, but referee Brent Gelleman kept things under control as he dispensed 10 minor penalties and one major throughout.

Left winger Marc Tardif was the star of the Quebec win with a goal and three assists. His third assist came on the first of two goals by Serge Bernier which gave the Nordiques a 5-1 lead in the second period.

Houston winger Mark Howe led the Aeros to their opening victory with three goals but Howe gave credit to Ted Taylor for the credit for beating the Crusaders.

"Teddy's goal was the turning point," Howe said of Taylor's second-period score that put Houston ahead for good at 4-3. "That seemed to put them in a shell. And they looked tired early in the third period."

Murray Hall put the Aeros up by two only 46 seconds into the third period and the scoring derby was under way in a sloppy third period with Mark Howe got his second and third goals.

Houston's rookie goalie Ron Grahame, going against playoff-tested Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers, got off to a shaky start when the Crusaders' Jim Harrison scored 18 seconds into the game.

The Aeros rallied with Mark Howe's first goal and two more goals by Frank Hughes and Terry Ruskowski for a 3-3 lead at the end of the period. Cleveland's Paul Shymr scored one of his two goals to start the second period before Taylor delivered the go-ahead goal.

The third period turned into a rout. In addition to Mark Howe's hat trick, Hall and Hughes also scored to put the game out of reach.

Reds Make it a Clean Sweep

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati Reds have completed a three-game season-opening series sweep over Los Angeles Dodgers and now are looking to dethrone the National League baseball champions.

"We might have drained a little morale out of them," said reliever Clay Carroll after he nailed down the Reds' 7-6 victory Thursday night. It was the third straight one-run victory for the Reds over the Dodgers.

The Dodgers won the NL West last year by four games, beating Cincinnati 12 out of 18 times along the way.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Montreal Expos 7-2, Philadelphia Phillies beat New York Mets 3-2 in 11 innings, Pittsburgh Pirates beat Chicago 8-4 and San Francisco Giants defeated San Diego Padres 2-0 in 11 innings.

With one out in the eighth, Los Angeles reliever Charlie Hough, who lost opening day to the Reds, hit Pete Rose with a pitch. Then, he hit the next batter, Joe Morgan.

Tony Perez then hit a double down the left-field line. Morgan was thrown out trying to score but Carroll protected the one-run margin and the Dodgers were run out of town winless.

Philadelphia's Tony Taylor went Alan Ravalsher from first to home with his 11th-inning double that snapped a tie and beat the Mets.

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell hit two home runs en route to a four-hit day, as the Pirates dumped Chicago. Manny Sanguillen and Richie Hebner also hit homers for the Pirates.

Rookie pitcher John Denny of St. Louis overcame Montreal and a case of the jitters for his first major league victory.

"I think I was jittery the whole game," said the 23-year-old right-hander. "You just don't know how happy I feel."

Denny, who gave up five hits, left the game in the seventh with a 3-2 lead and he was made even happier an inning later when the Cardinals scored four more runs.

Lou Brock hit a bases-loaded double to highlight the burst and reliever Al Hrabosky made it stand up with two flawless innings.

Bobby Murcer made his first game in the National League memorable with a run-scoring double that gave pitcher Jim Barr and Giants their extra-inning triumph over the Padres.

Murcer, the former New York Yankee star, tagged reliever Rich Folkers for a double and raced home on Gary Matthews' double, Chris Speier then sacrificed and Barr came home on Steve Ontiveros' ground-out.

Norris Makes 'Em Forget

What do you do when you suddenly lose your best pitcher to the whims of baseball's arbitration process?

If you're Alvin Dark, Bibletating manager of Oakland A's, you seek comfort in the scriptures. Dark, in need of guidance after Catfish Hunter slipped out of his Oakland contract and into New York Yankee pinstripes, turned to Jeremiah 33:3:

"Call unto Me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things which thou knowest not."

Enter rookie right-hander Mike Norris, a 20-year-old from San Francisco, made his major league debut Thursday with a sparkling three-hitter as the A's pounded Chicago White Sox 9-0.

"I've found my Jeremiah," Dark said in a phone call to A's owner Charles O. Finley.

Norris, who likes the nickname and, in fact, bought a Bible himself during spring training, said: "The name's right on. I'm with the Bible all the way."

There were two other games played in the American League. Baltimore Orioles opened their season with a 10-0 win over Detroit Tigers and Texas Rangers beat Minnesota Twins 5-4.

"I've had dreams about doing something like this," said Norris after his successful bow, "and now it's all coming true."

Norris surrendered a first-inning read-off single to Pat Kelly but promptly picked him off first. Carlos May's second-inning single and Kelly's double in the ninth were the only other hits off Norris, who walked three and struck out three.

Reggie Jackson hit a three-run homer and Bill North and Joe Rudi had three hits each for the A's who collected nine hits off five White Sox pitchers, starting with loser Stan Bahnsen.

Pitcher Jim Palmer, making an impressive return from the sore elbow that hampered him all last season, stopped Detroit on three hits. Lee May, acquired from Houston during the winter, hit a three-run homer and Don Baylor had four hits and three runs batted in for Baltimore.

Cesar Tovar's eighth-inning double drove in one run and Minnesota reliever Bill Butler walked in another as Texas won its first game of the year. Both runs were unearned, the result of a two-out throwing error by Twins' third baseman Eric Soderholm.

Jim Spencer hit a three-run homer for the Rangers while rookie centre fielder Lyn Boitick collected three hits for Minnesota.

UNTIL NOW, THE CARS THAT NEEDED RUSTPROOFING MOST COULDN'T GET IT.

Because they're used cars. And there's never been a rustproofing process that could work effectively on a car that's already started to rust.
Until now.
Now there is one. And only one. The only rustproofing system in the world that really works on used cars.
It's Tuff-Kote. Which means Tuff-Kote dealers are the only people in the world who can rustproof not only new cars — but cars that are anywhere from 3 months to 3 years old.
What's more, they'll guarantee the job in writing.
Something no other rustproofers in the world will do.
Because they don't have Tuff-Kote's exclusive double coating system for rustproofing both new and used cars.
So whether you're driving a new or a used car, bring it to a Tuff-Kote dealer and get the protection of total rustproofing. Your car will not only last longer — it'll be worth more when you trade it in.

Soviets Down Sweden

MUNICH (CP) — The Soviet Union defeated Sweden 4-1 Thursday to complete the first round of the world hockey championship with five consecutive wins.

The defending champions, seeking their 14th title, overwhelmed the Swedes with a strong passing game and a tough defence, taking a 3-0 lead in the first period and extending it to 3-1 in the second.

A capacity crowd of 10,000 at Munich's Olympic Sports Hall watched the fast-paced game, last of 15 in the first round. Action now shifts to Dusseldorf for the second round matching the same six teams in the Group A round-robin—the U.S.S.R., Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Finland, Poland and the United States.

Goal scorers for the Soviet side were Alexander Yakushev with his eighth, tops in the tournament, Valery Kharmatov, his sixth, Alexander Maltsev and Sergei Kapustin. The Swedes got their goal from Toron Lundstroem with three minutes left in the second period.

Czechoslovakia, still numb from a 5-2 defeat administered by the Soviet team Tuesday, scored an unimpressive 6-2 victory over Finland.

It was the fourth win in five starts for the Czechoslovaks, favored with the Soviet Union entering the tournament on the strength of three straights wins over the Russians in an earlier tourney.

Vladimir Martinec, Jiri Holik, Eduard Novak and Milan Novy also tallied for the Czechs, with Lauri Mononen and Henry Leppa replying for the Finns.

The loss for Finland was its third against two victories.

Napier, Toros Have Problem

QUEBEC (CP) — The World Hockey Association has decided it will not draft under-age junior players this year, Bud Polie, vice-president of hockey operations, said Thursday.

Polie, here for a WHA playoff game, told a reporter he doesn't know how the decision will affect the case of Mark Napier, 18-year-old Toronto Marlboros star reported to have signed a contract with Toronto Toros.

However, in deciding not to draft players unless they have graduated from junior ranks at 20, the WHA is in line with the National Hockey League which previously announced it will also refrain from drafting under-age players this spring, Polie said.

He added the Napier case becomes "an internal matter" for the Toros and the player to settle, but that if the Toros decide to go ahead and employ Napier they will be in conflict with WHA rules.

He explained, for example, that a WHA team may not acquire a player until he has gone through the draft, and that the league must formally approve all player contracts, something it has not yet done in the Napier case.

John F. Bassett, president of the Toros, said he had been advised of the league decision but declined to speculate how it would affect the Napier situation.

The WHA first got into the business of signing under-age juniors when Houston Aeros hired away Mark and Marty Howe from the Marlboros two years ago.

IN MEMORIAM

MURRAY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Rose Murray, who passed away April 11, 1965.
Time may fly and wounds be healed,
Memories grow dim but not fade,
Time can't erase the love we had,
As you always believed in me.
—Always remembered by Marg, Bill, Doris, Bill, Elsie, Irene, Doris, John and families.

HILL — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away April 11, 1965.
Loving and true in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Kindness and sympathy were her leading virtues.
—Sadly missed by Sharon and Gwen.

CARTER — In memory of a loving husband Cecil who died April 11th, 1968 and a father who died April 9th, 1968.
Treasured thoughts of ones so dear,
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Two at rest in heaven at last.
—Remembered by wife Nellie and family.

NO DOWNPAYMENT AND THEN SOME

Now you can, if you qualify, purchase a new home with absolutely no down payment. The latest government grant, can make it possible to own a condominium and end up with $300.00 bonus. If you buy an individual house in Chatterton Valley you could get in with no money down, if you qualify. If you are a first time home buyer you just can't afford this opportunity. It would be like throwing away $2,000.00.

CHOICE OF TEN

We are now proceeding with ten new houses on East Bridge Street. Each one is a different model. We have some with family rooms, some with garages. Could be ready by July. Still time to select colors.

SPECIAL SUNDAY SALE — YOU!!!

Due to the scarcity of good quality furniture, fine antiques and collectables, consignments are now being accepted for our Sunday sales. Individuals are forced to buy more expensive items because of the shortage.

With the above in mind and because we have a large number of buyers for good quality merchandise for these items we are scheduling a conduct another auction sale selling only items of quality and value.

If you have items in the above category and wish to sell them at a quality furniture and always wanted to sell your quality items, this is the place to be.

Sale will be held in Brock's Auditorium, Bridge Street, Madoc, on 26/75 Sunday at 1 p.m.

Some antiques will be sold in demand new and items we need in stock for our regular sale. Items such as Victorian, Mission, Oak, Pine, China cabinets, cast iron pieces and tin pieces, Wicker, Brass, We have these items and would like to sell them. Call us and we will be pleased to come to your home and pick them up for cash.

Sale is scheduled to be before Monday evening April 14/75 for effective advertising. Call us at 473-2475 or 473-4141 or write P.O. Box 1, Madoc, Ont.

"They're always telling me to check my newspaper"

"It seems that every time I listen to my radio or watch my television I hear advertising messages that tell me to check my newspaper for more information about the product(s) being advertised. They do it for grocery stores, movies, automobile dealers, insurance companies, department stores, etc. They're absolutely right, of course. That's why so many of my neighbors and I rely on THE INTELLIGENCER for EVERYTHING we need to know.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, April 12

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The early part of the day will prove profitable, but toward evening your extravagant whims will gain the upper hand if you're not careful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're at your best today in situations where you can exercise your leadership qualities. Don't do things by committee.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Pursue your goals secretly at this time. Talking about them lessens chances for success. There'll be time to crow later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll get the catalyst to bring your group together today. Just be careful. Don't try to mix those with opposing viewpoints.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Teamity is not your strong suit today. In pursuing an ambitious interest, you'll let go before you grab the prize.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Work closely with those who support your ideas. Ignore persons whose counsel and assistance you know you can't win.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) Be careful today not to put a situation where you share an interest, or all the cash will come out of your pocket.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Don't take it upon yourself to change social plans affecting others without first consulting them. Angry words will result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) you're enterprising today, but only up to a point. Later, you'll try shortcuts that will cause you problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Avoid large, noisy gathering today. They're apt to make you uncomfortable. Seek a more subdued atmosphere when you're entertaining at home, invite only persons with whom you've exchanged social amenities before. Avoid potential hot-heads.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Don't let a know-it-all pal talk you out of an idea you've thoroughly studied. You're right. In this case he's wrong.

To Your Good Health

Tailor Exercise To Your Capacity

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a sedentary woman eats a large evening meal and then has a completely non-active evening afterwards—watching TV, knitting, etc.—what kind of a walk or a bike ride can she undertake to aid with her figure and weight control? What about jumping rope? — Mrs. R.E. .

You don't tell me your age, but your letter indicates you have slipped into the semi-sedentary life-style of many middle aged women at or approaching middle age. Considering this, I would have to say that exercise alone is not the answer for you. You would have to maintain a sensible diet program along with it.

As to the exercise, biking and walking are fine, sensible activities, especially for those into middle age. They both are good preventative against varicose veins, and both can help develop a healthy appetite for your evening meal. But neither is going to produce any dramatic results as far as slaying thin and trim is concerned.

And, for heaven's sake, forget the rope jumping.

It is too strenuous an undertaking for any but those in the best of physical condition. Leave it for athletes.

I wonder often why so many readers who write to me on this subject seem intent on making the things unnecessarily difficult and complicated. Many books are available in outside libraries. Some offer sensible and effective exercises that can do wonders for the roman or man who wants to get into shape. But the exercises are not for everyone, and the ones you choose should be tailored to your capacity. Begin slowly and work up.

I have watched some of the television physical fitness programs that are usually aired conveniently in mid-morning or mid-afternoon, ideal times for the "sedentary housewife." I am impressed with such methods. Why don't you take advantage of them?

If you are sports-minded, find a local YWCA where you can swim a few hours a week. Tennis, too, is an inexpensive and excellent trimming activity.

Keeping in shape doesn't have to be a grim affair, and it doesn't require your becoming an athlete. Restricting food intake is more effective than exercise in weight control, particularly for the "sedentary" fatties."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has had Parkinson's disease for the past four years. He has been taking Ladora for three years. The original symptoms have not worsened, but recently he has become very unsteady on his feet. I have heard that a new medicine now is being used. If this is true, I wish you would advise me of its proper name. — Mrs. H.

Any new medication for Parkinsonism still is in the investigative stage and is not available for general use. A great deal of testing has to be done before any new medicine is licensed for non-experimental use by qualified physicians.

Most large cities have major hospitals which are constantly engaged in various types of medical research programs. You should inquire at a large hospital near you and find out whether any such work is going on in Parkinsonism.

Some of the earlier drugs used for Parkinsonism have been found helpful used in conjunction with L-dopa. A recent report in the journal, Neurology, describes a new program in which 28-per-cent improvement in Parkinsonism patients resulted when a drug called amantadine was used in conjunction with L-dopa therapy. But this, too, was experimental. Your doctor would be on the look out for any new therapy that would help your husband.

Cement Operation Abandoned

CORNERBROOK, Nfld. (CP) — American Letligh Cement Co. of Allentown, Pa., has withdrawn from a partnership with Brinco, a mining subsidiary of Brinco, to develop limestone deposits held by Brinex on the west coast of Newfoundland.

As a result, plans for a $70-million plant with an annual capacity of one million tons have been abolished.

Industrial Development Minister William Doody said the plans will be temporarily shelved while Brinex searches for a new partner in the venture.

He said Brinex is not interested in pursuing the project alone because it has no expertise in cement-making.

"Studies conducted last year proved the viability of the proposed plant," the minister said. "but Letligh ran into cash-flow problems late in the year and capital funds were not available to continue in the venture."

Mr. Doody said at least one company, an unidentified Canadian firm, has agreed to conduct a market study for the project.

The only operating cement plant in Newfoundland is the North Star Cement Ltd. plant here. It mines its own limestone and shales for the process and gets gypsum, the other prime ingredient, from a mine at Flat Bay in Bay St. George.

Despite a three-week closure last September, North Star produced 114,000 tons of cement products last year, an increase in production of more than 22 per cent over 1973.

Who says that the so-called "Book Hands" don't come up all the time? Here is one from the European championships.

North scrapped the bottom of the barrel with his two-club response, but felt that he had to make another bid. South might well have rested in three spades, but he did go on to three notrump.

Manuel Antunes of Portugal made his normal opening lead of the four of diamonds. South won in his hand, led a heart to dummy's king and a spade back to his jack.

Business was really looking up and he led a second low heart. Unfortunately for his purposes, Antunes had counted to nine assuming that South held the heart queen, as was most likely. So he rose with his ace of hearts.

Then he made the book play of the jack of clubs as written up many times in this and other bridge columns.

This is the only club he could have led to bring in four club tricks, but declarer had no defence against it. Actually, he covered with the queen. East took his ace; led a club back to West's king and scored the two final tricks with the 10 and seven.

CP News Roundup

Stabilized Farm Pay Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's proposal to stabilize a broad range of agricultural incomes was described Thursday by the National Farmers Union as dangerous because it threatens to stabilize producers in a losing situation.

NFU President Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon told the Commons agriculture committee that no other group in the country is being asked to accept the kind of conditions laid down in the stabilization bill now before the House.

It basically would guarantee producers a minimum income based on 90 per cent of the average of the previous five years. Existing legislation now provides for protection up to 80 per cent of the previous five years.

Mr. Atkinson said the main problem is that producers are faced with soaring production costs and current market conditions are such that they are in a deficit position. To base production on these conditions would lock them into a deficit.

Catholics to Parade

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A Homecoming '75 parade to celebrate the city's first Irish Roman Catholic settlers 150 years ago will be held July 12, says city engineer Bill Hooper.

Mr. Hooper, who represents the parade committee on the Homecoming '75 steering committee, said city 12, Orange Day, would "be a bit of a precedent for an Irish parade."

Truck Wrecked

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — A truck driver and a CNR crew escaped without injury today in a collision which disrupted electrical power to a large portion of Brantford.

A slow-moving freight train was in collision with a transport truck driven by Jack Cuddington, 36, of St. Marys, Ont., who escaped unharmed although the trailer unit was sheared in half and the tractor pushed down the tracks.

Save Money

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's 400 weather stations will have to wait until their fahrenheit thermometers break before they'll be given Celsius ones.

An Environment Canada spokesman said Thursday the decision not to buy Celsius thermometers was made by "some official to save money."

Talks Too Tough

OTTAWA (CP) — Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet is placing too much emphasis on jailing criminal businessmen in speeches on proposed combines legislation, Sinclair Stevens (PC—York-Simcoe) said Thursday.

Mr. Stevens told the Commons finance committee the legislation is too "criminally oriented" and wrongly assumes that large numbers of businessmen are defrauding the public.

He criticized Mr. Ouellet for telling the Commons recently that he hoped judges would use the new legislation to "jail those who deserve it."

Wallets Stolen

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police didn't have to go far to find a case Thursday.

When they came off the ice at Maple Leaf Gardens in the No. 32 Division house hockey league, their wallets were missing from the dressing room.

An inspector and divisional detectives are investigating.

CBC Attacked

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette said Thursday the CBC "is financing the destruction of Canada rather than fighting for Canadian unity."

He said in the Commons the CBC has participated with Montreal in financing a pamphlet entitled Quebec Pete, a title that he said implies that the June 24 St. Jean Baptiste Day holiday is only for Quebecers.

Hydrogen Leaks

TORONTO (CP) — The Pickering nuclear power plant has had to shut down two of its four conventional generators because of leaks in their hydrogen cooling systems.

A spokesman for Ontario Hydro said there is no connection between the current problem and leaks in the heavy water pressure tubes that put one of the nuclear units out of operation for eight months.

Outlook Better

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Big Four United States auto makers told Congress Thursday the economic outlook of the industry is beginning to look better.

Elderly Couple Found Living in Filthy Home

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An elderly couple living in an upper middle-class neighborhood has been found ill in what police describe as "unbelievably filthy surroundings." They are being treated in Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital.

Police said Thursday that the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newmaster, apparently spurned all offers of help from neighbors.

Mr. Newmaster, 78, was found on the floor beside his bed. The mattress had rotted and was being soaked with urine and the man had several large sores on his back caused by lying on bare springs.

Police said his wife, Lillian, also in her mid-70s, was "clearly unable to take care of herself or her husband."

The Newmasters had ample funds to care for themselves. Police found a large number of valuable securities when they searched the house Wednesday looking for names of relatives.

Police said the neighbors and the family's minister had tried to assist the couple, but gave up.

Rev. John Korcok, minister of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, said he had been trying to place the couple in a home for 4½ years. He said the trouble began when Mr. Newmaster had a stroke.

He said that he had sought help from lawyers, the Waterloo regional health department and social welfare workers without success.

Lillian couple is in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Acquitted

HAMILTON (CP) —Robert Barclay, 39, of Hamilton was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter Thursday by a jury which had heard no formal evidence.

Barclay had been charged in connection with the shooting last June of Alan Henry Latour, 24, of Belleville, Ont.

Adoptions Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Two officials of the Canadian Save the Children Fund (Cansave) said Thursday they are opposed to transport of orphans from South Vietnam.

William Stock, executive secretary, said that "we take a dim view of mass evacuation of children."

May Refuse Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has indicated it will hold disaster aid to regions being developed despite knowledge that they are flood risks.

The threat is contained in an environment department news release outlining a proposed federal-provincial program of flood control.

New Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen will announce shortly new aid guidelines which will result in more money for fewer countries.

The minister told the Commons external affairs committee Thursday the guidelines will govern the operation of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) through 1980.

Autonomy Urged For Arctic Areas

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons debate on the seemingly-moribund Northern Canada Power Commission bill was used Thursday for an attack on what the opposition called the government's colonial attitude toward the North.

Autonomy for the Yukon and Northwest Territories was the key issue as the Progressive Conservatives, led by Joe Clark and Erik Nielsen, campaigned for a fresh approach to northern problems.

The bill basically increases membership on the power commission, a Crown corporation established in 1948 to build and operate public power utilities in the North. The Commons finished detailed study Thursday night and the bill now requires third reading. Senate approval and royal assent before it becomes law.

But Mr. Clark (Rocky Mountain) said the North still is a colonial regime, the residents of which have little or no control over their own affairs.

His main concern is the way the three-member commission will be increased to five—the new members to be recommended by the two territorial commissioners. The commissioners, both federally-appointed, usually have the power to veto anything proposed by elected councillors.

Yukon Commissioner James Smith is power commission chairman.

"The commissioner . . . is really the minister in disguise," Mr. Clark said, urging the Commons to support an amendment proposed by Mr. Nielsen (Yukon). It would have eliminated the "absurd" situation of having Mr. Smith, as power commission chairman, reporting to himself as territorial commissioner.

Defeated 102 to 60, as the Liberals and New Democrats outweighed the Conservatives and Social Credit members, it would have had the power commission chairman report to the elected territorial council.

Wally Firth, (NDP—North West Territories) is all for northern autonomy, but said outside the House that most of Mr. Nielsen's proposals would make the power commission job cumbersome.

Advertisers' Boycott Will Be Prohibited

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is willing to go at least part way in new combines legislation towards meeting newspaper publishers' requests for greater protection from boycotts by disgruntled advertisers, Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet said Thursday.

Mr. Ouellet said he is ready to amend the legislation to permit advertisers to continue making agreements among themselves on the overall amount of their newspaper advertising but bar them from conspiring to boycott a newspaper because of dissatisfaction over its editorial content.

Disappointed Ford Pulls Out Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, again criticizing Congress for not voting additional aid for Cambodia, said today he ordered the evacuation of Americans from that country "with a heavy heart."

"I sincerely regret that there was not timely action on my request to the Congress to enable the United States to continue to provide the assistance necessary to the survival of the government of the Khmer Republic," Ford said.

Meanwhile, the president pressed his request for expanded military and economic aid to South Vietnam.

In a statement issued early today, after the closing of the U.S. embassy in Cambodia and evacuation of American citizens, Ford said:

"I decided with a heavy heart on the evacuation of American personnel from Cambodia because of my responsibility for the safety of the Americans who have served there so valiantly.

"Despite that evacuation, we will continue to do whatever possible to support an independent, peaceful, neutral and unified Cambodia."

He said he took the action "in view of the seriously deteriorating military situation around the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, and on the basis of the recommendations of the American ambassador to the Khmer Republic."

On Friday night, Ford sent to Congress three bills containing the requests for expanded aid to South Vietnam that he had voiced in his State of the World speech to Congress Thursday night.

In accompanying letters to Senate and House leaders, he wrote: "I urge the immediate consideration and enactment of these measures." ...

Ford is seeking $972 million in extra military and economic aid for South Vietnam. Members continued to express doubt that Congress will approve Ford's request for military aid.

"I'm dubious that we have the votes to get anything in military aid, frankly," said John Rhodes, Republican leader in the House of Representatives and a close ally of Ford.

In Paris, the Viet Cong delegation condemned the president's request as "criminal and against the interests of the American people."

Ford also asked Congress for a clarification of his authority to use U.S. troops if "humanitarian evacuations" becomes necessary in South Vietnam.

Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) said Ford should order Americans out of South Vietnam now "while there is still time to do so without the use of force."

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG), said her government would help evacuate U.S. personnel from South Vietnam if asked.

"If the United States wants to bring the 25,000 American military advisers out of Vietnam, then the U.S. need only discuss it with us and then we shall be willing to help them do so," she told The Associated Press in an interview in Tanzania.

U.S. authorities said most of those South Vietnamese who might be evacuated to avoid Communist reprisals would come to the U.S.

Meanwhile, the U.S. sent notes to Britain and Japan, signers of the 1973 Vietnam ceasefire, urging them "to use their influence to stop the fighting" in Vietnam, informed sources said.

The U.S. sent another note to Hanoi warning North Vietnam "it should have no doubt that it will be held responsible" unless a ceasefire is agreed to immediately.

Lewis Says Oil Prices Will Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, said Friday that Ontario Conservatives are banking in the "momentary glow" of blocking an agreement for oil and natural gas price increases at the federal-provincial energy conference.

But the price of these fuels will rise this year "whether by agreement or by federal imposition," he told New Democrats at an Ottawa West riding dinner.

Premier William Davis has given no indication of whether the province might act to cushion the impact on consumers of the inevitable price increases, he said.

The NDP leader said Ontario apparently will not insist on a prices review tribunal to check all increases and to roll them back when consumers are gouged.

Nor is the province saying whether it would reduce gasoline prices or use tax credits to similar ends, he said.

He challenged the premier to state publicly his response to the inevitable increase.

Portugal Going Socialist

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's military authorities said today it is "necessary and urgent" to restructure the economy for a transition to socialism. The Revolutionary Council noted production was down, investment had dropped, prices were rising and there was a growing deficit in Portugal's trade with the rest of the world.

Viet Cong Troops Close on Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon military command reported more heavy fighting today around Ben Tranh, about 30 miles southwest of this capital of South Vietnam, and at Xuan Loc, 40 miles to the northeast.

Both locations are being watched for signs of the beginning of a drive on Saigon.

Heavy fighting continued for the fourth successive day on the edges of Xuan Loc, the capital of Long Khanh province.

North Vietnamese forces overran a post held by a government militia battalion of 200 men less than five miles east of Xuan Loc, inflicting heavy casualties on the government force.

Field reports said only 26 of the Saigon troops made it back to the command post inside Xuan Loc.

The Saigon command said its forces with by heavy air support have killed 1,000 North Vietnamese troops since the battle broke out.

Government losses were listed as 35 dead and nearly 200 wounded.

"The battle for Xuan Loc is seen by military analysts as a test whether the South Vietnamese army has recovered from the retreats in the north and central sectors and can stand and fight.

The Viet Cong delegation to the Joint Military Commission in Saigon said President Ford's request to the United States Congress for $722 million in emergency military aid for South Vietnam was "erroneous policy."

It said Ford "still is trying to deceive Congress and the American people that such aid could stave off the total collapse of the Saigon government."

The Viet Cong said Ford was seeking an excuse for further U.S. military involvement in South Vietnam and was using the pretext of the evacuation of refugees to send warships and thousands of U.S. Marines into South Vietnam's territorial waters.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG), said in an interview in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania that her government would help evacuate U.S. personnel from South Vietnam if asked.

Computer Trap Sprung On Unemployment Cheats

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) has caught more than 1,000 petty cheats in its newest computer trap sprung on unemployment benefits.

The newspaper says David Steele, UIC's executive director of operational planning, estimates that about 50,000 Canadians might have to pay money back to the commission when the system goes into general operation.

"We've caught just over 1,000 people in the pilot scheme and if you apply the percentage of cheaters we found to the two million people we see every year, we could find 50,000 abusers," Mr. Steele is quoted saying.

The trap might also cause trouble for many employers, Mr. Steele told the newspaper.

It consists of using a special computer program to compare the first and third copies of an employer's record of employment, the form everyone gets when he leaves his job, the newspaper says. A fringe effect will be to identify employers who fill in these forms late or inaccurately.

The Globe and Mail quotes Mr. Steele as saying that employers who are repeatedly filling in forms improperly will be reported to the department of national revenue.

The form includes the date the employee left, the reason for leaving and in case of layoffs the expected date of recall.

The employer receives the first, the second and the third is mailed to Ottawa. If the employee wants to claim unemployment benefits he hands in the top copy at the UIC office and the information on it is used to determine how much money he will receive in benefits.

Now, the newspaper says, the data on the first and third copies are both fed into the computer, which shows immediately whether the employee has altered the top copy to hide the fact he was fired or quit, instead of being laid off, or lied about the date he started work again and ceased to be eligible for benefits.

Chloroform Level Tops in Province

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Neil Britton, manager of Belleville's public utilities commission, says there is no proof of harmful effects of high levels of chloroform in municipal drinking water.

A report released by the Ontario ministry of the environment showed Belleville's water system had the highest level of chloroform in 12 centres surveyed by the ministry.

Test results show chloroform concentration in Belleville water after it leaves the filtration plant and before it reaches the consumer measures 144 parts per billion.

Mr. Britton, Friday, explained the report is not making comment that chloroform levels are dangerous or otherwise. Rather, "The report is just identifying levels."

"The province is undertaking investigation to determine the origins of chloroform in these water and some United States agencies are conducting experiments to determine what effects chloroform will have on humans," said Mr. Britton.

The communities surveyed by the province all had municipally chlorinated water which is believed to contribute to chloroform levels.

Most chlorinated water supplies contain chloroform levels below 30 parts per billion, the report showed.

"Of the communities tested, Belleville with 144 parts, Brantford with 129 and Cayuga with 72 showed the highest levels," environment minister Bill Newman stated.

"These higher levels are roughly equivalent to detecting the presence of a postage stamp in a half ton of paper," the minister said following release of the report's findings.

Water sources not treated through the chlorination process did not contain chloro organic compounds.

Mr. Britton said during an interview with The Intelligencer "our commission was advised against reduction of chlorine filtered into city water supplies . . . because of the disinfecting benefits received through chlorination."

Fleet on Display

Variety Spice Of Boat Show

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The cream of marine life is on display at the vacant bowling alley on Dundas St. East, across from Union Carbide.

The boat show, sponsored by Vaughan's Automotive and Appliances, Marine Division, is the largest ever to be held in the land, says owner Bill Vaughan, "it's very likely the largest in the province sponsored by a single firm."

More than 50 water craft of every description are included in the show, catering to every budget.

The smallest of the fleet is a 12-foot aluminum boat craft selling for about $400. The top end of the display is the 25-foot-long Triton power retailing for about $42,000.

The inbetween range covers a score of varieties of small inboard runabouts, canoes, car toppers and sailboats.

"This is the first show we've had and it is designed to allow two things primarily . . . stimulate sales and acquaint city residents with what is available," said Mr. Vaughan.

Along with boats, the show is featuring bargain specials on snow mobiles, a special section on marine supplies and a full exhibit of mopeds — a cross between a bicycle and a motor bike.

The show began Friday at noon and continues Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and again Sunday between noon and 6 p.m.

No admission is being charged at the show and tickets will be given for a special show prize of camping lights.

Auto Trade Loss With U.S. Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada suffered a record loss on its automotive trade with the United States of $1.3 billion in 1974, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

This was more than triple the 1973 loss of $440 million.

The report likely will renew pressure for some changes in the 1965 Canada-U.S. auto pact. The U.S. market accounts for 58 per cent of Canada's auto production exports and 36 per cent of imports.

The loss on trade in auto products with overseas countries of $484 million brought the total loss for 1974 on this trade to $1.8 billion.

Because of the fuel price crisis and depressed economic conditions in the U.S., Canada was able to increase its exports there by only 2.5 per cent to $5.82 billion. In fact, shipments of parts slumped by $218 million from 1973 levels to $1.56 billion and tire and tube exports dropped $4 million to $64 million.

Meanwhile, imported auto products from the U.S. were up 18 per cent in value, a $1.81-billion rise to $6.75 billion of imports in 1974. This followed a 26-per cent jump in imports in 1973.

Even in its auto trade with overseas countries, Canada's position deteriorated further in 1974. The loss on this trade increased by $62 million to $484 million. Most of this apparently occurred because Canadians chose to buy more imported cars.

Board Relationships Seminar Topic

Herb Young (rear left), president of Loyalist College, and Will Wilkinson (rear right), chairman of the college board of governors, pay close attention to points being raised on "board-administration interrelationships" by Dr. Doris Ryan (bottom left) of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education following an opening-night seminar session at the Four Seasons Hotel Friday. Seminar convener Gerry Wishart (bottom right) of the board of governors looks on.

Various boards, councils and their administrations in an area covering Oshawa to Ottawa received a refresher course in "board-administration interrelationships" in a keynote address delivered by an educational administration expert at the Four Seasons Hotel Friday.

Dr. Doris Ryan, an associate professor of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE) from Toronto, described the roles of each group and how they relate to one another during the first session of a two-day seminar sponsored by Loyalist College.

The second session, involving lectures and workshops at the college, was scheduled to close at about 4 p.m. today.

Representing Belleville city council, Ald. Brian Knudsen told the gathering of about 70 people the seminar "is a worthwhile learning experience . . . which we will be able to put to use for the good of our community."

Herb Young, college president, said it will produce "standards we may pursue as highly desirable goals."

Driver Okay

TWEED — A man escaped with minor injuries when his car went of control on the Marlbank Rd. in Hungerford township southeast of here last night.

Police said a rear wheel locked on the car, sending it out of control. The driver, Lawrence Tilander, 17, of Marlbank, had cuts and bruises.

Damage was $800.

'Y' Operation Cheapest: Corke

Senior city alderman Ben Corke told the Quinte Home Builders Association this week Belleville's YMCA would be live to seven times more expensive to operate if it was municipally controlled.

Ald. Corke made the comment while making a presentation to the association concerning the independent fund drive to create the YMCA's $100,000 mortgage.

"The Y currently draws strong voluntary support and can pay smaller wages than city hall — neither of which would be possible under city administration," said Ald. Corke.

"The city wouldn't be able to get volunteers and would have to give twice the current pay," he said.

Ald. Corke told the group some $50,00 has been collected towards the mortgage and asked the association to consider some donation to wipe out part of the remaining $18,000.

The association later decided individual members should make their own contributions rather than setting a precedent of the home builders coming to the call of any agency in financial difficulty.

Graduation Friday

Loyalist College has announced dates for both its graduation dinner and dance and convocation. The graduation festivities will take place next Friday at the Legion Hall from 6 p.m. - 1 a.m. The convocation will occur May 24 during the afternoon in the college cafeteria. Both events are open to graduating students, staff and invited guests.

Three Hurt As Pole Hit

Three city residents were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital early today for minor injuries they suffered in a one-car accident in front of 160 Dundas St. W. at 6.30 a.m.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said a car driven by William A. Dennis, 26, of 14 Tracey Park, Apt. 14, went out of control after striking an icy patch while westbound and struck a hydro pole.

The passengers, also injured, were Brenda and John A. Morton, both 20, of 415 East Dundas St. Damage to the car is estimated at $2,000 and to the pole at $1,000.

Man Charged In Shooting

SHANNONVILLE — A 27-year-old Shannonville man appeared in court Friday for bail hearing in connection with a shooting in this village early Friday.

Charles William Latimer was charged with dangerous use of a firearm after Doris Spencer of Shannonville was wounded in the left arm by a shotgun blast at her residence.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville had earlier charged Latimer with wounding. He is currently being held in the Quinte Regional Detention Centre. Trial date has been set for April 16.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance during a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today:

Satu day, April 12, 12.28 a.m. — oil burner malfunction at 8 King St., no damage.

Query Election Changes

MARMORA — The municipal council here sees no reason why, as far as the village is concerned, some suggested changes in the Ontario Elections Act should be made.

Clerk-Treasurer William Shannon has been directed to complete a questionnaire from the provincial ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs to that effect.

All municipalities are being polled for their views on changing the date of municipal elections from December to an earlier month, extending the term of office to three years instead of the present two and switching the fiscal year.

Car Damaged

City police investigated in incident of wilful damage early today to a car parked at the rear of the Canadian Hotel.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said when the driver, Beatrice Morgan of 27½ Isabel St., returned to the vehicle at 1.40 a.m., she found the window broken and the radio antenna bent.

Total damage was estimated at $110. No suspects have been found.

City Council Agenda

Pound Location Approval Sought

City council Monday moves to establish its own animal control shelter — the sequel to its severance from Ontario Humane Society Services.

Council will be asked to approve location of its own animal pound on Wallbridge Cresc. The proposed new site is on city property adjacent to its own public works yards.

The proposal follows council's decision not to accept a new OHS contract proposing higher fees for animal control services.

Belleville has contracted OHS services since 1967. But the contract became an issue late last year after the agency sought a new, costlier agreement. Two weeks ago, OHS manager Tom Hughes made a plea to council that it consider retaining OHS operations — and warned that a city-operated service would be costlier and less satisfactory than now anticipated.

Also on next Monday's council meeting agenda is:

— A deputation from the Citizens' Bureau which plans returning its operations from Trenton to Belleville. The agency already has received $17,000 from the federal consumers' affairs ministry to aid its operation. But, said a bureau spokesman Friday night, more funds are also needed to cover operation and hence the delegation will be asking for city assistance.

— An agreement with consultants Totten, Sims and Hubicki for design and supervision of the Cannifton road grade separation. It's part of the city's major reconstruction of roads improving access through the community and to Highway 401, including an undergrade at the Canadian National Railways main line.

Instruments Donated

MARMORA — The municipal council here has donated its village band instruments, purchased about 15 years ago, to the Hastings County Board of Education on a condition Marmora.

Dave Weir, principal of Marmora Senior School where the instruments remain in the instruments are currently housed, says about $100, has been spent on the 15 instruments which are unable. About 25 instruments had been originally purchased at a time when a village band was organized.

Welsman Re-elected

PICTON — Jack Welsman of RR 2, Picton, has been re-elected president of the Prince Edward Historical Society.

Other officers elected during the annual meeting include vice-president Roy Shortt, secretary Beverley Skidmore, and treasurer, Malcolm Love.

The executive committee includes Mrs. Harold Bartman, Hazel Herbert, Major Ray Young, Don MacDermaid and Mrs. Hitchen.

Past president is Woodrow Blakely.

Pushing Pots

China roses, pottery and jewellery are a cinch to sell but how can a clerk spark the customer's interest in china chamber pots? When Scott's Gift Centre in Picton received a shipment of these decorative reminders of pre-toilet days Mrs. Andrew Martin hit on a sure-fire gimmick. The pots are displayed in the window with a sign reading "Oh yes, we have a pot."

Train Wrecks Car

A 1966 Meteor was written off after it was struck by an eastbound freight train on a Canadian Pacific Railway crossing on Aikens Road about two miles west of here late Friday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said the car, driven by Diane Cirotto, 18, of 17 Dixon Dr. in Trenton, became stuck on the tracks after it missed the crossing and was abandoned by both her and a passenger, Don Chisholm of Trenton, at about 10 p.m.

Police said the car, owned by Roy Cirotta of the same address as the driver, was struck about 30 minutes later by CP diesel freight 4723 and carried about 75 feet before the train came to a halt. Damage to the diesel engine was not estimated.

Perennials Basic To Any Garden

By ROSS HAWTHORNE
Staff Reporter

Oftentimes, in conducting gardening clinics or forums around Ontario, I find there is confusion between the terms annuals and perennials. Which ones must be planted every year and which ones come up every year?

An easy way to remember is to take the first three letters of the word perennial — "p-e-r" and relate them to the first three letters of the word permanent. Because there are few plant families that occupy a more permanent place in your garden than perennials — the ones that are planted only once — and come up year after year, after year.

No discursive gardening plan can be complete without a diverse collection of perennials. Because with a little planning, perennials will provide color from early spring until well past frost beginning with the yellow dairy-like flower of the Doronicum, and the early spring riot of color provided by a bed of giant Pacific primrose. And when the tulips and daffodils are faded remnants and the petunias and snapdragons still straggling, the tree or bush peony, the brilliant oriental poppy, the orange-yellow globe flower, the stately bleeding heart and iris will be in full glory. And incidentally, there's one perennial that's just coming back into its own — the iris, in such shades as chocolate, near-black and magenta.

In essence, the perennials should be the backbone of every garden. They're the mainstays of your exterior decorating plan, around which you paint and decorate yearly with annuals — the ones you have to plant year after year. Which provides an opportunity to set down one of the basic differences between perennials and annuals. The latter sprout from seed, bloom, bear more seed and die within one year. And if you wish to keep them you'll have to continually do something about continually pick off the spent blossoms to prevent seed pods from forming.

The herbaceous perennials on the other hand have found a much more dependable way to propagate and survive year after year. They concentrate their survival through their root systems, spreading them and multiplying them year after year throughout the soil. Which is why we can take as a rule of thumb, that the roots of perennial clumps should be split up on an average of every three years. Otherwise, the root systems become too dense. The competition for food becomes too keen and the flowers get smaller and smaller year after year. And in fact, many perennials welcome a regular division of roots. I split a clump of white phlox in four one fall, mainly because I needed a tall while mid-summer flower in two of my beds. And I was rewarded the next summer with four cascades of white flowers that were truly beautiful. Never had those phlox bloomed so profusely.

In spite of their constancy, in spite of the ease with which they can be grown, perennials do provide you with some challenges. For example: The first challenge, and it's a pleasant one, is to plan your perennial layout so that you have color from spring to fall. The second is to mix the perennials in their own territory, to prevent them from overgrowing one another and creating a horizontal slum. And finally, the necessity of planning the right perennials for the right location. Some love full sun, others prefer sun and shade and others thrive in the shade alone.

Now, here's one area of disappointment you can avoid with perennials. Don't go and buy a tiny potted perennial this spring and expect great results this summer. The secret of the perennials' hardiness and constancy lies in their root system. And that's the one thing they're going to establish before they start sending out a profusion of flowers. So start building the perennial backbone of your garden this spring. It will prove to be a wise decision — year after year, after year.

Picton Bureau

Others Need Council Support

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Guardian of the public purse strings, town council this year reluctantly rescued Glenwood Cemetery from ancient poverty.

An appeal for an annual grant of $10,000 from the town was submitted by the cemetery board after it had been forced to let the caretaker go and proper interment of bodies in the vault had become a matter for concern.

Council did come through but not with the requested $10,000 a year. Instead, a more modest figure of $7,500 was suggested to make it possible to retain the caretaker and make necessary improvements.

This week, the Prinlle Edward Centre Commission submitted a request for a $1,500 grant for 1975 from council although it has a bank balance of more than $9,500.

When the need for the grant was questioned by Picton councillor Russell Alexander, Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson and councillor Charles Hepburn strongly defended the submission.

The importance of recreation for youth was emphasized and although no action was taken on the grant request it was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Cemeteries and community centres may seem like apples and oranges when compared but council's youth-oriented priorities surface in the question of support.

The County Centre likely will receive a substantial grant this year from Prince Edward County council.

The town of Picton will contribute 20 per cent of this sum and should think twice before tacking on an extra $1,500.

The community is being squeezed for the last taxpayers' dollar to support recreation and youth projects.

Councillor Charles Hepburn termed the proposed arena grant "a small price to look after our children".

Why should town funds be employed to hire the arena as a babysitter building for local youth?

Certainly, the programs operated at the County Centre are valuable to the community but can taxpayers afford as much of this recreation?

Deputy-reeve Richardson told council the Wellington District Community Centre is in the black because ice rental fees are higher than at the County Centre.

He suggested if rates were increased in Picton the minor hockey program could suffer.

If youth wants to play then let youth's parents pay instead of hundreds of taxpayers who are continually milked for recreation funds.

The Glenwood Cemetery board struggled almost without funds for as long as possible before applying to council for a grant yet response was lukewarm.

Council carefully considered all aspects of assistance to the cemetery board and spelled out an agreement for its protection.

Some of this caution would be well applied to grant proposals such as the one received from the Centre Commission.

Perhaps town council has a "sky's the limit" budget of support in principle for youth and recreation but this hardly corresponds with available funds.

Other less glamorous projects like cemetery restorations keep getting in the way of uncontrolled support of youth programs.

Take Closer Look At City Spending

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

A shiver ran up my spine this week when it became apparent to council that possibly only one of five council members present had looked over the March cheque register of $452,792.

That cold chill didn't stem from the size of the sum, but rather from the method in which it was to be approved — almost without consideration by council.

Discussion of the register was sparked by council's self-appointed watchdog of the public purse, Peter De Groot. What was revealed during that discussion bordered on comedy.

Mayor Bob Patrick said he doubted that anyone had seen the March register.

Councillor De Groot said he doubted whether any of his fellow councillors looked at one.

Numerous questions pop to mind, if, as Mayor Patrick indicated, no one else had seen the register, how can it possibly be approved (Shades of the old rubber stamp). By its very nature, blanket approval, as council's action would have been, has one drawback.

It's difficult to see under that blanket. And that applies both to individual councillors and the public.

For example, if councillor De Groot had not questioned a $1,454 bill from a Toronto consultant, would councillors have known that it was not itemized — that, essentially, they were paying out town dollars for an unknown service.

And councillor De Groot in making his statement, even if exaggerated in the brief moment of debate, indicated council as a whole was not doing its homework. Interestingly enough, his fellow councillors did not raise any objections to what could be interpreted as accusatory comment.

At the heart of the mini-debate this week was a question: is council abrogating its responsibilities in overseeing the collars the taxpayer annually pours into the treasury?

Wrinkling of brows and concern over the taxpayers money at budget time is far from enough. That concern over rigid controls on temperature, humidity and ventilation. The content of the medium on which they grow must also be carefully controlled. Between 1973 and 1974 consumption of mushrooms per capita has grown from one pound to four pounds, keeping commercial growers busy. — (Ministry and Agriculture and Food Photo.)

where and why money is spent is an integral part of a councillor's daily stock in trade.

If councillors pay such cursory attention to their monthly bills, it seems doubtful that their decisions can be closely tied to a firm knowledge of the town's business.

But the ultimate absurdity is that one simply does not okay a cash flow of $452,792 without looking more closely at its purpose. Such a blasé attitude is one that should not be found among men who purportedly control over $4-million a year in public money.

Venezuela: Rich And Rude, Almost Tax-free, but a Bureaucratic Nightmare Too

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

CARACAS — If oil-rich and booming Iran or Saudi Arabia are too far away to watch firsthand what oil wealth is doing to an emerging national society, take a look a Venezuela.

It was supposed to be easier for Canadians to reach this expanding social democracy with its growing affluence and admitted tourist wonders, through a direct Air Canada service from Toronto and Montreal here to Caracas.

In fact, the president of Air Canada was in town to sign a Canada-Venezuela bilateral to make it start sometime around December 1. But he didn't sign and the bilateral air agreement for the moment is off.

And it says much about the present state of Venezuela, trying to sort out its priorities with all that oil money sloshing around, that no one knew for sure why the Venezuelans came up with a technicality to stop it at the last moment.

This columnist suggested it might have been the sudden resignation of the president of VIASA, the Venezuelan International State Airline who quit the day the bilateral was to be signed. But no.

The minister of communications wasn't available, incommunicado, on one leave for sure where he was, even though he was to see a Canadian ministerial counterpart in the form of Industry, Trade and Commerce Minister Alastair Gillespie, also here with a major Canadian trade mission.

In fact, the cavalier manner in which cabinet ministers in town, (Gillespie arrived at the start of Holy Week), dealt with the Canadian mission said even more about a Latin American society which has it made and could be called "rich and rude" in its external attitude in general.

The affluence, Brazilian-style, is all-embracing. Bumper-to-bumper traffic, elite stores and shops, American influence everywhere even to the appearance of such consumer food stops as hamburger stands.

Burger Chef de Venezuela will you believe? Venezuelan bronzed and nubile beauties, the equal any day to the tanned girls on Copacabana Beach in Rio de Janeiro, swivel around the swanky Tamanaco Hotel in suburban Caracas, letting almost all of it hang out except for what's hidden by the thong bathing suit.

Only beneath the surface of life here is the real story of how so many Venezuelans live, a country where this high

Divorcement of Law From Religion Alarms

NEW YORK (AP) — Uneasiness has developed among some legal scholars over a modern approach to the law that cuts jurisprudence off from its moral-religious roots.

As a result, education in the law has suffered the loss of a vital dimension, two legal scholars told a meeting in San Francisco of the Association of American Law Schools.

Harold J. Berman, a Harvard University professor of law, said the scope of scholarship in the field has been reduced by the neglect of the sources of the law in the canons and traditional beliefs of religion.

The resultant shallowness tends toward "studying cases without relevance to ethical considerations."

"Secularization of legal education has led to idolatry of the law itself," Berman, who is Jewish, added.

"Pursuit of the laws objective of social justice, without any sense of dependence on God, has produced a kind of Utopianism which has also become a religion."

John T. Noonan Jr., a Roman Catholic, of the University of California law school, cited the same sort of idolatry, saying: "There is a virtual search for salvation in the law by people coming to law schools today."

In a similar vein but in another setting, United States Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun, declared: "The balance has been upset. The compass has been askew, it seems the old guideposts are no longer there, or at least no longer looked to or relied upon."

At a lecture at Emory University law school in Atlanta, Blackmun, a United Methodist layman, called for a restoration of basic moral and ethical principles, particularly in the legal profession.

Citing recent Watergate-related scandals and other cases in which lawyers compromised ethical principles, he said the legal profession must be committed to "what is just and moral as well as barely legal."

He said moral principles are of a higher order than the law itself, but that the law "necessarily has a moral dimension" arising from the foundation.

At the law school meeting in California, Berman traced secularization of the law to educational trends starting in the U.S. in the late 18th century.

Until then, he said, "from the medieval universities through England's Inns of Court to the appreciative lawyers who learned from Blackstone, it was taken for granted that human law was rooted in divine and moral or natural law."

But "that religious dimension began receding in 1870 and has now all but vanished."

Four of Five Catholics Support Birth Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 79 per cent of Roman Catholics in the United States favor changes permitting priests to marry and 83 per cent of them approve artificial contraception despite papal teachings against it.

These are among findings of a representative survey made by the National Opinion Research Centre under direction of a priest-sociologist, Rev. Andrew Greeley. It found that:

—Almost a third of American Catholics would support ordination of women as priests and more than four-fifths would vote for a qualified woman for president.

—Sixty-seven per cent think recent changes in the church are for the better and only 19 per cent think they are for the worse, with the rest feeling the changes made no difference.

—More than four-fifths of the Catholic population approve of the English-language liturgy and about two-thirds approve of guitar masses, lay readers for mass, progressive religious education and sex education in Catholic schools.

Summarizing the findings for the January-February issue of the Catholic periodical, The Critic, Father Greeley and three colleagues who assisted in the study, write:

"Despite the pontification from both the left and the right that 'the people' are upset about changes in the church we could find little evidence that any more than a minority are opposed to the 'new church.'"

However, a slight majority, 54 per cent, think there have been enough changes.

Most of the laity, 72 per cent, have sympathy for priests who have left the ministry, the report says, adding:

"Despite the argument frequently heard in high ecclesiastical circles that the laity would not accept a married clergy, 78 per cent say they are in favor of such a change."

The study involved questionnaire responses from a nationally representative sample of about 1,000 Catholics.

Weekly mass attendance was down over a 10-year span to 50 from 74 per cent. Monthly confession declined to 17 from 38 per cent. Those who "never" or "practically never" going to confession increased to 38 from 18 per cent.

However, while some traditional forms of religious practice declined, the proportion receiving weekly communion doubled, rising to 26 from 13 per cent, and new forms of religious life, such as charismatic prayer meetings, home liturgies, marriage encounters and religious discussions "attained a surprising popularity."

"Religious devotion among adolescents was substantially higher than that of their parents," the report says, noted that 64 per cent of teen-agers attend mass every week and 42 per cent receive communion weekly.

Catholics who feel certain that Jesus handed over church leadership to Peter and the popes dropped to 42 from 70 per cent. Only 33 per cent think it "certainly true" that the Pope is infallible when he speaks on faith and morals.

However, 82 per cent of Catholics approve the way their parish priests are handling their jobs and 71 per cent feel the same way about the Pope, a higher score than ever scored by the last six U.S. presidents. But only 62 per cent approve the way the bishops are doing their job.

Remarriage after divorce is approved by 73 per cent, compared with 32 per cent a decade ago. Approval of artificial contraception rose to 83 from 45 per cent. Forty-three per cent approve sexual relations between an engaged couple, compared with only 12 per cent in 1963.

Seventy per cent think it should be possible for a married pregnant woman to have an abortion if she doesn't want any more children.

Once Life Broken It Can Be Useful

By Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Most of us have a preference for new things. When they break, we throw them away. Is that how we regard people? Do we wallow in despair when our lives seem to be smashed?

The psalmist wrote, "A broken and contrite heart, O God, thou will not despise" (Psalm 51:17). The world abounds with broken spirits. And broken vessels!

God can mend them. He gave us a Savior. He was despised and rejected by men. But "the very stone which the builders rejected has become the head of the corner". St. Paul spoke out of experience that can be duplicated in our own, "If any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come."

God can also use broken lives. Of course, there is no such individual as a self-made man. But many think they are. Pride goeth before a fall. How easily they are crushed by loss or adversity. To some degree we are all involved. But if we offer the shattered pieces of life to God, a miracle happens. He can use us now as he could not have used us before.

There is, as Dr. Albert Schweitzer said, a fellowship of pain, a kind of fraternity of those whose hearts have been broken and mended. When healed, they give themselves in som way to a part in the healing work of God... Therefore, if your heart is still like flint, let it be broken. If it is broken, give it to God that he may mend it. Then devote it to his service.

Above all, God can love broken hearts. Dr. Leslie Weatherhead once told of a boy, left without a father, whose mother had to go out to support the family. One day she warned him about a neighbor who allowers had erected nearby, and told him not to go near it.

He disobeyed, as small boys will, and fell from the grating. He was taken to hospital. There he overheard an indiscreet nurse who stood outside his room tell his mother that he might never walk again.

When the mother entered, he said, "Mother, do you love me?" She answered, "Yes, of course I love you." And he said, "Then everything is all right. I heard the nurse, but if you forgive me and still love me, I can take the rest."

So it is with the broken-hearted and God Christ brought this about when he made peace for us on the Cross. In him, the apostle wrote, "all things hold together".

College Clown

NEW YORK (AP) — Clowning around the campus is a serious business for Fred Yockers of Flathush. Yockers, who grew up in Brooklyn, is a professional clown who worked with the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus for six months, including nine weeks in Madison Square Gardens. Yockers intends to make a career of clowning, but he decided after six months of touring the country that he doesn't want to spend his life as a circus clown. Ultimately, he would like to found a performance and teaching centre devoted to circus mime and comedia dell'arte.

Practising the eightsome reel, the dancers step out lightly as they swing round in a star.

Scottish Country Dancing — Lively and Social

By ISABEL HUGGAN
Women's Reporter

The light whisk and brush of soft leather shoes on the gymnasium floor, as dancers practise their steps.

Then the phonograph needle sets down on a record, and the lively music of a reel fills the room. The dancing begins again and four couples join hands and circle in the intricate patterns of Scottish country dancing.

And within minutes, they've knotted themselves into colliding bunches, hopelessly entangled and laughing helplessly till the music stops.

Dancing instructor May Sanders, Scottish-born descendress of Bridge Street United Church, lunges along with her students, and reviews the dance steps with them before they begin again.

The Scottish country dancing classes, held at Harmony Public School for the past ten weeks, are finished now until the autumn when the group plans to meet again.

One of the students, Bud Munroe, president of Clan Munroe in Canada, hopes to rejuvenate the St. Andrew's Society in Belleville. And if he is successful, the society will be sponsoring dancing classes for children and teenagers as well as adults.

"Scottish country dancing is the most sociable of activities," says Mr. Munroe. "It's extremely gay, and also very polite."

As the dancers move through the steps of strathspeys and scottisches, they maintain a genteel composure that differs from the more boisterous "swing-your-partner" atmosphere in square dancing. Yet, there are many similarities between country and square dancing.

There are perhaps eight or ten basic steps, which are then rearranged to the rhythms of various melodies.

Although only four of the 20 in the class are Scottish-born, there is tremendous interest in Scottish tradition and culture among the dancers. John Cronford is a piper, and a former highland dancer with the air force drill dancing team, and Larry Francis is the drum sergeant with the CFB Trenton pipe band.

The men are equally as graceful as their wives, in fact some of them show considerable talent and flair for the light-footed dancing.

"It's funny," says Miss Sanders. "Some of the husbands were pulled along here, but now they've really taken to it, and keep urging their wives to practise more!"

Others have joined through casual interest in Scottish things and greater concern with exercise and sociability.

"It really is the most sociable of dances," says Miss Sanders. "And it's the most democratic. These dances were part of every level of society in Scotland, and are still danced at weddings and parties."

Anybody who's interested enough to come out to dancing class isn't going to be the shy type who stays in a corner," comments Maureen Francis. "And it's the kind of dancing you can do and enjoy whether you're built like a hippo or graceful as a dove!"

As the evening wears on, the dancers refresh themselves with tea and continue practicing until they can move through the dances without mishap. The Marquis of Huntly's Highlander, the Petronella, White Cockade and the Gay Gordons all take shape, and the class ends with everyone feeling a little more confident about their trip to Kingston's Royal Scottish Country Dancing Society on April 19.

May Sanders tries out steps as she reads them.

Bud and Rita Munroe execute a neat schottische.

OASWT MEETIN G

The April meeting of the Ontario Association of Superannuated Women Teachers was opened by president Helen Calnan. A singsong with Lorna Borabeck accompanying on the piano followed.

Secretary Thelia Spafford read the minutes and treasurer Irene Phillips made her financial report.

Helen Calnan was elected to be the official delegate at the provincial convention in St. Catherines in June.

Dorothy Blakely and Edna Emery, who recently returned from a trip to Spain and Morocco showed their slides and provided a commentary.

Refreshments were served after the meeting was adjourned.

MUSICAL EVENT COMING

Holloway Street United Church will be host to a musical evening Saturday, April 19 when the Chancellors, a group of 55 young people from Central United Church in Weston will entertain.

Under the direction of Rev. Paul Field, the band and chorus known as the Chancellors have been presenting their lively musical program in churches and auditoriums throughout Ontario for the past six years.

The Chancellors' repertoire includes a wide variety of music, chosen to appeal to all ages. They have now made two records of their music, and are also featured on an album of hymns called Joybreak.

The event, which begins at 8 p.m., is sponsored by the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Contact Lens Turns Up

THOMSON, Ga. (AP) — Bonnie Martin, who lost a contact lens 17 years ago, says she has found it—in her eye. "My doctor was as shocked as I was when he found it," said Mrs. Martin, an elementary school teacher who says no one seems to believe her story. But her ophthalmologist backs her up, saying the lens had worked itself into the conjuctiva, the mucous membrane that lines the inner eyelid.

Tops Go Bye Bye

TORRON, Md. (AP) — The a go go guys in Baltimore County can shed their tops now, thanks to a ruling by the county liquor board. Joseph J. Bloom, board chairman, ruled last month that male dancers were subject to the same law prohibiting bared nipples as female dancers, forbidding the men to resort to bottle-clad men.

German Wine That Really Isn't

When is German wine not really German?

According to the German Wine Information Bureau, it's when blends of wine from European Economic Community sources labeled with German-sounding names are sold. These not-really-German wines apparently carry the label statement: Produce of Germany. The German wine industry feels this is misleading and confusing to consumers who like and use German wines.

In the future, table wines will carry details of their origin— what wines have been blended, country of origin and, if bottled in Germany, appropriate labeling.

Germany has the strictest wine laws in the world — at least the wine industry says so — and three grades of wine are produced. They are Tafelwein, Qualitatswein and Qualitatswein mit Pradikat. Most exported wines fall into the latter category and carry an official control number with a QBA prefix.

A survey of the effects of the removal of federal sales tax on clothing and footwear has shown that the retail prices of these items has dropped just over five per cent since the tax was removed last July.

The savings to the consumer might have been higher had higher wholesale costs not occurred and sale of tax-paid inventories not continued.

If you're feeling righteous about utilizing, down on the purchase and use of white sugar, then busily substituting corn syrup or maple syrup, you're not doing yourself any favors.

First of all, they're not any better for you than white sugar; only one sweetener, secondly, is any cheaper.

One cup of white sugar will supply about 768 calories; the equivalent in sweetening power in molasses (⅔ cup) is 800 calories (some improvement) and 912 in corn syrup. If you choose to substitute more natural sweeteners like honey and maple syrup the calorie count will be 744 calories and 800 calories respectively.

What about food? Sugar costs 27 cents; corn syrup, 29 cents; honey about 30 cents; maple syrup about 82 cents and molasses about 23 cents for equivalent sweetening power.

If you're determined to try to reduce calories and cost without doing the simplest thing — cutting out sweets or at least cutting down — then it seems sensible to choose molasses.

With lower beef and veal prices, many people are buying large quantities of meat at the supermarket and freezing it. Beef steaks and roasts can be stored for 10 to 12 months, as most people know, but veal roasts, slices and chops will only store from four to five months. If you're putting a sizeable investment into meat, be sure to rewrap, check the freezer temperature (-18C) and date the packages.

He Won't Change Language For Women Law Students

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen will continue to be spokesmen, not spokespersons, Ontario Labor Minister John MacBeth told a spokesman for a delegation of 10 women law students Monday.

The women, all from the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall, are members of the newly-formed Ontario Women and the Law Association.

"You're not going to get me to change the English language," he said. "It has been with us for a good number of years. So please, don't correct me on that point."

The question of terminology arose after the minister asked the women who their "spokesman" was at the half-hour meeting.

The women told the minister that language helps determine thought processes and a person's refusal to admit that the structure of language changes is evidence of the way he thinks.

Colleen Swords, a third-year student, told M. Macbeth that "we're trying to point out that behind your language, there is an attitude."

The women represented two of the seven Women's Caucuses, located in Windsor, London, Toronto and Kingston, which joined together a month ago into the association.

Irene Moccioia, a first-year student, read a brief which expressed "dismay" with the Ontario government for not dealing fairly with equal pay.

Mr. Macbeth replied that everything cannot be accomplished by passing a law, but that society's attitudes must be changed.

First - year-student Sherry Dunn said until there is legislation outlining the situation, women will continue to receive less money for jobs requiring similar skills and efforts. Wages should be based on the value of the work to the employer.

"We're submitting you change the onus. Right now it's on the complainant. I think it should be on the employer."

Mr. Macbeth said the government is trying to change the situation, but the women said the government is not moving quickly enough.

The brief said the government does little more than demand equal pay for equal work and added that "equal pay for equal work excludes exploitation of jobs performed only by women in comparison with those performed only by men."

Electric Blenders Useful — But They Can't Do Everything

OTTAWA (CP) — Although manufacturers would like you to think that blenders can replace wire whisks, cheese graters, coffee grinders, hand-held egg-beaters, electric hand-mixers and food-choppers in one fell swoop, "their blandishments must be taken with a grain of salt," says the Consumers' Association of Canada.

"Blenders basically perform four tasks—grinding, chopping, blending and liquefying ingredients," the association says in a news release.

"They are excellent at blending sauces and medium-consistency batters, making apple-sauce, mixing salad dressings, soups and beverages.

"However, they will not whip egg whites, chop ice evenly for drinks, grate cheese finely, handle heavy, thick batters, knead dough or mash potatoes."

If you're considering the addition of a blender to your kitchen appliances, remember that the array of speed settings on many models does not necessarily translate into better performance.

The CAC says your selection should have the following features:

—Tight-fitting cover with sealed openings where the blender measuring cup fits.

—Pouring spout covered by a lid.

—Removable blades with curved arms extending both upward and downward.

A glass container is more durable than plastic, will last longer and does not retain odors. However, it is more expensive and heavier. Other desirable features are a narrow pouring spout, and ridges on the inside to deflect the ingredients being blended back into the path of the blades.

The CAC says three or four speeds are sufficient. A separate "easily removed" cutter is handy for emergencies.

After all that, the blender should be measured to make sure it fits under your kitchen cupboards.

No Bananas—But Lots of Fun Fashion

OTTAWA (CP) — A basement shop has opened here that offers a pre-loved alternative to the modern mass-produced clothing.

Yes We Have No Bananas was opened last fall by Hanna Hershman and Maida Anisman, two women interested in original and imaginative dress. Their store specializes in fashion fare from the Second World War and earlier.

"There was a difference when I put on something old," explained Ms. Hershman. "It became a treat to get up in the morning." An advocate of the recycling movement, she said storing old clothes away in musty attic trunks is a tragic "waste of materials, labor, creativity and money."

Part of the adventure for the two owners is in seeking out their merchandise. Scouring flea markets, bidding at auctions, browsing through bazaars and responding to used-clothing advertisements are all part of the job.

Recent visits to private homes in the Montreal and Ottawa areas yielded such aged treasures as an early 18th century wedding dress, several Victorian garments (steel corsetting included), a bathing nun's habit and what the women have described as "the sleaziest smoking jacket in the world."

From the previous owners, Ms. Hershman has also collected a wealth of nostalgic anecdotes associated with almost every item.

Since one of the shop's chief objectives is to beat the rising cost of women's wear, Ms. Hershman said she attempts to price the items on a personal level.

"I ask myself how much I would be willing to spend and then add on some."

Understandably, some people do not feel immediately comfortable in the outlandish and sometimes sticky material they find at the shop. So to help customers get over their self-consciousness, the owners themselves are often to be seen in bizarre styles from the old days.

People may be frightened by what the clothes look like on the hangers; "they look so crazy," Ms. Hershman said.

"But when they see them on, often they find it's a very nice kind of crazy."

Marilyn Brooks is the most diversified designer in Canada. She designs ready-to-wear clothes, uniforms for hotel personnel, costumes for stage and musical productions and is fashion coordinator for Miss Canada and Miss Teen Canada Pageants. Marilyn is shown in her Toronto apartment with her collection of owls. (CP Photo)

Diversification Her Motto

TORONTO (CP) — "Diversification is my motto," says Marilyn Brooks.

And she must be the most diversified designer in Canada. She has ventured into ready-to-wear designing after an absence of three years. She designs uniforms for hotel personnel, she also costumes stage and musical productions. She has written do-it-yourself (sewing) clothes for women's magazines. She designs jewelry. She is fashion co-ordinator for Miss Canada and Miss Teen Canada Pageants.

It all started when Marilyn came to Toronto from New York state in 1961. This was the period of Mary Quant in England and the rash of boutiques over there.

Marilyn felt the idea could catch on in Canada and in 1963 she opened the country's first boutique, the Uniform, with her own designs produced in her own factory. Soon there were several retail outlets in the west and even one in San Francisco. But she found designing, marketing and running a factory too much and in 1971 she sold her interest in the Uniform.

"But I learned a valuable lesson," she says. "A designer cannot do everything."

So when, last fall, she decided to return to the ready-to-wear field, she arranged for a sales representative to sell her line and for a business manager to handle cost control and purchasing. She also hired an assistant with designing and factory experience.

"To have time for creative work, you have to surround yourself with good people," she says.

She has also arranged to produce some of her line in her own studio, such as special evening gowns, but otherwise to do most on contract.

"It stifles to reason that a factory that produces just dresses can do a cheaper and better job than I could get from any factory I set up to produce everything — from skirts to coats," she explains and then adds, "And costing can be definite with contracts. You know exactly what you're paying."

Marilyn has always had a strong generational streak and loves anything to do with theatre. During her Uniform career, she presented a couple of extravaganzas to promote her name and her clothes.

One was probably the largest fashion bash in North American. She hired the Toronto Coliseum for a Roman spectacular. The Marilyn Brooks clothes worn by top Toronto models may have lost out to the live elephant, tiger, lions and the chariots but Marilyn's name was stamped on everyone's memory pad.

So after the Uniform, it seemed natural to switch to costuming personalities in the entertainment world.

"Canada is strong on musical groups," she says. "And often they need a new fashion image."

She has designed new looks for several such groups and individuals.

"Their clothes are really what sells their image to the public," she explains.

"So, with a new group, you have to decide what image the members should project and design accordingly."

She has also designed some personal wardrobe items for visiting stars. Recently Yul Brynner and his wife had her design kimono-type robes. His was a striped chocolate brown velvet. She has also created individual costumes for stars on several TV commercials. Her secret desire is to costume an entire movie.

As fashion co-ordinator for the beauty pageants, she has taken the beauty queens and their wardrobes on fashion show junkets to Acapulco, Nassau and recently, to Aruba.

She has made a new career in designing costumes for hotel and business personnel. Her first uniforms were for the Toronto city hall guides.

Since then she has designed the uniforms from doormen to maids for such hotels as Toronto's Park Plaza, Edmonton Plaza, Vancouver's Hyatt airport hotel, the Hyatt agency in both Vancouver and Toronto, Skyline Hotels in Toronto and Ottawa, Place Bonaventure in Montreal, the Four Seasons in Calgary and the soon-to-be-opened Hotel Toronto.

She also started designing jewelry about two years ago. Hafael, a well-known jewelry manufacturer, represents her.

"He calls me his protege," she says.

Obviously Marilyn hasn't time for active hobbies. But over the years she has collected owls in every shape and fabric. They keep company with antiques collected with no recognizable theme. At present Marilyn lives in a downtown apartment that also houses her working studio and several of her accessories. She plans to move shortly into larger quarters.

Can I Afford A Home?

Norma Bland, P.R.I.

Perhaps you can't afford not to buy one! If you ad, the rent you will be paying over the next 25 years and add it to the cash you may have or can borrow from a fund, you can get started right now!

If necessary, you can share accommodation for a while. The money you make today cuts a shadow over your future for more than you think.

Do you need to own a home? You do if you are a free thinker and want to do your own thing. You do, if you are interested in having the security of being your own landlord. You do if inflation continues at 12 to 15%

Your only consideration should be where and how can I do it. See a Realtor today!

Crombie Leadership Candidate?

ORONTO (CP) — Friends and aides of Toronto Mayor David Crombie say only negative reaction from Progressive Conservative party members or the likelihood of an overwhelming defeat will deter him from seeking the national Conservative leadership.

"He's testing the political waters," one of the mayor's friends at city hall said. "Playing a crazy game and raising his visibility."

Whelan Warns

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Friday that Canadian beef producers must reduce the number of cattle they market or face the prospect of lower prices.

"Between Jan. 1 and March 22, feeder cattle slaughter in Canada was up around 20 per cent over the same period last year," he said. "I am counting on Canadian producers being smart enough to cut back."

Inquiry Out

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General John Clement turned down a suggestion Friday for a royal commission inquiry into loan sharking.

He told the legislature an inquiry might be of value at a later time but now could interfere with an investigation into "certain matters".

Penal Residences Potter's Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will continue to decentralize its penal system by building more residences for small groups of adult offenders, Richard Potter, minister of correctional services said Friday.

The ministry launched a program last April to establish residential facilities for adult offenders throughout the province. Twelve residences are now in operation and another 10 will be opened this year, Dr. Potter said during debate in the legislature on his ministry's spending estimate.

"To become eligible for these centres, prisoners make application from many of our institutions," he said. "Their applications are very carefully screened, having regard to public safety particularly, and selections are made by the local temporary-absence committee at the institution."

Successful applicants are granted temporary-absence permits to live at the centres and work in the community.

Party Planned

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull is throwing a $200,000 civic birthday party this summer to mark the city's 100th year of incorporation. The Grand Fete committee said the festival from June 20 to July 6 will include concerts, car rallies, sports events, cultural exhibits and even a special ballet created for the celebration.

Only $3 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Aristotle Onassis receives a bequest of only $3 million under the will of her late husband, a sum far less than published reports have indicated. The New York Times says. The newspaper says that Onassis had decided shortly before his death in Paris last March 15 to divorce the widow of the late President John Kennedy and asked a lawyer to start proceedings.

Government Sues Banana Operator

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) filed suit this week against United Brands Co., the multinational food corporation, that admitted making $2 million in secret payments to foreign governments officials last year.

The civil suit charged the company with falsifying its financial reports to hide a payment of $1.25 million in cash to a Honduran official plus a $750,000 cash payment to a European official.

United Brands, which markets its bananas under the Chiquita label, has extensive banana operations in Honduras. Last April,the Honduran government raised the export tax on bananas to 50 cents for a 40-pound box. Four months later, the export tax of United Brands the corporation of about 37.5 bananas was halved to 25 million.

Peter Ramsay shines his Ontario Medal for citizenship contribution which he takes on trip to Britain today. Irene Banazon, Belleville Cheshire Home director, helped him pack for journey that sees Peter representing Canada at international assembly of Cheshire Home handicapped residents.

Peter Ramsay Selected As Cheshire Emissary to Britain

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A young handicapped Hastings County man is on his way today from Belleville to Britain — the chosen representative of a particular group of Canadians at an international assembly.

He is Peter Ramsay, 25-year-old Madoc native now a resident of the Cheshire Home for young handicapped adults in the city.

In Britain he will join people from similar homes in 62 other countries for the Cheshire International Family Day.

The event also coincides with presentation of a humanitarian award to Leonard Cheshire, the British World War II air ace who launched the movement in his name to help the handicapped around the world.

One resident from each country involved in Cheshire projects has been chosen to attend the events.

The Belleville residence is one of two in Canada — although steering committees now are working in 13 other communities to start similar homes.

Peter was chosen to represent the Canadian movement by the co-ordinating Cheshire Foundation in Toronto.

Among the first residents selected for the Belleville house, Peter admits to being "very excited" about the trip — travelling costs for which are being paid by Barclay's Bank, the British international financial institution.

It'll give him an opportunity to meet Cheshire residents from other countries and discover something about their different ways of life, he says.

Like any traveller he also is anticipating seeing famous sights — Westminster Abbey, the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

He'll be there when a member of the Royal Family presents the award — from British theatre Variety Club — to Frank Cheshire.

Not that viewing royalty is a new experience for Peter. He met the Queen in Toronto nearly two years ago.

That was when he was among the first recipients of the province's Ontario Medal for citizenship contribution. The award came for his work in Madoc with minor sports projects Peter has carried on since he came to Belleville.

The award's accompanying metal certificate now hangs in the Cheshire Home. But the medal itself will be elsewhere for the next week.

Brightly polished, it'll be worn proudly by Peter during his time in Britain.

District at a Glance

Service Features Army

PICTON — A community worship service featuring the Danforth Citadel Band of the Salvation Army will be held Sunday April 27 at 7.30 p.m. at the Picton Free Methodist Church.

This special service is sponsored by the Prince Edward County Ministerial Association.

Moves to Hospital

TRENTON — Former Saskatchewan resident, David Chamberlain has assumed his duties as executive housekeeper at Trenton Memorial Hospital. The father of four children most recently held the same post at Victoria Union Hospital in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

Firemen at Full Strength

MARMORA — With the addition of George Green, the Marmora volunteer fire department now is up to full strength.

Councillor Bert Gray, chairman of the village's fire, water and sewage committee, told council Mr. Green had been selected because he is available during the day when many other volunteers are at work.

Volunteers have accepted an offer of $25 in standby pay and $4 an hour for fighting fires, Councillor Gray told council.

Hundreds Visit Hatchery

GLENORA — Director of the Glenora Fisheries Research Station Jack Christie has termed this year's annual open house highly successful with hundreds of Quinte-area residents turning out to enjoy "fish stories."

On Wednesday the general public was invited to tour the facility operated by the ministry of natural resources. Thursday and Friday students from Prince Edward Collegiate Institute visited the station to hear lectures and observe the work in progress there.

PICTON — Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr, compilers and editors of Historical Sketches of Prince Edward County will be at the Children's Room of the Picton Public Library Tuesday April 15 at 7:30 p.m. The public invited to meet and talk with the couple.

McKeown Appointed

MARMORA — Les McKeown has been appointed village weed inspector for 1975 by the municipal council here. He has been authorized by council to attend a weed inspectors' workshop in Kemptville on April 16, sponsored by the provincial ministry of agriculture and food.

Cottage Fire Investigated

AMELIASBURG — Fire officials here are investigating the possibility of arson in a blaze that destroyed a summer residence on Robbin Lake here late Friday night.

The cottage was owned by David McClintok, 112 Palmer Rd., Belleville.

The building, on the lake's northeast shore, was valued at $28,000.

The fire was discovered about 11:30 p.m. when Brian Whalen, in a nearby cottage, heard glass being shattered. When he went outside to investigate he thinks he saw a man, carrying a bottle, running from the scene. Deputy Fire Chief Roger Flower said.

Provincial police from Picton called in a tracking dog to the scene after the fire.

Mrs. McClintok claimed authorities are concerned because several cottages have been hit by fire this year on the lake.

She said she and her husband only had their cottage partially insured.

Provincial Grants

Sidney Gets Lion's Share

Hastings County rural municipalities this year may expect to share $1 million — or more — in provincial government unconditional grants.

The biggest single allocation — $187,000 or about $45,000 — goes to Sidney Township, the county's fastest growing municipality. Belleville's neighbour and a centre of mushrooming home expansion, its population — excluding CFB Trenton — now has exploded more than 800 to about 10,950. Population is one of the formula bases for unconditional grants.

Thurlow Township, Belleville's other rural neighbor receives $92,000 — compared to $67,000 in 1974. Estimated increase in that township's population is about 290 in the past year.

Two municipalities with their own police forces also have received higher police administration assistance grants compared to the $9,000 they were each granted in 1974. They are Deseronto ($15,000) and Tweed ($14,000).

The total of grants announced for the county's 27 townships and villages amounts to $1,164,000.

But the sum is subject to some changes since it is based on some variable factors, including as yet unaudited statements from the municipalities.

Therefore, cautious Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, whose office Friday compiled the figures from the statement of higher grants presented this week in the Ontario legislature, the totals are calculations intended for local government budget guidance. They may not be the final sums to which the municipalities are entitled.

County government itself received $58,000 — an increase of $21,000, estimated Hastings administrator Carl Bateman.

Delora, believed the smallest Ontario village with 221 people, receives the least allocation — $6,000.

Grants announced for other municipalities, with the total in brackets, are: Deseronto ($81,000); Bancroft ($81,000); Madoc ($52,000); Marmora ($0,000); Stirling ($61,000); Tweed ($72,000); Frankford ($58,000); Ranger-Wicklow-McClure ($32,000); Carlow ($13,000); Dungannon ($19,000); Elzivir-Grimsthorpe ($12,000); Faraday ($25,000); Herschel ($8,000); Hungerford ($42,000); Huntingdon ($30,000); Limerick ($9,000); Madoc Township ($26,00); Marmora-Lake ($21,000); Marsh ($10,000); Montague ($21,000); Rawdon ($41,000); Tudor-Cashel ($12,000); Tyendinaga ($18,000); Wollaston ($16,000).

The grants were part of a total $4,194,300 allocated to municipalities within county boundaries this week. But Belleville, eligible for $1,950,000 and Trenton for $1,022,200, are separated municipalities within the overall county structure.

Planning Board Cuts Belleville's Share

Belleville residents will pay less this year for regional planning, it was learned at a meeting of the Quinte Planning Board Friday night.

For the current year, Belleville's share of the board's budget is $30,744 — compared with last year's share of $34,300.

The board co-ordinates planning for Belleville, Trenton, the townships f Sidney and Thurlow and the Village of Frankford

While the planning board has increased its overall budget to some $19,000 for the current year, reserve funds held over from 1974 and strong assessment growth in Sidney Township have sheltered all the other municipalities from increases.

Only Sidney Township — because of population growth in 1974 — found itself paying more this year. Sidney Township's levy jumped to $25,000 from $22,744.

This year — informulating planning policies for the five member municipalities — the planning board will spend $225,634.

Of this total, $126,000 goes towards salaries for the director, his assistant, a secretary treasurer, two planners and two office women.

Staff benefits account for another $13,610 and board members allowances for another $9,500. The operating budget for the board's Trenton office amounts to $156,000 for the year.

Artist Barbara Whelan puts civic cultural award under wraps

Education Beat

Award Under Wraps

Teachers Show Biggest Concern

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's civic cultural award of the year was ready Friday.

But the recipient — by tradition anonymous and unknowing until the actual presentation — must wait until later this month to accept the community's recognition.

This year the civic honor is a painting specially commissioned by city council's Cultural Awards Committee — organized in 1968 and composed of city government and community representatives.

Object of the award, says Mayor Robin Jeffrey, is to recognize and encourage the contributions of those who have enriched the community scope with their cultural endeavors and dedication.

The painting is the work of a well-known local artist — Barbara Whelan, currently president of the Belleville Art Association.

Such a commission also is a part of the committee's objective.

Creation of the awards is deliberately assigned to area artists — again as support of local cultural endeavors.

For this year's artist the commission was a case of cure as well as creativity.

Mrs. Whelan — who has had her works accepted for various shows in the province — admits to being a fast worker who delights in pure landscapes.

On the cultural award, however, she spent two weeks.

The reason: Not only the merit of the assignment but Mrs. Whelan wanted to satisfy herself the painting would personally reflect the recipient's life and the "something the committee selected is going to be able to live with."

The award is being presented April 23 during the current Artfest '75, sponsored by the Quinte Arts Council.

"These graduates can't spell, can't write, can't express themselves," scream parents, employers and watchdogs of teachers, principals and boards of education.

The irony of these cries from the public is that teachers, principals and boards of education are more concerned about this problem than those who scream the loudest.

Most agree there is a problem with the quality of language skills obtained by secondary school graduates but few agree on just how bad the situation is. Teachers are hamstrung on the issue — much of the responsibility lies with the ministry of education and parents themselves.

With current curriculum requirements (ISI modified-students are still not receiving enough English instruction. Some schools and teachers establish their own rules but these are few and far between.

Today's graduates are the first full-fledged generation to have been totally immersed in the visual world of television, movies and graphic learning techniques. Their knowledge is greater in all areas except language skills, such as reading, writing, spelling and communication.

From cartoons on Saturday morning to late night movies on Friday these students develop most of their learning patterns through thousands of hours of TV. Some schools are introducing video tape and television equipment as learning aids.

Parents too often place their children in front of the TV set as a baby sitting service or allow them to sit for hours and hours in front of the TV. How often do parents encourage their children to use the family or the public library? How often do parents encourage meaningful discussions with their children?

Perhaps the Home and School Council for Hastings County could take this problem under its wing and in conjunction with the community-use-of-school people establish parent education classes to de-emphasize the influence and impact of visual media on today's children. Parents, who have children with language skill problems, could meet collectively to discuss ways of stimulating reading.

And for those parents and employers who feel the ministry of education must change its attitudes toward curriculum, they petition the board of education so that it in turn can bring pressure on the government.

The province's 34,000 secondary school teachers took a significant step toward this end when they endorsed an OSSTF committee to continue its work toward the establishment of a "minimum core of compulsory subjects." The teachers require the support and strength of parents across the province.

Sugar Bush Open for Tours

The Moira River Conservation Authority's sugar bush tour, snowed out last weekend, will be on this weekend — definitely.

The easiest way to get there is from Thomasburg, then follow signs. Syrup and sugar making operations can be seen from noon until late afternoon at the Charles Irvine sugar bush at Fuller.

Pancakes and appropriate trimmings are being served by the Crescent Rebekah Lodge of Thomasburg in their hall.

Men, Women Split on Store Hour Question

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Downtown pedestrians come down hard on either side of the fence when faced with the following question:

"Do you think downtown businesses should be allowed to set their own hours of business?"

Of more than a dozen brief interviews with men and women, the men came out strongly in favor of open hours and the women were equally strong in their concern for the employees of retail establishments.

A phrase often repeated by the men was "Why not? If a man has a product to sell, he should be allowed to sell it whenever he's willing to work or pay someone to work for him."

The women, on the other hand, were concerned with the family lives of retail employees. They wanted Mom home in time to cook supper and felt Dad should be able to spend evenings and weekends with the family.

ANNE FINKLE

"No, hours should be restricted out of consideration for the employees," said 20-year-old real estate salesswoman Anne Finkle. "It would put an employee in an unfair position to ask them to work long hours when they have a family to consider."

HARVEY SCOTT

Harvey Scott, 65, and retired, favors open hours of business. "It's a free country, under the free enterprise system. So, I think They should be able to sell whenever they want to."

SHEILA McMURRAY

"Yes, I think businessmen should be able to set their own hours. After all, they own the stores and should be able to run them the way they want to," said Sheila McMurray. "Also, it would be a lot more convenient for the shoppers." Miss McMurray is an 18-year-old student.

JACK TURNER

CN engineer Jack Turner, 38, says: "I think that if a man has a private enterprise, he should be allowed to sell his products whenever he want to, with no restriction. If he wants to work harder than his competitor, that should be his privilege.

LUISA BOWRY

A legal secretary, Luisa Bowry, 28, thinks unrestricted hours would be unfair to employees. "They have their own lives to live, especially married couples. They shouldn't be expected to give up their family lives."

REG WORKMAN

Reg Workman, 49, believes businessmen should be allowed to set their own hours. "They're in an independent, competitive business. They should be able to decide what hours are best for them and their customers."

Leafs, Islanders Win

Esposito Digs In, Bruins Out

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Players and coaches have been saying over and over that the National Hockey League's three-game first-round series, anything could happen.

The truth in such warnings are evident today when Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Los Angeles Kings look on from the sidelines while New York Islanders, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs prepare for Sunday's quarter-finals.

The talent-laden Bruins ran into but goaltending by Chicago's Tony Esposito Friday night and the Hawks upset Boston 4-1 to win that series 2-1.

The Rangers, who were in the playoffs for the 19th time since last winning the Stanley Cup in 1940, dropped a 4-3 overtime decision to the Islanders who are in the playoffs for the first time since joining the league three years ago.

And the Kings, who finished the season with 105 points to Toronto's 78, were upset 2-1 by a scrappy Leafs squad in the decisiding game at Los Angeles.

The best-of-seven quarter-final series, in which much upset are less likely, open Sunday. The lineup has Toronto going against the Flyers at Philadelphia, Chicago against the Sabres at Buffalo, Vancouver Canucks taking on the Canadiens at Montreal and the Islanders meeting the Penguins in Pittsburgh.

Philadelphia, Montreal, Buffalo and Vancouver had earned first-round byes by winning their divisions, while Pittsburgh advanced in a two-game first-round sweep over St. Louis Blues.

The Bruins had been heavily favored to advance past Chicago, especially after winning the opening game 9-2 on Tuesday. But the Hawks fought back for an overtime victory on Thursday and then Esposito, humiliated in the opening-game loss, dealt the final blow against the Bruins at Boston.

Esposito, chided by his brother Phil who scored three goals for the Bruins in the opener and then said his goalie nourished, stopped 52 shots in the Hawks nets Friday night.

"You came to expect it of Tony," Hawks coach Billy Reay said.

"All the marbles were on the line," said Tony Esposito.

"In about an hour, I'll feel tired but I'm not going to worry tonight. Tomorrow we'll start all over again."

When the Boston game ended the quarter-final lineups were still undecided but Reay knew he would be going against either Philadelphia or Buffalo.

"Either way've got to play a club that had 113 points in the regular season," Reay said. "It's like going from the frying pan into the fire."

Cliff Koroll and J. P. Bordeleau led the Hawks attack with two goals each while Boston's Phil Esposito scored his fourth goal of the series against brother Tony.

At New York, Denis Potvin scored twice to lead the Islanders to a 3-0 lead after two periods but the Rangers rallied in the third period with two goals by Bill Fairbairn and one by Steve Vickers, forcing the overtime.

Jean-Paul Parise and Jude Drouin, mid-season acquisitions from Minnesota North Stars, combined for the Islanders' winning goal in the first minute of overtime. Drouin dug the puck out of the corner and passed across the ice to Parise who jammed it behind goalie Ed Giacomin.

At Los Angeles, George Ferguson put the Leafs ahead in the first period and Inge Hammarstrom gave Toronto a 2-0 lead going into the third period.

Don Kozak scored for the Kings with six minutes left in the game but the Leafs held on for the upset win against a club they had not been able to beat all season until the second game of the playoff Thursday at Toronto when they won in overtime.

Early in the third period, Leafs' winner Dave Williams tipped into Kitos goalie Rogie Vachon, touching off a brawl with Gene Carr of the Kings.

After Williams was sent to the penalty box and Carr thrown out of the game for pushing one of the officials, Dave Hutchison of the Kings skated to the penalty box and attacked Williams with his stick. Williams and Hutchison were also thrown out of the game.

During the Williams-Hutchison fight, when Williams also used his stick, one fan climbed into the penalty box to attack Williams and a number of minor skirmishes broke out among other players.

Whalers Nip Saints 3-2

Two New WHA Penalty Marks Set

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An element of violence has entered the World Hockey Association playoff picture and the action hasn't been restricted to the ice.

New England Whalers beat Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-2 in a brawl-filled game, Friday's only playoff contest.

The Saints stayed without Gord Gallant, who was kicked off the team after a fight early Friday with coach Harry Neale over a missed curfew.

The Whalers' victory, on Rick Ley's overtime goal, evened the best of seven quarter finals against Minnesota at one victory each. The third game is scheduled for Minnesota on Sunday afternoon.

In playoff action tonight, Quebec Nordiques take a 2-0 lead against the Houston Aeros at Phoenix; Houston Aeros, leading 1-0, go against Cleveland Crusaders in Houston, and San Diego Mariners, also leading their series 1-0, take on Toronto at home.

At Hartford, Conn., where Minnesota had beaten the Whalers in the first game Wednesday, the game was delayed 32 minutes in the second period when a major brawl resulted in 189 penalty minutes in the period.

That beat the league playoff record of 92 penalty minutes in one period of a game between Minnesota and Houston last year.

Friday's game had a total of 39 penalties for 217 minutes. The total penalties beat the old record of 29 set in 1973 in a Philadelphia - Cleveland game when the Neale said: "I turned away from him and started to walk back to a chair to sit down and he hit me."

Gord Gallant Doesn't Live Up to Name

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Popular Gord Gallant was kicked off Minnesota Fighting Saints after belting coach Harry Neale in a dispute over a missed curfew, team officials said Friday.

"There is just no way any player can act like Gallant did and have the respect of management, his coach or his teammates," said Wayne Belisle, president of the World Hockey Association club.

"After discussing the facts of the matter with all the involved parties, and as popular as Gord has become with our fans, I have no other choice other than to say that Gallant will never wear the uniform of the Minnesota Fighting Saints again," Belisle added.

Belisle's announcement came at news conference, several hours after the early morning attack.

Neale required 10 stitches over his upper lip and suffered a black eye, a bruised cheek and nose ligament damage.

Gallant, one of two players not in his hotel room when Neale did a midnight bed check, came to the coach's room shortly after one o'clock. When he arrived, Neale said: "I turned away from him and started to walk back to a chair to sit down and he hit me."

Assistant coach Jack McCartan wrestled Gallant to submission. McCartan suffered a swollen lip and facial bruises.

Gallant, a native of Shediac, N.B., who admitted missing curfew and hitting the coach, boarded an afternoon flight back to Minneapolis, team officials said.

Birt's Gets Home Ice Advantage in Final Series

Looking for Unprecedented Three Straight

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Gary Birt, sponsor-manager of Birt's Handy Stand Juveniles, has had his share of luck when it comes to being associated with Championship hockey teams. His club has won the Ontario Minor Hockey Association AA title the past two years.

But when it comes to calling the flip of a coin to decide who gets the odd game in a playoff series, Birt's luck has been all bad.

At least that was the case until it came to the final series this year.

ROGER DRAKE

He finally won a flip.

As a result, Birt's skaters will play the next three games in the eightpoint series with Oakridge Village, on home ice. And should the showdown go the full seven games, four of the five contests will be played here.

The teams split 6-4 win when the series opened with Birt's on the road last weekend.

And now, the Trenton team would appear to be in the driver's seat in its quest to become the first squad to post three consecutive wins in OMHA Juvenile AA title sets.

First-year coach Roger Drake, while agreeing that home ice should work to his club's advantage in games three, Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday, refuses to predict a three-game sweep and rapid elimination of the Oakridge team.

"I know we're capable of taking the next three, especially with the great support we get from Trenton fans, but there's no way Oakridge can be counted out, they'd make us work," observed Drake.

He's no stranger to these OMHA provincial final series. When Birt's went all the way in 1973 and again in 1974, Roger was the assistant to head coach Charlie Drake.

When his father moved to Ontario Hockey Association Junior C competition as coach of the Frankford Huskies this season, Roger was a natural choice to take charge of the Trenton Juveniles.

If Roger felt any pressure when he stepped in to replace his father, and later, when the team began its march through OMHA play off series, and the possibility of an unprecedented three straight championships became imminent, he won't admit it.

He does not suggest his stint at the help has been an exercise in smooth sailing — far from it.

In the beginning, he was concerned about his ability to communicate with the players, many of whom were new to him and the club. But it soon became obvious this would not be a problem.

"If I had any serious problems early in the season, it was making believers out of some of the players. They had to understand that they could do the job and they've all got the message," he explained.

It's been a rebuilding year for Birt's.

But Drake, who stresses fundamentals and conditioning in his approach to the game, has managed to mould the squad into a strong contender.

He shrugs off any credit "The players make the coach. If you've got the horses you're all set," he'll tell you.

We've had solid goaltending from Cord Beall and Gary Crandell (both back from last year) and our powerplay has been another strong point."

Other returnees are defencemen Walter Monsuba, Brad Read and Harold Roberts, and forwards Bob Cameron, Scott Poole, Rick Matheson and Harry Ayres.

Newcomers are Bruce Leedham, Bob Thompson, Dave Lewis, Randy Barre, Larry Doucette, Jeff Peckitt, Dave Stevenson, Chuck Dash, Phil Gravelle, Mitch Auger and Brian MacKintosh.

No matter what the immediate future holds for Drake and his charges, his first season as coach will probably be his last, at least for the next few years. He's got other interests. Of prime importance, is the progress of Drakes just beginning in hockey. And plans to have the time to spend with the family.

Game times at the Community Gardens this weekend are, 7 p.m., Saturday, and 3 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday, Oakridge and Birt's hook up at 7 p.m.

Wellington Needs One More Point to Win OMHA Title

WELLINGTON (Special) — The Wellington Coach Lines peewees had their drive to an Ontario Minor Hockey Association D championship stalled, here, Friday night when Cayuga held the home-towners to a 3-3 tie. The local peewees now lead the six-point series 5-1.

Cayuga scored a goal in the third period to tie the score at 3-2. The two clubs then went into a 10-minute stoppage, overtime frame. In it, they traded goals.

Cayuga opened the scoring on Martin McSorley's goal, but by the end of the first 20 minutes Wellington was in front 2-1 on markers from Glenn McQuaid and Joe Kurar.

Both clubs went scoreless in the second period and Greg Baird tallied the tying goal in the third.

In overtime, Mark Nelson put Wellington in front 3-2, but Baird's second of the night evened things back up.

The fourth game in the final series is scheduled for Sunday, at 7 p.m. in Cayuga.

Gas House Champs

Stanley Wins Goegan Trophy

Stanley Structures capped off a near perfect season Friday night at the Memorial Arena when Mike Goegan accepted the Fiori Goegan Memorial Trophy for the league championship.

"When Fiori led all the guys on the team felt it was vital that we win the championship," said Vern Whalen, Stanley Structures' coach, "we had to win it for him."

Fiori, a member of the Stanley team, suffered a fatal heart attack following a league game in late February.

Stanley won the game 9-4 to take the series from 4-1. Their loss in the championship round was only their second of the year. Earlier in the season they dropped a decision to the Generals. The Structures earned the league's pennant honors as well. They finished the regular season with a 25-1 record. In all this year, they won 22 games and lost only two.

Wayne Storms potted a hat trick and collected an assist to top the Stanley attack. Other goals were scored by Bob Mulvihill, Mike Goegan, Russ Harrington, Ron Garvin, Frank Wiles and Bob Wludyka. Bob Harrington drew three assists.

Steve Truelove tallied twice for the Generals and Hyalie Bryant and Gil Van Soelen added one each.

The Gas House Awards and Banquet Night takes place Saturday at 7 p.m. at Odd fellows Hall on Bay Drive.

Burris Matures

Cubs Nip Expos

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray Burris of Chicago Cubs, emerging from reliever status, says he's "a new pitcher with a new game plan."

"I'm a pitcher now after just throwing hard stuff for two years," Burris said following a fine six-hitter Friday as the Cubs beat Montreal Expos 3-1 on a unique sacrifice fly play in the eighth inning.

The winning Chicago score came when speedy Rick Monday scored from second base on Pete LaCock's deep liner to right field which Montreal's Gary Carter stabbed but then fell down.

Burris, who had a 3-5 record last year mainly in relief, held the Expos hitless after the fifth inning to post the first Cub victory of the season.

"I have a new game plan now—keep throwing strikes and staying ahead of the batter," Burris, who spent the middle of last season with Wichita Aeros of the American Association.

"The turning point for me came when I was sent down to Wichita and I realized that I couldn't go with a fast ball only," said the 26-year-old right-hander. "I am a thinking pitcher now, knowing when to change speeds and what I'm going to throw to each hitter."

But it took an unnamed run to give Burris the decision over Montreal's Dennis Blair, who last season held the Cubs scoreless over 18 innings.

That came in the eighth after Monday hit a one-out single and reached second as Montreal second baseman Larry Lintz dropped a potential double play toss from third baseman Larry Parrish on Jerry Morales' bounder.

Next up, LaCock hit a long liner to right field that Carter grabbed going backwards and then stumbled for the out.

Before Carter scrambled to his feet, and the ball was replayed to the plate, Monday streaked across with the winning run.

Carter said: "It was just one of those things. But I'm sure it's not the first time a runner has scored from second on a tagup. The ball kept sailing and my backward momentum caused me to fall down."

Ninth Inning Singles Win Game

Pirates Punch Hurlers Silly

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates batters were coming up a little short Friday. They scrabbled out 12 hits—all singles—but if they didn't belt New York Mets into submission, at least they pawed them to death.

"We'll get our share of home runs here," said Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh after the Pirates scored a 4-3 victory over the Mets. "Give it some time."

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago edge Montreal Expos 3-1, Atlanta Braves beat San Francisco Giants 4-2, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-3, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Houston Astros 7-0 and San Diego Padres beat Cincinnati Reds 5-2.

The Pirates shortened the fences at Three Rivers Stadium during the offseason, but the only beneficiaries on Friday were the Mets, who carried a 3-0 lead into the ninth inning on solo homers by Dave Kingman and Del Unser and a run-scoring double by Joe Torre.

Pittsburgh, in its home opener, was held to seven singles by Jerry Koosman until the ninth. Consecutive singles by Richie Zisk, Dave Parker and Manny Sanguillen brought a one run and chased Koosman.

Rookie reliever Rick Baldwin, making his first major-league appearance, then walked pinch-hitter Paul Popovich to load the bases. One out later, Rennie Stennett singled to tie the score. Mac Scarce replaced Baldwin and Richie Hebner knocked out a hit to win the game.

Chicago, Pete Lacock's long fly ball was supposed to move the runner up a base. It got the job done and more for the Cubs.

Rick Monday singled in the eighth and was safe at second on an infield error. Lacock followed with a deep drive to right field, long enough for Monday to take third. But when Montreal's Gary Carter fell down after making the grab, Monday steamed home for the winning run against the Expos.

"Carter made one hell of a catch," said Chicago manager Jim Marshall. "It was one of those rare times a guy made a great catch and lost the game."

Don Sutton checked Houston on four hits and Los Angeles beat the Astros for the Dodgers' first victory of the season.

Bill Buckner backed Sutton's pitching, contributing a solo homer in the third inning off losing pitcher Tom Griffin and a run-scoring double in the fifth. Jim Wynn doubled in runs in the fifth and ninth.

Bake McBride rapped four hits and batted in four runs, three of them with an inside-the-park home run, leading St. Louis past Philadelphia.

Greg Luzinski hit two solo home runs for the Phillies.

Ron Hernandez and Dave Winfield each knocked in two runs to help San Diego and pitcher Dan Spillner beat Cincinnati and send the Reds to their first loss in four games.

Darrell Evans' two-run homer in the eighth carried Atlanta over San Francisco.

Tigers Eat Yankee's Catfish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Catfish Hunter faltered in his debut as a New York Yankee, but another star, Hank Aaron, shone brightly in his return to Milwaukee.

Hunter, once baseball's most celebrated free agent, took the mound for the first time in a Yankee uniform in New York's home opener Friday, but got cuffed for home runs by Detroit's Willie Horton and Nate Colbert and the Tigers spoiled his parade, 5-3.

Meanwhile, Aaron returned to Milwaukee, where he started 11 years ago, and his home runs ago, and contributed a hit and a run batted in to the Brewers' 6-2 triumph over Cleveland Indians.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston Red Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 6-5 in 13 innings, Kansas City Royals beat Minnesota Twins 8-3, Oakland A's defeated Texas Rangers 7-5 and California Angels blanked Chicago White Sox 5-0.

Hunter found the spotlight a bit too bright. But it has followed him since he signed his reported $3.75-million contract on New Year's Eve.

Despite pitching in seven World Series games for Oakland and four all-star contests, the jitters of the debut got to Hunter. "I was a little nervous out there," he conceded. "I was pressing a bit too much."

It didn't take long for the Tigers to jump on the jittery Hunter. The third man up in the first inning was Horton, who cracked a two-run homer to left. Then, after the Yankees had scored three runs in the bottom of the first, Colbert came up in the sixth inning and blasted a three-run shot to left for the victory.

Mickey Lolich got the victory for the Tigers, with some spectacular relief from John Hiller, who bailed Lolich out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the seventh and then finished up.

A crowd of 48,160 came out for Aaron's return to Milwaukee, and greeted the home run king with prolonged standing ovations during pre-game ceremonies.

Aaron drove in the Brewers' initial run in the third inning by bouncing into a force play, then cracked a single in the midst of a five-run Brewer rally in the sixth. Pedro Garcia slammed a two-run double and John Briggs a solo homer in that outburst.

Carl Yastrzemski's 13th-inning homer was Boston's game-winner, but Tony Conigliaro's sixth-inning blast was the one which drew the most attention in the Boston clubhouse.

"You go too long without hitting a home run, you start thinking about it," said Tony C, who is returning to baseball after an enforced 3½-year absence due to recurring vision problems. "Then you really go into a slump. So I was happy to get it today."

Nolan Ryan blanked Chicago on six singles and California ruined Claude Osteen's return to the American League by defeating the White Sox.

Ryan, who has permitted only nice hits in winning his first two starts of the season, struck out 10 and walked four as he handed the White Sox their second shutout in as many days.

Reds, Robins Still Kickin'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds and Richmond Robins fought off elimination and Nova Scotia Voyageurs moved closer to it in American Hockey League quarter-final action Friday night.

The Reds, down 3-1 in their best-of-seven series with Springfield, beat the Indians 4-3 in overtime, while the Robins, also down 3-1 going into the game, edged Hershey Bears 5-4 in overtime.

The Voyageurs ran into the hot goaltending of Dave Reece as Rochester Americans beat them 2-1 at Halifax. The victory gives the Americans a 3-1 lead in the series with the next game scheduled Sunday in Rochester.

The Providence-Springfield and Richmond-Hershey series continue tonight, as does the New Haven Nighthawks-Virginia Red Wings match-up which New Haven leads 3-1.

Left winger Doug Horbul scored at 12:28 of sudden-death overtime to give Providence its win over Springfield.

The Reds took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Gerry Teeple and Pierre Lagassiere, but Jimmy Peters scored for Springfield to narrow the Providence lead.

Joe Zanussi put the Reds ahead 3-1 late in the second period, but Tim Jacobs and Ken Murray scored to put the game into overtime.

Jean Payette scored at 1:05 of overtime to give Richmond its win over Hershey.

John Paddock added two goals for Richmond and Joe Lundrigan scored the tying goal for Hershey to send the game into overtime.

Even though the Americans were outshot by a margin of 35-19, it was the superb performance by Reece in the Rochester net which saved the game for the Americans.

Al Simmons of Rochester and Nova Scotia's Greg Hubick exchanged second-period goals before Gord Clark picked up the winner for the Americans in the third period.

Port Colborne Takes Lead

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Port Colborne, Ont., Sailors have taken a 1-0 lead in their Eastern Canada final series with Moncton Bears on the path to the Hardy Cup, emblematic supremacy in Canadian Intermediate A hockey.

The Sailors took the lead by a 5-1 win over the Bears Friday night as a result of brilliant goaltending by Rob Stewart.

Bruce Watters, Steve Latinovitch and Dwaine Rudley connected for the winners while Bill Leuthery tallied the sole marker for the Bears.

The second game in the three-game series will be in Moncton tonight with the third game, if necessary, Sunday.

The Sailors outshot the Bears 42-25 to record the win.

Nicklaus Headed For Fifth Masters Title

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus has a five-stroke lead in the Masters golf tournament but he hasn't scared off all his competitors yet.

"I'm gonna stay," vowed Lee Trevino.

"It's not over yet," said defending champion Gary Player.

The Masters braced for another runaway, reminiscent of Nicklaus' nine-stroke romp with a record 271 in 1965, but Nicklaus wasn't gloating.

"It is hard to hold a lead on this course," he said after shooting a second-round 67 for a 6-hole total of 135.

"I have been to Augusta many times. I have seen many things happen.

"I have had five shots in the lead before and lost them. It is hard to hold a lead on this course, especially on the back nine where there is so much water."

Arnold Palmer, who like Nicklaus has won four Masters, is at 140, along with Billy Casper and Tom Watson.

Another stroke back at 141 are Trevino, Tom Weiskopf, Bobby Nichols, Homero Blancas, J. C. Snead and Pat Fitzsimons.

South Africa's Player can be counted out of it, 11 shots back at 146 after a distressing 74. So can Johnny Miller, the 1974 Golfer of the Year and winter tour sensation, who rallied slightly but found himself also at 146.

The tournament also said good-bye to Lee Elder, whose bid as the Masters' first black came apart with a scrambling 78 for 152 which failed to make the cut.

"Well, you got rid of me," Elder said in good spirit. "I did myself in. Today I was all over the place. I really did the beautification bit, I saw all the flowers and trees."

Nicklaus refused Friday to concede he is at the peak of his game. "I am playing as well as ever in my life but there have been times when I had more brilliant streaks," he added.

Drilling his shots at the flag on the rain-drenched course, Jack putted for birdies on virtually every hole, lipping the cup several times, and waited until the 18th to get his first bogey of the tournament.

There he sent his approach wide of the green and missed his putt after chipping to within seven feet.

Palmer led the tournament briefly when he went to five-under-par at the seventh hole but he fell victim to the treacherous Amen Corner—11th through the 14th—bogeying two and knocking his approach in the ditch at the long 12th.

Sam Snead, the 62-year-old three-time winner, withdrew after nine holes because of a back ailment.

L.A.'s Pulford NHL Coach of the Year

ATLANTA (CP) — Bob Pulford, who led Los Angeles Kings to their most successful season since the team joined the National Hockey League in 1967, has been named coach of the year for the 1974-75 season.

Pulford, 38, who played 16 seasons in the NHL—14 with Toronto Maple Leafs and two with the Kings—before moving to the coaching ranks, was chosen in a vote of members of the NHL Broadcasters' Association.

He will be presented with the Jack Adams Memorial Trophy, named for the late Detroit Red Wings coach, at the annual league awards luncheon in Montreal in June.

Runner-up in the voting was Al Arbour who coached New York Islanders into the playoffs for the first time.

Third was Floyd Smith whose Buffalo Sabres finished first in the Adams Division and fourth was Marc Boileau who guided Pittsburgh Penguins to a third-place finish in the Norris Division.

ABA Playoffs Like Eggs At Breakfast — Scrambled

The unexpected has become commonplace in the American Basketball Association playoffs. Friday night, teams favored to win all lost and, as a result, the ABA playoffs are more scrambled today.

In St. Louis, rookie sensation Marvin Barnes outdueled Julius Erving during a hectic final three minutes and led the Spirits of St. Louis to a 113-106 victory over New York Nets.

The triumph by the young Spirits, their second in succession over the defending ABA champions, provided them with a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series. The fourth game will be played in St. Louis on Sunday.

In Memphis, Steve Johnson scored 25 points and had 11 rebounds to lead the Sounds to a 107-93 playoff victory over Kentucky Colonels. It was the first playoff victory for Memphis in its five-year history and set the best-of-seven series against Kentucky at 3-1 with a fifth game to be played Sunday in Louisville.

In Salt Lake City, captain Ron Boone led a first-half surge that carried Utah Stars to a 125-110 rout of Denver Nuggets. Western Division playoff series now is tied 2-2 and moves to Denver for the fifth game tonight.

In the other ABA playoff, Indiana Pacers, leading 3-0, have a chance to wrap up their series against San Antonio Spurs in Indianapolis tonight.

There were no games Friday in the National Association playoffs.

Seattle SuperSonics, hoping to rebound from Thursday night's 122-106 loss to Detroit, play host to the Pistons tonight in the decisive game of their NBA series. The winners will meet Golden State in the Western Conference semi-finals starting Monday night.

Washington visits Buffalo in the second game of their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final series tonight and, in afternoon playoff action, New York met Houston. The Knicks and Rockets have split the first two games of the best-of-three series and today's winner advances to the Eastern Conference semi-finals against Boston.

Riders Sign Linemen

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders announced today they have signed two linemen.

Carl Devoree of Oklahoma State University and Stephen Neese of Notre Dame.

Devoree, 22, is a six-foot, one-inch, 255-pound defensive tackle who was selected outstanding defensive lineman at Oklahoma State last year.

Neese, 22, is highly-rated by Ottawa coach George Brancato who says he has an excellent chance of making his Eastern Conference team in the Canadian Football League.

He is a six-foot, three-inch, 260-pound offensive tackle.

BIRTHS

JACOBS — Bill and Jeannie are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter Alison Jane, 3230 grams, born April 3, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. A sister for Jeff. Special thanks to Dr. Fry, Dr. Bolles and the maternity staff.

IN MEMORIAM

BOYAY, Kevin — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Kevin, who passed away 2 years ago today.
The three years we shared to gether
Those memories we hold dear.
The laughter and happiness you gave us, Kevin,
Will always keep you near.
—Lovingly remembered by Daddy, Mommy, Rodney and Leanne.

BAVERSTOCK, Robert — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away April 12th, 1971.
No money in our purse to share,
No flowers to our beloved pa are always there.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Alice and son-in-law Eddie.

BAVERSTOCK — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Robert who passed away April 12, 1971.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are those who knew him best.
The chair is vacant from his place
Neither said or seen,
But there in our hearts he will always be
Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Alice and son-in-law Eddie.

BOYAY — In ever loving memory of a dear grandson Kevin who passed away two years ago, April 12, 1973.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Unseen by others, flows for you —Always remembered by Grandma Denyes.

ANNIVERSARY

NO DOWNPAYMENT AND THEN SOME
Now you can, if you qualify, purchase a new home with absolutely no down payment. The latest government grant, can make it possible to own a condominium and end up with a $900.00 bonus. If you buy as individual house in Chatterton Valley you could get in with no money down, if you qualify. If you are a first time home buyer you just can't miss this opportunity. It would be like throwing away $2,000.00.
CHOICE OF TEN
We are now proceeding with ten new houses on East Bridge Street. Each one is a different model. We have some with family rooms, some with garages. Could be ready by July. Still time to select colors

ANTIQUE AUCTION
SPECIAL MERCHANDISE
Due to the security of good quality furniture, we have decided to offer our furniture, dishes, tools and out of the ordinary items for sale. Our prices are lower than ever before to get these items sold.
With the above in mind and because of the high cost of transportation and continuing high prices for these items we have decided to conduct an auction sale selling these type of items on April 30/75 at 10 A.M.
If you have items to be sold, antiques, collectables or just old fashioned items that you would like sold to get the most money for them contact us at the above address.
The place to sell is Brock's Auction Hall, Corner of Victoria and Bridge Streets, Belleville.
A convenience in advertising on radio and in newspapers and a personal contact with prospective buyers is important to you. Our prices are very reasonable.
Some examples of things to do: Have your household effects ready for this sale are bottles, sets of chairs, tables, dressers, beds, mirrors, china cabinets, glassware, dishes, antique items, oil lamps etc. If you have items to be sold, call us. Don't take too price you can manage, your price is our price. We will be pleased to work for you.
All items must be in before Monday, April 21st. Call us for free advertising purposes on 962-1271 or 968-6767.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

UFOs Gain Respectability

UFOs and the FBI
Copyright 1974, Toronto Sun Syndicate.

Well, it's official. UFO's exist.

At least, it's as official as the publication of a sentiment UFO report in the FBI bulletin, Law Enforcement, can make it. And for many people that will be pretty official, or as good as official.

The article in the February, 1974, issue of the bulletin, entitled The UFO Mystery, by Dr. J. Allen Hynek, is a sober, objective description of the evidence for UFOs. It includes the urgent recommendation that any UFO reports coming to the FBI's attention be directed to Hynek's organization for further study.

The organization called the Center for UFO Studies (Northfield, Illinois, is run by Dr. Hynek, the world's foremost scientific ufologist, with assistance from consulting experts at such universities as Stanford, University of Chicago, Texas, Wisconsin, Utah, Johns Hopkins and Northwestern.

The latter school, Northwestern University, in Evanston, Illinois, is where Hynek serves as chairman of the astronomy department. For some 20 years he was the scientific consultant on UFOs for the U.S. Air Force when it ran what was called Project Blue Book to gather and assess such sightings and reports.

It was his experience with the air force, says Hynek, which eventually led him to stop regarding UFOs as fantasy and instead describe them as "the greatest challenge facing science today."

In the article for the FBI bulletin, Hynek describes case after case in which police have sighted and even pursued

On October 16, 1973, the crew of a Delaware State Police helicopter chased a UFO 14 miles before losing sight of it. At the same time, the mystery object was being monitored on radar by flight controllers at Dover Air Force Base nearby.

Several days later in Adams County, Ohio, two police officers reported a "huge" UFO hovering some 200 feet above the swaying ground, in a familiar "falling leaf" motion.

On October 19, 1973, a Tulsa, Oklahoma police sergeant confirmed another officer's report of a hovering multi-colored object bigger than a Jumbo Jetliner.

On November 12, 1973, two Los Angeles policemen reported watching for more than a minute the manoeuvre of a large, round black object which suddenly "raced away and disappeared at dazzling speed."

Were all these police officers hallucinating?

Of course not, says Dr. Hynek. Add their accounts to the hundreds — yes, hundreds — more pouring in from military personnel, commercial pilots and similar responsible witnesses and he says, they add up to an epidemic of "incredible things being seen by credifable people."

Are UFO craft from outer space?

Dr. Hynek doesn't say that. Nor, for that matter, does he deny it. He says it's too early to speculate on what UFOs ultimately may prove to be. They may represent a more profound mystery than our human minds can even conceive, much less clearly pose. In the meantime, maintains Hynek, they are undeniably fact, not fiction.

Something real is going on," he says. "Science and law enforcement are facing a mutual problem as they have many times before."

The problem: Explaining the unexplained.

Hynek suggests that in the event of a UFO report, the FBI or any other law enforcement agency should contact his Centre for UFO Studies at the toll-free telephone number provided for this purpose. (The number is not made public because the UFO hot-line is reserved for police and other official agencies.)

If the report is substantial enough, an experienced UFO investigator will be despatched to investigate.

Meanwhile, says Hynek, the police should keep (at a ... off the UFO landing site (if a landing was reported, and they often are) to avoid the obliteration of possibly important scientific evidence.

In most cases, Hynek points out, nobody or no thing is injured or damaged by the UFO. However, he cautions that there are instances — more than the public may realize — in which persons near the UFO "can be temporarily paralyzed or blinded and skin burns can occur; also plants, trees and crops can be damaged, and so forth."

There are now, according to this leading authority, "hundreds" of mysterious "burnt ring" cases. In these instances, which come from all over the United States and Canada and the world, huge burned or blasted circular areas appear, sometimes as much as 40 feet in diameter, where something appears to have scorched or desiccated the vegetation and soil.

"It's a sort of death ray effect," Hynek said.

Often these burnt rings are associated with eyewitness reports of a UFO hovering or landing on the spot.

The UFO phenomenon is growing, concludes Dr. Hynek in his article for the FBI and science needs the informed cooperation of law enforcement agencies in coming to grips with "this most perplexing modern mystery."

Will it be solved soon?

Or ever?

Show Biz Shorts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oscar-winning producer Burt Schneider, who raised a mild stir at this year's Academy Awards show when he read a telegram from the Viet Cong, has been fined $300 after pleading guilty to a charge of trespassing.

Schneider pleaded guilty Wednesday to the charge as an alternative to a marijuana possession count filed against him after his arrest last Jan. 8.

Authorities said Schneider was arrested with six other adults and 26 juveniles during a party at his bel-Air home.

Schneider was an oscar on Tuesday when his film Hearts and Minds was chosen the best documentary film of 1974.

BOSTON (AP) — Actor Yul Brynner bounced his newly adopted Vietnamese daughter on his knee and said: "We are extraordinarily lucky."

The six-month-old infant, named Melody, arrived in Boston on Wednesday after surviving the crash of a C-5A Galaxy transport plane near Saigon last week.

"She came out without a scratch or a bruise," he said. "That has to be some kind of miracle."

Wife Brynner held Melody, his other adopted Vietnamese daughter, 1½-year-old Mia, sat on his lap and smiled.

Brynner is in Boston starring in the musical Odyssey which is on a pre-Broadway tour.

PARIS (AP) — Josephine Baker, 68, the St. Louis-born singer who became the toast of French showbusiness, was admitted to hospital here Thursday and had to cancel a music hall show built around her.

The nature of her illness was not disclosed and whether she would resume performing was not known.

She opened to a gala audience two nights ago in a show honoring her 50th year in show business.

British Rock Spawns Art Form

LONDON (CP) — Britain, the country that spawned the Beatles and gave birth to a new teen-age culture, has been gripped by yet another revolution at the root of pop music.

On the cultural level, rock — as opposed to hit-parade pop—has mushroomed into an art form.

So much has been happening that British record buyers and concert-goers have been faced with almost too much choice. But the decisive factor has certainly been the fragmentation of pop into different sections.

Ray Coleman, editor of Melody Maker magazine, lists the choices as pop and rock, glitter and freak, underground and progressive, as well as the more established popular music categories of country and western, soul, or reggae.

When all the intellectual discussion of categories subsides, which is not often in popular music circles in London, one has to consider the people who make the music. Although his initial impact has lessened, David Bowie remains the giant.

Falling somewhere between the glitter stars and the freaks, Bowie has conducted a brilliant publicity campaign and has emerged as an astute businessman as well as pop star. Bowie is admired and mired by mucians as well as the fans.

In North America as well as in Britain, Bowie "freaks," as his audience is described, dress in the most bizarre fashion. A freakish appearance is part of pop gimmickry. Men and boys are wearing lipstick and dressing with feathers and leotards as did Bowie.

But just as his audience catches up with his latest look, Bowie is off in another direction. Soul music, with black musicians to back him, is his latest fad.

Bowie has a long history of theatrics from his days as a boy in repertory, so the trend to theatrics in rock-roll is playing right into his hands. And he has made it clear that he is running a long-distance race.

Chasing David hard for visual honors is Gary Glitter. The cynics mock his strong weight and his age (he is 32) but he keeps his fans among the teen-agers with a mixture of pure cunning and sex appeal allied to some catchy songs.

The theatre has not been confined to the stars of the hit parade like Glitter, Bowie, Elton John and Alvin Stardust. In the field of heavy rock, which brought the first revolution after the Beatles, things have been veering towards entertainment after a rather dense period, during which musicians drifting on stage in denims were criticised as not caring about entertainment.

A classic case of rock theatre is Jethro Tull, a group which has also been in the vanguard of that other trend, the concept album. Tull works like Passion Play and Warchild, albums Tull led by the extrovert Ian Anderson on flute, has perhaps pushed rock to its limits in the field of showmanship.

And fans stayed loyal to Anderson, whose stand-on-one-leg-and-play-flute antics at first seemed too absurd for the music to be taken seriously.

While all the acrobatics on stage are manifestations of the stars' ego, their managers are keeping a wary eye on record sales. Nowadays a concert tour is conceived as much to generate album sales as to make money in itself.

Bands like Jethro Tull, Emerson Lake and Palmer, Genesis and Yes would gain more momentum from promoting their new records than all the one-night-stands they could cram into a diary.

As soon as they have made a small impact in Britain most rock bands appear to cast hungry eyes towards the affluent, rock-populated United States where the youth culture is even stronger and less fragmented than in Britain, and where one can be a massive hit in New York and yet a flop in Los Angeles.

So enormously successful have some British bands been in North America—Emerson Lake and Palmer and Mott the Hoople particularly—that there have been rumors that they play leave Britain and settle there.

While rock needs to be ever on the move, there has been a strong accent on nostalgia in recent months. First Teed by singers like Alvin Stardust (formerly Shane Fenton) and Gary Glitter (formerly Paul Raven) and now Elton John early after years in the musical doldrums, the nostalgia been has also been growing through the enthusiasm of most contemporary stars like Elton John.

Elton has made no secret of his love for the old days, while his friend for many years, Rod Stewart, has bared his soul with emphasis on radio, television and in the press on how his youthful days in emergent little bands were of crucial importance to his current success.

"It's just like it was in the old days," Elton says, "Now it's such a big business, whereas when I first and I were coming up we were more

Sunday and Monday Horoscopes

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Sunday, April 13

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're the one who makes out the family budget this week, chances are there'll be a little surplus after bills are paid.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're up to handling matters that call for firmness and persistence. What you start, you'll likely to see through.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be hesitant today about calling in nearly-forgotten IOU's. Your odds of collecting are better than even.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A good day to appraise the project you've been thinking of undertaking. Today you'll reflect upon it in a practical manner.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Goals are not likely to elude you today. You have some ace in the hole. You know how to play them.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Today you'll be able to put in some good words for a friend of long standing. She'll learn of this later and be grateful.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Talk over financial matters jointly affecting you and your mate. If your goals are in accord, success is within reach.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) A decision you'll have to make may at first appear stern to the casual observer. Events will prove that to be necessary, just and fair.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) You'll go out of your way to be of service to one who is older. Your kind deed will be remembered and later rewarded.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) You have as ally who is always there when needed. Again today, she'll do her best to make things pleasant for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) You'll be in the mood to clean up those bothersome little chores you haven't had a chance to get to this week. Get at them!

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Today, seek out persons with whom you have ideas in common. Something gold will come from your conversations.

* * *

Monday, April 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't rely on flattery to gain your ends today. If your compliments are insincere, they'll be detected by the recipient.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A limit on what you plan to spend at this time for items or activities outside of your normal needs, or you'll get carried away.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20 You have a tendency today to dissipate your energies on goals of small importance. Sight on worthwhile targets only.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A problem can be avoided with one you're fond of by not expecting the other party to jump every time you snap your fingers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's not the time to rehash something a friend did in the past to perturb you. Let bygones be bygones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The co-operation you need from others will be denied you. Through other circumstances, what you hope to accomplish will be gained.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll have more success with plans today if you deal with the top man instead of going through subordinates.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't try to dominate the social scene today. Allow others in your company an opportunity to occupy the spotlight, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) In order to keep peace on the home front a compromise will be called for. Centerground will be the safest spot.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A task that you can normally handle with ease will develop some unexpected problems today. Be careful and patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're sharing something pleasurable with friends today be sensible about dividing the costs. Let each pay his portion.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be overly anxious about the outcome of an important event and do something impulsive. It will be okay if allowed to run its course.

Ely Culbertson once said that any time he could see all the cards, the Culbertson system would get him to the right contract.

Five clubs would be the right contract for today's hand. South would make it easily by winning the first trick, drawing trumps and knocking out the ace of diamonds.

When this hand appeared in the finals of a regional open pairs to one reached that contract. Those few pairs that did get to game all stayed in three notrump and most of them wound up making their contract.

It didn't require any great skill on their part. West opened the king of hearts and continued with the queen after South ducked. Then he led a third heart to clear the suit. South ruffed the off six clubs, finally lead a diamond and he bone free since East held their ace.

The one South who went down for a nice fat goose egg on the score was the victim of really fine defence. West did spell the king of hearts, but shifted to a low heart at trick two.

This put East in the lead and East led the four of spades.

South ducked that to West's queen. A spade came back and East was careful to hold back his king so that all South could do was to run with his eight tricks and give up.

Finance Minister:

Unemployment Cost of Deflation

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner said Friday virtually the only quick way to reduce inflation to "an acceptable rate" would be to implement monetary policies that would create unemployment.

In a Commons reply to Lorne Nystrom (NDP Yorkton-Melville), Mr. Turner said this is why he told the economic conference it could be two, three or even four years before inflation is brought under control.

To shorten that period would require the co-operation of the United States and Europe, where depressed economies have reduced their purchase of Canadian products.

Any unilateral action to — inflation "back to an acceptable rate, whatever that may be" would have to be an unacceptable monetary policy "that would provoke massive unemployment in Canada."

Mr. Nystrom had asked what specific proposals the government had to get the economy rolling again and to provide more jobs.

The finance minister said his critics should not overlook economic stimulants that were in his last budget, Nov. 18, 1974.

Sinclair Stevens (PC—York Simcoe) said the Bank of Canada had recently increased the money supply at an annual rate of 33 per cent. How could the finance minister justify this?

Mr. Turner replied that the money supply expanded at a slower rate than the economy last year and that, Gerald Bouey, governor of the central bank, already had said he planned to make more money available.

Mr. Turner's proposals at the conference, which ended Thursday, included a call for restraint by both business and labor. Price increases would cover higher production costs only while labor contracts would result in increases in the cost of living.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday that no group will exercise restraint unless there is some form of guarantee other economic sectors will do likewise.

"The government is relying on the facts and the evidence of the potential danger facing this country if there isn't moderation," Mr. Turner replied.

Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands) asked what Mr. Turner would do "to rearrange his spending priorities to alleviate the critical housing situation." The Progressive Conservative housing critic said the housing shortage is a main inflationary force at a time when the residential housing industry is depressed.

Mr. Turner said the subject was one of the priorities emphasized by the provinces Thursday and "I took note of it."

Viet Orphans Toronto-bound

TORONTO (CP) — Fifty-seven Vietnamese orphans will arrive here by aircraft Sunday for adoption in Ontario.

Rene Brunelle, Ontario minister of community and social services, said Friday the children will be transferred directly from the plane to Surrey Place, a ministry residential facility.

None of the children will be placed with adoptive parents until they have been medically cleared, which should be within five to 10 days, the minister said.

Adoptive parents will be notified by their Children' Aid Society.

Truck Gutted in Multiple Mishap

Early-morning multiple mishap east of Napanee on Highway 401 saw this tractor-trailer gutted by fire today. Four trucks were involved in accident that caused thousands of dollars damage but saw no serious injuries.

Traffic flow on the expressway was impeded by the mishap, which occurred between Highway 41 and the Palace Road interchanges.

Phnom Penh Fall Is Near

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Rebel forces thrust into the western and northwestern outskirts of Phnom Penh today. They burned refugee camps, sending thousands of panic-stricken civilians pouring into the capital. Black clouds from the refugees' burning huts rose over the city.

The government clamped a 24-hour curfew on the shrinking Phnom Penh enclave in an attempt to keep order, but the fall of the city seemed imminent. Shops were shuttered in the centre of Phnom Penh, and the refugees clogged the streets, many crying for food. Military police used rifle butts in vain efforts to control mobs streaming into Phnom Penh from the outskirts.

An air force T-28 fighter-bomber, flown by a pilot that the government called a "criminal" trying to destroy the Cambodian people and armed forces, bombed the military command headquarters in the capital, killing seven persons, but no member of the general staff, the government radio said.

The rebel radio appealed to government troops to lay down their arms and join the insurgents, and there were reports that hundreds of rebel soldiers were infiltrating into Phnom Penh. Field reports said insurgent troops were on the road to the airport.

The airport was reported closed, and a government broadcast said several planes under contract to the United States government air-dropped fuel and ammunition into Phnom Penh and several other cities.

Lt. Gen. Sak Sutthakhan, the armed forces chief and new head of the government, said resistance against the insurgents was continuing.

He ordered a round the clock curfew as the bombing of the military headquarters touched off panic among the population. Small arms fire could be heard as military police tried to control the terrified people.

Meanwhile, a chartered plane from Saigon flew over Phnom Penh, found the airport control tower unmanned and did not land.

"We circled the airfield for about one hour and 20 minutes," said the pilot, Dick Bridges of Fort Myers, Fla. "It was very spooky, there was nothing moving, obviously because of the curfew. The whole city was deserted. No traffic, no people.

"There was some artillery impacting about a half mile from the terminal and there was a fire."

Field reports said the Khmer Rouge were in Samrong village, one mile north of the airport. They and 1,000 government troops had formed a defence column along a railroad track parallel to Route 3, the road from Phnom Penh to the airport, which is four miles to the west of the city.

Three rebel commandos are reported to have set fire to refugee camps northwest of Phnom Penh, and Route 33 was choked with panic-stricken refugees on foot, on carts or motor bikes streaming into the city.

Military police held the bulk of their weapons in a futile effort to maintain order on the highway.

The refugees said the rebels were overrunning the airport.

Fleeing government soldiers said Khmer Rouge troops were mingling with the refugees and pouring into the city.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said U.S. cargo planes made several supply drops into the city.

"We will never surrender," Premier Long Boret said. But his troops obviously were unable to check the Khmer Rouge advance.

The premier told a news conference that U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean urged him Friday to invite Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the former chief of state and titular head of the government-in-exile in Peking, back to Cambodia.

Boret said he rejected the suggestion and the next morning Americans left. The premier said he learned of the evacuation only a few hours before U.S. marines landed to execute Operation Eagle Pull.

Loan Sharks Said Active In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Police say loan-sharking has obtained a good foothold in Toronto, and Metropolitan Toronto police and RCMP are co-operating to try to break what they regard as a mixed crime's biggest threat here.

Loan - sharking — lending money at exorbitant rates and enforcing payment by violence—has been blamed for the murder of one man and the disappearance and probable murder of two more.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto-High Park) said in the legislature Friday he has information that another man is marked for death in a power struggle in the racket.

U.S. Senators Voice Hope Vietnam Evacuation Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators say they hope the evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam already is quietly under way.

Jacob Javits (Rep. N.Y.) and Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) also said President Ford would need congressional approval before using United States troops to evacuate South Vietnamese from the embattled country.

Their statements Sunday coincide with some skepticism in Congress about remaining U.S. troops to South Vietnam.

Congress this week takes up Ford's requests for $722 million in additional military aid to South Vietnam and $250 million in humanitarian aid, plus authorization to use U.S. troops to evacuate the more than 5,000 Americans in South Vietnam and thousands of South Vietnamese who would be endangered if the Communist-led insurgents took over the whole country.

Ford asked for congressional action by the end of this week.

Jackson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said on ABC TV's Issues and Answers that "my judgment is that Americans are moving out right now (from South Vietnam) and they ought to move quietly without any fanfare."

Javits, appearing on CBS TV's Face the Nation, said he hoped the evacuation would have begun by now.

Their views echoed weekend statements by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield who urged Ford to begin the evacuation without delay.

Jackson and Javits said there was legal basis for the use of troops to evacuate Americans from South Vietnam, but such basis was lacking to justify using troops to remove endangered Vietnamese.

Both senators also said Congress would give the president a carefully defined authorization to use troops in such a situation.

THINKS PROSPECT DIM

However, Senator Edmund Muskie (Dem. Maine), speaking on NBC TV's Meet the Press, said of the use of troops to evacuate Vietnamese: "The prospect that it would involve a massive use of American troops and a consequent reinvolvement in the war, I think, makes that a pretty dim prospect."

Vietnam Orphans Arrive at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Tired and bewildered, 38 Vietnamese orphans arrived Sunday night at Toronto International Airport to begin new lives in Ontario homes.

Four of the youngsters were put into a waiting ambulance and taken directly to the Hospital for Sick Children. Officials said they were suffering from dehydration and malnutrition.

The rest of the children, each with a volunteer escort, were carried, or helped to buses which took them to a government-operated centre. There they all were given medical examinations and bedded down.

Most of the children were infants and arrived wrapped in white shawls and pink blankets. Those who needed immediate hospital attention had been marked with a black cross on the forehead.

The trip from Hong Kong to Tokyo to Vancouver, then to Toronto had been a tiring one for the children and for the staff and volunteer workers who had accompanied them.

Rene Brunelle, provincial minister of community and social services, greeted the airplane. He said adoptive homes had been chosen for the youngsters some time ago. He said 125 homes had been selected but he was not optimistic that any more children would be arriving.

Pediatricians examined the children in Vancouver and found their general health satisfactory.

Dr. Joseph Berg, one of the examining doctors in Toronto, said that of the children he had seen none had anything serious wrong.

"Most of them have some sort of skin infection or scabies and some are suffering from dehydration, but considering the circumstances and why they are here in the first place, they are really in quite good health."

Helen Allen, well known for her work with adopted children and a consultant with the ministry, scoffed at some reports which said some of the youngsters were really sons and daughters of wealthy Vietnamese who had paid to have their children taken out of the country.

"You just couldn't even think that if you saw the condition all these children were in," she said.

Israel Backed

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 100,000 persons gathered near the United Nations to hear dozens of politicians and other speakers support for Israel and denounce alleged mistreatment of Jews in the Soviet Union.

Strike Now Legal

OTTAWA (CP) — The 16,000 member Letter Carriers' Union moved into a legal strike position at midnight Sunday night, but has no immediate plans to take such action. In Montreal during the weekend the post office suspended 200 employees for interfering with the work of a group of casual workers. But when the one day suspension ended, there appeared to be no further action on either side.

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The Sunday Express says the world's first twin heart patient, 18-year old Ivan Taylor, has died. It says he was cremated last Wednesday without any publicity.

Lebanese Rightists Fight PLO

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Street battles in Beirut between Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese Christian rightists tapered off to sporadic clashes today after 28 persons were reported killed and 60 wounded by machine-gun and bazooka fire.

Banks and shops in the heart of Beirut were shuttered, and few persons ventured out on downtown streets. Scattered clashes were reported on the outskirts of the city, near several Palestine refugee camps. Clouds of smoke rose over several areas.

Casualty reports from government sources and the warring factions said 28 guerrillas, two militiamen of the right-wing Phalange party and eight Lebanese civilians had been killed since noon Sunday.

Three Phalangists and 27 Palestinians were reported wounded.

The fighting in Beirut began Sunday during the inauguration of a new Maronite Christian church which was attended by Pierre Gemayel, the leader of the right-wing Phalangist party, and many members of his party militia. They said they were fired on by Palestinian guerrillas.

Palestinian leaders charged the Phalangists with ambushing a busload of 22 Palestinian civilians driving past the church on their way to a refugee camp.

Clashes spread to downtown Beirut and four suburbs. The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) accused the Phalangists of a "well studied and prepared plan of ambushes, criminal attacks and road-blocks."

Royal Humane Society Honors City Youth

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A 20-year-old Belleville man has become the recipient of what is believed the first award for civic merit presented in the city.

He is Scott McDonald of Meadowvale Dr., who rescued a man who broke his ankle in a fall from a railway bridge at the height of the spring runoff last year.

Saturday Scott — with his family — and friends — went before the city's police commissioners to receive the award from the Royal Canadian Humane Society.

Mayor Robert Jeffrey said it was the first time such recognition had been given a Belleville resident.

Scott was fishing at the Lower Bridge last March when the incident occurred.

The man was climbing down a rope from the river bank for a closer look at the fishing run, when the rope broke. Scott, with his friend, Ken Stewart, stepped in to the river to rescue the man.

Abortive Break-ins Expensive

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Break-ins can be costly — even if the thieves are foiled.

This is graphically illustrated by two incidents noted by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie in his annual report on city crime in 1974.

(1) A break-in at Royal Bank premises on West Dundas saw intruders cause $21,500 to the office's computer system.

(2) An attempted safe-cracking at Hadley's on Front St. was unsuccessful. But the thieves started a fire costing $10,000 in damage and cleaning.

Total loss in 536 burglaries was $45,700 — of which almost $2,300 was recovered.

Policing Costs Below Budget

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Policing Belleville cost $1,302,700 in the past year — less than expected.

The annual report of Police Chief Douglas Crosbie shows his department ended 1974 with a surplus of about $31,000.

Biggest expenditure in the budget of the force was wages and salaries for 74 men and women. Their pay totalled almost $955,800.

The department's share of the cost of operation of the Quinte Regional Detention Centre — centralized institution for four Quinte-Kingston district counties — was $45,300.

North Vietnam Troops Repulsed at Xuan Loc

SAIGON (AP) — The embattled South Vietnamese government claimed damaging blows today to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces at Xuan Loc and on other fighting fronts.

Meanwhile, Premier Nguyen Ba Can announced formation of a "government of union" that he said would have the co-operation of the leaders of the opposition to President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Spokesmen for the South Vietnamese military command reported only sporadic fighting today around Xuan Loc, the provincial capital, 40 miles east of Saigon that has been the site of heavy action for nearly a week.

The spokesmen said air strikes in the region killed another 120 North Vietnamese. Heavy casualties among government forces also have been reported.

Funeral

HUBERT LEONARD SCOTT

The funeral service for Hubert Leonard Scott will be held in the chapel of the Thompson Funeral Home, Wednesday, April 16. Rev. Laurie Sutherland will conduct the service with burial in Belleville cemetery. A memorial service will be held in the funeral home, Tuesday at 7.30 p.m.

A resident of Belleville for 30 years, he lived at 31 Crestview Avenue, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Scott.

In his 78th year, he was born in Mallorytown and is survived by his wife, the former Katie Warren. He died April 13 in Belleville General Hospital.

Surviving are his sons Gerald of Belleville and Bruce of St. Catharines. He also survived by five grandchildren.

He was predeceased by his brother Charles.

Mr. Scott was a roadmaster with Canadian National Railways when he retired following 47 years of service. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and associated with the CN Pensioners Association.

He was active in lodge work in St. Thomas, Brockville and Belleville.

He was an honorary member and secretary of Moira Lodge, No. 11, Past president of the Belleville Shrine Club, Past Patron of the Order of the Eastern Star, 50, 55, and was also past scribe of the White Shrine.

Nancy Arnold, 26-year-old reporter from Wasaga Beach near Barrie, became first Social Credit candidate named for next provincial election when she was nominated at Tyendinaga Township meeting for Hastings-Peterborough. She's also the mother of five and the whole family came for the event — including (from left) Carolyn, 2; Kathryn, 8; Donald, 9; Danny 6, and Crystal, nine months.

Socreds Select Woman To Contest New Riding

She's the 26-year-old mother of five, lives miles away and believes in a political party still building its stock in the province.

But undaunted, Nancy Arnold, of Wasaga Beach, near Barrie has become the first candidate named for the next provincial election in the — as yet proposed — riding of Hastings — Peterborough.

Her nomination Saturday night at a meeting near Shannonville also made Mrs. Arnold: — First Social Credit candidate selected for an Ontario riding.

Her acclamation came in grassroots style — on Tyendinaga Township's second (north) Concession, in the farmstead living room of Floyd Hawley — who last year ran last as federal election Social Credit candidate in Hastings.

The new riding, if it's approved in time for the election expected later this year, is one of the largest in southern Ontario — reaching from Deseronto in north of Peterborough. The area's political tradition is one of Conservative dominance and Liberal challenge.

Her Wasaga Beach hometown — where she also is a weekly newspaper reporter — is about 100 miles northwest of Belleville.

But Mrs. Arnold refused any suggestion her election bid could only bear token results.

"I don't believe in being a pessimist about anything," She said. "There is some support here."

The only query the electorate might have, she said, is "why should a woman with a bunch of kids want to be involved in Queen's Park affairs. But being the mother of five is the best qualification."

The province's education system — particularly its lack of support for separate schools for religious minorities — is a Social Credit platform plank reiterated several times during the farmhouse meeting.

Police Charge Three With Series of Thefts

By RACHEL SPENCER
Staff Correspondent

Investigation by three officers of the Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police broke up the activities of three young men who broke into four places and stole about $400 in merchandise.

The three officers, Carl Campbell, Don Creelman and Dennis Bush were called in Thursday morning to investigate a break-in at a new dwelling by its future occupant, William O'Hara.

The dwelling was located in Hungerford Township about five miles southwest of Tweed.

Taken from the house was a water pump, garden hose and other items worth approximately $200.

While police were investigating this incident, another new house not yet occupied was reported entered sometime Tuesday night. This house in Rawdon Township belonged to a Buffalo, N.Y. resident, Arthur Edward Harris.

Taken in this break-in was a portable television, electric razor and coal oil lamp worth about $150.

The third break - in occurred sometime during Wednesday at the site of Brown's Spur Service station on Highway 7 seven miles south of Tweed. A snow tire of undetermined value was taken.

In the final occurrence investigated by the three officers, Fargey's General Store in Roslin was entered sometime Wednesday and taken were various tools worth about $32.

Police said all items have been recovered.

Charged were Leo Francis Quinlin, 16, of RR 1, Stirling, John Robert Vanderwater, 20, of RR 1, Roslin and Samuel John Dunnan, 25, of RR 2, Stirling.

Mr. Quinlin faces one charge of break-enter and theft, Mr. Vanderwater one count of break and enter and two counts of theft under $200 and Mr. Dunnan two counts each of break and enter and theft under $200. They will appear in provincial court in Madoc on May 20.

Parents to Meet Board

BLOOMFIELD — A delegation representing about 200 parents from the Kente Public School district, will appear before the Prince Edward County Board of Education here tonight in support of Kente principal Eugene Bright, who was dismissed by the board April 1. The delegation will speak to the trustees in open session. Public are invited to attend the 7:30 meeting.

Wife of Former MP Dies in Hospital

The wife of a former Member of Parliament for the Belleville area, Mrs. Lillian Erika Temple died late Saturday in Belleville General Hospital.

Funeral Mass will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. At St. Michael's church.

Mrs. Temple was the wife of Robert Temple, city barrister and Liberal MP for South Hastings in 1963-1965.

She had been in failing health for some time.

Born in Czechoslovakia, she had lived in Vienna before coming to Belleville 15 years ago.

She also leaves two children, Marie Michel, 14, and Isabel Michael, 13.

Resting at the O'Brien-Steele Funeral Residence.

Crosbie Says New Society Breeding Crime Spiral

Social permissiveness is a root cause of a current crime spiral and pressure must be brought on governments for needed reforms, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie warns.

His alarm is sounded in the chief's annual report on city police operations in 1974.

The report shows 16-per-cent increase in criminal offenses—with vandalism and burglary major contributing problems —demanding police attention during the year.

The crime rise reflects a national trend, increasing pressure on policing, says Chief Crosbie.

"The underlying cause of most of our crime and other problems is the lack of discipline in today's society," concludes the chief.

Among reforms needed from government:

— More concern about probation, parole and temporary absence-release programs.

—Changes in the Bail Reform Act.

— Increased financial assistance to municipalities operating their own police forces (in the past week — presumably after the report was prepared — the provincial government has stepped up police grants to local governments).

Public groups — including churches and fraternal organizations — should be encouraged to interest themselves "in the way society is going," suggests the chief. They should bring pressure to bear on all levels of government.

Canadian communities have not yet reached the crime levels of those in the United States, said Chief Crosbie.

But at the current rate of crime increase "we are heading in the same direction" unless "strong remedial actions" are taken by governments, courts and police.

In 1974, criminal offences reported to his department — excluding Criminal Code traffic cases — rose to 2,535 from 2,964 the year before. The rate cases were cleared up remained virtually constant at 28.5 per cent.

The year was free of major crimes of violence — murder, manslaughter.

But vandalism offences rose to 705 from 488, costing $43,600, of which $3,139 was recovered.

Break-ins rose to 536 from 446 in 1974. Total loss in burglaries for the year was $43,500 — after $2,180 had been recovered. Some 70 people were charged.

Assaults rose to 313 from 201, including nine wounding charges and nine assaults on police officers.

Frauds increased to 223 from 165. Offensive weapons cases totalled 18 — compared to two in 1973.

But decreases included: In 1974 89 cars were stolen, compared to 77 in 1973.

— Drugs, 62 offences compared to 87 — mostly marijuana.

— Sexual offences, nine compared to 18 in 1973.

Chief Outlines How Half-way House Works

The city's police commissioners hope to meet with community groups to discuss the possibility of establishing a half-way house for people with alcoholic problems.

The project has been under investigation since early in the year.

Saturday Police Chief Douglas Crosbie gave the commissioners his personal assessment of a similar project now successfully operating elsewhere — Cornwall's Friendship House.

Originally started nine years ago by a Catholic priest, the home now has a full-time director supervising an operation assisted by social agencies, the provincial government and run by a board drawn from the community. Hospitals, doctors, police and detention authorities use the facility to aid persons recovering from drinking.

The first step for Belleville is to determine need, suggested the chief. This would involve discussions with various social, religious and community groups in the city.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said there were several community organizations — including some church groups — which were seeking a project and their attention should be drawn to the chief's suggestion.

She recommended a meeting with interested groups.

Complaint Backfires

A complaint about police cruisers from a Bellevillian who is a volunteer environmental watchdog backfired Saturday when the city's police commissioners met.

The commissioners wound up complaining about the complainant for costing department time and expenses in checking what apparently turned out to be an erroneous criticism in the first place.

Such complaints are becoming a problem in wasting civic staff's time, warned Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said Clarence Young last month asked if emission control devices were not on the department's fleet of cruisers.

The eight vehicles had to be taken to a garage where mechanics reported everything in order, said the chief.

He said Mr. Young subsequently apologized.

"How much time did this staff complaint take — to have all these cars checked? demanded Mayor Jeffrey.

"It took at least half a day," said Chief Crosbie.

Complained the mayor: "Our staff, who are busy enough, are taking time to check into these false rumors continually — It has become a very serious problem."

Fund-seekers Leave Town

Police are still pursing complaints against two spritual groups, who recently irked Bellevillians by soliciting funds.

Both groups—Hare Krishna and the Children of God — have left town, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie told the city's police commissioners Saturday.

Because of changes in the Criminal Code about begging, prosecutions could not be pressed, he said.

However, police now were giving advice from the Hastings County Crown Attorney's office to see if charges for impeding the public could be laid in such instances.

Dinner Up In Smoke

TRENTON — A fondue party at the residence of Douglas B. Gearing at 21 McQuade Dr. ended sooner than planned early Friday evening with Trenton firemen arriving as unexpected guests.

A pot of oil on the kitchen range caught fire and said the partygoers out into the night as rancid smoke filled the house.

Other than the inconvenience from unpleasant fumes no damage resulted, a spokesman for the Trenton fire department reported.

Welcome to the Club

The city's newest service club, the K-40 Club, an offshoot of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville for Kinsmen members over the age of 40 held a charter night Saturday at Georges Vanier School. Here, president of the new club, Bob Lafferty, right accepts the charter from Kinsmen District Governor, John Jenkinson, of Brockville. There will be 29 members in the K-40 Club.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance during a 48-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Sunday, April 13, 4:02 p.m. — grass fire at corner of Victoria Ave. and Haig Rd., no damage.

With warmer weather maple trees in the Quinte district have renewed their sap run. It's now in full flow at sugarbushes like that of Charles Irvine at Fuller where Laird Redcliffe was collecting the fluid during demonstrations sponsored by the Moira River Conservation Authority Sunday.

Four Transports Collide in 401 Mishap

NAPANEE — Four truck drivers escaped serious injury today in an early morning crash involving four transports on Highway 401 about one mile east of here.

Ontario Provincial Police at Napanee identified the drivers as John Wilson, 28, of 13 Campbell Cres. here, Robert Mackenzie, 38, of Toronto, Derrick Carruthers, 46 of RR 2 Hillsburgh and George Brooks 46 of Kingston.

Police said three of the transports were eastbound and the other westbound. The mishap occurred when Wilson's Dickson transport and Mackenzie's Maislin vehicle were involved in a rear-end collision.

Poli e said Carruthers driving a Canwes plastics unit, following the two, tried to avoid the accident but was struck by the trailer portion of the Maislin unit. The impact forced the Canwes across the median where it incurred a head-on collision with a Smith Corona transport driven by Brooks.

Police said there was extensive damage in the 4.45 a.m. accident but the drivers escaped serious injuries. Further details were unavailable at press time.

Parents Want Group To Meet Drug Crisis

Parents of young Bellevillians with drug problems are anxious to form a mutual organization, Belleville police commissioners were told Saturday.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey told the commission she had been contacted by some parents who feel the need for such a group.

Their suggestion was for a group akin to Alcoholics Anonymous where people discuss a common problem.

She said the parents are "desperate and don't know what to do."

Commission chairman James Driscoll said there had to be some parents who had solved the problem so the suggestion of sharing opinions might have merit.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie was instructed to sound out United Community Services officials for suggestions.

Official Plans Meeting Topic

A special meeting of the Quinte Planning Board will be held May 7 for discussion of official plans for the municipalities of Sidney, Thurlow and Prankford, it was learned at a planning board meeting Friday.

Separate sessions with the first to begin at 1 p.m. in Sidney Township offices — will be held with each municipal council to outline consultants progress to date.

Trenton and Belleville — the only other members of the board — each have completed official plan work and are waiting for provincial approvals.

Seeks Dam Study

MARMORA — Bryan Boyce, new resources manager with the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority, has requested a meeting with the village council to discuss a proposed preliminary engineering study of the Marmora Dam and a mapping of the flood plain. He will appear before council in May.

Realtors At Quinte Home Show

Paper work can be the most confusing aspect of home purchase.

At this years home show—sponsored by the Quinte Home Builders Association — two real estate firms will provide their market experience to help visitors with paper problems such as mortgage details.

Gerry Joyce, past president of the local real estate board and current vice-president of the provincial association, said "realtors can play a very important role in the house building industry."

"It is the realtor who has his finger on the pulse of the market place — and can provide the builder with information concerning what style of house is most popular at the time."

When people are at the home show deliberating over possible home improvements, "it would be a good idea for them to talk improvements over with the staff of the real estate booths to make sure they are not over improving their property," said Mr. Joyce.

Joyce Realty and A.E. LePage Ltd. have well booths at the home show to be held in Ben Vereker Auditorium, April 17, 18 and 19.

Taking the Plunge

Birgit Wulfroth, 16-year-old visitor on student exchange from Lahr, West Germany — Belleville's twin city — prepared to take scuba plunge at Blackhawk Motel pool Sunday night with help from instructor Tom Horn. Organized by Quinte Aquarians scuba club the event was part of ongoing series of recreation programs organized for young visitors during their stay.

Fatalities Decline

Fewer people died in traffic accidents in Belleville last year. But there were more mishaps.

The death rate dropped to four from seven fatalities in 1973, the annual report of Police Chief Douglas Crosbie shows.

In 1974 195 people — seven of them women — were charged with impaired driving, compared to 208 the year before.

There were eight charges of dangerous driving compared to 10 in 1973.

Driver Faces Five Charges

TWEED — A 21-year-old Marmora man faces five driving charges after a person caused about $3,200 damage after a wooden garage and a Marmora car among other things were damaged in two separate occurrings in little over an hour of each other Incidents.

Police said that about 7:50 p.m. Friday a vehicle driving north on Highway 14 about a quarter-mile south of Bonarlaw hit a wooden garage belonging to Hedy Revi of RR 2 Marmora causing $300 damage. The car sustained $250 damage.

Also in that incident, the vehicle took out a Bell Canada underground cable terminal box worth about $200.

An hour later police said the same vehicle struck a parked car belonging to Monty Chrysler of 74 Forsythe St. The car was parked in front of his residence and received about $1,600 damage. The vehicle which struck the parked car received $1,000 damage.

Shades of Thetford Mines in 1949

Prime Minister and His 'Comrades' Express 'Solidarity' with Asbestos Workers

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It appeared, under the signature of Prime Minister Trudeau's senior press Secretary Pierre O'Neill on the notice board of the Parliamentary Press Gallery sometime on March 30.

That was Easter Sunday.

The Press Gallery on the Sunday of a holiday weekend is about as lonely a place as you would find this side of dead centre of the Gobi Desert.

It was not exactly brimming over with newsmen on March 28 which was Good Friday nor again on the 29th the Saturday.

And the day after the appearance of the notice on Easter Sunday the federal public service was shut down tight — even the House of Commons Post Office and the government cafeteria on Parliament Hill — on Monday.

So from Good Friday through Easter Monday the Press Gallery was not exactly overpopulated.

Which may or may not have been the reason the Prime Minister dropped his news-bomb when he did — at a time so few who are supposed to be listening to pronouncements from his office were tuned in.

Which in turn may be the reason so few people seemed to know that the Prime Minister had reverted to the days of his youthful protest back 26 years ago in 1949 when he marched the picket lines with the strikers at Thetford Mines on asbestos town 70 miles south of Quebec City.

He had sent off a telegram to the Confederation of National Trade Unions publicly signalling his support as Prime Minister of Canada for its 5000 striking members who again were picketing the asbestos mines and mills.

It read:

"Pelletier, Marchand and I express our solidarity with our asbestos comrades."

Pelletier is Gerard Pelletier the federal Communications Minister; and Marchand of course is Transport Minister Jean Marchand.

All three Trudeau, Pelletier and Marchand had been "comrades" in the asbestos labor battles 26 years ago.

Then were the days when Pierre Trudeau was if not a socialist at least not a Liberal.

They were the days following his "black leather jacket years" when he rode out World War Two aboard a Montreal-cruising around Montreal's Mount Royal.

But back to his telegram to the strikers.

"Unbelievable" said former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker from his Ottawa home where he is still recovering from surgery. "Absolutely without Privy Council precedent.

"The wording of the Trudeau telegram, the use of the terms 'solidarity' and 'comrade' need no interpretation. They are true Trudeau emerges at last."

There is something else too that blends in with the colors of the new "true" Trudeau.

It is the failure of the Trudeau government to quickly condemn the Communist crushing of South Viet Nam.

And it is strange the prolonged silence and then little more than reluctant regrets when you remember how the same government rolled in thunderous condemnation of External Affairs Minister Sharp — against the "savagery" and "brutality" and even "uncivilized" bombing of the Communist oil storage facilities around North Viet Nam's capital Hanoi by the Americans.

Almost every move the Americans made against North Viet Nam was denounced by Ottawa. And fast and fast.

But denunciation has dwindled down to a neutral condemnation of violence since the turning of the Viet Nam tables.

The New Democrats were even more strident in their parliamentary attacks against the Americans and now their silence is all the more profound.

To speak out against the Communist ravishing of South Viet Nam and its people says an official NDP spokesman would be "irrelevant."

One more thing.

A Canadian parliamentary delegation has visited Formosa — you know free non-Communist China — but the Trudeau government declined to send along its chairman of the Commons External Affairs Committee as leader.

Odd what?

Not really in the face of the explanation that to stand him might lend an aura of authority to the vile and horror of horrors perhaps offend the Communist Chinese on the mainland for whose reluctant recognition Mitchell Sharp so prostituted himself in such abject supplication.

Plan Should Be 'Local'

The essence of any disaster plan is that it is effective on the spot — that is, in the particular location that it happens.

The new provincial government concept, which reportedly is taking over from the Emergency Measures Organization, is vague on this score. It offers no plan that would give such an undertaking, no guarantees of effective action in the event of an emergency.

The Emergency Measures people are dismayed over events, but if the government insists on filling the vacuum then it will have to come up with something more foolproof that is at present apparent.

Does it intend to build on the old EMO organization — and to do so would draw on local experience and equipment — or does it plan to start afresh?

What for instance does acting provincial solicitor-general John Clement mean when he talks of developing task forces consisting of senior representatives of provincial ministries involved in alleviating such emergencies as major floods, forest fires, air crashes, epidemics and similar disasters?

How will this dovetail with events at the local level? Nor can we discover either the possibility of nuclear attack? Nobody thinks much about that any more, or about such don't-bother-me subjects as bomb shelters and emergency food supplies.

Certainly the government is going to have to be much more explicit on this subject that is now evident. As Quinte EMO coordinator Angus Duffy is quoted as saying: "The big thing is to have an effective plan, so that when disaster strikes you're ready. An after-the-fact bandaid from the province isn't going to help . . ."

He's right of course, and we would like to think that the government does some serious thinking on the implications of its unpreparedness.

'BETTER MAKE IT LOOK GOOD GUYS... REMEMBER I'VE GOT TO FIGHT AN ELECTION ON THIS!'

Students Earn Praise

It may be trite to say that travel broadens the mind, but then it is, indeed, one of the most stimulating and illuminating of experiences.

Students have been coming back to schools in this area with tales of life in the Mediterranean lands. It has been an experience that has blended the culture of ancient civilizations with the realities of the present and of everyday life: being pursued on the one hand by peddlers — in Egypt — and on the other being fraked by police — in Israel.

From Al Hawkins of the staff of Trenton high school meanwhile comes a copy of a letter expressing appreciation of Hastings board of education's support of student trips.

Addressed to education director Eric Runacres, it describes a week-long visit to Mount Snow, Vermont, of a group of 36 students from Trenton, Belleville and Brighton.

There was the nine-hour bus trip without so much as a popped lunch bag, to the amazement of the driver. The students' good manners also impressed the new Englanders. A high school teacher from New York said she could hardly believe the way the youngsters behaved. A restaurant manager in Troy said they were the best group of teens he had encountered in his place.

The Canadians were unable because of their age to attend a party at a nearby lodge, to help pay the medical expenses of a local girl seriously injured skiing. Yet they managed to raise $25 from their own spending money to help bring the benefit to more than $1,000.

All in all, it's a reflection of the fine youngsters that make up the majority in our midst. Mr. Hawkins adds his appreciation to Trenton principal Jack Sisson and to the principals of other secondary schools here who assisted with the planning.

It's Cheaper Abroad

While railroad officials are talking about a continuing decline in freight traffic, CN for one is making renewed efforts to woo passenger traffic.

The company's familiar red, white and blue days and accompanying savings at certain periods are still in effect. There are savings for group travel, for family travel too and if you are a senior citizen or between the age of 12 and 21, as well as off-peak four-day round-trip fares.

Read the small print on some of the ads and you will also find mention of a new CN-Antrak (the U.S. system) tour of Canada and the U.S.

Study the costs though and you will find travel within Canada, even on a package basis, remains expensive.

It's cheaper to go abroad, as witness the fellowing costs taken from side-by-side advertisements: Maritime Provinces, 10 days by CN — $587 per person, two in a room, includes transportation, sleeping car accommodation, specified meals, sightseeing; Spain, as offered by a Montreal travel company: Alolt Marbella — 14 nights including round trip jet transportation, breakfasts daily, seven dinners, golf or tennis, for $442.

Still, it it's a holiday at home you want, there is nothing so relaxing as going by train. In these days of quick flights to Florida and California, few consider that you can get there by train too.

Net Debt Nears $4,708 Million

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO—As noted recently this year's budget was a good one.

But it wasn't all that good, specifically, we still are overspending.

Debt is going up—and up.

Last year there was an increase (estimated) of $501 million.

This will bring our net debt to $4,708 million and the per-capita debt to $365.57, an increase of nearly 400 per cent in 10 years.

Servicing of this debt alone runs to more than $300 million a year.

Perhaps even more alarming is the ever-increasing bite that public spending is taking out of the gross provincial product.

This is going up every year.

In the coming year about 16 per cent of the $64 million produced in Ontario in goods and services will be eaten up by provincial government.

Only a decade ago economists would have been shattered by even the thought of this.

The one reassurance is that Ontario in its spending rush is less head-long than the rest of Canada.

Its forecast increase in spending this year of 16.8 per cent is less than any other province in Canada except New Brunswick (16.6 per cent).

The federal government's rise is at 21 per cent (Only?) but its spending fields have been subject to less and less pressure and growth, as compared with the provinces'.

Then also we have a considerably better position on the growth of the take from the gross national product than the rest of the country.

Ontario's bite from all levels of government last year (federal, provincial and local) was 33.3 per cent, a growth of .8 per cent.

While the average for the rest of Canada was 34.5 per cent an increase of 2.5 per cent.

Some years ago economists used to forecast that when a country's tax bite got near 40 per cent it was approaching bankruptcy or autocracy.

We now are getting near that mark, with the low Ontario rate saving the country as a whole.

But this question of the amount of money taken out of our economy for public spending is one which hasn't received enough attention and still isn't.

An air of sadness was apparent in the city yesterday with word of the passing of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Flags flew at half-staff atop public buildings. A message of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Roosevelt by the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Unit 201, during their meeting last evening.

Special music and tributes to the late President were offered in local churches. Thousands listened to the burial services broadcast over the radio from Hyde Park and to subsequent programs that featured the favorite sacred and other music of Mr. Roosevelt. Everywhere, mourning the loss of a great man whose "friendly neighbor" policies were never better exemplified than in his dealings with "our Canadian friends" north of an invisible border".

The executive of the Bay of Quinte Conference thought that many students would be glad to go to college, but due to lack of finances, they are unable to attend. It was then decided that each Young People's Society have an educational night once a year. A small fee would be charged to attend. This money would go toward two $150 scholarships for Albert College and the Whitby Ladies' College. Each society has the privilege of selecting whom they deem worth of the scholarship. The scholarships will be donated from among the students who attain the highest standin'.

Conflicting Value Systems Bedevil Vietnam Tragedy

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Value systems, Asian and Western, are in crisis in the ongoing Vietnam tragedy.

The most poignant and in many ways the most difficult to understand relates to the children of unhappy South Vietnam.

Suddenly Westerners, parents with an instant or latent conscience, want to adopt an Asian child in a hurry. Those who have been trying to do so unsuccessfully for more than a year, have turned cynical now that the world is interested.

The newcomers—in Canada about 1,000 families—are dinging Ottawa with telegrams for a Vietnamese child—can't understand why the South Vietnamese authorities will not let children go who lack definite adoption arrangements.

This rule will be harder on the Canadian families eager to adopt than American ones, since all the children flown so far to the United States are the issue of American-Vietnamese liaisons, before continued value systems at work.

To this columnist the most curious element in wanting children out of their Asian society and into a strange and demanding Western one, is that Communist success in the North Vietnamese one apparently about to take over the south, take great care of their children.

I have seen day nurseries in the People's Republic of China, Cuba and East Germany and they are more than showplaces. They prove the promise of Marxist societies which can be brutal and restrictive in other matters, that the children come first.

By comparison, the battered children of South Vietnam are war orphans, abandoned waifs, street beggars, victims of a corrupt and exploitative society whose president is a practising Roman Catholic.

Will they do better by being removed from one "Christian" society to another "Christian" one—entirely Capitalist?

But in this desperately confusing mix of values in Vietnam, it is the Communist, the victory, more than the South Vietnamese in defeat, who are going to take a terrible retribution of Anti-Communist country leaders if their actions during the Tet offensive, 1968 and 1975, and the bitter battle for Hue are any example.

After the American and South Vietnamese re-entered Hue in 1968, they found hundreds of local leaders, mayors, supporters of the South Vietnamese government and its local administrative officials all tortured before they had been executed, the evidence still clear from their shallow graves.

Not that South Vietnamese officials are free of barbarism. Newspaper offices in the West have been persistently approached over the years by editorials making pleas for the political prisoners of the Saigon regime, some of them kept in cages like animals, long enough as they will never walk again.

Nor should we forget the depredations of American society through its military involvement in Vietnam. Who will ever forget what has been done to the "single light" burning of Vietnamese villages by U.S. troops suspecting the presence of Viet Cong supporters and village arsenals?

Clash of opposed value systems in crisis and in jeopardy. They prove the Canadian is not participate in these Vietnam tragedies, but Mr. Hockey-Puck hospital with a heart attack. The Citizens' Bureau

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The Citizens' Bureau has served the citizens of the area well. Far better, and at much less cost than some of the agencies that are doled out as much of the taxpayer's money on a regular basis. I think the The Citizens' Bureau is larger at any price.

Your cherish concepts forget to say that while running the Belleville Citizens' Bureau, stress put Mr. Hockey-Puck hospital with a heart attack. Likewise, you cannot be neutral of the fact that stress had a similar effect on the late Charles Hart in the Trenton operation.

A Service

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Over the three years of its operation the Citizens' Bureau has more than proved itself. The sum of $50,000 provided employment for local people and gave the city a very-much-needed service; when compared to the continuing expense of the established agencies over the years, it is a mere drop in the bucket.

Committee to Investigate Picton Lock-up Facilities

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

PICTON — A special committee will be named to review the situation at the Picton jail and report to town council said Picton Mayor Donald King following an inspection of the lockup facilities by members of Picton town council Saturday.

The tour of the jail came as a result of a recommendation of the Police Commission to "rectify a most deplorable situation."

Picton Police Chief, Charles Fletcher, stated that the cells now are used for "incarcerating drunks until they sober up — a place to protect them where they won't hurt themselves or other people."

Chief Fletcher pointed out that the present cell structure is as such that suicides are a potential threat. The three cells have no toilet or basin, floor drain or light, containing only a small cot. The lock-up area is cleaned "only when really needed."

At present, the only was in which a person may relieve himself while incarcerated commented Chief Fletcher, is by using a pail which is placed outside the cell door."

Tourist Association Seeking New Members

PICTON — The need for a larger membership highlighted discussion at the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association's Annual Banquet here Friday night.

The Association's Vice-president, Robert Anthony, operator of a trailer park at Morrison's Point stressed that membership is not growing and that "we, as a tourist organization, have to pull together and work together."

"Only through a united effort can we convince the tourist to take a vacation in Quinte's Isle."

Competition is getting keen, he said, and it was up to the membership to make the Association "a viable force."

Prince Edward County Warden, Clifford Walker, in addressing the Association, recognized that tourism had "the greatest potential of any industry" and that there is a demand for it, and it "should be developed to the utmost."

Among those attending the banquet were Picton Mayor Donald King; James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox; Sheldon Whitaker, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Hans von Riekenhof, director of natural resources ang. Glen James, president of the Bay of Quinte Regional Tourist Council and second vice-president of the Central Ontario Travel Association.

Hobson Seeks Liberal Nod in Altered Riding

BANCROFT — With the prospect of a spring provincial election in the wind, a North Hastings-Peterborough County resident David Hobson, announced today that he will seek the Liberal nomination for the new Hastings-Peterborough riding.

Mr. Hobson, 29, who teaches at North Hastings Secondary School in Ballycroft, has been involved in politics for a number of years and ran as a liberal candidate in Peterborough County in the 1971 provincial contest.

While announcing his try for the candidacy, Mr. Hobson said "we had a very smooth joining of the two riding associations but this new riding is really massive. There are 35 different townships."

An active supporter of the liberal's Eastern Ontario Development Plan for the diversification of light industry into areas like North Hastings, Mr. Hobson said, "I think the idea of developing mineral sites in the North Hastings area is first rate. Because of the geological complexities of this area and its use by schools for study, it would be my personal project to have a permanent geological school built in the Bancroft area similar to the live-in schools in conservation areas."

Dave Hobson is married and he, his wife Annie and children Shane Byron and Kim live on a farm near Apsley where they raise beef cattle and prize-winning Irish Wolfhounds.

Missing Boaters Found

BLOOMFIELD — Two area boys were rescued from a swamp by searchers late today after being adrift for several hours in a canoe.

Richard Pym, 16, and Daniel Hadath, 16, both of RR 1, Bloomfield, launched their canoe at Pearsell's Bridge on Highway 14 shortly after 10 a.m. Sunday with plans for a trip to Allaire Bridge.

When they failed to arrive at Bridge by 8:45 p.m. Mrs. Arthur Pym, mother of one youths telephoned police.

A search was started on foot by constables Andas Goodkey and Douglas Andrews and Corporal Lorne Grice of the Picton OPP. Also assisting police by the boys fathers and William Manchke and Harry Oram.

The boys were discovered by the search party at 3 a.m. this morning.

The missing youths said they became lost on the trip and decided their best plan was to remain in one spot until help arrived. Both are reported in good condition.

Two-hour Task

There wasn't too much fire in a Sidney building Sunday morning, but firefighters were on the scene for over two hours since fire broke out inside the atic, burning inwards from sparks landing on the roof. The fire originated outside the ground level rear door. Ontario Porvincial Police are investigating the cause of the fire. Structural and water damage could total $8,000 Fire Chief Graham Mouck said.

Knights Sponsor Dance For Area Police Forces

TRENTON — Three police forces in this area enjoyed the fruits of their labor Saturday as guests of Trenton Knights of Columbus.

Off-duty members of the Ontario Provincial Police at Brighton, CFB Trenton's military police detachment and Trenton police department — all with their wives — were invited to a dance and social evening.

The invitation was a gesture of appreciation for helping the Knights with a project to acquaint the public with purposes and aims of law enforcement.

In an effort to get one aspect of enforcement to the public, the Knights had a display this weekend in a King St. building. Enlarged photographs graphically depict wilful damage to property, a growing concern to law enforcement agencies costing millions of dollars a year.

The show named Crime Costs opened Friday and continued Saturday with attendants explaining visual presentations and distributing literature.

Early-morning Blaze Damages Variety Store

STIRLING — An early morning fire here Sunday that caused extensive damage to a variety store is still under investigation by Belleville OFP. No cause or estimate of damage has been given.

Stirling fire chief Graham Mouck said volunteers were called to the scene about 10:22 a.m. at Front St. West when storewner Lorne O'Hara failed to extinguish the fire himself.

Chief Mouck said he thought the fire was out by 11:15 but later was forced to reattach fire hoses to extingish further flames in the attic. The upstairs apartment, rented by John Bonnin and his family, suffered water and fire damage.

Third County Book Off the Presses

MADOC — Another historical book was presented to the Hastings County population Friday. A Pilgrimage of Faith, written by three Madoc area women, has been added to the list of recent publications. Alma Blackburn, Alma Ashford and Gertrude Ashford were autographing copies of the 400 page book for buyers at Trinity United Church.

Printer Maurice Goulah said he has printed two other books besides this latest Hastings County work. Pilgrimage of Faith was funded through the federal governments New Horizon program for senior citizens as was a book written in Cloyne — Ozen and Axe, said Henry Wisniewski, dept of health and welfare official who attended the Trinity event.

Mr. Goulah said Ozen and Axe is on its second printing of 1,000 copies, and another local book, Them Were The Days written in Tweed, recently had a second press run of 1,000 completed. This last book received assistance through another government grant, L.I.P.

While the joint authors of Pilgrimage of Faith were autographing copies, Alma Blackbrun was asked a few questions about the work entailed.

She said the beginning of the book occurred in 1967 when they started to gather a bit of history for the 6th anniversary of Eldorado United Church.

"It got so interesting we were determined to do a complete history as it was involved with all the other churches," Mrs. Blackburn said. "It just mushrooming. It included all the churches in Madoc and Madoc Township, and went out to Elsevir and Tudour a bit.

Ann Landers

Her Baby Near Death and Deaf—Another Mother Is at Fault

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter. It might help millions of children.

"Dear Mother—Somewhere: Today my baby is very sick and it's your fault. He may be totally deaf as a result of his illness, and that's your fault, too.

My son is 19 months old, too young to be immunized against measles. But your child who was "just getting a bad cold" was well over that age when they played together at the laundromat.

Why on earth didn't you see to it that your child had the vaccine as soon as he reached his first birthday? Don't tell me you couldn't afford it. Our own public health department charges 50 cents. If you can't pay, they will give the shot free.

I'm glad your child recovered from the measles "just fine." I am happy for you. But my little boy is seriously ill. He will live, the doctor told us this morning, but he'll probably suffer from a serious hearing impairment for the rest of his life. How will I explain to my son that he is handicapped because some thoughtless, irresponsible mother didn't bother to have her child immunized and he caught the illness from him?

I'm not writing to you personally. I am sending my letter to Ann Landers because this problem is bigger than our own two children. It involves all children everywhere.—Heartsick Mother

Dear Mother: I'm printing your letter because I believe it is an extremely important one. My consultant for this response is Dr. John Andrews, a pediatrician in Chicago who has taken mighty good care of my three grandchildren.

Dr. Andrews says you are correct—no child should be immunized against measles until he has reached his first birthday. Immediately thereafter, however, he can and should be protected. Usually the one shot also includes immunization against rubella and mumps as well. This protects the child for life against these three diseases.

Most public health departments (city or county—look in the phone book) will give the shots free if you cannot afford to pay a nominal fee. Of course all practicing pediatricians will give the shots, but it costs considerably more since the vaccine is expensive.

Thank you for writing. I urge every mother who reads this column to immediately immunize every child who has passed his first birthday.

Dear Ann Landers: I take exception to your comments which were a glad putdown to ice hockey and its fans. No hockey fan wants his sail wants to see injuries occur. Hockey is, however, a contact sport, and injuries are unavoidable.

A case in point: Recently a visiting team's player was injured at Madison Square Garden. As he was taken off the ice, the New York fans gave him a standing ovation. Does that sound like "bloodthirsty sadism"?

If you want blood, don't go to a hockey game—go to a prize fight where grown men beat each other senseless for millions of dollars. I suggest 10 knocks with an ice-cold hockey puck for you, Kidds. Signed—Irwin Ranger Fan

Dear Irate: Thanks for expressing your point of view. But please don't send me to any prize fights. That is the ultimate in legalized mayhem and manslaughter.

Clothes for Average Canadians - Hard-wearing & They're Washable

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Designer Showcase, showing here before touring the country, has chosen clothes for average Canadians, not fashion fans.

The show's sponsor is a washing product and most of the clothes chosen from the spring and summer lines of nine Canadian designers are washable.

John Warden offers several pieces in silvery pants velvet that feels as if it should be handled with kid gloves but is actually acetate-and-nylon velour.

The Viva line, designed by Lubo, is mostly heavily-pebbled crepe that is all polyester—almost as rugged as blue jeans. She sends out dresses of the 70s, shirred and with angel sleeves and blas ruffles flirting with peplums.

Leo Chevalier's label says that even his silver grey coat may be "washed with care." It is a rayon-and-polyester blend and comes with leather-look buttons.

Marilyn Brooks uses cotton for a bikini with a wrap skirt, all pastel blooms on a black ground, and Elva Gobbo makes a similar ensemble with hot orange and blue blossoms on white, in ariel tricot.

Communication: Anything That Works

TORONTO (CP) — Speech therapist Mary Hickson will try anything to get her students to talk.

Her class in total communications means, as Mary describes it, "anything that works, including sign language, finger-spelling, typing, gesturing, lip-reading and touching."

The class is an experiment conceived from her feeling that some of the 1,200 retarded children she saw had definite potential but that she was getting nowhere with them.

After studying a program in Picton, Ont., where a friend was teaching sign language to deaf adults, Mary took the course and then convinced her school principal and the Metropolitan Toronto School Board to let her set up an experimental class at M. J. McCordic School.

Since it started last fall, a second class has been established and another teacher hired.

Miss Hickson said all of her students, aged 6 to 14, have made tremendous progress.

"In one day they were doing what I had thought it would take months to do," she said. "These children had a backlog of words. They knew what please and thank you meant, but had never been able to use them."

She found teaching them vocabulary was not difficult. What was hard was teaching them how to communicate, using their vocabulary in the street.

Miss Hickson declined to go into semantics over the controversy among educators of the deaf, that teaching sign language to deaf children will force them to communicate only with other deaf people who use sign language.

"These children were not communicating with anyone before," she said.

She also said many had never had a friend before and, in the light of the progress being made in the class, that some may not be retarded at all.

The program includes gross motor activity and fine finger-control exercises, based on play.

Miss Hickson said: "Many of these children have never learned to play the way a normal one-or two-year-old plays with his toys, learning language. It's no fun for a mother if her child can't respond and it's frustrating then any response she does get is unintelligible."

Language is learned on the floor, so the children use play for communication therapy.

"The children don't even know how to play. Some have never been allowed to touch things because they could con-ol their hands and would break them."

More Tranquilizers Given To Women Than to Men

TORONTO (CP) — Pharmacist Ruth Cooperstock of the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation said Tedesday her studies show that physicians prescribe twice as many mood-altering drugs to women as they do to men.

Mrs. Cooperstock said her study, started three years ago, shows that the tranquilizer Valium, sleeping pills and other psychotropic drugs are prescribed mainly to women.

She said one physician said this is because "females are more emotional and more prone to acting out."

"It is about time we woke up and . . . started questioning the pill pushing and unnecessary surgery we've been buying," she told a meeting of the Ontario Status of Women Council.

Mrs. Cooperstock said that the Ontario Medical Federation agreed at a recent conference that tranquilizers should be prescribed for no more than two weeks at a time and only in emergency or extreme emotional circumstances, such as a bereavement.

"My studies indicate that tranquilizers are being taken for an average of 3 days or more and sleeping pills 23 days despite warnings to the contrary from the federation."

Mrs. Cooperstock said the pharmaceutical industry is "one of the second most profitable in the world today with an annual profit of 10 to 12 per cent" because of the heavy use of mood-altering drugs.

She said $5 million was spent on "just one strength" of Valium in Ontario in 1972.

Dr. Marion Powell, director of the Population Centre, University of Toronto, told the meeting she feels most strongly about advertisements in medical journals on the deficiency of the hormone estrogen as it relates to women.

"On one page, an ad depicts a man with a caption suggesting he has estrogen deficiency," she said. "Turn the page and it shows a haggard woman of 55. In subtle ways, the ad is inducting physicians to prescribe estrogen to the women to relieve the marital stress her husband is going through because she lacks the hormone."

Dr. Powell also said women are subjected to more unnecessary surgery than men.

"But I don't think it is a deliberate male thing," she said. "Both men and women practising medicine are equally responsible."

Mrs. Cooperstock said her research shows a minimum of 25 per cent of hysterectomies are unnecessary.

Doris Clark

Her Young Relative Desperate for Help

Dear Doris: I am worried about my husband's young brother. The four children lived with a cruel stepfather for years and this youngest one is really damaged, emotionally. Since the stepfather beat him so badly with a wire cord that even relatives he hadn't seen in ages had words with him about this beating.

He is 20 now and living with us. I am trying to do what I can for him, but he has no idea of the value of money, is heavily in debt, and he seems depressed all the time. He shuts us out of his mind when we talk to him.

There is a lot of tension in our marriage since he has been with us. I think the mother should be more responsible for him, but you can't make people do what they don't want, can you?

This boy will fall flat on his face if we let him go on his own. . .

Unhappy Marriage.

Dear Unhappy: It would be heartless not to help your young brother-in-law, if you possibly can. He needs love and moral support — desperately. At the same time he is disrupting your household, which means you must help him to become independent. The mother has her own problems.

This is where trained counselling can be of tremendous help. A social worker can help you to see more clearly what to do about the boy, your husband and yourself.

If there should be mental illness developing here, action in the direction of professional help is urgent.

Aquarobic.
The only sewage treatment system for individual households to be accepted by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.
Aquarobic. You may not know the name of this revolutionary, new, home sewage treatment system, but the Ontario Research Foundation is very familiar with it.
The people at ORF, working in consultation with the Ontario Ministry of the Environment, tested Aquarobic for 12 full months. The result: Aquarobic was accepted for use in Ontario for individual households.
Hundreds of other people . . . owners of full-time dwellings, cottages, chalets . . . have come to know Aquarobic in the past year as the only practical solution for their home sewage treatment problems.
The completely automatic Aquarobic system is the first true alternative to the septic tank. It was perfected and is marketed by a 70-year old Canadian company, Waltec Industries Ltd. The company guarantees every system for 10 years.
Just how much waste water can Aquarobic handle? The answer: Aquarobic can treat up to 400 Canadian gallons of raw sewage per day, the waste water of up to 10 persons.
Sophisticated engineering design often allows Aquarobic to be installed in an area as small as one-fifth the size needed for a septic system. This makes Aquarobic particularly valuable to owners of lots with irregular shapes, rocky terrain, many trees or other limiting site conditions.
If you're concerned about the proper treatment of household waste at your home or cottage, you owe it to yourself to find out more about Aquarobic.

Quinte Cuisine

Clive Jones, English instructor at Loyalist College for the past two years, is a bachelor and has consequently learned to fend for himself in the kitchen. Mr. Jones, who leaves this spring for an extended stay overseas, suggests this recipe as an easy and wholesome dish suitable for a single meal, or as a good addition to a menu when entertaining friends.

Sweet Salad

The ingredients are listed in quantities sufficient for one person and can be multiplied according to the number of dinner guests.

one hard-cooked egg
two oz. medium cheddar cheese two small apples
half head lettuce
one handful of spinach leaves
½ cup raisins
½ cup unblanched almonds
one tomato (optional)
a few chopped chives or sliced green onions one handful of fresh mushrooms
½ avocado (optional)

Hard cook the egg first, so that it has time to cool before being used in the salad.

Break the lettuce into small pieces. Chop off the spinach stems, and then slice the leaves finely. Mix with the lettuce in a salad bowl.

Remove the core of the tomato and cut into six or eight segments. Add to the lettuce. Add only a few chives or onions, being careful that the harsh taste of onions does not become dominant.

Slice the apples — a little lemon juice will prevent discoloring — then slice the mushrooms, and lay these on top of the salad.

Peel and slice the egg, and add it, followed by the avocado, cut in small chunks, and the cheese, cut in ½-inch cubes. Then add the raisins and almonds on top of the rest of the salad.

This doesn't need a dressing, and makes a complete meal when served with hot crusty rolls or brown rice, and a light white wine.

Do you know any good cooks? The Intelligencer is looking for cooks in the area willing to share their recipes with our readers. If you're a good cook, or if you know one, write The Women's Department, The Intelligencer. Be sure to include his or her address and phone number.

She's Brothers' Keeper

Leith DeTracey, executive director of the Big Brothers Association in Belleville, has the job of finding men who will volunteer time each week to spend with boys who have no fathers or attentive uncles and older brothers. Funded by the Kinsmen, the group's driving force has been Roly Thomas, one of the executive who hired Mrs. DeTracey to head the otherwise male organization.

More Big Brothers Needed

"In my letter of application, I didn't let on I'm a woman until the very last paragraph," says Leith De Tracey with a smile.

"But I said that I had a lot to offer the Big Brothers Association. As soon as I saw the ad in the paper, even though I hadn't been looking for a job, I knew I'd like to try this one."

And out of 15 other (all males) applicants, Mrs. De Tracey was selected as the new executive director of the Belleville Big Brothers Association.

She's the second woman to fill this position in an organization begun here just over a year ago. The former executive director moved to Peterborough earlier this year, and left the board of directors with the favorable impression that the job could be handled well by a woman.

Mother of four children, Mrs. DeTracey brings her experience as a parent. Many years spent teaching swimming and working at summer camps, as well as her university background in psychology.

The part-time (15 hours a week) job is funded by the local Kinsmen club, and is largely a matter of organization and phone-calling that can be easily conducted from her home.

At this point, as the Big Brothers Association is getting underway, Mrs. DeTracey's main concern is to get a large pool of potential big brothers from which to choose.

"We match very carefully," she explains, "so that the interests and personality of each boy are similar to those of the man who'll become his Big Brother. On the morning, I have at least a dozen boys who want, and need, a Big Brother. But I only have two adults on hand."

Supplying a boy — any between 6 and 16 who have no other male influence in their lives — with a Big Brother is a painstaking process. Mrs. DeTracey's work includes interviewing prospective candidates, discussing cases with mothers, school teachers and psychologists, and getting to know each boy's special needs.

She is presently assisted by Zeff Bernstein of Foxboro, who has a professional background in counselling teenaged boys. They work as a team, sharing their impressions and information.

"I can feel something for the mothers we see, who have to cope with boys without a husband to help them. My husband's often away because of his job, so that gives me a little insight into what it's like," she says.

Mrs. DeTracey explains that the role a Big Brother plays is not as part of the boy's existing family. The boy may become a part of the man's home life to some extent — joining his family on camping trips or for baseball games — but basically the relationship is simply one-to-one.

Ideally, as the boy feels increasingly secure that he is receiving undivided attention from his Big Brother, emotional or behavioral problems he might have had tend to decrease.

The men are encouraged to take a firm stand with the boys, she says, and are advised not to be permissive, and not to try to "buy" affection with gifts or expensive outings.

"One little boy wanted his Big Brother to buy him a pizza," Mrs. Detracey recalls, "and instead the man got all the ingredients and made the pizza at home with the boy's help. It's the doing things together that's important."

"The Big Brothers Association provides some counselling and guidance for the men, but they're pretty well on their own once the initial meetings are over," says Mrs. DeTracey.

Any men, single or married, with families of their own or without, who would like further information about the project, may phone the Big Brothers Association at 962-3666 to leave their names for future contact.

Nurses Convention

'A Profession with Res ponsibility'

A dean and professor of the school of nursing at the University of Western Ontario in London says the nursing profession carries a great responsibility towards the present generation which has been beset by the results of a turbulent century.

Dr. Josephine Flaherty told area nurses here Saturday, "our generation has inherited the results of a turbulent century — both its benefits and its ills. Our generation is the one for whose health care present and future, the nursing profession carries a large responsibility."

She was speaking to a dinner meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, Region Three, Registered Nurses Association of Ontario (RNAO) marking the RNAO's 50th anniversary.

"Every period in the RNAO's history has been marked by issues and problems that seem to be more complex and challenging than any of those which went before," commented Dr. Flaherty, an RNAO past-president.

She continued, "I can't help but be struck by the ability our profession has shown to respond to the issues — those related to society and its needs and those related to nurses and their needs."

"Rarely if ever have these two sets of needs been in adversary positions," remarked Dr. Flaherty.

She pointed out there has been "a subtle but distinct change" in nursing which has brought the profession "to the threshhold of what may be its finest hour."

She said it has become "one of the most active and aware groups of professionals in the country. Nursing as a social force is being seen and heard as never before."

Dr. Flaherty admitted nursing has had its failures and noted "the persistence of discrimination against men in nursing. Female nurses have enjoyed officer status in the Canadian Armed Forces since early in this century — men received this status only during the last decade."

Win Donaldson holds nurses' special honor.

Nurses—50 Years Later

About 150 nurses, members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, Region Three, Registered Nurses Association of Ontario (RNAO) returned to the site here Saturday where 50 years ago, the RNAO was officially formed.

On Saturday, April 10 1926, the RNAO elected its first president in the Quinte Hotel and on the following day, convened the first meeting of the newly elected board of directors which began the task of establishing committees to deal with some specific problems facing the professional association and its 526 members.

In commemoration of the event, six chapter members present with 50 years or more experience in nursing were recognized and as an added touch, three student nurses were noted as those who would embark on the next 50 years.

Dr. Josephine Flaherty, an RNAO past-president, told the group, the past 50 years have seen Ontario nursing grow from embryo to maturity — the next 50 years may see its self-actualize and become fully-developed."

Canadians Don't Fear Depression

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians appear to have no real fear of a depression except in some parts of Quebec and Ontario motor cities hard-hit by the slump in the automobile industry, senior newspaper executives suggest.

The executives, surveyed on the eve of the annual meeting of The Canadian Press, Canada's national news-gathering agency, also agree generally that the public is getting fed up with strikes that affect public service, such as transportation, hospitals and the mails.

However, Robert Gibbens, business editor of Montreal Star, said the "biggest single economic issue among ordinary people is why food prices go on rising when we're in a recession."

He echoed a general feeling among the executives that inflation has not yet been licked and will get worse if labor demands bring on too many production-crippling strikes.

But none of these problems, the executives agree, indicate that a full-scale depression is in the future.

Seek Change

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An official of Canadian Forces Long Service Pensioners Association said Sunday it is campaigning for a new government definition of veteran in an attempt to increase the number of persons eligible for veterans' benefits.

At present the official government definition of veteran is someone who has served in a war zone. The last officially designated war zone was Korea, 25 years ago.

Leeds MP Says Return To PC Principles Sought

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Tom Cossitt, Progressive Conservative MP for Leeds, said Saturday a group being formed within the Conservative party cannot be considered as right wing. He said the group wants "to return the party to Conservative principles."

It will provide "middle-of-the-road" alternatives to the policies of the Liberal government and of persons in control of the Conservative caucus, Mr. Cossitt said in an interview.

"There is a feeling that the six or eight people who now control the caucus and the party follow policies foreign to Conservative philosophy," he said.

Mr. Cossitt said the group feels persons in control of the caucus represent a socialist approach to problems in the country.

He said that 11 members of Parliament attended the first meeting of the group two months ago and 26 were at the second meeting. Thirty-two of the 35 caucus members now are identified with the group, he added.

Incentives Urged To Care for Elderly

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Bettie Stephenson, president of the Canadian Medical Association, suggested Saturday tax incentives to encourage families to care for the elderly in their homes.

She told a health-costs session at a policy conference of about 400 Ontario Progressive Conservative women that there are "all kinds of disincentives" for home-care for the elderly.

Among them is the scarcity in communities of trained people to assist temporarily or relieve families who might want to go on vacations, she said.

A member of the audience said that building an additional bedroom to provide for her parent only increased municipal taxes for the family home.

A tax benefit for families similar to that now paid the elderly might balance some of the disincentives, Dr. Stephenson said.

"At the moment there is nothing, absolutely nothing."

Belleville McFarland, Lionel Botty, intercepts a pass intended for Syracuse Stars Angie Defelice (6) in Saturday's Ontario Hockey Association game at the Memorial Arena. Botty was one of the McFarlands who came out of retirement for the contest. Goalie Don "Turk" Barclay was glad he did, on this occasion. Fiori Goegan Night at the Memorial Arena. The contest finished in a 6-6 draw.

Minnie Remembers When It Was for Him

This isn't the first time the 1959 Belleville McFarland's have reunited in their old home. Eight years ago the World Champions put the same kind of game on for another of their teammates.

Around this time of year in 1967 the McFarlands staged an exhibition match for Minnie Menard. The stalky, little speedster lost an eye while playing in an exhibition game for Belleville Seniors against a team from Napanee.

Menard was one of the players who returned to Belleville for the Memorial Game.

"It's great to see the guys get back together," said Menard, "I'm only sorry that this had to be the reason."

"It's funny," said Menard, "you never hear from any of these guys or see them for years, but as soon as somebody needs help they're right there."

Now 41-year-old, he played with and against Goegan on various teams, in different leagues throughout the United States and Canada for nearly 19 years.

Minnie recalled how tough things were when he lost his eye.

"I was through playing hockey and I didn't think I'd be able to do much of anything. The guys helped me along and gave my wife all the help and needed. Fiori and Eileen (Goegan) were just great with us," said Mrs. Menard). When they had that game for me and handed me the cheque afterwards everything just started coming together. Things started looking brighter."

Menard has never forgotten that emotional event. "It is probably the greatest thing in my life."

He went on to explain, "It's strange what everybody on that team felt for each other. The only way I can think of to explain it is to call it camaraderie — even though it's more than that."

"It isn't the same with hockey teams today. Kids playing hockey now just don't relate to each other the way we did," he added.

His "camaraderie" as he calls it is emphasized just by the fact that the jolly little Frenchman was here. He travelled 1,500 miles, from Des-Moines, Iowa, just to pay his respects to the family and appear in the hockey game.

"What the hell," he shrugged, "they all gave a lot for me. I'm glad I could give a little back."

Though he knew no-one would come, Menard went out and pushed 200 tickets in Des Moines.

Because of the circumstances surrounding the game it was the benefactor from the same type of contest, Menard was asked for an objective opinion of what happened at Fiori's game last Saturday.

Quite simply, he stated, "what this whole thing boils down to is an act of love. We all care about each other that much."

WIN SINGLES TITLES

MONTREAL (CP) — Ray Stevens of England won the men's singles title Sunday at the Canadian open badminton championship by defeating Thomas Kilstrom of Sweden 1-15, 15-5, 15-10. Margaret Beck of England took the women's singles over Joke van Beusekom of the Netherlands.

A Little Slower Than 1959 But Nobody Seemed to Mind

The fastest game on earth took on a slightly slow dimension Saturday night as members of the 1959 World Champion Belleville McFarlands pulled their skates, sticks and equipment out of mothballs and reunited at the Memorial Arena to take on the Syracuse Stars.

It was an exhibition game made in heaven. The fans loved it, the players loved it and the scoreboard loved it as 12 lights beamed the 6-6 score at the end of 60 minutes of play.

About 1400 people patronized the event through the front doors of the Memorial Arena and how many more purchased tickets and couldn't make it to the contest are yet to be tallied.

All proceeds from the event went to Eileen Goegan and her three sons, Mike, Grant and Gary, to help them iron out the rough spots after the untimely death of the head of the family, Fiori, in late February.

Fiori, a defenceman with that great McFarland team, had settled in the city in the '50s. He then went on and won the Allen cup with the club in '58 and in '59 was an integral part of the McFarlands bringing the world title back home.

Previous to the game's opening faceoff, Mrs. Goegan was presented with the first portion of the canvassed funds. Her eldest son, Mike, was presented, with the McFarland's number 5, the number which was worn by his father. That number will never again be donned by a McFarland player.

Fans, both young and old, were treated to the shenanigans and the serious side of hockey while watching the contest. Father time had dimmed the smooth polish of the McFarlands, but underneath a dull exterior it was easy to see there remained the glistening epitome of a hockey team.

As one spectator said, "Man, it's easy to see why they were the world champs."

Another onlooker smiled and said, "they ain't as young any more, but they still got it."

Wayne "Weiner" Brown and Davey Jones, both from Belleville ,were up to their old tricks as they dipsy-doodled up and down the ice leaving many of the Stars with their jaws dropping.

John Paul Payette and Minnie Menard were another pair who were slowed only slightly by the years since they were tween the world championship and Saturday's contest. Even 'Mens' Joe Lepine portrayed his part on the McFarland's of '59 as the hulking defenceman parked himself in front of goalie, Don 'Turk' Barclay, and stepped into any Star who harrassed the Turk.

It was a night that brought back memories for many, but it was also a night that became a memory for many. Over half the people who attended the contest were too young to remember the extravaganza of 1959. Nevertheless, they were there requesting autographs, asking questions and watching, in awe, the unit of heroes in their maple-leaf crested uniforms.

The McFarlands held a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period on goals by Payette and Jones. The second frame ended in a 4-4 deadlock. Payette scored twice second and Brown added the other. In the third period, George "Goose" Gosselin and Lou Smirke tallied to give the McFarlands a tie.

Doug Murray, a Belleville resident playing for the Stars collected a goal and an assist.

Goegans Follow Hockey Tradition

Though Fiori is gone, what he left behind will go on for a long time to come. The hard nosed defenceman with the World Champion Belleville McFarlands was well known throughout the Quinte area and in sporting circles across Ontario and through the United States.

More than that, Fiori left a legacy of hockey players to the city of Belleville. His three sons, Mike, Grant and Gary will not only carry on the enamomen, but also their father's hockey tradition.

Mike, at 22, has already played through the minor ranks and junior B level in the city. This past season he spent with Stanley Structures of the Gas House Hockey League. His father played for the same team and the two had just completed a game when Fiori was stricken. His eldest son finished out the season with Stanley and on behalf of the team accepted the league championship trophy after the club rolled to a 22-2, won-lost record.

Grant, the middle man, has already established himself as a versatile and extremely talented hockey player. The 19-year-old just completed his first full season with the local Junior B, Belleville Bobcats. Grant is hoping to further his education and his hockey career by attending university.

The youngest Goegan, Gary, 16, is still an unknown commodity. He spent last year playing with the Belleville Yardmen Minor Midgets (a city all-star representative) and is expected to remain in the minor ranks for a few more years.

Mike Goegan, the eldest son of the late Fiori Goegan, accepts the number 5 sweater which his father wore during h's days with the world champion Belleville McFarlands. The sweater was presented to the team at Saturday night's game at the Memorial Arena. Wayne Brown presented Mike with sweater on behalf of the entire McFarland team.

Mouth Guards Disappearing

As a follow-up to my letter of November 4, 1974, concerning "Facial injuries in minor hockey", I beg to report on a survey carried out in the month of March during the House League playoffs.

As was feared the mouth guard is disappearing in the older age groups, the Midget and the Juvenile. Every shift of five players saw at least one of their number without any mouth guard, neither internal nor external. That meant 20 per cent of the players in these two divisions have chosen to take advantage of the new Minor Hockey rule which no longer requires the external guard, and wear no protection at all. The tragedy lies in the fact that most of these boys are the more careless and reckless players, and hence need this very protection the most.

And even the innocent suffer as was seen in a game played March 27. A forward run into an elbow, not a forceful blow, and saw one of his good front teeth fall into his hand. He was wearing an internal guard and I am certain an external guard would have prevented any injury.

A new external mouth guard has made its appearance in the local stores. It gives the most solid support with a minimum of discomfort. It has extensions up both sides of the face which fasten solidly to the helmet. For added protection to the eyes and cheekbones this helmet can be fitted with a clar plastic shield, which make protection for the head complete.

In the same month it was noted that many boys are playing with inadequate helmets i.e. not approved by the Canadian Standards Association. This inadequacy leaves the player susceptible to the more serious head injuries, concussion, fractures, and brain hemorrhage.

Most goaltenders in Belleville Minor Hockey both house league and all-star, wear a partially dangerous, and illegal, combination of mask and helmet. The Rule clearly states there can be only one finger's breadth allowed between the two pieces of equipment from the top of one ear across the top of the head to the top of the other ear. This rule is intended to prevent the accidental contact between skull and stick or puck which could result in serious injury.

The off-season is a good time to pick up bargains in hockey equipment and I urge parents and players to choose their new equipment carefully.

Peewee Title To Wellington

Wellington has another Ontario Minor Hockey Association champion today.

Members of the Loyalist Coach Lines Peewee hockey club arrived in the village early this morning, accompanied by wailing sirens signaling the team's Peewee D provincial championship.

The Loyalist youngsters wrapped up the title, Sunday, in Cayuga, with a well-earned 6-2 win, taking the best of five final in four games.

Coached by Bill Greer, the Wellington team won the first two games of the series, earned a tie in the third, and won it all, on the road.

Loyalist waited until the second period to find the range in Cayuga, Sunday, but when the Wellington skaters began to produce, it was with a four-goal burst.

Cayuga's Graig Baird opened the scoring with the first frame's only counter.

In the second, John Jackson, Glenn McQuaid, Mark Nelson and Don Macdonald pushed Wellington into a comfortable lead.

Loyalist kept the pressure on in the third to hold a 2-1 edge in the scoring.

McQuaid potted his second of the game and Jay Ramsbottom rounded out the scoring for Wellington.

Cayuga's final goal came off the stick of Chris McSorley.

On the roster of the champion team are Jim Keene, Doug McKenzie, John Jackson, Stuart Carter, Glenn McQuaid, Mark Nelson, Don Mcdonald, Dick Mountney, Mike Lamp, Joe Karas, Tim Beatty, Jay Ramsbottom, Alvin Holmes, Roger Haagsma, Ron Davies and Kevin Delson. Assisting coach Greer, is team manager Ralph Mountney.

Time has taken its toll on a few of the Belleville McFarlands as big Joe Lepine will verify. Lepine, a defenceman with the world champion team, rests on a chair between shifts in Saturday night's exhibition game at the Memorial Arena.

Earn Washington Trip

Joern Remesberger, a third year player, and Theresa Deak, in her fifth year, will represent the Quinte area in the Brunswick "Bowl. Your Way To Europe Tournament".

The local pair will travel to Washington, D.C. for the 10th annual Inter-national Tournament Finals, May 23, 24 and 25. The two, both from Belleville, won the expense paid trip to the U.S. capital at Brunswick Brunswick Bowl, Sunday.

To make it to Washington, and to Europe, the pair had to bowl the greatest number of pins over their average.

Remesberger carries a 144 average and he rolled a 196, 46 pins over. Deak rolled 51 pins over her 151 average.

Mrs. Eileen Goegan accepts a cheque of nearly $5,000 from Jack McBride, master of ceremonies at the Fiori Goegan Memorial Night, Saturday at the Memorial Arena. The presentation was made at centre ice, just prior to an exhibition game between the world champion Belleville McFarlands and the Syracuse Stars. Here, (from left-to-right) are McBride, Eileen, John and Tony Goegan (Fiori's brothers), and the three boys, Grant, Gary and Mike.

Canadiens Dump Canucks

Lockett Looks Good But Not Good Enough

GUY LAFLEUR

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Ken Lockett was an unexpected starter in goal Sunday night for Vancouver Canucks in their first-ever Stanley Cup playoff game against Montreal Canadiens.

Vancouver coach Phil Maloney decided to use Lockett, who allowed one goal and had two shutouts in Vancouver's last three regular-season games, helping the Canucks gain first place in the Smythe Division and a bye into the quarter-finals.

Lockett, a former star with the University of Guelph, Ont., Gryphons, played well, but it was not enough to stop Montreal from defeating the Canucks 6-3 in the opening game of their quarter-final series.

In other quarter-final openers, Philadelphia Flyers topped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2, Buffalo Sabres clipped Chicago Black Hawks 4-1 and Pittsburgh Penguins nipped New York Islanders 5-4.

Maloney, who used Lockett instead of regular goalie Gary Smith, said "goaltending was not our problem" Sunday night.

He said Lockett "made some good saves for us," but "we had 31 shots and they had 30."

Lockett, 27, played two seasons with Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League after leaving Guelph. He was purchased outright by the Canucks from the Clippers during the off season.

He said he was told around noon Sunday that he would be in goal against Montreal.

Guy Lapointe and Guy Lafleur each scored twice for Montreal, who blew a 2-0 lead in the first period but scored two unanswered goals in each of the last two periods.

Maloney, defending his decision to start Lockett in place of Smith, who played the majority of games for the Canucks this year, said:

"Ken plays some excellent goal for us in some pressure games at the end of the season. Ken on his own deserved a chance to start. He was good enough to get into first place. How can you turn around and say he isn't good enough to play in the playoffs? I have to think of that."

Smith has been bothered by a groin injury but Maloney said he will start Tuesday's.

Goals by Bill Barber, Reggie Leach and Jim Watson in a span of two minutes and 37 seconds early in the final period carried Philadelphia, defending cup champions, to its comeback win over the Maple Leafs.

Rick MacLeish scored the first two goals of the game and connected with seven seconds remaining to complete his three-goal effort for the Flyers, Patrick Division winners.

Dave Williams, Blaine Stoughton and Darryl Sittler replied for the Leafs, who held a 3-2 lead entering the final period. The goals by Stoughton and Sittler came within a 25-second span after Andre Dupont of the Flyers was ejected with a match penalty by referee Andy van Hellemond for boarding Toronto's Dave Dunn during their fight at 17:38.

At Buffalo, the Sabres got first-period goals from rookie Danny Gare, Gilbert Perreault and Fred Stanfield and went on to top the Hawks.

In Pittsburgh, the Penguins got goals from Vic Hadfield, Ron Stackhouse and Peter Lafrarnboise in the first 14 minutes and then withstood a furious Islanders assault in the final minutes of the third period to take the win.

Twenty Minutes Plenty Of Time for Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Any pretenders to Philadelphia Flyers' Stanley Cup throne are in for a battle, if Sunday's Maple Leafs-Flyers game is any indication of the way the National Hockey League playoffs will go.

After two periods Sunday night, the Flyers were losing 2-1. They had taken only 12 shots on goal, and faced the prospect of killing two minutes and 32 seconds of the major penalty Andre Dupont had incurred for head-butting in a fight with the Leafs' Dave Dunn.

But the Flyers, veterans of only eight years in the NHL, did not panic, said coach Fred Shero.

"In between the second and third periods, we talked about the situation," recalled Shero. "I told them there was nothing to worry about. Twenty minutes is a lot of time.

FRED SHERO

"I told them to leave the referee alone; that he was having a bad game."

Twenty minutes, four goals and 14 shots later, the Flyers skated away with a 6-3 triumph in the opener of their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

If there was any confidence problem, it was in the Leafs' dressing room.

"We're the expansion team and the Flyers are the veterans," said Toronto coach Red Kelly. "Remember, we have five guys in this playoff for the first time."

It wasn't an auspicious debut, although Leafs goalie Gord McRae drew compliments from his coach for his first quarter-final appearance. McRae sparkled in Toronto's 3-1 first-round series victory over Los Angeles Kings, and did his best Sunday against a Flyers team that took last week off with the bye earned through its Patrick Division championship.

"McRae is my best goaltender," Kelly said. "That's why he played."

Sweden Wallops Poland

DUSSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Tord Lundstroem and Dan Labraaten each scored four goals as Sweden blanked Poland 15-0 Sunday in the most lopsided game in the 1975 Group A world hockey tournament.

It was the Swedes' fourth victory in six games.

For Poland, it was the second defeat in succession during the weekend. The Polish team lost 8-2 Saturday to Czechoslovakia, while the Soviet Union remained undefeated after three games with a 13-1 triumph over the United States.

The Soviet Union wound up the first round of the tournament in Munich with a 5-0 record. Vladimir Vikulov scored three goals to lead the Russians to victory over the Americans, which opened the second round for both teams.

The Czechs are second with a 3-1 record and the Swedes, who outshot Poland 54-13, are 4-2.

In another second-round game Sunday, Finland defeated the U.S. 9-1. It was the seventh loss in a row for the U.S.

WINS NETBALL CROWN

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario went undefeated in four games to win the first annual Canadian netball tournament Sunday after beating Quebec 60-12, Nova Scotia 49-9, Alberta 46-13 and British Columbia 39-30. Netball, played by women, is a game similar to basketball.

No Excuses Tonight

Leduc and Houle Hopping Over Losses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros have at least two things to your Dem on tonight when they met San Diego Mariners in the third game of their World Hockey Association best-of-seven quarter-final playoff.

The first thing is the fact that the Mariners hold a 2-0 lead in the series after a 7-6 victory in San Diego Saturday night and another loss would put the Toros on the brink of elimination.

The second factor is that tonight the Toros will have a home-crowd cheering for them.

A third incentive is an angry Toros general manager, Buck Houle, who is running out of patience with the team's undisciplined style of play. "For three years, I've been telling them to tighten up," said Houle after Saturday's loss.

And the fourth incentive is an equally angry coach Bob Leduc, who also has been frustrated by his team's error-prone play.

"Something's going to have to sink in with the guys," said Leduc. "It's tough to win in the playoffs when you have to score eight goals."

In playoff action Sunday, Minnesota Fighting Saints took a 2-1 lead in their series against New England by beating the Whalers 8-3 while Cleveland Crusaders cut Houston Aeros' lead to 2-1 with a 3-1 win.

Quebec Nordiques are closest to wrapping up their series after taking a 3-0 lead over Phoenix after goalie Richard Brodeur's shutout in a 3-0 win over the Roadrunners on Saturday. Saturday's other game saw

MIKE WALTON

Houston beat Cleveland 5-3.

The Toronto game is the only one scheduled tonight. Action resumes in the other three series on Tuesday with Quebec at Phoenix, Houston at Cleveland and New England at Minnesota.

George Morrison and Terry Ball each scored twice to lead Minnesota in its home-ice victory.

The Saints built a 5-0 lead before the Whalers got their first goal late in the second period.

Injuries continued to hamper New England. They have not had the services of high-scoring centre Tom Webster who suffered a back injury in the first playoff game. Defenceman Brad Selwood didn't play Sunday and the Whalers lost winger John French to a back injury Sunday when he crashed into the boards with Minnesota's Bill Baltrus.

Minnesota's Mike Walton, who had a goal and two assists, said New England "definitely has their problems" playing on Minnesota ice. "I can't figure out why. They've got a well-balanced team. We're just fortunate to be up two games to one."

"When the score is 8-3, there are a lot of things we'll have to work out," said Larry Hillman and Tom Ethor scored third-period power-play goals for the Crusaders' victory, breaking Houston's string of playoff victories at eight, dating back to a year ago when the Aeros took home ice.

"We never have won the third game in a series after losing Minnesota in its home-ice victory.

"That makes a big difference. When you lose the third you kind of go through the motions in the fourth."

Hillman said it made a more important difference. "Now they know we can beat them."

Morales Leads Cubs Over Expos

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Morales drove in three runs and Pete LaCock knocked in two to back up the four-hit pitching of Steve Stone and carry Chicago Cubs to a 7-0 victory Monday over Montreal Expos in a National League baseball game Sunday.

JERRY MORALES

The Cubs scored three unearned runs off Steve Rogers in the third inning with Morales driving in one and LaCock singling in a pair.

They chased Rogers in the fifth with another three run rapping. Don Kessinger led off with a walk and scored on a double by Bill Madlock. Rick Monday was intentionally walked, both runners advanced on a passed ball and when catcher Barry Foote threw wildly to third, Madlock scored.

Morales then singled to score Monday. Two walks and Morales' single brought in the final run in the seventh.

Stone, making his first appearance of the season, struck out the side in the second inning, fanning five of the first eight batters he faced and seven in the game.

Underwood Credits Catcher For Victory in Pitching Debut

Tom Underwood made his major league pitching debut Sunday and performed like a seasoned veteran.

Philadelphia's 21-year-old left-hander held St. Louis Cardinals to five hits and got help from Greg Luzinski's home run and post a 3-0 victory in a National League baseball game.

In the rest of the National League, it was Pittsburgh 5 New York 3; Chicago 7 Montreal 0; Cincinnati 10 San Diego 5; San Francisco took both ends of a doubleheader from Atlanta, 5-0 and 4-2, and Los Angeles downed Houston 7-4.

Saturday, St. Louis got by Philadelphia 7-5, Chicago beat Montreal 6-3, Atlanta defeated San Francisco 7-4, Houston downed Los Angeles 7-5, and San Diego edged Cincinnati 3-2.

BOB BOONE

"He's cool," Philadelphia manager Danny Ozark said of his young pitcher. "He was just as cool the first time I saw him, two years ago."

The reason, Underwood said, was the man he was throwing the ball to—catcher Bob Boone. "I didn't know the hitters," Underwood said. "Boone did. I just threw the ball where he wanted it."

Bruce Kison pitched a three-hitter in the Pittsburgh victory but gave up homers to Dave Kingman and Rusty Staub of the Mets.

Cincinnati's Don Gullett pitched a two-hitter and drove in a pair of runs with a single to highlight a seven-run burst in the fifth inning against the Padres.

Morgan also had a two-run single in the fifth. All of the fifth-inning runs were unearned against San Diego's Dave Freisleben because of three infield errors.

Jim Wynn's three-run homer, breaking a 3-3 tie, and Steve Yeager's cool cool bounced the Dodgers past Houston, offsetting Ken Boswell's three run scoring singles for the Astros.

Rookie John Montefusco pitched a five-hit shutout in the opener while Garry Maddox and Gary Matthews each drove in a pair of runs in the San Francisco - Atlanta double-header.

In the nightcap, Peter Falcone made his major league debut by checking Atlanta on four hits, the only damaging one being Vic Correll's two-run homer.

Split Doubleheader with Tigers

Medich Puts Yanks in Win Column

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees have finally won a ball game.

Normally, that wouldn't be so surprising—but it is the way New York's "finest" have been playing so far this season.

The Yankees, on paper one of the strongest teams in the American League, had gone nearly a week without a victory before finally breaking the ice Sunday.

The fans seem to be worrying more about the early losses than the players do," said Doc Medich, whose two-hit effort earned the Yankees a 5-0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader with Detroit Tigers.

The Yankees then reverted to early-season form and dropped the second game, their fourth loss of the year, by a 5-2 score.

Elsewhere, Cleveland Indians edged Milwaukee Brewers 3-1; Baltimore Orioles routed Boston Red Sox 11-3; Kansas City Royals stopped Minnesota Twins 5-3, and Chicago White Sox took a doubleheader from California Angels, 7-5 in 12 innings in the first and 5-4 in the nightcap. A game between Oakland and Texas was rained out.

Saturday, Boston edged Baltimore 3-2, Detroit beat New York 7-2, Oakland got by Texas 5-4, Kansas City beat Minnesota 3-1, Milwaukee edged Cleveland 6-5, and California defeated Chicago 6-5.

After Medich pitched the Yankees to their first triumph of the season, Lerrin LaGrow pitched the Tigers to their first. LaGrow fired a four-hitter and Willie Horton knocked two two runs in the second game at Yankee Stadium.

Horton's two run single highlighted a three-run rally for Detroit in the third inning of the second game, and gave the Tigers a 4-0 lead. Ron LeFlore provided the Tigers with insurance in the fourth inning, a home run off Rudy May in the first inning.

The Yanks won the opener as Medich struck out five, walked two and limited Detroit to six singles by Gary Sutherland in the first inning and Art James in the third.

John Lowenstein tied the score with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning and John Ellis then doubled home two more runs, carrying Gaylord Perry to his 300th major league victory as Cleveland beat Milwaukee.

Brooks Robinson got four hits and scored four runs, leading Baltimore over Boston. The Orioles collected 10 of their 15 hits off Luis Tiant, who has a 1-2 record against them since joining Boston.

Hal McRae drove in runs in each of his first three appearances, leading Kansas City over Minnesota. Lifting his RBI total to 7 in this season, McRae doubled home a run in the first, singled home one in the third and doubled home another in the fourth inning as the Royals mounted a 5-0 lead behind Steve Busby.

Ken Henderson knocked in four runs, including two to capture a three-run rally in the 12th inning at Chicago beat California in the first game of their doubleheader. Bill Sharp and Jorge Orta each drove in two runs as the White Sox won the second

Marlies, Petes Having Troubles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros, who topped the standings in regular season play, are having their difficulties in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A playoffs.

In their eight-point semi-final series with Sudbury, the Marlboros lost Sunday to keep the series even at three points each.

In the other semi-final series Hamilton Fincups dumped Peterborough Petes 5-2 Sunday after the Petes blanked Hamilton 5-0 in a Saturday contest. Hamilton now leads the series 6-2 in points.

Playoff action resumes tonight with Toronto visiting Sudbury. On Tuesday, Peterborough faces elimination and a home crowd in their fifth game with Hamilton.

A crowd of 4,825 watched Richie Hansen score a short-handed goal midway through the final 20 minutes to lift the visiting Wolves to the tie.

The Marlboros, who took their quarterfinal series with eight-place Kingston Canadians in the eighth and final game, took period leads of 4-1 and 4-2.

Toronto goals went to Bruce Boudreau, Mark Napier, Mike McEwen and Bill Wells.

Don Dugan, Gec Narini and Alex McKendry got the other goals for Sudbury, which outshot Toronto 34-28.

Fincups 5 Petes 2

Archie King scored Hamilton three goals, the last into an empty net with 34 seconds left after the Petes goaltender was lifted at 17:52 of the third period.

Hamilton wiohstood a third-period rally by Peterborough, which trailed 3-0 after the opening period.

Rick Seiling and Mike Keating had single goals for the third-place Fincups, who outshot second-place Peterborough 45-25, including 24-8 in the opening period.

Tony Cassolato and captain Doug Jarvis replied for the Petes, playing on Hamilton ice before, 2,716 spectators.

Petes 5 Fincups 0

Greg Millen earned the shutout in the Petes' first win of the semi-final series, stopping 25 shots before a home crowd of 3,627.

After a scoreless first period, the Petes scored three unanswered goals in the second period.

Brad Pirie scored twice for Peterborough, which fired 27 shots on the Hamilton net. Stan Jonathan, Jarvis and Cassolato got the others.

Flyers Up Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers defeated Lucan-Ilderton Jets 3-2 in two weekend games to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series.

The third game will be played Wednesday in Ilderton, Ont., 10 miles north of London.

In a Sunday game, Paul Regan, scoring champion of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, scored two goals for Barrie. Regan's second goal at 16:19 of the second period proved to be winner.

Grant Moore scored the other Barrie goal.

Doug Galloway and Pete Loveless scored for the Jets, champions of the Continental Senior Hockey League. Lucan-Ilderton playing-coach Jack Nairn assisted on both goals.

Playing in Ilderton, Barrie took period leads of 2-1 and 3-2 and received nine of eleven minor penalties. Each team had 38 shots on goal.

On Saturday, Barrie scored three unanswered goals in the third period after the Jets opened the scoring with a goal in the second period and added another early in the final 20 minutes.

Phil Branston, Jim Thompson and Jack Smith scored for the Flyers while Rick Fifield got the two Jets' goals.

Barrie outshot the visiting Jets 34-32 before 802 hometown fans.

With one provincial title in the records, another team forced to settle for runnerup honors and two more clubs carried to the brink of elimination, the fifth area team involved in these final series, took a strangehold on a record three straight championship.

Wellington Loyalist Coach Ross Powers put the provincial D Fred Norman Trophy in the village's new arena by taking Cayuga in the championship final.

Marmora Bantams, needing only one win to take the D honors in their series with Teeswater, found it just wasn't their weekend when they bowed in games Friday, Saturday and Sunday by scores of 8-7, 5-3 and 5-4, to lose the series 3-2.

In Mitchell, Brighton OPP Peewees, shooting for the C crown, were turned back twice on the weekend, by scores of 8-3 and 8-7 and now trail 3-1 in games in the six-point series.

Fourth game in the final is scheduled for Brighton, Saturday, at 1.30 p.m. Should a fifth game be necessary, it will be played in Mitchell on a date to be announced.

Brighton coach Elgie Currie, while explaining that his squad had its troubles on the larger ice surface at Mitchell, was satisfied that the OPP youngsters had given it an excellent shot and remain in the running.

"The kids played well and they enjoyed themselves. That's the main thing," commented Currie.

At Picton, the Kiwanis Bantams kept their hopes alive, taking a 5-4 Sunday win over Exeter Hawks in the B title series, after losing Saturday, 13-3.

The Picton team trails 3-1 in games with the fifth match set for Exeter, Saturday. If a sixth game is necessary, it will be played in Picton, Sunday.

In Juvenile AA championship play, Trenton Birt's Handy Stand moved to within one win of becoming the first club to take three straight provincial crowns in that division by securing convincing wins over Oakridge Village to lead the set 3-1 in games.

Sunday, Birt's roared to a 10-1 win after posting a 7-3 Saturday victory.

The team has a chance to win it all at home, Wednesday night when the clubs hook up in the fifth game.

Bob Cameron fired three goals to lead the Sunday attack. Bob Thompson clicked for a goal and four assists while Randy Barrr, Brian McKintosh, Rick Matheson, Dave Lewis, Jeff Peckitt and Bruce Leedham rounded out the winners' production.

Dan Creighton spoiled goalie Gary Crandell's bid for a shutout when he counted the lone Oakridge goal halfway through the final frame.

Saturday, Birt's said it with a two-goal burst from Cameron and singles by Scott Poole, MacKintosh, Lewis, Matheson and Thompson.

Counting for the visitors were Craig Heisdon with two, and Creighton.

Final Draw

John Paul Payette draws the final winner of the hockey season for the Belleville Bobcat Blueline Club. The number he drew, at Saturday night's Fiori Coegan Memorial Night, was shared by Ken Bailey and Paul Nobles. General manager of the Bobcats, Snipe Matthews holds the draw bucket above Payette's head. Bailey and Nobles will split $1,500.

Second Best

Marmora was ahead 3-0 in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) Bantam 'D' championships until Friday night when Teeswater defeated them. This happened again Saturday and Sunday, giving Teeswater the all-Ontario championship. Here, Doug Patterson of Stirling presents the trophy for runner-up to Marmora team captain Kelly Welch. Mr. Patterson is past president of the OMHA and is currently treasurer.

QHL Final To Limit

Cornerstone Builders set the stage for a sudden death showdown in their Quinte Hockey League final playoff series with Reid's Dairy, Sunday, scoring a 5-4 win to deadlock the set at 2-2 in games.

The championship will be decided at Memorial Arena tonight (Monday) at 7.30 p.m.

Spurred by the Pope brothers, Norm and Terry, Cornerstone battled its way to even terms.

Norm fired two goals, including the winner, while Terry scored once and picked up two helpers.

Other marksmen for Cornerstone were Doug Jodoin and Roger Johnson.

Looking after the goal production for the Dairymen were Al Ray, Jerry Lucas, Carl Boomhower and Moe Hunter. Brian Smith picked up a pair of assists.

Both teams stuck to hockey with only seven minor penalties handed out. The winners drew three of the two-minute sentences.

Jack Nicklaus – Makes 30 Footer

Nicklaus Takes Fifth Masters Title

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus stood on the 18th hole, Augusta's par-three Red Bee hole, looking at a 40-foot sidehill putt.

His ears were still ringing from the cheers of the thousands lining the long par-five No. 15 behind him where Tom Weiskopf had just knocked home a 14-footer for a birdie that sent him into the lead of the 39th Masters golf tournament with three holes to play.

"Sometimes you get a feeling about these things," Nicklaus said afterward. "I thought I could make the putt. I decided to use a different style. I decided to hand-stroke the putt rather than hit it . . . So I struck it and it rolled in. that, for me, was the tournament."

Weiskopf, momentarily shaken, left his five-iron tee shot 80 feet short on No. 16 and watched his approach putt roll to the left, still 18 feet away. He bogeyed and there was a two-shot shift in these dying moments of one of the greatest golf tournaments ever played.

Nicklaus emerged the winner with an unprecedented fifth Masters title.

He finished with a four-under-par 68 for a 72-hole score of 278 but called it "the greatest Masters I have ever played, better than when I set the record (271) in 1965."

Weiskopf and Johnny Miller were one shot behind at 277, both barely missing birdie putts on the final green that would have tied them for the championship.

The 37-year-old Miller came from 11 shots back after the first two rounds to narrowly miss carrying Nicklaus into a playoff.

After an opening-round 75, Miller fired successive rounds of 71-65-66, setting a record 202 for the last 54 holes and 131 for the last 36.

Weiskopf, at 32 three years younger than Nicklaus, made his fourth runner-up finish in the Masters.

Nicklaus picked up the $40,000 first prize and moved within striking distance of Miller as the year's leading money winner. Miller has earned $149,476, Nicklaus now has won $146,42, and Weiskopf has $113,488.

Hale Irwin, the reigning U.S. Open champion, also gave the last day fans a thrill by shooting an eight-under-par 64—tying course records previously made by Lloyd Mangrum, Nicklaus and England's Maurice Bembridge. He finished with 282, tying Bobby Nichols, who had a 69. Former champion Bill Casper shot 70 for 283 and sixth money.

After 10 holes, Nicklaus and Weiskopf were tied, 11 under par, with Miller only two shots back. No one else was a factor for the title.

At the 11th, a formidable par four, Weiskopf dumped his second into water and Miller, in one of his few miscues, three putted, missing from two feet. Nicklaus now led Weiskopf by one and Miller by three.

Miller got a shot back with a birdie on the par five 13th. Nicklaus and Weiskopf parred.

Tension heightened at the 435-yard 14th. Nicklaus put his approach on the fringe, 40 feet from the cup, and putted to the other fringe 20 feet away, three putting for a bogey five. Just behind him, Weiskopf birdied from six feet, a shift of two strokes.

TOM WEISKOPF

Now Weiskopf was in the lead, 11 under, and Nicklaus was a shot back, with Miller two back. All three birdied the long 15th.

Then Nicklaus sank the 40-foot putt on the 16th.

Guards Lead Kings Attack

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guards Nate Archibald and Jimmy Walker led an early second-half surge to help Kansas City-Omaha Kings defeat Chicago Bulls 102-95 in the only National Basketball Association playoff game Sunday.

Larry McNeill scored a game-high 28 points as Archibald scored 10 points and Walker eight during the first 6½ minutes after intermission, increasing the Kings' 55-51 halftime margin to 77-61.

The victory evened the best-of-seven Western Conference semi-final at 1-1. The Bulls won Wednesday night's opener 95-89 in Chicago.

In American Basketball Association playoff action Sunday, Kentucky downed Memphis 111-99 to win its best-of-seven semi-final 4-1, and St. Louis defeated New York 100-89 to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final.

In the NBA Saturday, Washington stopped Buffalo Braves 120-106 to even its Eastern Conference best-of-seven semi-final at 1-1, Houston Rockets defeated New York Knicks 118-96 to win the best-of-three first round series 2-1, and Seattle Supersonics downed Detroit Pistons 100-95 to win the first-round playoff 2-1.

Saturday in the ABA, San Antonio defeated Indiana 118-108 after Indiana had taken the first three games of the best-of-seven quarter-final, and Denver stopped Utah 120-119 to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final.

Allison Wins Rebel 500

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Bobby Allison watched the leaders drop out ahead of him, then won a mad sprint over the final 10 miles to take the Rebel 500 stock car race Sunday.

Allison, driving a Matador, took the lead for the first time with eight laps to go and held off Darrell Waltrip and his brother Donnie Allison to win the race by about three feet.

Dave Marcis, three laps back, was fourth and Coo Coo Marlin, nine laps back, finished fifth.

Allison got his chance when David Pearson, duelling for the lead with Bennie Parsons, got reckless on Darlington's tight first turn.

With less than 25 miles to go, Pearson pulled inside of Parsons and the two cars headed side by side into the turn. It didn't work.

The cars touched each other and Parsons was pushed into the concrete retaining wall, with Pearson locked to his side.

Bobby Allison earned $15,065 for his second National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Grand National victory of the year.

Snyder Wins Again On Buffalo Lark

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The only way jockey Larry Snyder knows how to win $100,000 races is by riding Buffalo Lark, which is what he did Saturday to take the $140,200 Pan American Handicap at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla.

"I've only won two $100,000 of the stretch and going on to claim $94,120. London Company ended up second for $28,040, Duke Tom second for $14,020 plemental winner for getting $14,020 while by Stagecoach.

Meanwhile, Wilfrido Omana, 23, one of Mexico's leading jockeys, died Saturday from a head injuries suffered in a spill last week at Caliente Race Track in Tijuana, a track spokesman said.

Omana remained unconscious and paralyzed on the left side of his body from the time of the accident until he died despite four hours of surgery to remove a blood clot from his brain after the spill last Saturday.

Elsewhere on the U.S racing scene Saturday, Kentucky Derby prospect Wicked Park became a stakes winner for the second time at Baltimore's Pimlico with a mild upset in the second division of the $77,825 Survivor Stakes.

Wicked Park ran the 1 1-4 miles in 1:45 3-5. In the first division of the stakes race, William Farish's Tinker Fox won with a time of 1:45 2-5.

Ridden by Joe Marcisle, the leading apprentice jockey in the U.S., Wicked Park was sent to the front approaching the first turn and was not seriously threatened, winning by seven lengths.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of our dear husband who died passed away April 16, 1973.
Sweet memories are all we mourned, Heart of my husband, I miss you often, my darling, my tears will flow
Dreaming your picture before my eyes,
But never the one in my heart that lies.
The stars seem dim as I whisper low
My own darling husband, I miss you so.
—Never forgotten by loving wife Ethel.

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of my dearly Harry Alexander who passed away April 14, 1972.
The blow was great, the shock sadness,
We time thought his death so soon, Only those that have had can tell, The anguish of parting without farewell.
—Lovee, daughter Allison.

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of our dear father Harry Alexander who passed away April 14, 1972.
Wonderful memories, woven in gold,
This is the pleasure I treasury hold, Dear Dad, your memory is treasured
The love for a son I will never forget.
Peacefully sleeping, at rest
The worlds weary troubles and trials are over,
Sweet is your slumber,
In paradise you have
Yet God called you home to suffer no more.
—Lovingly remembered, your mother.

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of our dear father Harry Alexander who passed away April 14, 1972.
Days of sorrow still come over us, Years in silence often flow,
Memories of dad are ever near us, Both you and time remain.
—Always remembered by Grandma Hunter.

BASSETTE — In loving memory of our dear father Fritz Bassette who passed away April 16, 1971 and beloved husband of Ethel who passed away 1973.
Time may heal the broken-hearted, Time may make the wound less sad
But it cannot fill the longing, For the loved one dad.
Who shall say the grief is lessened, Who shall say the years have flown,
Memories keep the wound still open.
Despite the passing of the years
—Always remembered by Joan, Fred, Ethel Marie, Sylvia and Barbara.

BASSETTE — In loving memory of our father and mother Fritz and Ethel Bassette.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall, Love's remembrance outlasts all, And through the years he mourn Their memory.
They are filled with remembrance as we
Sadly forgotten are the dear son and daughter-in-law Dorothy.

BASSETTE — In loving memory of our dear grandfather Fritz and grandmother Ethel.
In memory a daily thought,
In my heart a place
Dearly missed by your grandchildren Carol, Jacky and Renee.

ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Rikkert Vos of Belleville would like to invite all their friends and relatives on the occasion of their 40th Wedding Anniversary. Open House will be held on Sunday, April 20th from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Weekend April 19, 1975. Best wishes only please.
April-14

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to sincerely thank my relatives, friends and neighbours who sent me flowers, cards and phone calls while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and the Queen's Self Care Unit. Your kindness and thoughtfulness helped me to have a speedy recovery through my recent illness. A special thanks to the Respiratory Technicians, Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 127 and Belleville Lodge No. 1 Eagles Club, and to those who made the 5th floor of Belleville General Hospital and the Queen's Self Care Unit. Special thanks to Dr. Ferguson, Dr. Ramsay and Dr. Harbinson. Your kindness and assistance will always be remembered.
Olive Brittenham.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Davidson of Brooks are happy to announce the engagement of their only daughter Marion Lorraine to Mr. Garnet Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bowers of Brooks and Belleville. This wedding will take place Saturday, May 10, 1975, at 2:00 p.m. in St. Paul's United Church, Hillsdale Church.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE, BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, April 15

ARIES (March 21-April 20) Your powers of concentration won't be in full focus today. Mental discipline is called for to keep your mind on your work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep close tabs on your possessions. Don't leave anything lying around that a stranger may take a fancy to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An agreement made with a close friend will be broken when an offer you think more appealing comes up—unless you keep your word.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't accept help you don't absolutely need today. The aid could have strings that would be hard to cut.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Proceed slowly and cautiously on new projects at this time. Get all the facts and figures before taking each step.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have self-doubts about your ability to handle a tricky situation don't let them become apparent. Others will lose faith in you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You won't get very far if you try to sell another on an idea you only half believe in. Best not to bring it up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Oversights are likely if you conduct your business hastily today. Don't let yourself be rushed beyond your pace.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't attempt to do two things of equal importance or even one of lesser. Determine which is the most immediate. Concentrate on it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Save the embarrassment of having to make excuses for something you promised to do for another. Put it at the top of your list.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A firm hand is required in a situation you're responsible for. Those you're dealing with must be aware you're calling the shots.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do what you know to be right. Don't be overly sensitive as to what another may think. She's only an observer.

Persistent Fever Sign of Trouble

By G. C. THOMTSEON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosleson: I am writing in regard to our 11-year-old daughter, who for a year now has had a slight temperature. It runs about 99.4, and she just gets it a while in the afternoon or evening, and not every day.

We were wondering what could cause this. We have had her to a doctor, but the tests never show anything. She has no pep and has a heart murmur. What do you think about this?—Mrs. F., H.

I think you may have cause for some concern.

The average body temperature, as almost everyone knows, is 98.6 degrees fahrenheit, although elevations of up to 99, even 99.5, degrees are considered to be within normal range after an active day.

In your daughter's case, I would regard the 99.4 as indicative of some trouble, especially since the reading has been obtained over a considerable length of time—a year, according to your letter. At it, her body temperature should have become stabilized from the periods of fluctuation expected during her early years.

Low-grade fever is only a symptom, not a disease, however, so it would be wise for you to begin looking for its cause. There can be several.

The cause of fever of unexplained origin (FUO) is the medical shorthand for it) is an infection, and physicians frequently begin with this assumption either to find the source of the infection or to rule it out. Other disorders not of an infectious nature can produce a chronic low-grade fever. Collagen (or connective tissue) disease comes to mind as an example.

In the female, especially, we often suspect a urinary tract infection. At her age, the possibility of tuberculosis must be considered. If your daughter has not had a tuberculin skin test and a chest x-ray, she should have another.

Another thought in passing. Since you live in a rural area, the possibility of undulant fever from an improperly pasteurized milk supply might be investigated. This, however, fever is intermittent, low in the morning and rising to an evening. Other symptoms include fatigue and headache.

Considerable fuss is made of pep and her heart murmur (normally of rather little significance in itself), the possibility of infection in a heart valve (endocarditis) should also be investigated. This condition is called "subacute bacterial endocarditis." Rheumatic fever is another possibility.

I've given you a lot to think about, with the hope that it will not raise ghosts for you, but impress upon you the complexity of dealing with a low-grade fever and fevers of undetermined origin in general. It has been, and continues to be, a puzzler to physicians.

The possibilities listed above can be investigated rather simply with modern medical equipment for blood agglutination tests, blood cultures, urine cultures, and others. Some, however, may require a brief hospital stay.

Dear Dr. Thosleson: My wife and I are recent newlyweds, and I notice that she jut always "crack" her neck by tilting it from side to side.

She says it feels better after stretching, but I'm getting worried it might be harmful. Is it?—D. R.

No. It is probably nothing more than a nervous habit but a harmless one. I have known many persons to do the same thing. One cracked his neck every time seated, especially reading a book. He lived to a ripe age and never got over this habit.

Dear Dr. Insleson: I am a very concerned grandmother. My grandson, who is five, has a habit when he goes to bed and becomes chilled during the night. He folds up on his knees and pounds his head centimentally on the bed.

This goes on all night and he just doesn't get proper rest and sleep. My daughter has had him checked, and her pediatrician says he will grow out of it and will outgrow this habit by the time he is 10 years old.

Is there anything that can be done to quiet him down during his sleep?—Mrs. H. C.

I have an image of grandmother sitting in the darkness of a still morning and listening, flinching with each "bump, bump, bump" echoing from this tot's bedroom. If he is like most head-bangers I've known, you have little real cause for concern.

Head-bangers are always with us, and while the practice may have its humorous aspects, for the parents or grandparents, too—it can be a source of apprehension. I can tell you that the banging rarely results in damage to the head or brain. It is not a sign that the child is a dimwit.

Why an otherwise healthy youngster will begin this self-destructive rhythmic behavior is a mystery. There seems to be no good answer for it, nor a reliable solution. One noted pediatrician says youngsters tend to be of the more serious type. He suggests that they may require a bit more cuddling than other youngsters.

Placing of the knees is in imitation of the fetal position, and it is a comfortable position for babies, providing them with an extra bit of warmth. Perhaps a warmer blanket, firmly tucked, would help.

The head-banging should end long before his 10th year. If it seems to continue that late, you could have more than just an ordinary, garden-variety headbanger on your hands.

While you're waiting for the disturbing practice to end, try some measures to make it a bit less worrisome for you. Put some extra padding around the head of the crib or bed. I recall a father who cut out the headboard and replaced it with tempered canvas, much of the infant's satisfaction in restly sleep was guaranteed.

Another thought about the head-banger. It often begins at about the time in the child's life when mother starts running into the bedroom to quiet bedtime wailing. You already know from experience that the child does not wake up in the morning with his head bloodied from an evening's head-banging session. Try ignoring it for a while, and see just how much attention-getting is involved.

Jim: You are an actuary. How about some articles that show how to take out insurance against any and all bad breaks?"

Oswald: "Six clubs is a pretty good contract for North and South. Five clubs which makes easily is much better than three notrump. But sometimes or other North made the decision to let South play in three notrump."

Jim: "West opened the queen of diamonds and South studied the hand for some time. Finally he came up with an insurance plan to insure his contract with two overtricks. He came fully played dummy's king of diamonds on West's queen and then plunked his ace of diamonds on dummy's king."

Oswald: "He had seen the need for two entries to his own hand and this play insured them. He was now able to knock out East's ace of clubs and get back to his hand with a diamond to run the rest of the club suit."

Jim: If you want to torture yourself, just try to bring home six clubs against the lead of a spade, a heart or the queen or jack of diamonds. It will be torture because you will fall one trick short."

CP News Roundup

J. Harney Will Seek NDP Post

TORONTO (CP) — John Harney, former MP for Scarborough West, has become the fourth candidate to seek the national leadership of the New Democratic Party.

Mr. Harney, 44, an English professor at York University, finished third in the last federal leadership race in 1971 and lost his seat in Parliament to Liberal Alan Martin in last year's federal election.

He joins other leadership candidates, House leader Ed Broadbent, Rosemary Brown, a member of the B.C. legislature, and Lorne Nystrom, MP for Yorkton-Melville.

Women Wounded

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Two women, one of them in serious condition, are in hospital after a shooting in an apartment Sunday.

Shirley Hayward, 27, of Waterloo is in serious condition after being shot in the head by a 20-gauge rifle.

Deborah Cruickshank, 21, her roommate, is in satisfactory condition with a bullet wound in her left shoulder.

No charges have been laid.

Seek Volunteers

TORONTO (CP) — Members of a study committee at Women's College Hospital say they are looking for 1,000 women who were volunteers in a study on breast cancer begun in 1948.

Shots Fired

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — John Douglas Bice, 25, of Brantford has been charged with possession of a weapon dangerous to public peace following a shooting incident Saturday.

Police said Sunday that at least three shots were fired—one hitting a police cruiser and another striking a passing car—during a two-hour siege at a Brantford house. No injuries were reported.

Police said a man was talked into handing over a 22-calibre rifle by an off-duty policeman.

Four Killed

TEESWATER, Ont. (CP) — Four people were killed and two critically injured early Sunday when two cars collided—one exploding in flames—on Highway 4 about five miles south of here.

Police said Randy Mille, 17, and Brian Harvey Houston, 18, both of Teeswater, died in a London hospital as a result of injuries. Two other passengers in the same car, Wayne Doerr, 18, and his 16-year-old brother, Ronald, also of Teeswater, were reported in critical condition.

Two other bodies, found in the charred remains of the second car, have not been identified. Police said the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Teeswater is 70 miles north of London.

Indian Is 112

FORT COULONGE, Que. (CP) — Cesar Paul, believed to be the oldest living person in Canada, celebrated his 112th birthday Sunday.

A Cree Indian who spent most of his life trapping, Mr. Paul lives with his grandson Loyola Gravelle in this community 190 miles east of Ottawa.

T. A. Crerar Dies

VICTORIA (CP) — Thomas Alexander Crerar, senior privy councillor in Canada and active in politics for more than half a century, died here Friday at the age of 98.

Mr. Crerar became a privy councillor in 1917, entering Sir Robert Borden's union government.

More Newspapers Sold

TORONTO (CP) — Latest available circulation figures for 1974 show that Canadian daily newspapers sold an average of 4,802,512 copies each weekday, an increase of 123,510 or 1.8 per cent over 1973.

Of the total, 3,999,910 copies are printed in English, 671,400 in French, 21,200 in Italian and 10,000 in Chinese.

The number of newspapers publishing five or more days weekly is 123, of which 101 are in English, 14 in French, five in Chinese and one in Italian. The total is up one from 1973.

In addition to the daily papers, about 765 weekly papers sell about 3,800,000 copies a week.

Vandalism At School Is Charged

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — Three St. Thomas youths have been charged by police in connection with vandalism which forced closing of a public school last week.

Police said Sunday the school was entered twice. Damage was estimated at $1,200.

Early Thursday books, ink, glue and other articles were thrown about in the classrooms, library, office and storeroom. As a result, classes were cancelled.

Early Friday a fire was started in one corner of a classroom, forcing one class to use the school auditorium for lessons.

Three youths are to appear in provincial court Monday.

Frederick Douglas Wayne Vowel, 18, has been charged with arson. Richard Michael Hayes, 17, has been charged with breaking, entering and theft, mischief and arson. Kevin Edward Gardner, 17, has been charged with breaking and entering, mischief and arson.

Ontario Milk Producers To Get Big Market Slice

ATHENS, Ont. (CP) — The chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board said Saturday the quota for Ontario milk producers' share of the Canadian market will be increased at least 1½ billion pounds this year.

The increase is intended to fill the gap between production and demand with Canadian rather than foreign dairy products, George McLaughlin said at the annual meeting of the Leeds County milk committee in this community 15 miles northwest of Brockville.

"In the past year, Canada has imported more than 40 million pounds of butter," he said.

Immigration Dominant Factor in Population

OTTAWA (CP) — The population increase from immigration probably surpassed the effect of births and deaths last year, Immigration Minister Robert Andras said Monday.

David Lewis To Be Active

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — David Lewis, federal NDP leader, said Saturday he will continue to promote the ideals of democratic socialism and the NDP after he retires as leader in July.

His will try to help find solutions for the problems of inflation, unemployment, and hunger, Mr. Lewis said at dinner in his honor organized by NDP riding associations in the London area.

He said later in an interview that he does not think he will run a public office again.

"I think I will continue teaching and maybe write on Canadian socialism," he said.

He said he will endorse no leadership candidate at the party's federal convention July in Winnipeg.

"Immigration will tend more and more to become the dominant and governing variable in the determination of any policy for population growth in Canada," he said in a speech prepared for delivery in Vancouver.

"Indeed, although one projection would have had immigration surpassing natural increase only in the year 1983, it is likely that this event has occurred already, in the year 1974."

His speech, text of which was released in advance of delivery, was to a joint meeting of the Community Planning Association of Canada and The American Society of Planning Officials.

Total population now is about 23.1 million and is growing by about 1.3 per cent a year.

Mr. Andras said Canada, like the United States and many European countries, is experiencing a fertility rate lower than replacement levels.

Two Charged

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Police charged two members of the Hare Krishna movement Saturday with causing a disturbance by loitering and obstructing.

Phnom Penh Is Quiet As Rebels Infiltrate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cambodian government was reported to be still holding Phnom Penh today despite claims by the Khmer Rouge radio that Communist-led insurgents were "penetrating deep" into the city and occupied the airport.

In South Vietnam, fighting continued on three sides of Saigon and the Viet Cong blew up a bomb dump at the big Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of the capital.

Cambodian troops in Phnom Penh told reporters the insurgents were at the northern outskirts of the city but had not entered in. The city was quiet and the government radio continued to broadcast.

Field reports said the town of Takhmau, six miles south of the capital, was abandoned to the rebels after it came under heavy fire. At least 100 government soldiers were reported killed or wounded, and six 105mm howitzers were left behind.

Reporters in Phnom Penh said the Khmer Rouge still held a marketplace astride the road to the airport. Reports Monday night said the government had airlifted reinforcements to the airfield to join about 1,000 troops trying to hold a line along the railroad parallel to the highway.

Sydney Schanberg of the New York Times, one of the six Americans known to have remained in Phnom Penh, said he drove through the Pochentong market and saw no rebels, but they made no effort to stop him.

Schanberg talked by radio with a charter plane circling the capital. Reporters aboard the plane said the University of Phnom Penh, about halfway to Pochentong airport three miles west of the capital, appeared to have been turned into a major government military base.

Schanberg said the government defence lines were within three miles or downtown Phnom Penh at some points. But field reports indicated a lull in fighting on the outskirts, punctuated by rocket fire.

Six rebel rockets were reported to have fallen on a textile mill inside the western section of the capital, raising a cloud of black smoke visible from afar. Refugees continued to stream into the capital from the northwest, and they reported heavy rocket fire there.

Khmer Rouge broadcasts monitored in the Thai capital said the Communist-led Cambodian insurgents took the town of Prek Phnou, on Phnom Penh's northern outskirts, and were advancing on a bridge less than four miles from the centre of the city.

One broadcast from the insurgent station said the city "is on the point of collapse."

Macdonald Gives Warning

Alberta Could Produce Gas Famine Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald warned Monday of a potential natural gas shortage next winter and said Alberta will be responsible if it occurs.

"It's possible . . . because of a political decision by the Alberta government," he said as the Commons resumed debate on the powerful and controversial petroleum administration bill.

The proposed legislation, under detailed study by the House, would give Ottawa unilateral power to set the price of crude oil and natural gas. But it would not force Alberta, the main producing provincial province, to sell oil or gas against its will.

This could cause a shortage by next year in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and western Quebec, Mr. Macdonald said.

He referred to an application two years ago by TransCanada PipeLines Ltd. to pipe greater quantities of natural gas from Alberta to outside markets. Approved by the province's energy resources conservation board, the application has not been endorsed by the Alberta government because it wants assurance of higher prices, Mr. Macdonald said.

Hearings are planned in the province to set a new price for natural gas, currently selling for 68 cents a thousand cubic feet. But they have been delayed pending more negotiations between Ottawa and the provinces on a price mutually acceptable to consumers and producers.

Mr. Macdonald said he hopes an agreement will be reached and that Alberta will approve additional exports from the province to meet outside needs.

Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and the Montreal area depend on Alberta for natural gas, while British Columbia is self-sufficient. Little natural gas is used in the Atlantic provinces.

The current 60-cents price was set last year. Earlier consideration by TransCanada averaged 44.5 cents a thousand cubic feet.

Mr. Macdonald has said the planned Alberta hearings could result in a wellhead price of more than $1.

Natural gas exported to the United States already sells for $1 and an increase is expected to be announced soon, perhaps as early as the end of the week. Sources indicate the cabinet has been considering an increase of 50 cents to 80 cents.

Mr. Macdonald has said a new export price in Ottawa's top energy priority. But he added Monday that domestic pricing also is an important question.

The new Alberta price, whether set by federal-provincial negotiations or otherwise, is scheduled to take effect Nov. 1.

With this deadline fixed at the wholesale level, it is important to give gas consumers time to apply for retail price increases, Mr. Macdonald said.

Future oil prices also figured strongly in Monday's debate, the first on bill in three months.

The national energy conference last week did not agree on a new price above the current $6.50 a barrel rate for domestically-used crude oil. Exported oil sells for $8.50 a barrel.

Further negotiations are planned. Mr. Macdonald reiterated Monday that he hopes Saskatchewan, the second largest oil-producing province, will decide to participate in the negotiations as complete.

Alberta has said it will refrain from increases while "meaningfuhle discussions are going on."

Reports indicate that Alberta wants an increase of $2 to $3 in the retail price. Every $1-a-barrel increase translates into a three-cents-a-gallon raise in the retail price of heating oil and gasoline.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said he will not object if the government fails to negotiate acceptable oil and natural gas prices with the provinces and is forced to use the petroleum bill to set prices for the balance of 1975

But the bill, if approved as drafted, should not be used again and again in the future.

Mr. Macdonald said earlier no new price agreement might be worked out during 1975. Negotiations could take longer.

Most Missionaries Have Left Vietnam

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly all 200 missionaries from the United States have left South Vietnam in the face of the uncertain situation, say reports received here.

At least seven Canadians and Americans are missing in areas seized by the Viet Cong, including Mr. and Mrs. Norman Johnson of Hamilton

Two others from the U.S. remained in captured regions to try to continue their work, and a few missionary doctors and a few relief workers are staying in the Saigon area as long as possible.

But most U.S. missionary personnel have pulled out.

"They had to be evacuated in case the surrounding southern forces take over Saigon as they've taken over everything else," said Rev. Louis King of Nyack, N.Y., in charge of overseas personnel of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, the largest mission group in the area.

"There also is a strong possibility of internal anti-Americanism breaking out at any time," he said. "If this sentiment grows, our people ought not to be there."

The exodus of missionaries, teachers, nurses, pastors, technicians and others has been going on the last two weeks.

However, about 1,500 Americans of Catholic Relief Services and a reduced U.S. crew of Church World Service, working through the inter-Protestant Vietnam Christian Service, still are on duty there.

So were key personnel of a Seventh-day Adventist hospital in Saigon, including six U.S. doctors.

Ford Pledges To Maintain U.S. Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today the United States must keep its military forces strong to maintain detente with the Soviet Union and keep the confidence of Western allies.

Ford told a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution that he would never submit a defence budget that would "sell us short or establish that balance (of nuclear forces) against America."

He called on each member of Congress to make a similar pledge.

"A posture of deliberate weakness is most dangerous when the worldwide military balance threatens to deteriorate. But at any time, weakness would be folly for the United States, a great nation, with interests spanning the globe," Ford said in his prepared text.

Fighting Continues In Beirut Streets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting with machine-guns and grenades continued for the third day today in Beirut streets between Palestinian guerrillas and a conservative political party's private army.

Most businesses and government offices remained closed. The usually hectic traffic slowed to a trickle.

Sniping and hit-and-run bombings took several more casualties this morning, bringing to about 80 the number of Palestinians, militiamen and bystanders reported killed. More than 100 persons were wounded, the warring parties and police said.

Premier Rashid Solh still refused to order the 15,000-man Lebanese army into action.

The cabinet authorized use of the army, but the premier refused on the weekend to grant the military its full power to act in dispute to deal with the combatants.

Metric Shift Mad Says Meeks

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City councillor Sis Meeks believes Canada's switchover to the metric system is "madness" and wants to enlist support for a protest from his city hall colleagues.

Ald. Meeks told council Monday night he will introduce a motion in two weeks' time calling for support against the metric switchover.

The change, he claimed, will cost billions of dollars mostly to consumers and cause "mass confusion."

He called it a regressive step in a period of spiralling inflation, and a major threat to small businessmen and national identity.

"It's a radical change and should not be implemented without a plebiscite of the people," said Ald. Meeks.

He said he will ask his resolution be forwarded to local, provincial and federal politicans so "they may assist where possible in stopping this madness" and to Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

Strange Objects Seen in Sky

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Residents in the city got an unexpected, unexplained display Monday night as several objects were sighted high in the sky about 10 miles to the north and west.

Falling into the category of unidentified flying objects, they were described as round in shape with alternating flashing red, green and white lights.

They were seen by at least nine people, including a Ontario provincial police officer and his wife, who said several of the objects disappeared shortly after they were first seen about 8 p.m. and that one stayed in view until about 10:30 p.m.

A check of Uplands Airport officials in Ottawa indicated nothing was recorded in the area on their radar screens.

Indians Refuse Land Lease

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Concern about the environment by Indians on the Indian Reserve prompted them to reject a $40,000-a-year land lease offer from Petrol Refineries Ltd. to build an $120-million oil refinery on the reserve, says John Loukes, reserve education liaison officer.

The rejection came at a meeting Saturday of about 50 members of the reserve and representatives of the environmental ministry, he said Monday.

Petrol, a private Canadian company, originally planned to establish an oil refinery near Cobourg, Ont., 20 miles west of here, but met too much opposition from a local citizens' group. It then proposed to lease about 200 acres of reserve land and establish the refinery on it.

Fear that the rural setting of the area would be destroyed and concern over air pollution and its adverse affects on vegetation prompted the rejection, said Mr. Loukes.

Petrol told the Indians there would be four years of construction involved in building the refinery and jobs for 250 skilled and 50 unskilled full-time employees, not including those required for construction, estimated at 2,000 men for 2½ years.

he was introduced to city council. "But what the development is he has to be determined."

He will organize his assignments from the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Meantime, said Mayor Jeffrey, the city manager's department will prepare a 1975 operating budget for the centennial program.

Kells Heads Belleville Centennial Body

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville has its Centennial Year activities chairman.

Lawrence (Larry) Kells — for years well-known area educator — has agreed to head what's hoped will be the city's biggest celebration in a century.

His appointment — ending a two-year search for the right man willing to volunteer for the task — was announced to city council Monday night by Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Mr. Kells will develop and coordinate the celebration program.

Among his assignments will be playing official civic host at all events during the 1978 Centennial. In his task he will be assisted by his wife, Margaret, as official hostess.

The search for the right man has been the job of a special centennial-year steering committee.

Mr. Kells was superintendent of Belleville's public school board from 1944 to 1969, then became superintendent of school administration for Hastings County when the education system was expanded. He retired in 1970.

His community involvement has included an active role with Kiwanis Club projects.

As yet, his centennial-year role is still evolving.

"It's going to develop as time goes on," he said. "I'm a bit of a

IRA Threatens To End Ceasefire

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing threatened today to end its two-month ceasefire "unless the wild men of the British army" are brought under control.

The threat was in response to a statement last weekend by the British commander in Northern Ireland, Lt.-Gen. Sir Frank King, that his forces would have smashed the IRA guerrillas if the government had not accepted the truce Feb. 10.

King criticized the release of more than 200 alleged terrorist suspects in ceasefire and said they were back on the streets ready to resume fighting to drive the British out of Ulster.

"Unless the wild men of the British army like Sir Frank King are brought under control," said the IRA, "credibility of the British government will cease to exist and it will be difficult to look upon the government as an authority with whom agreements can be made."

Merlyn Rees, the British minister of state for Northern Ireland, told the House of Commons that one of the detainees be released was a Protestant who tried to assassinate him last May. Rees gave no other details

Nothing also said King did not intend his statement as a criticism of government policy.

His remarks have caused political embarrassment and the general has expressed his regret to me," he said. "The general made a mistake."

The Big Assignment

Lawrence (Larry) Kells will have his briefcase increasingly crammed as the time nears for Belleville's 100th anniversary celebrations. Monday night his appointment as general chairman to co-ordinate all 1978 city centennial year projects was announced in city council.

Electric Dryers Good Economics

Soap may be a luxury to students in third world countries but in this county's 23,000 elementary and secondary school students electric dryers are just downright economical.

The Hastings County Board of Education recently accepted a $7,375 bid from Huntington Laboratories of Canada to supply enough electric hand dryers for three of four schools this year. Since the policy was implemented three years ago the board now has 12 schools which use electric hand dryers.

A spokesman from the business section told trustees Monday night the recovery cost for the hand dryers takes three years. "It's economically sound," said the spokesman. He also said it was an ongoing program to update school equipment.

Apparently ordinary paper towels have been used by students to plug the sewers bringing additional repair costs onto the board. Five companies supplying these hand dryers, placed tenders on the purchase.

Tender Approved For Street Project

Reconstruction of Sidney St. between College and Tracey streets should get under way at the end of this month.

The estimate came from city engineer Joe Angelo after council awarded the contract for the project.

Lowest tender from six bidders came from Korsan Ltd. of Cobourg for $206,473.

The other tenders ranged from up to a high of $237,147. Besides street widening, the project also includes:

— Sidewalk from College to Tracey Park Dr. on the west side of Sidney.

— Sidewalk from Parkdale Dr. to Tracey on Sidney's east side.

Ald. Joe Cox questioned if local residents were being assessed more because the project involved a four-lane road.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said the residents were paying the same rate as it is were a typical residential street.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said extra footage for sidewalks had to be acquired to protect trees in the area.

Underpass Step Closer With Engineer Study

City council has moved a further step closer to engineering the railway roof of the Cannifton Rd. highway link.

Council Monday night approved an agreement for professional engineering service for design construction administration of underpassing the Canadian National Railways main line on the Highway 37 route between Highway 401 and the city centre.

The agreement for the grade separation project is with Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates.

It follows council Jan. 20 approved the consultants' functional planning report for the underpass.

It is the latest preliminary move in streamlining the trial route by shifting the road further east beneath the tracks, making it as a four-lane artery into Station St. near Bleecker.

Cost of the grade separation, scheme has been estimated at $2,833,000 — of which the city will pay about $448,000.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles; Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds the healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved . . . actual reduction of protrusions took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Kente Parents Ask Board To Reinstate Principal

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

BLOOMFIELD — A group of parents has petitioned the Prince Edward County Board of Education to review its decision to transfer Eugene Bright, principal of Kente School in Ameliasburg, to a teaching position and has stressed willingness to co-operate in a study tracing causes of the matter.

It was agreed by trustees at a meeting last month that Mr. Bright should be transferred next term to a teaching position at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton.

Chairman of the parents' committee, David Shoals of RR 1, Carrying Place told board members, Monday, "we are very concerned about the general policy of how the board reaches a decision of this kind — the mechanics of the operation."

He suggested a small committee of trustees should confer with a committee of parents of Kente school children, then report to the board for further action.

Mr. Shoals asked board members to make a decision on this proposal and to discuss it with him within the next five days.

"We come positively, we wish to co-operate, we wish to provide evidence," he said in an interview with trustees.

Before Mr. Shoals' presentation to trustees, board chairman Douglas Caley requested board solicitor Richard Byers to clarify the board's position in such a discussion.

Mr. Byers said, in principle, it is improper for the board to discuss anything of a personal nature in public.

"My advice to the board is that they neither have the right nor should they discuss specific items at this forum," he stressed.

Mr. Shoals said he had a statement signed by principal Eugene Bright authorizing the board to release all material concerning his transfer.

The information was not released on the solicitor's advice.

Mr. Shoals said a communications problem exists between the committee and trustees and asked if definite steps have been taken to appoint a new principal.

Board chairman Douglas Caley replied, "My answer to that is its none of your business."

Mr. Caley said should a new principal be appointed the press would receive first notification.

Mr. Shoals said the parents' committee represents 90 per cent of the 387 students with children attending Kente School.

He emphasized the group is concerned with retaining a high level of performance at the school and satisfaction in school programs.

Roy Stevenson, a member of the parents' group, said appointment of a new principal for Kente is the business of those with young children enrolled there.

Mr. Caley agreed but stressed trustees are elected by the public and time of the announcement is their decision.

Mr. Stevenson read portions of a report on Mr. Bright's work submitted by the county's director of education John McNeil.

Early parts of the report termed conditions at Kente "the best since 1969" he said.

Dan Brady, another committee member asked if the board would reverse a decision if there were good and adequate evidence introduced.

Chairman Douglas Caley replied, "I can speak for myself. I have seen situations reversed."

Mr. Brady said the committee hopes the board will take no further action until all evidence submitted is reviewed fairly.

"We came to discuss principles with an "ie" not "all"," he said.

The parents' committee submitted evidence for board discussion in counselling, citing results of a parent poll.

It showed 175 of 185 telephone survey of 187 parents reached said they were satisfied with Kente School while 26 expressed dissatisfaction.

The survey revealed that 175 persons would support Mr. Bright and 12 would not.

At a public meeting in Kente School last week 179 persons supported Mr. Bright until trustees pressed specific identified facts to warrant his dismissal.

The board received the committee's evidence, including an analysis of Mr. McNeil's report.

Crop Insurance Grows As Input Costs Mount

NORTHPORT — Unpredictable weather and high input costs are encouraging an increasing number of farmers to take out crop insurance, says Walter Pulver, a crop insurance salesman for Prince Edward County.

"Farmers estimate that it will cost more than $100 an acre to plant their corn this spring," remarks Mr. Pulver, "and at those figures, they don't wish to take a chance."

Crops insured under this program include white beans, soy beans, forage seeding, fall wheat, spring grain, corn and vegetable crops. Five hundred and seventy crop insurance contracts were written last year, says Mr. Pulver.

The Picton office of the ministry of agriculture and food reports that 22,000 acres were insured for nearly $2,000,000 during 1974.

Committee Shuffle Proposed

BLOOMFIELD The Prince Edward Swimming Pool Committee Monday proposed the appointment of three new members.

It was suggested a member of Prince Edward County council, town council, the parks and recreation committee and the board of education should join members of the existing committee.

Construction of the pool, building and attached facilities will be turned over to the town of Picton to obtain grants under the Community Centres Act, the proposal outlines.

The Prince Edward Board of Education Monday gave approval in principle to location of a covered pool on school property.

Board Approves School As Site for New Pool

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County Board of education Monday night issued approval in principle for construction of a covered swimming pool on school property.

The decision followed a presentation by Ed Rae, chairman of the Prince Edward Swimming Pool Committee.

Mr. Rae said the junior Olympic-sized pool, proposed for construction at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute will be built at a maximum cost of $225,000.

He predicted it can be installed for $200,000 but a ten per cent allowance for inflation and unforseen expenses has been included.

Maintenance of the pool centre will be undertaken by the custodial staff of the high School with costs of operation and maintenance to be divided on a 50-50 basis between the school board and the parks and recreation department.

The operation schedule will include Monday through Saturday and special Sundays as supported by the pool supervision committee.

The pool supervision committee will include the high school principal or his appointee, two school trustees, two members of the parks and recreation committee, one member of County Council, a member of the swimming pool committee and a liaison with the custodial staff to maintain communications.

In outlining costs of the pool Mr. Rae noted a provincial grant of $75,000 is available and a Prince Edward County council grant of $150,000 is anticipated.

Cash and pledges for the project to date total $28,000 leaving $74,000 to be raised in a county-wide campaign.

Empty Car Hits Office

PICTON With income tax returns due shortly there may be a last minute rush to accountants offices but tax consultant Ted Rose today was unprepared for his first driven customer.

Two plate glass windows in his office at 294 Main St. were shattered at 7 a.m. when a driverless car backed in a semi-circle on Main St. jumping the curb.

Phyllis Pomeroy, of Bridge St. Picton, had left the car with the motor running in front of Lipson's Store thinking the vehicle was in park. It had been left in reverse and backed across Main St. striking the tax office.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300.

Dutch Immigrant Finds New Home in County

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

BETHEL — "I like the people of Prince Edward County — you can't beat them — I wouldn't want to leave this county now for anything."

A Dutch immigrant in 1953, David Doornbos of RR 8, Picton, has never operated a tractor prior to his arrival in Canada. Now one of approximately 22 successful back-hoe operators in the county, Mr. Doornbos enjoys' his occupation. A veteran of 17 years, Mr. Doornbos says you have to enjoy the work to do a good job.

"What I like the best about back-boeing is when the customers call me back for another job. You realize that they are satisfied and this means a lot to me."

One of the disadvantages, he says, is having to work six days a week to make up for the winter months. A back-hoe is capable of penetrating some frozen ground, but is "extremely hard on the machine."

One of the biggest problems facing back-hoe operators, said Mr. Doornbos is the high cost of maintenance and the initial investment of a back-hoe. A new back-hoe costs from about $22,000 to $28,000.

"Very few back-hoe operators in Prince Edward County derive their entire income from back-hoeing," Mr. Doornbos comments. "The machine is there when required, but many have additional pieces of equipment, such as a grader, dump truck or bulldozer."

Because of his fondness for Prince Edward County, Mr. Doornbos confines his jobs to the county proper where "there are enough back-hoe jobs for all 22 of us."

Mr. Doornbos' son, David, Jr., has been operating a back-hoe since the age of 12. Now in his final year of high school, he expects to purchase a small bulldozer to assist in his father's business.

Violets Bring Funds For Viet Nam Orphans

HILLIER A Hillier Township housewife has started an unique drive to assist homeless Vietnamese children.

Mrs. Pearl Roberts has raised more than 1,000 colorful Ontario Violets in 40 different shades and sizes to sell in her effort to collect money for the needy youngsters.

The plants, priced from 50 cents to $1.50 a single pot, she has turned to a source of funds for food or medicine.

"I like growing violets and I like children," remarked Mrs. Roberts.

She said she first sold her violets about a year ago to raise money for children in foreign countries who needed foster parents.

Response to her project was excellent and encouraged her to continue the program, this time for Vietnamese orphans.

Mrs. Roberts says all of the money earned from the sale of her plants will be forwarded to the Kusnyin Foundation in Burlington to be used in helping the orphaned children of Vietnam.

Mrs. Roberts noted originally she hoped to adopt a child in Bangladesh but this proved impossible.

Now, she said she feels she can offer assistance through the sale of her violets.

The hundreds of plants grown for sale are thriving in the dining and living rooms of the Roberts home on the old highway 33, immediately south of the hamlet of Hillier.

Community residents interested in supporting Mrs. Roberts's project can inquire about purchasing the plants by calling 399-3206.

REAL ESTATE:
Home Ownership A Cash Resource
Ed. McKinney
J. E. McKinney
Realty Ltd.
Sometimes in everyone's lifetime, for luxury or necessity, there may be a requirement for a large amount of cash. Today's homeowner is probably the best prepared individual to cope with this "need-for-money" problem. His equity in his home is a ready source of cash.
Let's assume he bought his home about 10 years ago for $20,000, and has now reduced his mortgage to $10,000. Since home values have risen, his house is probably now worth $40,000 which gives him an equity of about $30,000. On a conventional mortgage basis, a bank may loan him 75% of value, or $30,000. Thus, after paying off his existing $10,000 loan, he would come out with $20,000 cash or about what he paid for his home 10 years ago.
I am not suggesting that everyone run out and refinance their homes. I do point out, however, that another excellent reason for owning a home is the increasing equity produced through rising prices.

Blakeney Suggests 'Security Fund'

Oil Prices Likely to Rise Despite Stalemate at Federal-Provincial Parley

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The failure of the recent first-ministers' conference on all policy is regrettable—but what did you expect?

The producing provinces, naturally, want something closer to the world price for the oil they sell. In their view, selling crude at $6.50 a barrel is like giving money away.

The consuming provinces, just as naturally, think the price is high enough already, after the big increases of the past couple of years.

The most prominent spokesman for the consuming provinces, Ontario's Premier William Davis, made much of the inflationary effect that a further price rise would cause. For each increase of $1 a barrel, he said, the consumer price index would rise one per cent and 7-400 fewer jobs would be created in Ontario.

That argument got nowhere, after all, who (apart from the people) cares about inflation any more?

The inflationary process is an automatic money-making machine for governments at all levels, which one are spending 40 per cent of our gross national product.

And Mr. Davis' own government, a couple of days earlier, had brought down the kind of inflationary budget that mother used to make.

Ontario was on much firmer footing when it presented its figures on what had become of the extra money that consumers have been paying for oil since April 1, 1974, when by government decree the selling price was raised to $6.50 a barrel from $3.80.

Out of the $2.70 increase, Ontario says that $1.72 went to the treasury of Alberta—the major producer—while 90 cents went into the federal treasury and the other eight cents went to the oil companies.

With the price of oil soaring all over the world, an extra eight cents a barrel would hardly persuade the oil industry to redouble its Canadian exploration efforts. Little wonder that some drilling and exploration teams pulled out of Canada.

Saskatchewan offered the most sensible idea heard at the conference. Premier Allan Blakeney suggested that the selling price be frozen, and that the increase be channelled into a publicly-owned Canada Energy Security Fund.

The money in the fund would be invested in the development of new hydrocarbon reserves, and of substitutes for petroleum.

That's the vital need that has been overlooked in the constant federal-provincial haggling over prices, royalties, taxes, and constitutional rights and privileges.

Unless the rate of exploration success is restored to something like the reasonable level it had prevailed before the 1970s, there won't be much oil and gas to production left for governments to haggle over a decade from now.

Too many economists have become mesmerized by their own theories, and too many politicians have believed their own speeches.

They have forgotten that the oil and gas business is tough and risky, and that exploration and development must be a systematic and continuous process.

Teams of trained personnel can't be held together while governments play games with them, first offering incentives, next clamping on restraints.

An oil-price increase is probably inevitable, hard as it may be on millions of consumers.

But by all means let's ensure that the increase doesn't simply add to the swollen treasuries in Edmonton and Ottawa, but instead is earmarked—as Premier Blakeney proposes—for development of essential future supplies.

Help for the Needy

The efforts of a Kingston couple to have food supplies shipped to the starving in Bangladesh is commendable, and it seems that their initiative at last is bearing fruit.

At the same time it is pertinent to mention once again the plight of many people here at home.

On a number of occasions we have referred to the health and housing problems of the native people of Canada. This too has been echoed in a letter to a Kingston newspaper by an Oakville reader.

Peter F. Frank says he has read with concerned interest about Terry Leonard's trial and tribulations in getting food to the starving in Bankladesh. However, the following day he read that about 200 Indian residents of Fort Ware, B.C, face starvation.

It must be said that the problems of the Indians stave so much from government welfare and its attendant sapping of initiative and boredom, as from the fact the white man's materialism is alien to their nature and in any event has passed them by. But that is no excuse for turning a blind eye to the native people.

Again, it could be said many of our pensioners are unable to maintain even a subsistence level, because of their inadequate circumstances and the inflation that renders their economic lot even more difficult.

Canada reportedly is quadrupling its contribution to the world food program for 1975, but isn't it a fact that many are undernourished and ill here at home?

Has this occurred moreover to Ontario Premier Davis who suddenly is evidencing an interest in foreign aid? He said recently he was planning to meet with church representatives to discuss the province's participation in foreign aid programs.

Which programs does he have in mind, and who will be the beneficiaries? The public should have answers to such questions. At the same time we should remember the old axiom that "charity begins at home".

Bus Strike

The absence of bus service in Belleville through strike action could cause increasing hardship to pensioners and others unable to pursue their normal routine of work, getting to the stores and so on.

The parties by now should be reaching some kind of settlement. The longer the stoppage lasts, the more the attendant difficulties and dislocation of the public interest.

Civilian Amputees Too

Canada has abut 2,300 living war amputees; but what is not very well known is that there are almost ten times as many civilian amputees.

The figure, according to the War Amputations Key Tag Service, is 22,000. Unlike other disabled or handicapped groups in Canada, civilian amputees have no central organization of their own. Those injured in industrial accidents may be assisted through Workmen's Compensation or accident insurance. Many, but by no means all, auto accident victims who lose a leg or arm, are helped by insurance. Thousands of other non-war amputees have to make do on their own, and a surprising number of these are children.

Through their civilian liaison program the War Amputations of Canada organization seeks out and helps civilian amputees. Help includes counselling, advice on artificial limbs and in some cases, the buying of limbs.

Viewpoint

Brockville Recorder and Times

Ontario treasurer Darcy McKeough has sounded the warning knell that bigger than usual property taxes can be expected unless municipal councils and school boards tighten a super trimming job on budgets.

Mr. McKeough told municipal leaders recently the provincial government cannot provide the money the municipalities will need this year. Grants will be limited as the province attempts to rein - in on expenditures. As a result, he told the municipalities they must also cut back on unsecurities. Restraint is the key word this year for municipalities which have been relying heavily on the province coming through with increased financial aid each year. It won't be coming this year. Mr. McKeough said the Ontario government is attempting to provide leadership to check inflation and he expressed the hope municipalities would do likewise.

Columnist Believes PCs Will Win

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — This is perhaps what might be termed a spring training forecast, but as of now I would propose that the PC's will win the election.

They may be in a minority and I believe they will come home with the greatest number of seats.

And yes, I say this despite the byelection results and the recent polls which have shown the Liberals far ahead.

By the coming election there will be 125 seats at stake, up eight from the present 117.

This means that to form a majority government a party will have to return with at least 64 seats.

Which would apparently mean that the government which now has 74 members, can afford to drop no more than 10 of the seats they hold, though this is slightly off balance because of the fact there will be eight new seats, out of which we probably have to concede the government a few.

But where the picture becomes really striking is when you look at the potential of Liberal and NDP gains.

With the NDP there is little where to look.

One can see them coming back with more than two or three more than the 20 seats they now hold and there is a real chance they could fairly lose.

The Liberals are different. They almost certainly will gain, and perhaps substantially.

But straining their prospects to the very extreme, riding by riding the above-mentioned you can credit to them is 52 seats, and that really is straining.

This conceivably could give them the government, rather than the PCs. But they also have seats they could lose, particularly Samuel York, Centre and Essex South where Jim Bullbrook, Don Deacon and Don Paterson are retiring. These are three of the strongest men in the party and all have had strong personal holds on their ridings.

As for the byelections and the polls one can't entirely dismiss them, but one can disparage the importance generally given to them.

Any experienced politician knows that a byelection is quite different than a general election. All of the candidates are new in byelections and there can be a concentration of forces.

Whereas in a general election, in the majority of the ridings there is a sitting member who is well known to the voters, the election machine 75 spread out and the campaigns and issues tend to be province-wide rather than local.

As for the polls the results have been spectacular.

But there are two important factors that influence if not balance them.

These are that in 30 years the Liberals have never shown the capacity to mount a good campaign and that in every general election in that time they have dropped sharply from the beginning to the end.

The Immigration Hassle

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — You can't say that Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras didn't ask for it — an admittedly shafting of his department, the Trudeau cabinet, and the entire government in all their tender spots.

And perhaps it is only poetic justice that the good-natured, if sharply political rabbit should have come from one of the Minister's own constituents in Thunder Bay.

You will remember that in presenting his "Green Paper" on immigration — it hinted that reimposition of a quota system might not be an altogether bad idea — he invited what he hoped would be a national public debate.

He has been getting some high profile — and flamboyantly exhibitionist — responses from blacks, especially Haitians in Canada illegally, picketing his office and lambasting him as a racist.

This sort of nonsense he can dismiss in the sure knowledge that the vast majority of thinking Canadian taxpayers will ignore it as so much protest-type propaganda from unwelcome strikers.

But the letter from Thunder Bay, aimed as it is at the soft underbelly of government policies, he scarcely can ignore.

Because it is funny, and it is to the point.

It comes from a medical practitioner who, while not hesitating to sign his name and use his office letterhead, might not approvingly public disclosure of his identity.

So he shall remain anonymous, although it is a pretty safe bet that Mr. Andras knows him and might well include him in his circle of Northern Ontario friends.

He writes:

I think it is a very good idea on your part to solicit the views of Canadians before you formulate your new immigration policy.

Being a taxpayer of considerable sums (what else, the man is a physician and the medical profession, so read the National Revenue tax statistics, is at the tip of the income totem pole) I thought I should like to put in my two cents.

First of all I don't think that race, creed, color or religion should be considered in accepting immigrants as long as they are willing and able to work.

With so many Canadians having been convinced by Prime Minister Trudeau that the work ethic is a lot of bunkum, it would seem imperative to replace the work-shy with some fresh workers to provide blood from abroad.

Of course it might be prudent to give special consideration to postal workers, longshoremen, grain handlers and inspectors, airport runway cleaners, railwaymen, teachers, nurses, and illegal immigrant workers who wouldn't be afraid to live in Quebec.

I don't think the lack of education and even a touch of illiteracy should be held against them.

Perhaps it would be beneficial if they could not read especially the pronouncements about the work ethic from the cabinet and advertisements concerning how to expedite UIC payments and apply for LIP grants, not to mention all the non-Canadian content of Reader's Digest and Time Magazine.

If you find it impossible to be impartial and have to give extra points to any particular group perhaps it should be for sterility, thus having no baby bonuses, reducing controversial abortions and in general striking a blow against the population explosion.

I would, however, caution you against admitting too many farmers, especially those whose ancestors came from Asia.

Considering that grain has been no longer moving either from Vancouver in the west or Thunder Bay in the east, and that future grain movements could be at best sporadic I would advise against admitting only livestock men and cowboys.

When ready for market, cattle could be driven south on the hoof that is, if it doesn't ever improves its relations with the United States.

If we are so longer to be the breadbasket of the world, better be a vegetarian than a wastebasket.

And now that Mr. Trudeau is back from Europe, perhaps you might suggest to him before he leaves for the Caribbean, he make some arrangements for us to get our mail.

Good letter, what?

Even Robert Andras, while wincing, will get a chuckle, if on the wry side, out of it.

Uneasy Times for Spain

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Western Europe's uneasiest nation these days is France's Spain, if it is indeed still a nation. The death, the long and healthy chief of state physically declined, and the traditional Spanish forces of left and right seem to be taking ominously hardening stances on the change.

What makes the uncertain political future for Spain even more uncertain, is the unfolding of events in next-door Portugal.

For decades, the Iberian Peninsula was a secure haven as far as strongmen Salazar of Portugal and Franco of Spain in control were concerned. This was the style of the 40s, 50s and 60s.

But all this has changed. Salazar is long gone. His chosen successor Marcelo Caetano is a Brazilian exile, along with the reformist Portuguese General Antonio Spinola who overthrew him.

Leftwing elements in a Portuguese Army, once considered committed to a colonial and authoritarian regime, have formed a government in Lisbon moving toward Communism.

All this raises the ancient and bitter differences which General Franco kept in check. Spain has kept under control and which, ironically, Franco said that fatalism so typically Spanish, to make a battlefield out of their country again.

On the far right are the still powerful elements of the National Movement, France's base of power. Still in political ascendancy the Falange Party is mustering its ranks for an anticipated leftist orientation from the Spanish labor unions, now in constant and illegal strike positions.

Centrist is the Spanish Army still commanded by General Franco's loyal cronies, but increasingly temporizing — aging generals with Civil War experience.

That could be ominous. Searing in mind it has been the young, restless officer cadres in Portugal and in Latin America who have finally overthrown the old generals and proved themselves to be leftists in uniform.

A hint of this came to the outwardly homogeneous Spanish Army when, last March, a dozen young officers who refused to obey orders, but more importantly, delivered a critical study of the Spanish officer corps, probably the first such analysis since Franco came to power in 1939.

The forces of the opposition are divided and split, and each seeking its own solution, again typically Spanish and ominously similar to 1936 when left and right could find a political answer only in the devastating Civil War.

York River Raft Run Scheduled for May 18

BANCROFT — Old oil drums, lumber and a lot of creativity are all that are needed for the first annual River Rat Race to be held on the York River from Baptiste to Bancroft on May 18.

The race will follow the winding river course for 12 miles of scenic and wet boating.

A project of the Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce, the race has been organized to promote the late spring and early summer tourist attractions of the North Hastings area.

All the proceeds from the River Rat Race and the Soap Box Derby that follows it will will be donated to the Bancroft and District Association for the Mentally Retarded for use at the Arc Industries Workshop.

In order to enter the race, the stalwart boater must build his own craft and propel it by muscle power down the river.

A number of safety precautions have been taken by the organizing committee.

At least two people must be on each craft and all participants must wear approved safety jackets and helmets.

Radio Communication, a system of observers and on-the-water supervision are also being organized.

The River Rat Race entry forms are available from the Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce office.

Also organized for the May holiday weekend are a community auction sale, a fun baseball game with employees of CJBQ and CJNR radio, a talent contest and a Mayfest beer garden.

Bancroft Advisor On Parks Council

BANCROFT — According to Charlie Hunt of Bancroft, his appointment last week to the Ontario Provincial Parks Council is a direct result of "the grassroot people of the area making a reasonable request to the government."

Mr. Hunts appointment to the council was announced by Hasting MPP Clarke T. Rollins who indicated that the council is designed to advise the minister of natural resources on the planning of provincial parks, to monitor, to make suggestions on the implementation of the Algonquin Park Master Plan and on hunting and fishing in a number of other park-oriented matters.

"This is the type of thing that I have been involved in for years," said Mr. Hunt, who credits his appointment to requests made to Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources and to Arthur Wishart, advisor to Premier Davis, by local sportsmen at meeting held in Bancroft and Toronto.

Mr. Hunt will attend the first council meetings in May with firm feelings about the uses that should be made of provincial parks.

"I can honestly say that I don't feel biased against any group," said the new appointee, "there is lots of room in Algonquin Park for all types of users."

Mr. Hunt also feels that the "reasonable" use of wheels to portage a boat in the park and the use of 5-horsepower motors in Algonquin should be considered.

"There are some good points in the Algonquin Master plan about fish management," said Mr. Hunt." A fish biologist has been appointed to do a survey of the fish in the park and there are a lot of factors involved in that. But there are going to have to be a few more restrictions on the fish caught and taken out of the park. I think the emphasis should be on sport fishing not on fish for food."

Although Mr. Hunt's prime interests are in hunting fishing and recreational use of provincial parks, he said," I hope that I will be able to consider all the groups that would use the park. I'm sure that the ordinary people will go along with any reasonable plan."

Madoc OPP Adding Two

MADOC — With the addition of two new constables within the next month, the Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police will be back up to full strength.

On April 16 a recruit officer, Constable Derick J. Travisi, 23, will join the detachment following a three-week orientation course in Toronto. Constable Travisi is a native of England and joins the force from Montreal. He is married with one child.

On May 5, Constable M. W. Papi, a nine-year veteran of the force will transfer from the Kingston detachment and his arrival will bring the detachment up to full strength of one sergeant, three corporals, 18 constables and two office employees.

Constable Papi, is married with three children.

His Territory Now

Charlie Hunt of Bancroft, long involved with the outdoor life in North Hastings, is now a member of the Ontario Provincial Parks Council. His prime area of interest and responsibility will be the use of parklands in his area, particularly Algonquin Park. Mr. Hunt's experience and interest in hunting and fishing will stand him in good stead in making recommendations to the council.

Library Seeks Public Input to Improve Service

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — The members of the Bancroft Public Library Board have been grappling for the last several months with the problem of space in the library area of the municipal building on Flint St. in the village.

After considering possible alternate locations such as the old Bell Telephone building, the board, under chairman Rea Callaghan has," decided to remain in the present location and to make changes in the organization and set-up of the present facilities."

The board has sought the assitance of Barry Robinson of the St. Lawrence Regional Library in Kingston to redesign facilities and to assist with removing unnecessary books from circulation.

In the new revamped set-up, which should be completed by July, the children's area of the library would be moved into the present reference room and a comfortable sitting area would be set up for adults in the main room.

The board has also decided to participate in a study of public libraries throughout the province.

The study is being conducted by the Ontario Provincial Library Council and is designed to "improve Ontario public library service and to find better ways to meet the information needs of the people of the province."

Bancroft Public Library users are invited by the board to mail comments and criticisms and suggestions about the Local library services to the board at Box 177 Bancroft by May 8.

"We would like to know users comments on things like, is it easy to borrow books and materials they need, how often do they use the library, and are they happy with the services offered by the local library board," said the survey material.

"We want to have the answers and comments mailed to us," said Mrs. Callaghan," so that we know how we can improve the present library services."

Fox Rabid

SHARBOT LAKE — A rabid fox has been shot on an area farm north of this community. "We received confirmation today." said Herbert Phelps, a resident of the Armstong Rd. Mr. Phelps shot the fox after it attacked the family dog. As a result, the dog will have to be quarantined for six months. If it has not contracted rabies, it will be given inoculation against the disease after the incubation period.

Hastings Highlights

No Increase Desired

MARMORA — Bert Gray of the municipal council here says he hopes it will not be necessary to increase water rates to village residents. However, he notes he is concerned about increasing costs in the water system. Mr. Gray says a major portion of the cost involves leaks in watermains and these must be located and repaired soon.

Shannon to Toronto

MARMORA — The village council has authorized Clerk-Treasurer William Shannon to attend the 37th annual conference of municipal clerks and treasurers to be held in Toronto June 15-18.

No Takers

MARMORA — Because the village has received no value or help from previous offers, the municipal council here says there is no point in submitting a list of potential projects to the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority for students to be employed in a summer make-work program.

Subsidy Requested

MARMORA — The village council will apply to the provincial ministry of transportation and communication for a $15,000 subsidy for construction work. Approval will mean a similar amount can be used from the village's fund.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

JUDY

Fourteen can be a difficult age. You need the security and love of a family who cares about you and yet you want to be trusted to handle a growing sense of independence.

Judy is 14. For years this sweet-faced young girl was burdened with responsibilities too great for her age. She had the care of four younger children and never had a chance to be a little girl herself. Now Judy needs an adoption home where she can be the youngest or the only child. She doesn't want to lose touch with her brothers and sisters but she realizes that if all five were adopted together she would still try to maintain the mother role.

If that happened, the adopting mother would have trouble winning the children's loyalty and affection and the younger ones would be confused as to who really was in charge. Though usually opposed to the separation of families, the Children's Aid Society feels that in this case a parting would be better for everybody.

Judy is an attractive girl with brown hair, blue eyes, fair skin and freckles. She is in good health, having had successful open heart surgery some years ago. There have been no problems since but she has an annual check-up. Her background is Swedish, English and French Canadian.

Average or perhaps above, Judy is a good student in Grade eight and loves school. She wants to be a nurse.

Judy has a great sense of fair play and gets along well with children of all ages. An active youngster, she enjoys hockey, skating, baseball and swimming. She is interested in poetry, both to read and to write. Religion is important to her.

Judy needs parents who will help her believe that to them she is a very special person and who will understand the importance of her maintaining contact with her younger brothers and sisters.

To inquire about adopting Judy, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

A Doggy Education

From arrow-thin borzois to miniscule long-haired chihuahuas, massive German Shepherds to yappy Schnauzers, purebred dogs and their owners meet every Monday night at Harmony School near Foxboro for obedience training.

The training classes are run by the Belleville and District Kennel Club which conducts the hour-long classes once a week for 10 weeks. The instructor is Jim Logue.

The classes are open to members of the public who are owners of purebred dogs.

Another of the 10-week sessions, which cost $30, begins in May. Information is available from Mr. Logue at 962-4018.

A word with Schnauzer before class.

This borzoi is paying close attention.

People and Events

BCVI OPEN HOUSE

Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Insitute will hold an Open House on Tuesday, April 22, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Crafts displays, exhibits, activities of local interest groups, and presentations associated with daily activity at B.C.I. will be offered by the school and its community. Staff and community members will meet over refreshments in the course of the evening.

KINETTES GARAGE SALE

Belleville's Kinettes Club is holding a garage sale April 26 to raise funds for their special charity, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

From 1 to 5 p.m. at the Kinsmen's Swimming Pool on Dundas Street, the Kinettes will be selling a variety of items, ranging from large pieces of furniture — a television set, and beds have been donated to the sale — and household goods. Some handicrafts made by the Kinettes will be sold also, but there will be no used clothes.

The project, for which Judy Beinap is chairman, is the club's "spring cleaning for profit" venture. Their slogan is "Our junk may be someone else's treasure."

LADIES' CLUB

The Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club held its regular meeting recently when Mayor Robin Jeffrey spoke on the downtown core.

Mayor Jeffrey told the women that the appearance of the heart of cities should be a major concern of all persons and she outlined Belleville's plan for renewal which includes apartments, recreational facilities, shopping and businesses as well as multi-level parking.

NURSES

Are nurses submissive? Dr. Josephine Flaherty, a past-president of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, does not think so but says nurses have been regarded by many people as being submissive. "Certainly, Florence Nightingale was not," she told an RNAO chapter meeting here Saturday. "If she was around today, she would probably be president of the Ontario Nurses Association."

Ann Landers

Homosexual and Bisexual—There Is a Difference

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for many years and I'm beginning to wonder if you know the difference between a homosexual and a bisexual.

For the record: Gay people have a definite preference for members of their own sex. Bisexuals go both ways but they usually end up with a member of the same sex.

You seem to have a lot of sympathy for the woman who is used as a cover by a gay. But apparently you are unaware of all the guys who are victimized by bisexuals. More switch-hitters return to their wives (or husbands) than stay with their gay companions. Wives and husbands have legal means of coercion, but guys who become involved with married bisexuals have no legal leverage whatever.

Speaking strictly for the gays, I ask you not to confuse us with the bisexuals. We can't make up their minds. I agree that is a rotten thing for a gay to deceive a woman and use her as a cover, but it is equally rotten for a bisexual to deceive a gay or a butch by using him or her as a new kick and then going back to a husband or a wife—then to a lesbian.

Dear Ev: That whole scene is like playing tennis without a net. It's too far out and totally incomprehensible to me. I'll take your word for it, and thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am still burning from that letter signed "Another Impaled With A Painbr-The Neck Kid."

I was raised by a stepdad who was a wonderful father to me. When I was 15 he died and my mother married again. My second stepdad was the pain in the neck.

Now I have a stepson. Because I know what it's like to have both kinds, I am determined that this boy by my husband's first marriage will never feel rejected. He chose to live with his father and one rather than with his natural mother. I couldn't love the boy more if I had given birth to him.

I hope every woman and man with stepchildren under their roof will stop for a moment and try to understand the battles that child is fighting. I know because I have been there.

Dear Friend: Thanks for a letter that came straight from the heart. Your husband is lucky to have such an empathetic and compassionate wife. I hope he appreciates you.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading your column for two years. I started when I was 12. I have written to you at least 10 times but you have never printed any of my letters. All my letters were every bit as interesting as the junky ones I have been reading in the paper lately.

I have decided you are a fake and that you make up the letters yourself. I'll bet you don't even read the ones sent to by the public. If I see this letter in the paper I will die of the shock.—An Unbeliever

Dear Un: Where do I send the flowers?

Sorry if I disappointed you but have you any idea how many letters I receive every day? I can't possibly print even a small percentage. I try my best to select the letters that represent a cross-section of humanity—or the ones others can learn from.

The reason this letter made it is because I received the letter from people who had the same complaint.

ILO Attacks Discrimination

GENEVA (Reuter) — The 135-nation International Labor Organization (ILO) has chosen the International Women's Year for its most powerful attack yet on discrimination against women.

The world body has come up with the conclusion which women claim to have known for ages—females throughout the world are over-worked, under-paid and under-cared.

Delegates to the world body's annual conference beginning June will be asked to issue a declaration proclaiming the rights of the world's 800 million women workers and to draw up a plan of action which would commit member-countries to take specific measures to promote equality.

Officials of the ILO, which groups representatives of governments, employers and workers, said this would represent a major landmark in the fight for equal treatment.

A woman worker's lot has improved over the past 30 years, but she still has a long way to go before she is on a par with her male colleague, they added.

"Today's working woman may seem better off than ever as a man in the same job but she sometimes works almost twice as long as her husband each week if her duties in the home are taken into account," an ILO team of experts said.

Average women's wages in manufacturing industries vary between less than 50 per cent—in Japan—to about 83 per cent—in Sweden—of those of men doing the same job, they said.

The team, in a report prepared for the conference debate—said the time is ripe for a full-scale assault on sex discrimination because women are slowly taking a more active role in the world's labor force, of which they make up roughly one-third.

More married women, and mothers are working than ever before, more women are taking up part-time employment and yet there still is discrimination which starts in the cradle . . . and is subtle but brutal," the report said.

Ways to restore the balance included better pay for women, better social security, flexibility in working time for mothers, guaranteed reemployment after childbirth, improved childcare services—and more help from husbands in the home, the experts suggested.

One of the prerequisites of sexual equality is "a more equal sharing of the burden of housework and the care of children between men and women," the ILO team said.

The report, which will be a central topic at the conference, added: . Despite the progress in a number of countries towards a greater sharing of parental responsibilities in the home and of domestic tasks by other family members, the heaviest burden continues to remain with women almost everywhere."

All, recent studies on the subject showed the time spent by women, including those with full-time outside jobs, far exceeded that spent by men on domestic labor. "Married women workers with children are the worst victims of this situation," the team said.

Women tended to start their working lives with several handicaps including deficient education, vocational guidance and training. Unemployment among women has also risen in some countries.

"In many countries efforts to correct this situation have been largely thwarted by traditions, attitudes and prejudices which limit women's work prospects," he said.

Women in developing countries have a particularly tough lot because of economic under-development, unemployment and poverty. Rural development policies rarely took practical account of their needs or sought to prepare them for agriculture and crafts.

"Drudgery in the fields is combined with household drudgery, multiplied by the lack or inadequacy of water and of cooking fuels and by the absence of child-care services," they said.

The report said that the failure of women to receive the same money as men for the same work "is one of the most blatant forms of discrimination."

The general wages situation was improving, however. "There has been wider recognition of the relationship of equal pay to the whole question of equal opportunity and treatment for women, but there still are practical difficulties to be overcome," they said.

"In male-dominated societies women's work is apt, without reason, to be regarded as of less value than that of men, advancement should be based on individual ability and inclination but it is not," they said.

Doris Clark

Teen-ager Enjoys Elders

Dear Doris: I agree with the person who wrote in expressing concern about the thought that is given to the senior citizens.

I am 18 and enjoy talking and meeting with these people. I and some of my friends agree with V.J. and are willing to give up some of our time to spend with the elderly people and do what they want to do if it means just spending time talking or going out and bowling a couple of games.

We want to be more than just a pen pal. We want to get out and do things with them. After all, where would we be today without them?

Concerned Youths

Dear Youths: That's a good question. Where would we be? And you can take that in more ways than one.

All young people have certain wise and loving older ones to thank for their start in life, for the wisdom they acquire, and for the love which helps to teach us all the meaning of a good life.

What's more, our mature friends enjoy the conversation and interest of younger people and will respond if they are given half a chance. More power to you!

Dear Doris: Our Senior Citizens' Club needs material for our social afternoons, like the skit The Model T Ford and any other humorous skits or readings.

We are a happy group of Golden Agers; most of us can always see that silver lining regardless of the dark clouds.

The Sackville Kinsmen sponsor our club and have provided us with beautiful warm rooms with cosy kitchens. The members are all young men and are most kind to us.

Young folk are really wonderful, aren't they?

God Bless.

Dear God Bless: I am sending you an assortment of skits and readings, as well as a list of skits and games which are available from us here, for 25 cents each and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Your group is a going concern. Yes, young people are wonderful. When they see a cause they throw themselves into it heart and soul: and more and more they are coming to recognize the assets and courage of some of our older citizens — the people who have helped to build this land.

Confidential to Thinking Big: If more people were "thinking big" a great many more creative efforts would be made — and a great many more successes talked of! Most of us feel a bit timid about reaching for the moon.

If you have had an unusual experience and feel a creative urge to write it down, you are justified in making the effort — in spite of your own doubts of your ability to put thoughts on paper.

You will find the first paragraph most difficult, so just write what comes into your head. By the time you are on your third, you will be into your subject enough to be less self-conscious.

Teacher of Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has named Robert G. Heyer, a St. Paul, Minn., junior high school teacher, as 1975 Teacher of the Year and presented him with a crystal apple in a White House ceremony. Heyer, in turn, gave the president a wire sculpture of two apple trees made by his Grade 9 students.

DESIGN S34-805

Main and Upper — 1154 sq. ft.

Lower Floor — 560 sq. ft.

Four levels of practical and efficient living space are found in this attractive split level home. There are three bedrooms on the upper level and a bonus of an extra bedroom or study at ground level, with a washroom nearby.

The kitchen, dining area and well-lighted living room are on the main level. The full basement under this area includes the laundry and space for a king-sized recreation room. The lower washroom, den or fourth bedroom and garage are at ground level.

The four levels offer a convenient layout for a growing family. Efficient use of the building volume should achieve maximum economy of construction and the home will fit a 40 foot lot with ample side yard space.

While best suited to a lot with a full side slope, the home can be built on a flat lot by using excavated material to raise the grade in front of the living room. The exterior is stone (or it can be brick) veneer with horizontal siding at the house is suitable for any type of heating.

Plans for Design S34-805 cost $25 for the first set, $11 each additional set and are supplied by return mail.

Order from Home Planning, 40 Jarvis St., Toronto, Ont.

Alberta's Homes for Aged Still Discover New Goals

EDMONTON (CP) — Twenty years ago Alberta began pioneering a system of nursing homes and homes for the aged.

Direct community involvement, provincial funding and an emphasis on self-sufficiency were key features of the scheme, which evolved from a few scattered lodges into what may be the largest construction program in the country.

But government planners say care for the elderly still is in "an evolutionary stage."

"One of our big problems is that we're pioneers in this field" said Ben Johnston, a director with the Alberta Health Services Commission, (AHSC) which administers nursing care.

It's said increasing needs of the elderly are leading to new goals in programming and community involvement.

"At one time people were content to place relatives in institutions and leave them there. Now the public is taking more interest."

Alberta's network of housing for the elderly began in 1958 when the province agreed to pay capital costs for 50 lodges.

Since then, the province has paid for more than 100 lodges, accommodating about 12,000 residents—believed to be the most on a per-capita basis in the country. In 1971 the lodges were supplemented with self-contained town houses and four-plexes for persons able to care for themselves.

The lodges are run by local-elected district boards which handle daily operations, financing and admissions.

Residents are charged $115 to $130 a month for self-contained units and a minimum of $32 for lodge accommodation, depending on ability to pay. Deficits are picked up by municipal taxpayers.

Linked to the development of housing was establishment of the Alberta nursing-home plan in 1966—the first of its kind in Canada.

Under it, Alberta assumed responsibility for those not well enough to take advantage of the housing scheme. Admittance qualifications are based on need and there is no age limit.

Nursing-home patients are charged $3 a day for standard-ward accommodation $5 for a semi-private and $8 for a private ward, the government paying a subsidy of $11.25 a day for each patient.

The province originally took over private homes on a contract basis, later restricting expansion to non-private and voluntary organizations. The government assumed complete financial responsibility until it became eligible for some federal assistance this year.

Planners feel they are entering a new era in care for the elderly.

"In the past, many senior citizens had few expectations and demands," said Tim Cranfield, project manager with the Alberta Housing Co.p.

"Now we're finding that senior-citizen housing is being sought by people closer to age 65 than 75. These people are used to having more things."

Improved structural design, public education, community involvement and better in-home programming are seen as priorities.

Structural design and location of housing has already undergone dramatic change, with each home individually designed and often built in the centre of town.

"Before, nursing homes were pushed off in the back of the town," said Mr. Johnston. "Now they are usually in the centre, so that interaction with the community increases."

Many homes provide self-contained shopping malls, banks, hairdressers, outdoor gardens, barbecue pits, and allowances for pets.

John Kitchen, a resource co-ordinator with AHSC, said residents "are encouraged to continue their former activities in the community as much as possible."

Planners say enriched programming within the homes is a key area of development.

"The evolution of Alberta's nursing-home system has chiefly been one of refinement," said Joan Gates, a nursing consultant with AHSC.

"Today we are better able to assess the type of care individuals require and more emphasis is being placed on reactivation and diversional activities."

Such programming includes occupational therapy based on the learning of new skills and social activities such as wheelchair dancing, card parties and even beerfests. Some homes have set up self-governments, with one group raising funds for a school bus "to chauffeur them all over the country."

The development of care for the elderly in the province has not been without problems. Government officials say there are many homes which lack desired facilities and local feelings still block acceptance of large homes in areas where other forms of housing would be too costly.

Mr. Johnston said planners still are battling the concept of institutions for the elderly as places "where people go to die." Public education and acceptance of old age is seen as "the real key" to providing a satisfactory life-style for the elderly.

Bundle Lodge in Calgary, part of Alberta's network of senior citizens' housing, was opened in December, 1971, to provide housing for 43 persons in lodge-type accommodation. About 100 lodges have been built in the province since Alberta pioneered housing for the elderly in the 1950s. (CP Photo)

Device Seen Answer To Towering Infernos

OTTAWA (CP) — When it comes to fires in tall buildings the old sound-the-alarm-and-run tactic of evacuating a building is inadequate. The solution may lie in better communication.

A voice communication console, now mandatory in all multi-storey office buildings under the National Building Code, is designed to enable two people to call the fire department, warn workers, rescue them around blocked stairwells, cope with faults in their own fire-alarm system and even help heat-attack victims leave the building.

The Dominion Fire Commissioner's office here offers a three-day course in volunteers that instructs them on how to manage the communication system.

Bruce Dingham, head of the nine-month-old training program, said he has found women's voices are preferable to men's because "a booming voice coming out of nowhere" can be disconcerting.

"With women the voice is constant and they don't get excited."

Instructions are issued to workers on each floor by a system of speakers, on the principle that the sound of the human voice is more informative and reassuring in an emergency than a screaming alarm.

The fire commissioner's office expects by the end of 1975 to have trained enough people to cover all fire hall buildings and leased buildings across the country having more than 12 storeys with consoles and operators. So far, 18 buildings, mostly in Ottawa, have the units.

Assistant fire commissioner Stuart Hornby said the system is necessary to handle the volume of traffic in an emergency.

"In a high-rise office building, if everyone wanted to leave the building at the same time, it would simply be impossible. To our thinking, this is the only way to evacuate an office building effectively."

Six persons are trained in each building to operate the console and three to operate the phones. In an emergency only one operator and one person on the phones is required but the backups are available if necessary.

There will also be fire monitors who will stand by the phones for their department. Public address systems on each floor will advise the recommended action in an emergency.

Mr. Duncan said the system costs about $2,000 for each floor but it pays for itself in saved man-hours after just a few alarms.

He said under the old system it sometimes took an hour to evacuate 2,000 employees, give the all-clear and get everyone back to work.

Grants Help Ease New Home Cost

By COLIN BRUCE

Canada's senior governments are trying to make it easier for first-time home buyers.

Last week the provincial government made the most recent announcement of $1,500 grants to first-time home-buyers — a budget gesture considered by some at both a building trade incentive and a forerunner to a spring election.

Under the title Ontario Home Buyers Grant Program, the scheme gives the purchaser an immediate $1,000 and provided the buyer remains an occupant of the same home, the province makes two consecutive, annual payments of $250.

Bob Marcotte, president of the Quinte Home Builders Association said Monday, "this is a great scheme . . . one that buyers should be knocking down doors to get at."

A federal program, announced a year ago, provides $500 grants for first-time buyers moving into new homes only.

"If the home buyer is moving into an old home, he can get an immediate $1,000," said Mr. Marcotte. "If he's moving into a new home, he can apply for both programs for a total of $1,500."

In two years, the new home buyer will get another $500 from the province making his total grant $2,002, said the association president.

"This is great for everybody," said Mr. Marcotte.

The grants are not necessarily for the downpayment but can be used for anything at all, he said.

In the provincial scheme, a housing unit can include condominiums, mobile homes, anything that represents permanent living accommodation with sleeping and cooking areas.

Any home buyer older than 18 can apply for the grant provided the home is purchased after April 8 and before Dec. 31, 1976.

Applications for the grant system now are being accepted and further information is available by called toll free, Zenith 8-2000.

Higher Service Costs Mean Small Education Deficit

By RON CASSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings County Board of Education Monday night learned the consumer price index does not cover every item and that the cost of services and supplies for the board rose 19.5 per cent last year.

Belleville chartered accountants, Wilkinson and Company, handed the board its year-end financial report which revealed the board overspent $54,228 on a $26.6 million budget in 1974.

Stirling trustee Donald Williams congratulated the board for being within 2 per cent of its budget. "The small over-expenditure is considered normal, and is compensated for in later tax payments from the contributing municipalities.

Mr. Williams asked why the cost of services and supplies had jumped almost $500,000 in one year. Other budget items, including salaries and replacement costs, remained relatively constant and showed little increase.

Superintendent of business Ken Wormald said the increase was due to an above normal inflation rate in some areas of supplies, including paper products and construction costs. He also said the cost of light, power, gas and water has also increased dramatically in one year.

He said these items have increased in price more rapidly than many of the items on the consumer price index. The board spent about $2.5 million in 1973 compared to $3 million last year. Inflation again is expected to increase the costs of these services and supplies this year.

Mr. Williams asked the business section to compile a list of services and supplies which contribute the escalating costs. At the meeting auditors informed the board the books were in order and that elementary and secondary schools received their proportionate amount of funds.

City Extends Contract With Humane Society

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City hall has shifted gears — for now — in its drive to replace Ontario Humane Society (OHS) with cut-rate services.

Instead of immediately organizing its own controls, city council Monday night decided to retain the OHS for the rest of the year while it more thoroughly explores city-run alternatives.

The decision — coming less than three weeks before the OHS contract runs out — brought a prologue of criticism for the society's management from one city councillor.

The criticism was fired by Ald. Stu Meeks at OHS manager Tom Hughes, who had been attempting to negotiate a new — costlier — contract with city hall. Mr. Hughes went years council two weeks ago to warn that a city-operated service might not only draw public criticism for its inadequacy but can't prevent cutthroat in the long run.

"I have absolutely no faith in that man whatsoever and I think he's leading this city up the garden path," charged Ald. Meeks.

He claimed the city was helping pay for services being extended by the OHS outside Belleville boundaries.

As an alternative to OHS animal controls, city manager Wilbur Purcell had investigated construction of a shelter on city-owned property and contracting out dog control services. For the project he had secured approved building plans from the provinces agriculture and food ministry.

Last night, the city manager had proposals to council locating the animal shelter on Wallbridge Cres., adjoining the public works yards. The firm of Morden-Guthrie was suggested to prepare specifications, costing $900.

Ald. Ben Corke was among councillors questioning the expenditure until the city knew exactly the ramifications of a city-run service.

Mr. Purcell said council has not been on record on deciding whether the control system would cost. This would be contracted after tenders are called.

But, it was felt one wards with 4 vehicle could do the job satisfactorily.

Council, said Mr Purcell, had to distinguish between OHS services and the dog-control operation the city was contemplating.

Ald. Paul Russell said the proposed city-run shelter at Ashley might not be able to accommodate all the dogs caught. He felt as yet there were "just too many questions" on the issue.

The OHS cancelled its contract last year when it discovered it was facing a deficit in its Quinte branch shelter west of the city. It proposed a new per capita agreement raising its rates from 75 cents to $1, (about $25,000 on the city's present population) then $1.10 in July and $1.25 next January. One fear aroused in the council was a shortage in the notice of termination from six months to 90 days. But, at the last council meeting Mr. Hughes had indicated this was negotiable back to six months and suggested the city try OHS services for another year.

Ald. Wally Dever estimated last night retaining OHS services for the rest of the year would cost another $1,800.

Practice Makes Perfect

The competition team of City Ambulance sharpens up rescue technique — preparing for international competition this summer in Minneapolis. This past weekend the team won the provincial competitions held in London. From left are Harry Hitchon, Stephen LaMorre, Tony Tyrrell and Art MacConnell. Dennis Secker, another City employee, donated his body for the practice session.

Drivers Sought

Belleville's Central Volunteer Bureau is looking for drivers to deliver to help senior citizens move about the city during the city transit strike, now in its second week.

Ruth Burrows, director of the bureau, said Tuesday "we're getting more calls than we have drivers."

"The strike is particularly difficult for the senior citizens who are not using our service for shopping but to meet medical appointments," said Mrs. Burrows.

Any drivers interested in donating time are asked to call 962-1353.

More Talks Planned
Transit Strike Now in Second Week

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Talks between the transit commission and 23 striking drivers and mechanics are expected to resume this week, the Intelligencer learned today.

Marylea Burtt, chairman of the commission, said during a telephone interview that she had been talking with union negotiators and that a meeting has been agreed to.

No date or time has been set for the renewal of talks.

Mrs. Burtt said she will contact her two commission members immediately to go over the developments and come to some agreement on meeting arrangements.

Talks between the two groups broke down and a strike called April 4 with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers demanding a one-year contract with an across the board increase of $1 an hour and the commission offering an immediate 75 cents an hour with a subsequent 19-cent-an-hour raise effective July 1.

Lawrence St. Pierre, chief union negotiator, said during a telephone interview Tuesday, "It's a very intelligent move to get back together."

"We looked like bloody fools bargaining table and see if our minds can be changed."

"We've taken a serious look keeping our distance," at the expense of the city commuter, the commission and the employees, said Mr. St. Pierre.

Getting back to the bargaining table is the first big step towards reaching an agreement.

"It's no use saying our minds haven't changed," said Mr. St. Pierre. "Let's get back to the over our demands . . . the meeting must be a meaningful one," said Mr. St. Pierre.

Home Helpers

Martha and Sarah help their father Russ Carr sort through booklets and pamphlets finding the right plans for a home improvement project. By doing it yourself, you can cut home improvement costs in half, says Gary MacDonald, manager of Arthur A. Sills and Son Ltd.

Home Hobbyists Can Reduce Building Costs

Do it yourself home improvements pays big dividends in both dollars and satisfaction to the handyman, says Gery MacDonald, manager of Arthur A. Sills and Son Ltd.

Mr. MacDonald said as labor costs continue to increase, more and more home owners are turning to trying their hand with a hammer and saw.

"Our home hobbyist business has more than doubled in the last four years," he said.

"You must remember that every project you consider, whatever the materials cost — you'll be talking about the same on top of that for labor," said Mr. MacDonald.

"Anyone who is even half handy can get into the home improvement by a half."

Belleville and area residents will have a first hand opportunity to see what is available to the home handyman at the Quinte Home Builders Association Home Show to be held in Ben Bleecker auditorium beginning April 17 and continuing through the weekend.

"About 25 per cent of our business is from the home owner who has realized the money he can save by doing the job himself," said Mr. MacDonald.

Deficit Reported

Low-rental family and senior citizen housing projects ran up an operating deficit of $441,150 in 1974.

Belleville pays $33,000 as its share of the cost, the bulk of which is subsidized by federal and provincial governments.

During the year there were 210 family units and 163 senior citizen apartments in operation.

Deficit on each unit totalled $1,181.

Under the shared-subsidy agreement with senior governments the city pays 7.5 per cent of operation losses.

The federal share of the deficit totalled $230,500 while the province's Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) pays almost $187,200.

Council Briefs

Collection on Display

City council Monday night agreed the Wellington Community Museum could borrow part of the valuable collection on the history of lighting owned by the Hastings County Museum.

The collection traces the evolution of lighting from ancient to recent times.

Council agreed on the move after Ald. Stu Meeks pointed out local museums have a reciprocal program of display exchanges.

Free Meal for Visitors?

A suggestion that Belleville sponsor a meal for visiting conventioneers prompted no action from city council Monday night.

The request came from the Association of Certified Survey Technicians and Technologists of Ontario, who plan their annual meeting at the Four Seasons Hotel June 6-8.

"We don't get into this type of sponsorship unless it's a conference we invite ourselves," said Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Program Seeks Funds

A summer project for preschoolers in northeast Belleville is seeking community assistance.

The program, Kilicrest's Head Start For Preschoolers, is being partially funded by a federal Opportunities for Youth Grant.

However, project representative Alanna Watson, wrote council the program will need an additional $600.

Mayor Jeffrey told council the original grant for supplies had been cut back.

The project, to accommodate up to 60 youngsters a day recommended by local education and community volunteer officials, is aimed at developing preschool skills.

Council tabled the request for two weeks.

Merchants Polled on Hours

A request from a Front St. merchant to exempt bicycles sales and service shops from general store hours regulation was laid over Monday by city council.

The request — from Stephen Licence Ltd., was tabled until the results of a poll on store hours is completed by the Belleville Downtown Association after Ald. Keegan questioned the exact location of parkland on Cascade Blvd. which council declared a community centre to qualify for provincial grants.

Council Remembers Years of City Service

City councillors Monday paid tribute to one of their former members who through illness—suddenly had to quit civic service.

He is E. Arnold Orr, for many years widely known as an educator in the city before taking up municipal office on professional retirement.

Mr. Orr was principal of Belleville Collegiate for a decade before becoming a Hastings County education superintendent.

When he retired he bid for council and served from 1968 to 1973 — running high in the polls in election until sudden heart problems unexpectedly forced his resignation. One of his appointments was member and chairman of the Quinte Planning Board at a crucial time in its formative years.

Recognition of his service came as Mayor Robin Jeffrey presented him with a plaque for an "outstanding municipal servant." She called the award" only a token — that represents what all in this city would like to say."

Ald. Orr said his enforced retirement left him feeling "I was leaving a job unfinished."

Keegan Urges Plain Talk

Are people turning off on council meetings because council reports are too technical?

Ald. Arthur Keegan says he fears so.

In fact, he claimed Monday night, the wording of many items on city council's agenda is couched in such official language — with no explanations — that people cannot understand council proceedings.

The councillor based his complaint on the fact council meetings are broadcast and "it's therefore difficult for listeners to grasp details from the legal terminology or resolutions, bylaws and other proposals.

"I'm trying to create more interest in the listening public," interested the councillor as colleagues pointed out council's agenda also carried staff explanations of all recommendations.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said "there's no effort on the staff's part to disguise any information. It's just the contrary," he said.

The remarks were prompted

Moped Mishap Injures Girl

The second Belleville resident in a week has been injured in a traffic accident involving a moped a motorized bicycle.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today a 13-year-old youth was injured at 6:45 p.m. Monday in a parking lot on Pine St. when the moped she was riding was in collision with a parked car.

The girl, whose name was not released, is listed in fair condition with mouth injuries at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston following her transfer from Belleville General Hospital.

A Belleville women suffered minor injuries during the weekend when the moped she was riding left a parking lot station lot on North Front St. and was in collision with a car.

Youth Faces Arson Charges

PICTON — A 17-year-old Belleville youth has been charged on four counts of arson in connection with recent fires in Prince Edward County.

Constable Donald Watt, Community relations officer with Ontario Provincial Police at Picton, identified the youth today as Brian Whalen of 41 Victoria St.

He said the charges are in connection with a car fire, a barn and shed fire and two cottage fires in the Roblin Lake area.

Whalen will appear in county court in Picton on April 16.

Bureau Request for Funds Referred to City Manager

The Citizens Bureau now ready to re-open its consumer-advocate service in Belleville — Monday night asked city council to consider a $4,700 grant.

The agency, first launched in late 1972, said it needs the money to fill out a $12,000 federal grant so it can meet its projected operating expenses.

Council referred the request of the city manager's department for consideration in city hall's budget — debate on which is expected later this month — after hearing from Vera Heimbach, vice-chairman of the bureau's board of directors.

Mrs. Heimbach said the bureau expects to return its operations next month to Belleville from Trenton — where it moved last year in order to keep operating with a federal Local Initiatives Program grant awarded the Trenton-based Quinte District Labor Council.

Mrs Heimbach said later the bureau now has secured office premises on Coleman St. north of West Bridge St.

Tam O'Shanter Puts Emphasis on Hockey

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

Twenty-two-year-old Gary Green of Guelph, executive director of Tam O'Shanter Hockey School, is a young man with a mission.

A graduate of Guelph University, Green does not believe that a quality hockey school needs to spice its menu with activities unrelated to hockey.

Young people attending Tam '75, with headquarters at Albert College and on-ice instruction at Trenton Community Gardens, will find the emphasis is on hockey.

GARY GREEN

"We believe that students at our school deserve every possible chance to obtain as much hockey knowledge and training as we can supply," states Green.

"It is our intention to combine discipline with enjoyment, keeping in mind that there is a time for work and a time for play.

"Hockey instruction is No. 1 in our program," he emphasizes.

A typical day at Tam '75 will begin at about 7.30 a.m.

Following a 15-minute lecture, 90 minutes of on-ice instruction is on the schedule.

Returning from the arena, the young students will attend lectures at Albert College followed by a break for soccer or swimming.

A conditioning program is also an important part of activities. Each student will have a separate program, depending on his age, size, strength and ability.

Another 90-minute instruction session on the ice is planned in the afternoon and later in the day, lectures, films, opportunities to quiz the instructors and free time round out the activities.

"We're also offering something different, a series of lecture, during which the boys will learn the importance of obtaining an education," adds Green.

"We definitely will not be pushing pro hockey as a career," says Green. "The pro game is not all roses and wine and we'll be making that plain to the boys."

Instructors with the school are Pittsburgh Penguins' Colin Campbell, Toronto Toros' Jim Turkiewicz, Jack Valiquette who played for Oklahoma City Blazers during the 1974-75 season and is expected to move up with the parent Toronto Maple Leafs for the 1975-76 campaign, Jim Jones, Vancouver Blazers and Rick Jodzio, Charlottetown Checkers.

Since Green believes in giving separate instruction to goaltenders, defencemen and forwards, he has lined up qualified instructors to handle those individual duties.

Goaltending instruction will be the responsibility of David Moore, a 23-year-old who is Kansas City Scouts' property, and Steve Broyles.

Campbell and Turkiewicz will instruct defencemen and the forwards will receive instruction from Valiquette, Jones and Jodzio.

"Since we'll be able to provide individual instruction, everyone will be kept busy during the on-ice sessions," Green explained.

"There is an extra local flavor to Tam this year. Belleville's Peter Fleming and Trenton's Ted Brown, both with extensive hockey background at the minor league and college level, are on the school's staff.

"We're making a special effort to bring in more boys in the older age groups this year and if they contact us, we'll try to fit them in to the program at times when it would not conflict with their work commitments," offered Green.

Day school rates for boys who will not require boarding, is 65 per week.

Deadline for registrations is May 1.

Complete details can be obtained by contacting Tam O'Shanter Hockey School, care of Albert College, Belleville.

The school runs from July 20 to August 30.

Symposium Is Popular Everywhere but Here

Tam O'Shanter Hockey School's special symposium for coaches, scheduled for the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville, July 27-August 2, has already reached the halfway mark in enrolment.

But Gary Green, Tam O'Shanter executive director, is puzzled by the fact that of the 100 registrations on file to date, only one is from the Bay of Quinte area.

"We have one Belleville resident registered," said Green, "and it's hard to understand the meagre response from this district when one considers that the symposium will feature some of the most knowledgeable men in hockey."

Among those lending their knowledge to the symposium are Philadelphia Flyers' coach Fred Shero; Team Canada '74 coach Billy Harris who is now associated with Toronto Toros; Junior A Peterborough Petes' coach Roger Neilson; Austrian National Team coach in 1974, Frank Carnevy; sports psychologists Dr. Richard Lorentz and John Marshall, and physical fitness expert Peter Elson.

Father David Bauer will also be in attendance and while he will not be one of the lecturers, he will take part in panel discussions.

Information on the symposium is available from Tam O'Shanter Hockey School, care of Albert College, Belleville.

Reid's Dairy captured the Quinte Hockey League championship Monday night after a hard fought final series with the league pennant winner, Cornerstone Builders. The Dairymen won the fifth game of the six-point series 4-0, after losing the third and fourth match ups. Members of the championship team are (back row) left-to-right: Lionel Boily, Bill Barbarinck, Jim MacVey, Paul Zakos, Moe Hunter; (middle row) coach Don Putman, Jerry Lucas, Al Ray, team captain Carl Boomhower (with trophy), Ralph Boomhower, Bob Revoy (front) goalie Warren Hay and stick boy Tod Boomhower. Missing: Ralph Plane, Bob Boyle, Brian Smith, and Jerry Bull.

McCorquodale Finally Number One

When you're second best you try harder That was exactly what Finlay "Corky" McCorquodale did at Quinte Curling Club on the weekend.

With that little extra effort, Corky skipped his mixed rink, comprised of his wife, Helen, vice, and Eve and Bill Spinelli, lead and second, respectively, to the championship of the Bay of Quinte Curling Club Mixed Closing Bonspiel.

Two weeks ago Dr. McCorquodale skipped a men's rink to the consolation title of the men's club championship. In the same week he had to settle for consolation honors in the mixed club championship.

There were no seconds for Corky last week though as he walked through five rinks on his way to the title. In all, there were 46 rinks participating.

Frank Morrell was runner-up in the first event. He finished with five wins and a loss. Losing only to McCorquodale, Jean Sisler was vice of the rink and Nick and Dot Banuk were second and lead.

The second event was won by Orl Kruger. Rinks which lost their first game of the first event dropped to the second event. Every rink was guaranteed three matches. Kruger's rink consisted of his wife, Joan, at vice, and Tom and Colette Graham, at second and lead.

Runner-up to Kruger was Keith Baldwin. Members of his rink were Shirley Baldwin, and Will and Doreen Mills.

Bob Anderson skipped his foursome to the third event title. Rinks which won their first game, but lost their second in the first event were dropped into the third event. Anderson's wife, Marja, and Ed and Pat Tomsett comprised the rink.

Third event runner-up went to John Hughes His wife to John Hughes. His wife Jackie vieed the rink and Bill Eve and Bill Spinelli (foreground) and Corky and Helen McCorquodale pose with their trophy after winning the 46-rink Quinte Curling Club Mixed Closing Bonspiel on the weekend. The foursome went through five matches without a loss. The event was the final one of the curling season and the week the four sheets at the club are being removed.

BDUA Ready To Go

The Belleville and District Umpires' Association is set for another season of calling balls and strikes; giving with the out or safe sign, and, in general, providing official control for leagues under its jurisdiction.

Moe Huddleston is president of the association for 1975 and Cleo Colling, honorary president. Vice-president is Al Kelleher.

Executive members are Wayne Brown, Earl Rivers, Gerry Genereaux, Arthur Gauthier and Jack McBride.

Reid's Takes OHL Crown

Injuries and vacation commitments depleted the ranks of Reid's Dairy of the Quinte hockey League for much of the final playoff series gith pennant-winning Cornerstone Builders but today, the Dairymen have the championship. Extended to the full five games by a determined Cornerstone squad which battled from behind after dropping the first two games of the six-point final, Reid's said it in impressive style, Monday night at Memorial Arena.

Warren Hay supplied shutout goaltending and Jerry Lucas the bulk of the firepower as the Dairymen took the deciding match 4-0.

Moe Hunter scored the only goal he winnsss needed, early in the game, and Lucas went to work later to trigger three in a row and put it out of reach of Cornerstone.

Ralph Boomhower was in on three of the scoring plays. Single assists went to Carl Boomhower, Al Ray and Jim Smith.

The winners took three of five minor penalties handed out and each side drew a five-minute fighting major.

Jerry Lucas was voted Most Valuable Player of the playoffs mainly on his efforts Monday, while Hay's selection was made by the champions coach, Don Putman.

All trophies and awards will be made May 17 at the Quinte Hockey League Awards Banquet.

Money Question Unanswered

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association (COA) wound up its annual meeting during the weekend without resolving the key issue of assistance to athletes preparing for the 1976 Olympics.

"It will require six or eight weeks to assimilate and analyze what we have learned," said Lee Crowell, COA executive director.

The crux of the problem stems from a decision taken by the International Olympic Committee last November to permit broken-time payments to be made to athletes forced to take time off from their employment to train.

During the three-day meeting which wound up with an extra executive session last Sunday, plans were laid out for 400 Canadian athletes to attend the Pan-American Games in Mexico City in October and the Winter and Summer Olympics next year.

Abby Hoffman of Toronto, a veteran international runner, presented a plea for broken-time payments for the athletes.

She said 300 questionaires had been sent out to determine exactly what athletes-in-training needed in order to survive. A total of 120 replies were received.

"From what Abby showed us, there is a gap between what the athletes feel they need and what we felt was required," Crowell said. "This is why we now have to review and reevaluate before we can make any definite moves."

Although no final decision was reached, it was learned that the COA executive emerged from the meeting with an "approval in principle that financial support should be steered to athletes.

LEIS SIGN COURT

HONOLULU (AP) — Margaret Court has signed a one-year contract to play for Hawaii Leis in the World Team Tennis League, G. Allan Kingston, president of the Leis, declined Sunday to disclose salary provisions of the contract, but he said it calls for Mrs. Court to play in at least 33 of the Leis' 44 games.

L. A. Star Picks Up Where He Left Off Last Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Catcher Joe Ferguson of Los Angeles Dodgers recalled the bases-loaded jam that Mike Marshall had pitched out of and declared: "That's when he's at his best."

Marshall's work helped the Dodgers beat Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in the Los Angeles home baseball opener Monday after three season-opening losses in Cincinnati.

Elsewhere on a slim major league schedule, Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, Philadelphia Phillies edged New York Mets 4-3, San Diego Padres defeated San Francisco Giants 3-1 and Oakland A's beat Kansas City Royals 3-2 in the only American League contest.

The Dodgers-Reds final score was 5-5 and it was the same in the eighth inning when Cincinnati had three men on base, one out and the power-hitting Johnny Bench and Tony Perez coming to bat.

Marshall, the Cy Young Award winner as the best National League pitcher last season, struck out Bench and, after going 2-2 on Perez, got him to hit into a force play ending the inning.

Ron Cey and Jimmy Wynn hit homers for the Dodgers off Cincinnati starter Jack Billingham in the first of the four-game series at Los Angeles.

In relief of Doug Rau, Marshall blanked the Reds for 2 2-3 innings.

"It's always a struggle when you face the Reds," Marshall said after the game. "I really had my work cut out for me, but I'm tickled pink whenever I'm out there. There's no greater thrill than to face the best in the world at whatever you're doing."

Marshall used his assortment of screwballs plus the fast ball.

Rick Reuschel, Oscar Zamora and Darold Knowles teamed up on a six-hitter and pitched the Cubs over the previously unbeaten Pirates, who had been the only unbeaten team in the majors. It was the Cubs' fourth consecutive triumph after their only loss to Pittsburgh on opening day in Chicago.

Jerry Morales slaked Reuschel to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he homered off Bob Moose. The Cubs chased Moose with three runs in a four-hit-lining spurt that included four singles plus a double by Steve Swisher.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt greeted reliever Jerry Cram with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, capping a late rally that ruined the major league pitching debut of New York's Randy Tate. Tate breezed into the eighth with a three-hitter and a 3-0 lead. But he walked Larry Bowa with two out, Willie Montanez doubled for one run and Greg Luzinski tied the score with his fourth home run of the young season.

San Diego pitchers Sonny Siebert, Dave Tomlin and Bill Greif combined to hold back the Giants while doubles from Bobby Tolan and John Grubb led the Padres scoring.

Tolan delivered a run-scoring double off Jim Barr in the first inning. The Padres made it 2-0 in the sixth on Grubb's double and Dave Winfield's single and scored again in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice.

Oakland's Ken Holtzman pitched a six hitter with last-out help from Rollie Fingers and Ted Kubiak drove in two runs with a double and a single. Kubiak doubled home a run in the second inning and singled in the tiebreaker in the sixth off Paul Splittorff.

The A's picked up what proved to be the winning run in the ninth on Phil Garner's single, a stolen base by Allen Hopkins and Claudell Washington's single. That nullified a Kansas City run in the bottom of the ninth.

Kelly Predicts Long Series

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs insist that Philadelphia Flyers will find them a tougher opposed than tonight's second game of the National Hockey League quarter-final playoffs.

The Flyers took a 6-3 victory in the best-of-seven series opener Sunday night but the Leafs claim they were at a disadvantage because they had just finished a three-game first-round victory last Friday at Los Angeles while Philadelphia had a week off due to the byes they won by taking the Patrick Division title.

Toronto coach Red Kelly pointed out that the first-round playoff had wrapped up a schedule of seven games in 16 days for the Leafs and the travelling back and forth to Los Angeles had also taken a bit out of his players.

But Monday day off, except for a 90-minute practice, gave the Leafs a chance to catch their breath and now they feel ready, said Kelly.

"I think we've overcome our weariness," said Kelly, who then predicted the Leafs will force the Flyers through a long series.

"They know what's needed to beat the Flyers and I know the series will be a long one."

The other three quarter-finals also resume tonight with Vancouver Canucks facing the Canadiens at Montreal, New York Islanders meeting the Penguins in Pittsburgh and Buffalo Sabres playing host to Chicago Black Hawks.

Montreal, Pittsburgh and Buffalo each won the opening game Sunday in their respective series.

After tonight's action, the visiting teams become the home teams for the next two games. The third game in all four series is set for Thursday but the schedule is not complete for the fourth games which will be played either Saturday or Sunday.

Tonight's Vancouver-Montreal game will be televised on the CBC national network while the CBC's southern Ontario network will televise the Toronto-Philadelphia contest.

Montreal defenseman Serge Savard has predicted that the Canadiens will sweep the Canucks out in four games.

The Canucks haven't beaten the Canadiens in the five years they've been in the NHL. In 18 games, Vancouver has earned three ties and nothing else.

Chicago coach Billy Reay is confident his Black Hawks will improve on their opening performance in Buffalo. "I'm not worried," he said. "If we can play as well as we did Sunday, we can win Tuesday night".

Pittsburgh looks to goalie Gary Inness for another strong game in hopes of heading for Uniondale, N.Y. the Islanders' home, with a 2-0 series lead.

"All the reports say he's bad." Islanders defenceman Denis Potvin said of Inness. "He's supposed to be bad on the high shots, bad on the low shots, very to beat. But we play against him and we can't beat him."

Celtics Shoot Down Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek, Boston Celtics elder statesman, felt "rejuvenated" and his team-mates must have felt the same in making a whipping boy of the upstart Houston Rockets.

The Rockets, fresh from eliminating New York Knicks in an opening-round upset, hoped they'd catch the Celtics stale after an eight-day layoff since the end of the National Basketball Association regular season.

The Celtics, led by Havlicek, quickly dispelled any such ideas and, after a sluggish start, rolled to a 123-106 victory over Houston in Monday's opening game of their best-of-seven Eastern Division semi-final playoff.

In the American Association's Western Division semi-finals, San Antonio beat Indiana 123-117 to cut Indiana's lead in that best-of-seven to 3-2 while Denver won its series 4-2 with a 115-113 decision over Utah.

Havlicek, appearing in playoffs for the 11th time in winding up his 13th year with the Celtics, scored 30 points, grabbed five rebounds and had nine assists. With 3,211 points in 126 playoff games, he trails only Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain among the all-time scoring leaders in NBA post-season play.

"We were rejuvenated," the "Guys like (Don) Nelson, (Paul) Silas and myself welcomed the layoff because of our age. I think others like Dave Cowens also came back fresher even though we practice hard."

Golden State's Rick Barry scored 39 points, had 10 assists and five steals to lead the Pacific Division champion Warriors past Seattle.

The Warriors' freshness showed in the second quarter when they made 76 per cent of their field goal attempts to one-class the tired Sonics, who came off a tough first-round series with Detroit Pistons.

Nistico's Line Does Everything

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Toros sent rookie Lou Nistico to check San Diego star Andre Lacroix and the rookie came up with a three-point game Sunday night in the Toros' 5-2 win over the Mariners while Lacroix managed only one assist.

"That line's job was to shut Lacroix's line and they came up with three goals," said Toros coach Bob Leduc. "That's a plus three. They didn't have any against them."

The victory cut San Diego's lead in the best-of-seven quarter-final series to 2-1. The fourth game will be played here Wednesday night.

Nistico scored two goals to run his playoff total to four and Kirk got the other score for the line which led Toronto to a 2-0 lead after the first period and 4-2 after the second.

"Everybody on their team seemed to be worried about (Wacław) Nedomansky's line and they were not paying that much attention to us," said Nistico.

Nedomansky and wingers Frank Mahovlich and Tony Featherstone went scoreless.

One of the few people not impressed with the work of the Nistico line was San Diego's Norm Ferguson, who scored both the Mariners goals in the second period.

Ferguson said he thought the Toro line was helped by the fact Lacroix's line "played flat", and added: "Every dog has his day."

Kirk opened the scoring in the second minute of play, beating goalie Ernie Wakely after taking a pass from Nistico. Toronto went in front in late in the first period when Nistico scored his first of the night.

Ferguson scored his second goal of the playoffs early in the second period and then added another less than three minutes later on a power play.

The Toros thought they had the lead again a few minutes later when Tom Simpson put the puck behind Wakely but referee Bob Kelly ruled he had glowed the puck into the goal.

Toronto did retake the lead on Nistico's second goal on a deflection midway in the second period and Simpson added one at 18:06.

Early in the third period, Martin appeared to have another goal when the puck glanced off his skate and into the net but the referee disallowed that as well, ruling he had kicked it in.

Wayne Dillon closed out the scoring at 17:45, beating goalie Russ Gillow who had replaced Wakely at the start of the third period.

Harry Howell, the veteran defenceman and player-coach, had himself thrown out of the game with less than three minutes to play when he was the third man into a fight between Nedomansky and San Diego's Ray Addusso.

San Diego's Jamie Bateman also has a suspension for ignored officials' orders not to join the fight.

Playoff action tonight sees Quebec Nordiques looking to make it a four-game sweep over the Readrunners at Phoenix while Minnesota Fighting Saints, leading 2-1, play host to New England Whalers and Houston Aeros, also leading 2-1, in their Cleveland Crusaders.

All That Glitters Not Always Gold

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

On paper, Montreal Juniors have a better hockey club than Laval Nationals.

Unfortunately for the Juniors, Quebec Major Junior Hockey League games are not played on paper and Montreal finds itself on the brink of elimination in their semi-final series against the upstart Nationals.

"I only have four or five good players on my team," said Laval coach Jacques St. Jean earlier this week. "But I have 19 big hearts on the ice. We're a very poor team on paper and Montreal's a bigger, better team."

The Nationals, who qualified as a wild card team for the playoffs, won their third straight game against Montreal Monday night, taking a 4-1 verdict to move into a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series which continues Wednesday at the Montreal Forum.

Meanwhile in Chicoutimi, Sherbrooke Beavers wrapped up their semi-final set against the Saguenents in four straight with an 8-2 win.

Montreal, second-place finishers in the West Division, won the opening game of their series 3-1 at the Forum, but then lost 5-4 in overtime in Laval and 8-7 back at the Forum in the third game.

Monday night, a goal by Marc-Andre Duhamel at 13:17 pulled the Juniors into a 4-4 tie, but just more than two minutes later, Jean Trottier broke the deadlock with his first of two goals. His second goal came with 23 seconds remaining in regulation time.

Yvon Vautour, Michel Bossy, Denis Roy and Yves Preston were the other Laval markers in the game watched by 4,600 fans.

Michel Lachance, Richard Bowness and Pierre Mondou were the other Montreal scorers.

Laval goaltender Robert Sauve was outstanding once again as he blocked 42 shots while Montreal's, Benoit Perrault turned aside 27.

At Chicoutimi, the Beavers, champions of the West Division, broke a tight game wide open with six consecutive goals in the third period.

Claude Larose scored three goals for the Beavers, two of them in the third-period outburst. Michel Brisebois with two, Sidney Veysey, Robert Simpson and Francois Robert were the other Sherbrooke marksmen.

Alain Cote and Yves Loiseau replied for the Saguenents.

World Football Back for More

NEW YORK (AP) — The one-year-old World Football League, the most unsuccessful league in recent professional sports history, has called a news conference Wednesday to announce it will play a second season, perhaps with 16 teams.

But this time, say the league's promoters, things will be different. If they aren't, the league and its teams lose another $20 million, the second year would likely be the WFL's last.

To try and enhance its attempt to create a new image of respectability, the league will present Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick, Paul Warfield—all under personal owner of Memphis Southmen and Calvin Hill at its coming out news conference.

And it will describe a recruitment plan drawn up by new president Chris Hemmeter.

Under Hemmeter's plan, each team in the league must place in escrow 150 per cent of what it expects its 1975 operating expenses to be. In addition, each team will be required to have four bank accounts, and must place a percentage of all its receipts into these accounts.

From these accounts, over which the league will have control, will come player salaries, stadium rent and other expenses. This is designed to avoid the problems the league had in its first season, when player payrolls were missed.

It could not be learned exactly how many teams the league will announce Wednesday, but a source said there probably would be 16.

Cities considered likely to have a WFL team are Philadelphia, Memphis, Honolulu, Anaheim, Calif., Chicago, Birmingham, Ala., Jacksonville, Fla., Shreveport, La. and Portland, Ore. Charlotte, N.C., is a possibility, the sources said.

League officials began three days of meetings Monday.

NO DOWNPAYMENT AND THEN SOME

Now you can, if you qualify, purchase a new home with absolutely no down payment. The latest government grant, you can make it possible to own a condominium and end up with a $900.00 bonus. If you buy an individual house in Chatterton Valley you could get in with no money down, if you qualify. If you are a first time home buyer you just can't miss this opportunity. It would be like throwing away $2,000.00.

CHOICE OF TEN

We are now proceeding with these homes on East Bridge Street. Each one is a different model. We have with basement, family rooms, some with garages. Could be ready by July. Still time to select colors.

SPECIAL FOR LOW INCOME FAMILIES

Call us today — we have a deal for you that is unbelievable — your own home for only $200.00 down. Call us at once and get details and your choice.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, April 16

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something you learn today will inspire you to hold action. Move you'll make will be the right ones for your goals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Behind the scenes developments benefit you materially today. Don't put roadblocks in the way of those who help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things will start to fall into place today regarding a new interest that's been stalled. Get to work on it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To best accomplish your ends today, present your ideas so as to make the boss think they're his own. Secretly, you'll get the credit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your latest plans have a good chance of succeeding if you think in long-range terms. View the scene from the top.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Rewards long-overdue will be coming to you. Speak up for the share of the pie you feel you're entitled to.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) A good day to negotiate an agreement. Just be sure the other party is as frank about details as you'd be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be bashful about setting the proper price on goods or services. The other guy knows you have integrity. He'll pay the freight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A prominent contact you'll make will figure in your plans. Get to know him on a first-name basis if possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your creative imagination will function best today if applied to something you want to make for the home or family.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You need a break in your routine. Get together socially with persons who have fresh and interesting topics to discuss.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure to shop if you're buying an expensive item for the home today. You'll find a better price if you compare tickets.

Some insurance plays aren't guaranteed to work. They are just there to ensure against some bad break.

South looks over dummy and counts 11 top tricks. A 12th will develop if hearts break 3-3. Are there any ways to collect 12 against an uneven heart split that suit?

One way is to draw trumps and duck a club to rectify the count for a possible squeeze. Then you win the second club, mend in dummy, discard your last diamond on the club ace, ruff a club, lead your last diamond and smile happily if it turns out that the man with four hearts also held five clubs or five diamonds.

A slightly better play is to take out some heart-spade insurance. You start by playing two rounds of trumps. Then cash your king of hearts, lead a heart to dummy's ace and a third heart back toward your hand.

If both opponents follow, you cast the last trump and claim your slam. This time East can ruff, but if he does you still wrap your slam up. He will have used his last trump. Later on you will discard a diamond from dummy on your queen of hearts and avoid a diamond loser.

Of course, if East doesn't ruff you get to ruff your fourth heart and make your slam that way.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Prosecutes Himself

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — Prosecuting is the main job of Paul Empson, county attorney, and that's just what he is doing — prosecuting himself. Police kicked Empson for speeding. Empson marched off to county court where he formally filed and signed the charges against himself. Empson then appeared in court and pleaded guilty to travelling 40 miles an hour in a 30-m.p.h. zone. Judge Campbell failed to accept the plea and fined Empson $10.

Do As French Do

NEW YORK (AP) — "When in New York, do as the French do." That's the word from Michael J. Lazar, city transportation administrator. Foreign diplomats and their staffs are notorious for not paying parking fines but the parking violations bureau received a response for 220 from the French consulate. Lazar said France was "the first country in months to pay its parking tickets. There were 41,712 such tickets outstanding. A Frenchman for the French consulate said the seven parking tickets it paid were all received by one driver who has been punished" "tres severement."

Davis Names Judy LaMarsh To Probe Violent Films, TV

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis Monday named former federal cabinet minister Judy LaMarsh to head an Ontario royal commission into the exploitation of violence in the communications industry.

Public hearings will be held in various locations in the province beginning in September.

"We believe there is the danger to the general society that the continuing and increasing exposure to young or impressionable minds of needless and extreme violence may have a relationship to the manifestation of violence in the community," Mr. Davis told the legislature.

He said other members of the commission would be announced after consultation with the chairman.

Miss LaMarsh, 50, was once Canada's secretary of state, and in that post reported to Parliament on the CBC.

Recently, she has lived in Toronto, working as a law professor at Osgoode Hall and as a broadcaster.

Mr. Davis promised that later in this legislature session, Attorney-General John Clement would propose "certain measures" with respect to violence in the communications industry, particularly television and movies.

The premier said he is not impressed by the argument that the casual portrayal of violence does not or could not affect human behavior.

Obviously, television is deemed to influence human behavior, the premier said, and television advertising for a wide range of products is subject to regulation.

"While this has been done, it seems little is being done to diminish or restrict the portrayal of violence, of casual brutality and killing, which logic suggests would also have some influence on the minds of impressionable viewers."

Mr. Davis said that one report indicated the average child may be exposed to as many as 18,000 television killings by the time the child reaches adolescence.

"It is difficult for me to believe that this would not encourage anti-social behavior, since the very fact that it is accepted by the society gives it sanction," said Mr. Davis.

The commission will have a broad scope and powers to hold public hearings, conduct research and seek the participation of all who have an interest in this subject, the premier said.

It will be asked to submit a final report within 18 months.

NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said the announcement was "an election stunt."

"It isn't even a very credible stunt either," he added.

Liberal members of the legislature also were critical of the announcement, calling it "an election ploy."

Miss LaMarsh said she will assemble a commission staff to start work in May. She was offered the $250-a-day job in March, she said.

Miss LaMarsh, who declined a request to run as a Liberal candidate in the next provincial election, said she did not think the government appointment involved partisan politics on the premier's part.

"Perhaps he didn't want to tie up any of his Tory candidates in an election year," she said.

Open Hutch

The bunny hutch was also open during the Loyalist College open house recently, much to the delight of five-year-old Tabitha Mullins of 544 Dundas St. E. in Belleville, who used the occasion to cuddle this white rabbit in the early childhood education prep room. Tabitha is the daughter of Mrs. Fannie Mullins.

Breithaupt Asserts Budget Just Adds Fuel to Inflation

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is "fuelling inflation, not fighting it" through its recent budget, Liberal finance critic James Breithaupt said Monday.

Launching the Liberal attack in the legislature on last Monday's budget, the finance critic said the province plans to increase spending by more than $1.5 billion this year despite its own acknowledgement that excessive government spending is a "root cause" of current inflation.

The Liberal critic said the budget provides for an admitted deficit of $1.7 billion.

The treasurer has chosen to exercise his public trust by adding some $300 to the debt borne by every man, woman and child in Ontario," he said.

But he predicted the Davis government would pay at the polls "for this extravagance" before the year is out and a Liberal government would be chosen "to re-establish a sound financial program in Ontario."

Mr. Breithaupt said the April 7 budget was clearly an election budget with measures "designed to win—or perhaps to buy—votes rather than strengthen Ontario's economy."

Earlier, he told a news conference he believed Premier William Davis might call an election as early as next Monday

Economy Faces Test for 2 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The next 12 to 24 months are a critical period for the economy, because during that time production costs must be brought under control, Finance Minister John Turner told the Commons finance committee Monday night.

If these costs can be moderated—and supplemented by the proposed three-to four-year restraint program on wages, prices and rents—then real economic growth could resume. The prospect is for zero economic growth in 1975.

Last week, Mr. Turner told the federal-provincial first ministers meeting profits per unit of output fell 6.7 per cent in the final quarter last year. But unit labor costs jumped 17.3 per cent.

However, responding to a question by Gordon Towers (PC—Red Deer)on Monday, he refused to predict a rise of inflation for 1975.

Within the next six weeks, if targets can be agreed upon for a restraint formula for business and labor for moderating inflation, the government's answer will become public, Mr. Turner said.

Mackasey to Continue Hiring Postal Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said Monday the post office will continue hiring casual labor to clean up a backlog of mail in Montreal despite protests from the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

The latest dispute in the post office erupted during the weekend as postal officials brought in 150 casuals Saturday to help clear the backlog of 10 million pieces of mail.

The union, which opposes the use of casual labor, prevented the casual employees from working and more than 300 regular workers were suspended for one day Saturday with another 11 "suspended indefinitely." Another 250 were suspended Monday, Mr. Mackasey said.

Union spokesmen say post office officials are hoping to incite an illegal strike by the employees in an effort to defuse militancy among members later this year in bargaining.

The dispute arises as another post office union, the Letter Carriers' Union, reaches a legal strike deadline. The 16,000 letter carriers could have walked out Monday but they still are considering a conciliation report.

Toronto Jail Called Insult to Humanity

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court grand jury has found the Toronto jail to be "an insult to humanity."

Jurors who toured the building said if the jail, formerly Don Jail, must be used the province "has a moral and humane obligation to renovate this archaic building."

The jury, reporting to Mr. Justice Thomas Callon, also said Monday it was appalled to find that anyone with a long history of mental illness can be released into society from a maximum security hospital with no training in a skill, little formal education and with no further supervision, counselling or guidance.

Jurors recommended in future anyone released as "decertified" be required to attend a review board, composed of doctors and educators, empowered to require the patient to take training so he or she can function in society:
